Liberty Under Law—Equal Rights—True Industrial Freedom

CEASE BEING PARTISANS, IS THE PLEA OF HARDING.

Preaching Same Doctrine Now as When Candidate, President-Elect Tells Crowds Along Rail Trip.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

ON BOARD PRESIDENT-ELECT HARDING'S SPECIAL TRAIN, Nov. 6.—Crowds rivaling those of campaign days turned President-elect Harding's vacation trip into a triumphal tour today as he traveled southwestward for an outing on the Texas coast. At more than a dozen cities along the way in Ohio, Indiana and Illinois his private car was besieged by cheering men, women and children clamoring for a speech or a chance to shake hands. In some cases there were thousands in the crowd, and even at the smaller towns where no stops were made the people turned out in force to wave him their regards.

At several places he spoke briefly from the rear platform of his car, expressing his gratitude for the welcome accorded him and declaring he meant to be the people's President, forgetful of the partisanship of the campaign and devoted alone to the interests of the nation as a whole. As in his campaign speeches he preached a doctrine of common understanding and of faithfulness to American institutions and ideals.

NEXT FIRST LADY CHEERED.

Mrs. Harding also waved a greeting to every crowd and at every stop there were cheers for the next first lady of the land. Flowers and other gifts were handed up to her at several stops as she leaned out the window shaking hands with all of those within reach.

The number who gathered along the path of the special train was a surprise to those on board. Mr. Harding's advisers having declined to make public his itinerary and also having arranged to avoid local stops in order to give him a thorough rest. The news traveled ahead, however, and as soon as he saw the first wayside gathering, the President-elect insisted that it would be unfair to run past waiting crowds without a word of greeting.

Mr. Harding also announced during the day that he had agreed to break up his twelve-days' stay at Point Isabel, Tex., by delivering an address in Brownsville, twenty miles away, next Thursday, Armistice Day. He will speak under auspices of the American Legion, but detailed arrangements have not yet been made.

PLANS FAST TRIP.

Mr. Harding's train, which left Marion at 1:30 this morning, will make a practically continuous run to its destination. A stop of a half-hour was made at St. Louis and there will be a layover of equal length at San Antonio, but most of the way it is the intention to travel [illegible] fast trip.

At St. Louis the greater part of the crowd that greeted Mr. Harding was held behind the iron gates leading into the areaway at Union Station, as the President-elect left the car and spoke from a stool placed against the gates. In the course of his address he expressed satisfaction at the results of the election in Missouri, which went overwhelmingly Republican.

ARE ALL AMERICANS.

In none of his rear-platform speeches during the day did Mr. Harding touch directly on the issues of the campaign, but he called several of his audiences to witness that he was preaching the same doctrine now as when he was a candidate for office. When he referred, at Paris, Ill., to his campaigning a woman in the crowd shouted, "It was a good campaign," and he replied, "Yes, you are right, and one for which we need make no apologies. But after it is won and a majority of Americans have spoken in favor of a well-defined program for our country, then we cease to be in a general sense Republicans and Democrats, but we are all Americans for America.

"I have preached the gospel of party government, that is a government through the sponsorship of party. I may tell you now in the reflection and sober thought of the aftermath that I do not want my party to be serving to keep itself in power or to perpetuate the place-holding of any members. but I want my party to serve America for the American people."

In his other speeches he repeated the same thought several times in different language.

FOR AMERICAN POLICIES.

"We won our victory for Republican policies and Republican candidates," he said at Charleston, Ill. "But from this time on, it is to be a victory for American policies and the American people.

"We are partisan in our campaigns and after our campaigns are over, we are all alike, citizens of the republic, interested in the common welfare of the American people. It is going to be the aim of the incoming administration to always strive to understand what the aspirations and conscience of the American people is and to put it into effect."

G. B. Christian, Jr., Mr. Harding's secretary, was in charge of the train and the fact that his relations with his chief were being continued beyond the end of the campaign started a report that he had been selected for secretary to the President. There was no official confirmation, however.

Court Refuses Japs' Petitions in Land Deals.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

YUBA CITY, Nov. 6.—Judge K. S. Mahon today denied the petition of Juskukie Shingu and Hayaa Yano, Japanese, which requested that the Superior Court name them as guardians for their children, to whom property was recently deeded, on the ground such action would be contrary to the laws of the State.

Shingu asked that he be named guardian of two children, one 19 months old and the other 3 years old. Yano asked that he be appointed guardian of one child, 2 years old.

G. L. and Mary Douglass recently deeded twenty acres in Sutter county to two of the Japanese children, and William Freeman, J. H. Lee and C. A. Wetmore recently deeded fifteen acres to the others.

Judge Mahon ruled that the property would revert back to the State. Judge Mahon said that as the fathers had purchased the land for their minor children, the minors had no title to the property, but held it merely as trustees for the fathers. On this assumption, he said, it followed the children had no property and guardians were unnecessary.

"The matter is one that should be taken cognizance of by the Attorney-General of the State," said Judge Mahon. Tonight Judge Mahon said a year ago he had handed down a similar decision, but nothing had been done by State authorities concerning the suggestion of escheat proceedings.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

BAKERSFIELD, Nov. 6.—Frank Baumgartner, president of the Union Motor Transportation Company of Los Angeles, and Mrs. Baumgartner, were severely injured about 4 o'clock this afternoon when their automobile skidded and then overturned on the State highway, four miles south of Lebec, forty-one miles south of Bakersfield. Their little boy was uninjured.

McADOO GOT OUT EARLY

Noted Son-in-Law Saw Far Ahead.

Feels Republican Congress Battles Will Make Him President in 1924.

Democratic House Cleaning of "Small-Towners" is a Certainty Now.

BY HARRY CARR.

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

NEW YORK, Nov. 6.—William G. McAdoo, the most famous son-in-law in the world, has somehow figured it out that Tuesday's slaughter is going to make him President of the United States in 1924. Whether or not this happens, McAdoo's cleverness in getting out of the way of the Republican landslide is much commented upon in New York since the election.

McAdoo certainly had fine eyesight. He saw the handwriting on the wall before anyone else did. One of his closest advisers told me today that the President's son-in-law saw two years ago what was sure to happen, and that was his real reason for resigning as Secretary of the Treasury and for his firm refusal to be a candidate at San Francisco. He did not care to be among the slain on the battlefield.

McAdoo told them in Washington at the time of his retirement that the Democrats were absolutely sure to get the worst licking in the history of the party.

REACTION THE ROCK.

McAdoo and his friends figured that the reaction against the war enthusiasm would be the rock against which they would be wrecked. Especially did he believe that the people who had been forced into buying Liberty Bonds during the war would knife the administration at the first opportunity.

The indignation of the public against high prices and profiteering they reckoned would find expression in walloping the Democratic party on election day. The suppression of free speech during the war also found a violent reaction.

Close-in Democrats say that McAdoo was unable to bring the President to his point of view. Mr. Wilson until the very end lived in a beautiful dream world in which the populace spent most of the time giving three lusty cheers for him. Even the day before election, after Cox had crawled back into his hole and was shuddering for the dawn of the dreadful day, Mr. Wilson was confident that the election was won by the Democrats. Nothing could jar him into a realization of the truth.

Unwilling to go over the falls with the dreamer, the son-in-law wisely hunted the cyclone cellar.

Oddly enough, although not without a certain logic, McAdoo's hopes of election in 1924 are based principally upon the event of the slaughter. They feel that the very strength of the Republican majority in Congress will bring about certain and sure insurgency. McAdoo is hopefully looking to Johnson and Borah and the others of that type to disrupt the Republican party before Harding's term is out.

Another thing that the Democrats are expecting to do is to occupy themselves during the next four years by getting the control of the party out of the hands of the southern colonels.

To the doors of the southern Democrats is laid the blame for the shipwrecking. The Tribune this morning points out that Wilson was a "befo' the war" southern Democrat, and tried to run the business of the nation on old southern plantation lines.

SMALL TOWN CABINET.

His Cabinet and advisers were drawn almost entirely from little southern towns. Three Cabinet officers, for instance, came from Austin, Tex., where they still have race riots and settle the affairs of the nation around the sand box cuspidor in the grocery store.

The Secretary of the Navy was the editor of a little country paper in a one-horse southern town and wrote beautiful funeral notices for the oldest subscriber. Wilson's Attorney-General was a Texas village lawyer. Mr. Burleson, the Postmaster-General, was a Texas farmer who knew all about the postal service from dropping in at the village post-office next door to the barber shop.

In the whole Wilson administration there were only two men of affairs, Franklin K. Lane and McAdoo.

When the Democratic party is reconstructed it will be directed from the big industrial centers in the North, where business is no longer conducted on lines laid down in the middle ages.

CLEAN-UP CERTAIN.

The Democratic plan is also to clean out the parlor Socialists with whom the Wilson administration was cluttered up.

Norman Hapgood, George Creel, Louis Post of the immigration service, who was the loving brother of the Bolsheviks and a host of other Reds, not to mention Samuel Gompers, did a great deal toward wrecking the chances of the Democratic administration. Mr. Wilson would listen to no advice that suggested getting rid of these red-hued gents.

To the naked eye, it looks as though a lusty three-handed battle is about to take place between Tammany, Hearst and McAdoo for the control of the derelict that was once the proud Democratic ship of state.

SHORT WEEK, LOWER PAY.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

UNION (S. C.) Nov. 6.—A wage reduction of 10 per cent will become effective Monday in all cotton mills in this county, affecting approximately 3000 employees. The mills also will be closed two days a week.

PRISONER ELECTED AS JUDGE IS PARDONED BY GOVERNOR; BIG VOTE RECOMMENDATION

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

FRANKFORT (Ky.) Nov. 6.—Gov. Morrow today pardoned Fess Whitaker, jailer of Letcher county, who was elected a county judge in Tuesday's election while serving a sentence in the jail over which he had charge.

Whitaker was convicted of attacking county officers and had served a portion of a six months' sentence.

Gov. Morrow, it was said at the State House, took the position that Whitaker, although in jail, led his opponent by more than 1000 votes and that such popular indorsement was sufficient ground for issuing a pardon.

NEW JAP TREATY FRAMED?

Ambassador to Tokio, Here on Business, Granted Leave of Absence.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

WASHINGTON, Nov. 6.—Announcement today by the State Department that Roland S. Morris, American Ambassador to Japan, had been given a sixty-day leave of absence was taken as an indication that the negotiations with Baron Shidehara, Japanese Ambassador, regarding anti-alien land legislation in California practically had been completed.

Mr. Morris, who returned from Tokio in June, has been carrying on the discussions with the Japanese Ambassador, and it is believed details of the new treaty with Japan, based on the California law adopted in Tuesday's election, have been agreed upon. When the treaty is put in final form it will be referred for approval by the two governments.

State Department officials would not say whether the negotiations had been ended, nor would they add to the announcement concerning Mr. Morris's leave of absence, further than to say that it had no particular significance.

RELIEF EXPEDITION.

Americans in Peking have launched a miniature relief expedition in behalf of two of their countrymen caught in the fighting at Urga, capital of Outer Mongolia, the State Department was advised today. They have mustered twelve Americans, armed and provided with motor convoy, and appealed to the American Legation to obtain permission from the Chinese government for the expedition to move on the town, which has been attacked by Russians and Mongolians.

Reports have reached Peking from within the walls of Urga that the defending Chinese soldiery were demoralized and had begun looting the homes of Russian residents.

PROTECTION ASKED.

The American Legation, the department's advices said, has made urgent representations to the Chinese government that every protection possible be afforded.

Although the Legation reported the situation in Urga as serious and that the foreign residents were in imminent danger, only two Americans were mentioned. Their names were given as Mills, an engineer, and McLaughlin, an employee of the Mongolian Trading Company. The rescue mission was described as being made up of friends of the two men. They have planned to base their operations on Kalgan, northeast of Peking, on the great wall of China and in the southern edge of Mongolia.

WOMEN ARRESTED.

[BY CABLE AND ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

TOKIO, Nov. 6.—A press dispatch from Seoul today reports that 106 Korean women have been arrested, charged with collecting funds for the Shanghai provisional government.

In connection with the reports that Washington D. Vanderlip, representing an American syndicate, had obtained concessions in Siberia from the Russian soviet government, the Japanese Foreign Office today gave out the following statement:

"In view of the fact that the soviet government has not been recognized by the powers, it is unnecessary to point out that the Japanese government is in no way bound to take cognizance of any private agreement, nor prepared to consent to an act or measure which infringes upon Japan's rights with relation to Russia or affects her vital interests, arising from geographic or other considerations."

SHIP RATES TO STAY UP FOR WHILE.

High Fares Must Continue for Time, Says Official; Sugar to Come Down.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

NEW YORK, Nov. 6.—Steamship companies cannot yet afford to reduce passenger rates and may be obliged to increase them, P. A. Franklin, president of the International Mercantile Marine Company declared today just before sailing for Europe on the steamship Olympic. Of present plans for American marine expansion Mr. Franklin said:

"The nation has not yet digested its war-built fleet of merchant ships. Until it does, and until the new merchant marine is privately owned and can stand on its own feet on a sound business basis, any established American steamship company must proceed with caution in ordering the construction of passenger liners."

Another passenger on the Olympic was Claus A. Spreckels, sugar refiner, whose parting words were that sugar has not yet reached the low price level to which it will fall.

"Prices must go to normal; and by that I mean to prewar figures," he said. "This fall finds us with a surplus to be sold of 1,250,000 tons. Only half of Europe is able to purchase anything, and the sugar crop must be used in this country."

DEMOCRATIC SENATOR LOOKING FAR AHEAD.

PARTY WILL MAKE ITSELF FELT IN CONGRESS BELIEF OF HARRISON.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

WASHINGTON, Nov. 6.—Another move toward reorganization of the Democratic party was made here today when Senator Harrison of Mississippi, chairman of the speakers' bureau during the campaign, issued a statement calling on his fellow Democrats to "bury all differences and forget about the recent campaign."

"The Democratic party is not dead," he said. "It has only received a temporary setback and will make itself felt every day of every session of Congress until the next election rolls around.

He praised Gov. Cox as making a gallant fight, and said he was the real leader of the party. Chairman White, he said, had keen insight touching future plans for reorganization, and he believed when they were put in force every element within the Democratic party would approve of them.

MILLION-DOLLAR FIRE NEAR DENVER.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

DENVER, Nov. 6.—Fire of undetermined origin tonight destroyed the machine shop, tool house, stationery supply building and three locomotives of the Denver and Salt Lake Railroad at Utah Junction, near here. W. R. Freeman, receiver for the road estimated the loss at $1,000,000.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

SALT LAKE CITY, Nov. 6.—The body of Miss Frances M. Korous, World War nurse, who disappeared mysteriously while on her way from her brother's home to the Y.W.C.A. here on October 17, was found today floating in a lake in one of the city parks.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

WASHINGTON, Nov. 6.—An announcement issued today by the Mexican Embassy said that in the twenty-four-hour period of October 29-30 not a crime was committed nor a single arrest made for an infraction of the law in Mexico City.

FAVORS AGREEMENT ON OCEAN FREIGHTS.

INTERNATIONAL ACTION NECESSARY, SAYS CHAIRMAN BENSON OF SHIPPING BOARD.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

WASHINGTON, Nov. 6.—An international agreement to stabilize ocean freight rates is rapidly becoming a necessary expedient, Chairman Benson of the Shipping Board said today. As yet the board has refrained from taking such a proposition under consideration, the chairman said, as it was a matter for the State Department, so far as initial steps were concerned.

If the present system of rate conference among interests engaged in particular trade routes could be replaced by a conference to determine proper levels for all ocean lanes, Chairman Benson said, it would insure to every country an opportunity to engage in international commerce on a basis of absolutely fair competition.

Board officials expressed the opinion that the leading maritime nations, England, France, Japan, Norway and possibly Germany later, would accept favorably a proposal to eliminate cutt-hroat methods from world trade through a rate conference agreement.

ANOTHER REPUBLICAN WINS.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

KANSAS CITY (Mo.) Nov. 6.—E. C. Ellis (Rep.) defeated William T. Bland, Democratic candidate for re-election, Representative in Congress, Fifth District, in Tuesday's election, according to complete unofficial figures compiled here tonight. The figures gave Ellis a majority of approximately 1800.

FOR TURKISH OPEN DOOR

Will be Insisted on by America.

Other Nations Must Have an Equal Opportunity With Treaty Powers.

While No Formal Protest Has been Filed, Action is Expected.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

WASHINGTON, Nov. 6.—While no protest has been made thus far by the State Department against the tripartite agreement by France, Great Britain and Italy defining their spheres of influence in Turkey, officials stated today that this did not mean that no objection would be made against any provision viewed as contravening an open-door policy in Turkey. The open-door principle was insisted upon by the United States in the Turkish settlement, it was said, when President Wilson was asked in March by the French government for his views on the tentative draft of the Turkish treaty.

The American note of March 24 said: "It is the understanding of the government of the United States that whatever territorial changes or arrangements may be made in the former Ottoman Empire, such changes or arrangements will in no way place American citizens or corporations of those of any other country in a less favorable situation than the citizens or corporations of any power party to this treaty."

In some quarters it was contended today that the second paragraph of Article II of the tripartite agreement did violate this principle, in excluding from the particular spheres of influence reserved for each of the three powers the nationals of the two other contracting parties.

TEXT OF PARAGRAPH.

The paragraph in question reads: "The contracting powers undertake not to apply, nor to make or support applications on behalf of their citizens for industrial or commercial concessions in an area in which the special interests of one of the said powers are recognized, except in cases where such power declines or is unable to take advantage of its special position."

Although the cabled summary showed Article X of the agreement to provide against any prejudice to the rights of nationals of nonsignatory states to free access for commercial and economic purposes, the full text of the article, according to some officials, may be construed otherwise. It reads:

GUARANTEES FREE ACCESS.

"Nothing in this agreement shall prejudice the right of citizens of third states to free access for commercial and economic purposes to any of the areas designated in Article V. subject to the reservations contained in the treaty of peace with Turkey or which have been voluntarily accepted for themselves in the present agreement by the contracting powers." This is in effect nullifying the previous declaration of equal opportunity to all nations.

Acting upon the principle of equal commercial opportunity for all nations in Turkey as laid down in the American note, the United States already sought to apply that precept in Mesopotamia. Inquiry was made several months ago of Great Britain concerning the reported French-British agreement over the exploitation of oil in the Mesopotamian area. This correspondence has not been made public.

Western Anatolia, in the sphere of Italian special interests under the tripartite agreement, produced 7 per cent of the world's supply of chrome before the war, of which the United States imported in 1913, 18,200 tons besides a quantity of emery. It is also practically the world's sole source of meerschaum.

FINLAND HOST TO REFUGEE CHILDREN.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

WASHINGTON, Nov. 6.—The 750 Russian children of Petrograd repatriated from Siberia by the American Red Cross are now at Salila, Finland, quartered in a three-story building turned over to the Red Cross by the Finnish government.

They will be sent on soon to join their families, from whom they have been separated for three years.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

SAN FRANCISCO, Nov. 6.—John P. Sullivan, former saloonkeeper, was arrested by United States officials late today on a warrant which alleged he fraudulently removed from bonded warehouses seventeen barrels of whisky.

He was released on $2500 cash bail.

FRANCE JUBILANT OVER REPUBLICAN VICTORY.

Nation Ready to Agree to Changes in League Covenant, Declares Noted Paris Political Authority.

BY "PERTINAX."

[Pertinax is considered the greatest political expert of France and is political editor of l'Echo de Paris.]

[BY CABLE—EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

PARIS, Nov. 6.—I cannot in truth refrain from saying that a wave of relief swept over France when the Republican victory was announced, not so much because of any lack of sympathy with the League of Nations, to which the American Senate has been opposed, as owing to the circumstances that it now is understood that something can and will be done by America to relieve that international uncertainty and tension which couldn't be removed without the action of America.

The Republican victory caused no surprise here, having been fully anticipated in cable dispatches from Washington to L'Echo de Paris, whose predictions have not failed in accuracy from the moment of the beginning of the controversy with regard to the treaty in the American Senate. The change in the situation is welcomed on all sides here as supplying an opportunity for France to get into closer touch with America within the next six months.

The problem which has been already discussed and which is now in every political mind, is how can be brought about a better co-operation between the two great nations which are so closely sympathetic? It is earnestly hoped here that between now and the end of his term of office President Wilson will not disturb the present status quo which briefly gives the United States unofficial representation in the Conference of Ambassadors, and the Commission on Reparations and provides for the presence of American troops on the Rhine, side by side with the forces of France, Britain and Belgium.

France earnestly hopes that when Senator Harding enters the White House as President of the United States, he will consolidate upon his own lines, in which France has the fullest confidence, the present position of affairs.

GUARANTEE IS IMPORTANT.

ELECTION RIOTS KILL MEXICANS.

Socialist and Liberals Clash; Armistice Signed in Vera Cruz Strike.

[BY A. P. DAY WIRE.]

MEXICO CITY, Nov. 6.—Further clashes between Socialists and liberals in Yucatan, arising out of the State election campaign there, were reported yesterday in dispatches from Merida. It was stated several persons were dead and scores wounded as a result of the pitched battle Thursday night.

Federal troops have been rushed to the villages of Tecoch and Motul, where the demonstrations seemed to be most serious.

Declaration of a sixty-day armistice between workmen and their employees at Vera Cruz yesterday relieved that port, which has been tied up by a strike of the stevedores and dockworkers for several weeks. The agreement was reached, it is declared, following personal mediation by Provisional President De la Huerta.

TO BOOST PHONE RATES.

Big Increases Asked by the Company to Finance Needed Extensions.

Asserting that the company will find it impossible to carry on necessary extensions under consideration for the coming year unless granted immediate relief, the Southern California Telephone Company yesterday made application to the State Railroad Commission for permission to increase its rates, to become effective Nov. 4, 1921, at the expiration of the present five-year agreement. The amount of increased revenue required is approximately $2,000,000, the application says. The proposed rate increases are as follows (monthly rates:)

Class of service—	—Present— Wall.	 Desk.	—Proposed— Wall.	 Desk.
One-party business (flat)	$6.25	$6.75	$12.00	$12.25
One-party business (meas.)	5.50	6.00	.....	.....
One-party prepayment	5.50	6.00	6.00	6.25
Two-party business (flat)	4.75	5.25	9.00	9.25
Business extensions	1.00	1.00	1.00	1.00
Business suburban	3.00	3.00	8.50	8.75
One-party residence (flat)	2.50	2.75	4.25	4.50
Two-party residence (flat)	2.25	2.50	3.50	3.75
Four-party residence (flat)	1.75	2.00	2.75	3.00
Residence extensions	1.00	1.00	1.00	1.00
Residence suburban	2.50	2.50	3.00	3.25

Business switchboards—
Cordless and nonmultiple .... from $2.00 to $5.00
Multiple (up to 80 lines) .... from 2.00 to 10.00
Trunk lines—
Outgoing .... from $6.00 to $12.00
Incoming .... from 5.00 to 6.00

Present hotel rates are but slightly affected by the proposed increases.

The application cites that the company was barred from Federal relief during the war period because of a decision of the commission, dated Nov. 4, 1916, by which for a period of five years from that date the company was barred from making application for an increase in rates "except in minor matters as may be necessary to remove discriminations." This stipulation was made and accepted "without realization of the imminence of the entry of the United States into the World War and the experience of world-wide changes in economic conditions that have followed therefrom" the application recites.

It is further set forth that to the best of its belief the telephone company is the only one of its class in the United States thus debarred from relief because of the aforementioned stipulation "and its subscribers the only telephone subscribers in the United States or the State of California who are receiving and have continuously received such service at pre-war rates."

In spite of difficulties the company has taken care of the heaviest growth recorded in its history, there being a present waiting list of 6000 applicants, which is growing daily. The ability to care for them is entirely dependent on the securing of immediate relief and to this end the application enunciates: "Without immediate assurance of effective relief through increased revenue from rates effective applicant's credit and resources will be nil, extensions now in progress must stop and further extensions to care for unprecedented demands now engineered for the year 1921 and subsequent years must halt."

The application is signed by President A. B. Cass of the telephone company. Arthur Wright, Currier Building, and James T. Shaw of San Francisco, are the company's attorneys and its counsel are Pillsbury, Madison and Sutro of San Francisco.

Irish Railroad to Give Up Ghost in a Fortnight.

[BY CABLE AND ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

DUBLIN, Nov. 6.—The Midland Railway has given a fortnight's notice of termination of service to its 2000 employees and announces that it will not carry live stock, after Monday. The Midland Railway's difficulties, arising from the dispute regarding the hauling of munitions, have been complicated by a strike of engineers, but all the railway companies except the Great Northern are gradually being strangled by the suspension of guards and drivers refusing to take part in military traffic.

Many districts, notably Limerick, are practically isolated and a complete stoppage of railway service outside Ulster apparently is inevitable.

DEAD MAN'S FRIENDS ARE HELD BY POLICE.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

BOSTON, Nov. 6. — Larceny of $1800 was charged today against Mrs. Lucille Josephs, Samuel Livingstone, William J. Wayne and Ernest Gordon, who are said to have been drinking companions of Ambrose E. Roberts, broker, whose body was found in a South End alley yesterday morning. They pleaded not guilty and were held in bonds of $3000 each for a hearing November 15.

Medical Examiner Timothy Leary reported that Roberts died as a result of wood alcohol poisoning, but the authorities have not been able to ascertain where he obtained it. The police say the broker's pockets were stripped and checks, together with personal jewelry, taken.

MARK TWAIN HONORED.

Awarded Niche in Hall of Fame.

Five Other Men and One Woman Are Also Given Recognition.

Eads, Engineer, and Patrick Henry, Patriot, Among the Number.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

NEW YORK, Nov. 6.—The electors of the New York University Hall of Fame yesterday announced the dedication of a niche to Mark Twain. Noah Webster, after consideration, was not admitted.

Along with the great humorist, whose "Huckleberry Finn," "Innocents Abroad" and a hundred other light-hearted tales have endeared themselves to the American reader, five other famous men and one woman were accorded places in the colonnade surmounting University Heights and overlooking the Hudson River. They were James Buchanan Eads, engineer; Patrick Henry, patriot and statesman; William Thomas Green Morton, physician; August Saint-Gaudens, sculpter; Roger Williams, preacher and founder of the State of Rhode Island, and Alice Freeman Palmer, teacher.

Mark Twain, who was voted on by the 161 electors under his true name, Samuel Langhorne Clemens, and Morton received more votes than any of the others, each being named by seventy-two electors. In the case of each of the seven, fifty-one votes were necessary to elect.

The names submitted to the electors in this, the fifth quinquennial election, were divided into fifteen classes, according to the professions of the candidates. The electors are selected from college presidents, historians, scientists, authors and editors, public officials, men and women of affairs and jurists.

In the first class, that of authors, six names were voted on besides these of the humorist and the dictionary maker. Among the others who, with Webster, were unsuccessful were Thomas Paine, Joel Chandler Harris and Walt Whitman.

John Brown, the abolitionist, received twenty-one votes in the reformers' class; Walter Reed, fourteen among the physicians; John Paul Jones, forty-four, among the soldiers and sailors. Samuel Adams, "father of the American Revolution," got forty-two votes, and William Penn eleven among the statesmen. In the artist class, which also included actors, James A. McNeill Whistler received thirty-one votes and Joseph Jefferson, fifteen.

Susan B. Anthony, the suffragist leader; Martha Washington and Pocahontas Rolfe were unsuccessful candidates in their respective fields.

EADS, NOTED ENGINEER.

Besides bridging the Mississippi with a structure which bears his name, James Buchanan Eads constructed within 100 days, eight ironclad steamers for use on the river, planned the deepening of the stream as far as the mouth of the Ohio jetties and improved the south-pass of the Mississippi delta. He was born in Lawrenceburg, Ind., in 1824 and died in 1887 at Nassau, the Bahamas.

Patrick Henry, who represented Virginia in the first Colonial Congress and is known to every school pupil for his defiant: "If this be treason, make the most of it," and his immortal: "Give me liberty or give me death," was born in Hanover county, Virginia, in 1736 and died in 1799 in Charlotte county, Virginia.

Dr. Morton, discoverer of the ether anaesthesia, practiced dentistry in Boston during the middle of the nineteenth century. The French Academy of Sciences gave him a prize of 2500 francs for the application of his discovery to surgical operations. He was born in Charlton, Mass., in 1819, and died in New York City in 1868.

SAINT GAUDENS WELL KNOWN.

Saint Gaudens is best known for his statue of President Lincoln in Lincoln Park, Chicago, the bas relief "Adoration of the Cross by the Angels," the Shaw monument in Boston, and the Diana atop of the Madison Square Garden here. He was born in Dublin in 1848 and died in Cornish, N. H., Aug. 3, 1907.

Roger Williams left England after trouble with church and civil authorities and in 1636 he left Salem, Mass., for the same reason. He founded Providence, R. I., obtaining from the Indians the land which constitutes that State.

Mrs. Palmer was president of Wellesley College from 1882 to 1887, raising the standard of scholarship and supervising the construction of several buildings to meet the increase in students during her administration. She was born in Colesville, N. Y., in 1855 and died in Paris in December, 1902.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

SAN FRANCISCO, Nov. 6.—Whether constitutional amendment No. 12, the State university tax measure, was accepted or rejected by voters last Tuesday, probably will not be known definitely until the official count of ballots reaches the Secretary of State. The compilation today of returns from fifty-eight counties shows for 5480 precincts out of 6154 in the State the following vote:

For the amendment, 269,338.

Against the amendment, 262,014.

These returns, brought into San Francisco by telephone and telegraph from the various county seats, are semiofficial, and are subject to revision in the official count. The precincts missing from this tabulation include 153 from counties which cast majorities for the measure and 163 from counties which cast majorities against the measure.

BOSTON FISHERMEN ISSUE CHALLENGE.

WANT TO RACE GLOUCESTER BOAT WHICH DEFEATED NOVA SCOTIA SCHOONER.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

BOSTON, Nov. 6.—Boston fishermen are not inclined to admit that the victory of the Esperanto over the Nova Scotia schooner Delawana established the Gloucester boat as the champion of the North Atlantic fishing fleets, and tonight they sent a challenge to the Cape Ann salts to race the Esperanto against the Boston fishermen's Josephine Decosta.

The challenge was signed by William E. Curran, chairman of the committee; Leo Decosta, managing owner of the Josephine Decosta, and Fred Chetwynd, captain of the schooner.

Capt. Chetwynd said his boat came in twelve hours ahead of the Esperanto in beating back from the Banks laden with fish a few years ago.

The committees representing both sides, it was announced, will meet here again next Thursday to continue efforts for a settlement.

Adjournment was taken to permit Phillip Murray, international vice-president of the United Mine Workers, to go to Indianapolis, where he has been summoned in the Federal court proceedings in the soft coal conspiracy cases.

FRENCH FAVOR NEW COVENANT.

Lloyd George and Clemenceau June 28, at the same time as the Versailles Treaty, and which President Wilson refused to submit to the American Senate for ratification as long as that body withheld ratification of the pact and covenant of the League of Nations in complete entirety is of paramount importance. The attention of the French government will be concentrated upon this matter.

Last January it was reported from trustworthy sources that Senator Lodge had given assurance that this pact of guarantee would be ratified by the Senate if forwarded to it by the President. It therefore is accepted as a practical certainty that no serious obstacle will delay redemption of the American pledge in the circumstances. Elihu Root, accepted by the French as likely to represent Republican feeling in America, expressed himself as being in a sense favorable to French wishes and from this expression much comfort has been drawn.

MEANS UNIMPORTANT.

If all these indications may be accepted as indicative of actual conditions in America it will be practically a matter of indifference to French statesmen whether the state of peace with Germany shall be reestablished through ratification of the Versailles Treaty with whatever amendments the American Senate may deem fitting for introduction into the covenant or whether America shall feel it wise to end her state of hostility with Germany by a simple legislative declaration that peace exists.

It cannot even be said that such a declaration, even though it puts America outside the League of Nations, would be judged unfavorably here in France as France unquestionably fears the internationalist spirit now blowing over the League and could easily be brought to the opinion that America by staying outside the society of nations automatically would compel the League to play more modest, more useful and less dangerous part in administrative affairs than seems to be indicated by present somewhat ambitious plans.

COULD ADAPT COVENANT.

However, it must be observed that the covenant easily could be adapted to the requirements which the recent elections seem to indicate as being the general desire of the American people without in any serious or even important sense losing its usefulness as a guarantee against future wars. This could be done by amendments proposed to the Assembly of the League as provided in one article of the peace treaty without reopening formal pourparlers with Germany.

It is quite possible that the attitude of the French delegation in the League meeting on the fifteenth of November will be dominated by the desire to keep open the way to this course of procedure and that to the various proposals of reforms which will be made the French reply will be in the following words:

WOULD WAIT ON AMERICA.

"Let us wait till America expresses her mind." It therefore follows that the new American administration can choose practically any course which may be to its liking and that of the American people as expressed at the polls this week without offense or even inconvenience to France and that once the pact of guarantee shall be made secure, France will gladly extend to the United States unqualified support in the course upon which it decides.

As to the establishment of a court of international arbitration which has been suggested in the United States Senate as a substitute for the existing League of Nations, France would not formulate any objection provided that the working clauses of the peace treaty, which imply the active existence of the League of nations, be reformed in conformity with the new conditions and provided that the pact guarantee be left immune.

In that respect it is observed here that a fortnight ago in the course of a sitting of the executive council of the League at Brussels, Mr. Balfour did not accept the suggestion that any power summoned before the international court should be placed under an obligation to recognize the court's jurisdiction. That shows the limited results that can be obtained from arbitration.

The last question to be solved concerns the most practical way for France to get into agreement with the Republican administration during the period which will elapse before the fourth of March. Of course it cannot be too firmly emphasized that as long as President Wilson remains incumbent France will abstain from any sugestion of dealing over his head with the President-elect of the United States. But why shouldn't some eminent American possessing the confidence of Mr Harding come over to France and lay the foundation of a future understanding? Several names have been mentioned here, of course, without the slightest thought of making a suggestion. Among these are those of Nicholas Murray Butler and Elihu Root.

STATE DEPARTMENT SILENT.

[BY A. P. DAY WIRE.]

WASHINGTON, Nov. 6.—State Department and White House officials refused today to discuss reports from Paris published in this country that Myron T. Herrick, formerly American Ambassador to France, had been chosen as an intermediary in negotiations with President-elect Harding regarding Mr. Harding's proposal for an association of nations.

Officials at the State Department would not say whether the French government formally had communicated to the present administration its desires to discuss this or other matters with the new administration in advance of its actual inauguration, nor would they say whether there was precedent for such a request.

They also refused to say whether they had information that Mr. Harding was to be asked by the French Geneva delegation to send a personal representative to the forthcoming meeting of the Assembly of the League of Nations.

HERRICK DENIES STORY.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

CLEVELAND, Nov. 6.—When the Washington dispatch regarding Paris reports that he had been chosen as an intermediary in negotiations with President-elect Harding, regarding Mr. Harding's proposal for an association of nations, was read to him Myron T. Herrick, former Ambassador to France, said:

"I know nothing whatever of the matter in any way. I have not talked with anybody on the subject. This is the first I have heard of such a report. There is nothing in it."

FARMERS DEMANDING ENTREE TO EXCHANGES

PACIFIC COAST CITRUS FRUIT DEALERS WON'T FIX PRICE, SPEAKER DECLARES.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

CHICAGO, Nov. 6.—Request that the Federal Trade Commission and the Attorney-General, or other public authority, be called on to take necessary steps to open grain exchanges of the country to membership of co-operative companies, unless the exchanges act themselves, was made in a resolution adopted today at an executive session of the Farmers' Marketing Committee.

The resolution follows:

"Whereas, the principal grain exchanges of the United States bar co-operative companies that distribute their profits in proportion with the volume of business handled, from participating in the buying and selling of farm products; and, whereas, the same prevents producers from collectively selling their own products on the markets of the country, thereby creating a monopoly which is not in harmony with the spirit of American institutions;

"Therefore, be it resolved that we call upon the Federal Trade Commission, the Attorney-General or other public authority to take such steps as may be necessary to open the said markets to the membership of co-operative companies unless the grain exchanges shall voluntarily do the same at once."

In an address before the committee today, G. H. Powell, general manager of the California Fruit Growers' Exchange, said that "citrus fruit growers of the Pacific Coast would not fix the price of oranges, even if it were legally right and all of them could agree."

"It would do them no good," he added. "We have to sell our fruit for what it is worth. The Italian fruit grower can sell his lemons and oranges in this country cheaper than we."

He explained that this was due to the difference in exchange between America and Italy.

By co-operation, he said, cost of marketing citrus fruit has been reduced 10 to 15 per cent.

GERMANS MAY CLOSE GREAT UNIVERSITIES.

[BY CABLE AND ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

LONDON, Nov. 6.—Consideration is being given by the German government of the advisability of closing the German universities of Halle, Griefswald and Marburg, according to an Amsterdam dispatch to the Exchange Telegraph Company, quoting Berlin advices.

It is said this step would be taken for reasons of economy, but that it would be possible to support the universities of Cologne, Bonn, Heidelberg and Karlsruhe.

ASKS RISE IN PHONE RATES.

cial superintendent for the company, put into the mail more than 8000 personal letters, addressed to the members of the Chamber of Commerce, the Realty Board, the Mayor, the members of the City Council, the Board of Public Utilities and the clearinghouse banks, going deeply into the entire situation and pointing out the necessity to the city of permitting the telephone company to go ahead with development—the lack of which development due to the shortage of materials is already throttling the industrial growth of the city.

In his letter, Mr. Powley states that the new rates proposed are not disproportionate to rates already in effect in other cities of similar character in the United States. His letter follows:

"The Southern California Telephone Company today faces unfilled orders for 9000 telephones and this list grows daily.

"It is absolutely necessary for this company to keep pace with the growth of the city. This growth is phenomenal — more than 21,000 building permits have already been issued this year, making an increase in the city's population of 100,000.

"This brings us face to face with a problem which, unaided, we cannot solve. I believe it is my duty to present this situation in all its seriousness.

"In spite of every handicap, we have installed in excess of 60,000 telephones since the armistice, resulting in a net increase of 21,000 telephones. This gives Los Angeles a total of 145,000 telephones, or one to every four people.

"We have appropriated in excess of $2,800,000 for plant extensions and have actually received equipment in the amount of $2,800,000. We are today awaiting the receipt of equipment from the manufacturers involving an expenditure of $1,000,000.

"We have placed, in cable, 83,000,000 feet of wire, set 2466 poles, strung 4252 miles of wire, placed 416,518 feet of underground conduit, made extensive additions to the central office switchboards, as well as making seven additions to our twenty-six central offices. We have already ordered, among hundreds of other items, 300,000,000 conductor feet of cable!

"There is every indication that the requirements for 1921 will be greater than the present year—in fact, they will be in excess of $2,500,000.

SITUATION SERIOUS.

"We realize the seriousness of the situation, but as our present credit and resources will expire Nov. 4, 1921, it is absolutely necessary for us to now insist upon a determination of our future status.

"As of Nov. 4, 1916, under the terms by which the two separate telephone systems were consolidated into a single system, we entered into a stipulation and agreement with the public authorities to operate this property without rate increases for five years.

"We have kept the faith—this, in spite of the fact that relief was available through the United States government during the period of Federal control. In keeping faith, the Southern California Telephone Company was debarred from any relief and its subscribers are the only people in California, or, in fact, in the United States who have continuously received telephone service at prewar rates.

"Effective Nov. 4, 1921, the date of the termination of the stipulation and agreement, we must stand on our own feet and be absolutely dependent upon our own credit and resources to meet operating expenses and to secure capital for plant extensions in the city of Los Angeles.

"We will require $2,000,000 in increased annual revenue to take care of the requirements for rendering service in Los Angeles and we have therefore today filed with the California Railroad Commission an application for necessary rates to carry on the telephone service.

"This $2,000,000 is required to meet our operating expenses and financial obligations. This property is operated and kept at its full efficiency without even a penny of profit and, in fact, is experiencing a daily loss. It is unthinkable that this condition can continue.

"We are not now breaking faith, but are filing this application so that we will not be helpless when our financial backing is withdrawn in November, 1921.

"This is your problem as well as ours—the problem of every man who has a dollar invested in the city of Los Angeles. It is for this reason that I am now laying this matter before you for your personal consideration.

"Let us mutually remember that Los Angeles must have assurance that its telephone development will keep pace with its growth. This requires money, material and men—and only increased telephone rates can make these available. If we are to go ahead, this situation must be solved on the cold facts before the authoritative rate-making body—the California State Railroad Commission."

FOR SMALL COLLEGE VERSUS UNIVERSITY.

HAVERFORD'S PRESIDENT PLEADS FOR QUALITY MORE THAN QUANTITY.

A plea for the small college as opposed to the university was made by Dr. William W. Comfort, president of Haverford College, of Haverford, Pa., in an address at the banquet of the Haverford College Alumni Association of Southern California in his honor at the University Club last night. The noted educator, who is here on a tour of the country in the interests of the Haverford endowment fund, gave it as his opinion that it is better for an institution to turn out fifty well-educated, high-principled men a year than to graduate 200 half-baked, loosely-trained students, as might be the result where quantity rather than quality in education is the primary aim.

Another interesting point made by Dr. Comfort was that the war has greatly stimulated the interest of the American college man in chemistry and French, which branches of college education, he said, are in a state of almost abnormal development. Of the $521,000 fund being raised for the college he reported that $487,000 is now actually in hand. This raises the endowment of Haverford to over $3,000,000, making it the richest college in proportion to number of students in America.

The present officers of the association, Ralph W. Trueblood, '05, president, and Joshua Baily, Jr., '12, of San Diego, secretary, were re-elected. Others present were Walter Wood, '89, Thomas Newlin, '85, G. A. Sholem, '10, H. H. Lowry, '99, Austin K. Gray, F. D. Jones, '82, Byron C. Hubbard, '92, U. Mercur Eshleman, 03, Schuyler F. What Blanche Rogers Lott Says About the

Steinway Piano

October 7, 1920.

Geo. J. Birkel Company,
Los Angeles, Cal.
Gentlemen:

At this time of the year, when my teaching is assuming a sort of routine for the season, a gratefulness comes to me for the privilege of having had for years a Steinway piano and using it in all my lessons.

The first thing a pupil must learn is to produce and recognize a pure tone, and there is no instrument capable of producing a tone of more purity than a Steinway piano.

I am also sincerely grateful that through your courtesy I have been enabled to use the Steinway in all concert and recital work and it has meant much to me.

Most cordially yours,

CALIFORNIA LAW WILL BE COPIED.

Washington Anti-Jap League Starts Campaign.

Would Forbid Alien Ownership or Leasing.

Punish Conspiracy to Violate State Statute.

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

SEATTLE, Nov. 6.—The Anti-Japanese League of Washington has launched a campaign for signatures to an initiative bill to be presented to the next State Legislature aimed at restricting the ownership and leasing of land by Japanese. This bill has in view the same object contemplated in the bill enacted into law by California.

The proposed initative adopts the text of the constitutional provision as its first section. The added sections are designed to prevent leasing as well as the ownership of agricultural lands; to limit to six months all leases of non-agricultural lands; to limit to two years the period during which land acquired by inheritance under mortgage or in the collection of debts may be held; to close the existing openings for evasion of the constitutional prohibition and to provide means and procedure for carrying out the purposes of the act.

MAY ESCHEAT LANDS.

Section two of the act declares that any leasehold or other interest in agricultural land, or any leasehold interest of more than six months duration in non-agricultural land, shall be considered an ownership thereof. Section 3 empowers any citizen of the United States and makes it the duty of prosecuting attorneys and of the Attorney-General, to institute actions to escheat to the State any lands held or acquired in violation of the act. Sections 4 and 5 prohibit aliens from becoming trustees for alien children born in the United States for which only citizens of the United States may be appointed either guardians or trustees. This would bar Japanese subjects from acting as guardians for children born in the United States.

Section 6 provides that land acquired by aliens by inheritance, under mortgage or in the collection of debts shall be held not longer than two years, at the end of which any citizen shall have the right, and it shall be the duty of prosecuting attorneys and of the Attorney-General, to bring action to sell the land and pay the proceeds to the alien by whom it was acquired.

MUST SHOW GOOD FAITH.

Section 7 provides that before an alien can acquire land under mortgage or in the collection of a debt, he shall file in court an affidavit stating that the mortgage or debt was incurred in good faith and without intent to evade the provisions of the act. This affidavit may be controverted within one year by any citizen of the United States, whereupon a trial by jury shall be had and if it be found that the mortgage or debt was incurred with intent to evade the act, the land shall escheat to the State. A presumption of intent to evade the act shall arise where possession, control or management of the property is acquired prior to the order confirming the sale on foreclosure or execution, or where the mortgage is for less than three years.

CONSPIRACY DEFINED.

Section 8 provides that where more than 25 per cent of the stock of a corporation is owned by aliens the president of the corporation shall file an affidavit stating what amount of stock is held by or in trust for aliens. This affidavit may be controverted by any citizen of within one year, and if, on trial by jury, more than a majority of the stock is found to be owned by aliens, the land owned by the corporation shall escheat to the State.

Section 9 makes a conspiracy by two or more persons to violate the act punishable by two years imprisonment, or by a fine of $5000, or both.

Section 10 declares that if any part of this act shall be declared unconstitutional such decision shall not affect the validity of the remaining portions.

The petitions will be circulated throughout the State and if sufficient signatures are obtained, will be presented to the Legislature for action. The law requires that the initiative petitions in such case shall be filed with the Secretary of State at Olympia ten days before the Legislature convenes. The Legislature must pass the measure just as it is written or else submit it to a referendum.

TO PLAN FINANCING OF FOREIGN TRADE.

BUSINESS MEN TO DISCUSS FORMATION OF $100,000,000 CORPORATION.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

Drum, president of the American Bankers' Association, here yesterday. The corporation was provided for at the recent convention of the association.

The executive committee of the association has been requested to attend in their individual capacity. Executives of chambers of commerce in all parts of the country are invited also.

It was announced that producers of both manufactured articles and raw materials would be present at the meeting. The organization of the corporation is the result of deliberations by the Chamber of Commerce of the United States and the National Foreign Trade Council, as well as the Bankers' Association, Mr. Drum said.

ENGLISH BEWAIL TAX ON WINE BUSINESS.

DECLARE AD VALOREM DUTY AND SURTAX ON CHAMPAGNE IS RUINOUS.

[BY CABLE—EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

LONDON, Nov. 6.—The ad valorem duty and surtax on champagne is killing the wine business in England, according to some of the largest English importers of wine.

They hold that the present duty cannot be productive of revenue for the government inasmuch as importers cannot bring wines into England that they cannot sell. Formerly the duty on a bottle of champagne sold in London was 7½ pence. Now the duty and surtax amount to 5 shillings and 1½ pence. This has sent the price of a bottle of champagne up from 12 shillings and 6 pence to 30 shillings.

"The Germans who smashed up Rheims and caused the destruction of the French vineyards are now going to benefit by the exportation of their sparkling wines," one importer said.

Mrs. Eva Hamilton was elected Senator in the Grand Rapids district; Muskegon, Delta and Tuscola counties elected women treasurers; Kalamazoo and Osceola counties chose women registerers of deeds; Roscommon and Benzie counties made women sheriffs. Missaukee county elected a woman clerk and in Hillsdale cunty a woman drainage commissioner was chosen.

MEXICAN STATE TO TAX CUT LUMBER.

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

DURANGO (Mex.) Nov. 6.—Coincident with the resumption of the lumber manufacturing industry in this State, there has been issued a decree by the State government levying a tax on all lumber cut from the forests. The tax applies to all lumber, whether it is cut from timber obtained from public or private-owned lands.

It is provided in the decree that the tax shall be paid by the owner of the timber land or by the contractor who is in charge of cutting and sawing the timber. It is expected that the new tax will not interfere with the successful carrying on of the industry. At the same time it will be the means of the State government deriving some very much needed revenue.

MONON LOCOMOTIVE SHOPS CUT FORCE.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

LAFAYETTE (Ind.) Nov. 6.—Notices have been posted at the Monon Railroad shops here announcing a 25 per cent reduction in the working force of the locomotive department, to take effect November 10. This is the second cut since September.

The new order will put 150 men out of work.

[BY A. P. DAY WIRE.]

NEW ORLEANS, Nov. 6.—Southern bankers met here today to plan a $12,000,000 foreign trading corporation which will establish banking facilities to market the agricultural products of the South in Europe. The plans contemplate establishment of branches in Cuba and South and Central America.

While cotton will receive first attention, it is planned to have the corporation handle all southern products.

Holland May Yet Become Republic by People's Vote.

[BY CABLE AND ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

THE HAGUE, Nov. 6.—The possibility of becoming a republic is in prospect for Holland under recommendations submitted today by the commission appointed to revise the constitution. If these recommendations are adopted, Holland will have the chance to decide upon doing away with royalty, unless the little Princess Juliana, only child of Queen Wilhelmina and Prince Consort Henry, some day gives birth to a son by a husband whom the Dutch Parliament approves as her consort. The Princess now is 11 years old.

The commission proposes that hereafter, unless there is a direct male descendant of a male ruler, the throne shall go to some male of the second generation of the last King. In the event of there being no direct male successor, however, the people shall have the opportunity to change the country's form of government under the commission's scheme.

CANADIAN NEWSPRINT PAPER PRICE GIVEN.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

MONTREAL, Nov. 6.—The price of newsprint paper for export to the United States during the first quarter of 1921 probably will be between 6½ and 7 cents a pound or $130 to $140 a ton, it was announced semiofficially here yesterday.

While definite information is lacking as to the prices at which Canadian producers will renew contracts with consumers in the United States, it was stated that official information will be forthcoming within a few days.

ALVARADO IS NOT A BOLSHEVIST.

Mexican General Says He Was Misquoted When Talk to Deputies Was Given.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

SAN ANTONIO, Nov. 6.—Gen. Salvador Alvarado, Minister of Finance of Mexico, in a telegram to Mexican Consul T. R. Beltran, received here yesterday, said he recently was misquoted by Mexican and United States newspapers when it was reported he had declared himself a Bolshevist in a statement in the Mexican Chamber of Deputies.

"It Pays To Dress Well

A GOOD appearance is capital, and our clothes are an important part of it. It pays to dress well, to wear attractive, well-fitting clothing of good material. To buy cheap material of any kind is a poor sort of economy. It gives you poor service, and it doesn't look well. It will not do you credit, and is not a good advertisement of yourself and what you are trying to do.

"First impressions are immensely valuable. If your dress and bearing are good, this fact will make people think well of you, respect you. It will give the impression that you can finance yourself; that you are doing well, and this adds to others' confidence in your business ability.

"Not only wear as good clothing as you can afford, but see that it is well kept, and well carried. Hold up your head, throw your shoulders back, look the world in the face; go about among your fellows as a winner. Show that you have the courage of your convictions, that you have confidence and assurance. This will invite prosperity and success."

The above is an excerpt from the columns of "Success," Dr. Marden's bright and uplifting magazine. The advice is right in line with what the house of Stewart the Tailor has been advocating for years. Young man, middle-aged man, old man, take it to heart! Prosperity and success will not be a dream but an actuality if you follow Dr. Marden's advice and join the ranks of well-dressed men who order their suits from Stewart's.

WANTS MAN HE AIDED JAILED.

Good Samaritan to One-Time Convict Gets Warrant.

Accuses George Bitten, Once Investigator Here.

Money Obtained Under False Pretenses, is Charge.

George Bitten, self-styled detective, who started out in 1916 to "investigate and expose" police corruption and other evils in Los Angeles and ended his career by receiving a three-year sentence in San Quentin for obtaining money under false pretenses, was formally accused of a similar offense in a complaint issued by Dep. Dist.-Atty Heinecke last Thursday.

A warrant for Bitten's arrest, carrying an alias of George A. Hill, was given to Constable Thomas and yesterday was sent by him to Sheriff Logan of Inyo county for service. According to information obtained by The Times, Britten has been located at a mine in Inyo county, where he will be taken into custody tomorrow afternoon, or Tuesday morning.

The complaint accuses Bitten on fifteen different counts and of obtaining by false pretenses fourteen sums of money, aggregating $6825.

Information furnished by A. A. Irish, well-known local mining man, the complaining witness, involves what Mr. Irish says is a case of the good samaritan who was victimized by the man he befriended. He says that after Bitten was sentenced to San Quentin prison, he worked in the man's behalf and obtained a pardon after Bitten had endured a year and a half of imprisonment. Then, he says, he took Bitten into his mining venture, the Pennsylvania Silver Company, and made him a stockholder and director. The company, it was stated, owns valuable property in the Cerro Gordo mining district, near Independence.

The complaint charges that Bitten, assuming the name of George A. Hill, represented to various prospective buyers of stock in the company that he—Bitten—had located twenty-five new mining claims near the Pennsylvania Silver Company property, with a ledge of ore 150 feet wide carrying valuable surface ore of a kind displayed to the buyers and that he had transferred these claims to Mr. Irish and the Pennsylvania Silver Company. This, it was charged, gave the buyers the idea that the stock of that company would shortly advance considerably in value.

It is charged Bitten obtained in this manner sums from the following: Frances M. Craig, $1000; Maud M. Reed, $500; G. C. Ketterman, $500; R. Evans, $500; Margaret Gass, $250; Robert Brady, $1000; Dr. L. A. Pertson, $500; Mrs. M. T. Neal, $250; J. W. Neal, $100; E. H. Householder, $150; E. H. Householder, $75; E. M. Connor, $500; H. G. Bell, $500; P. C. May, $1000. Another count charges an attempt to obtain an additional amount from G. C. Ketterman. The offenses are asserted to have been committed during April, May and June of this year.

SHIPPING BOARD PERSONNEL SOON

Expect Announcement to be Made in a Few Days.

Benson to Remain at the Head of Organization.

Rowell Confirms Report of His Appointment.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

WASHINGTON, Nov. 6. — Announcement of the personnel of the new Shipping Board, of seven, created by the Transportation Act, is expected to be made at the White House within a few days.

President Wilson is understood to have completed the selection of the new commissioners, most of whom have accepted appointments. Admiral William S. Benson, wartime Chief of Naval Operations, will continue as chairman and the other members are expected to include:

TWO FROM COAST.

John W. Shackleford of Tacoma, Wash., and Joseph N. Teal of Portland, Or., representing the Pacific Coast; John A. Donald of New York, who with Admiral Benson will be member for the Atlantic Coast, and Frederick I. Thompson of Mobile, member from the Gulf Coast. The two other members, whose names could not be learned today, must represent the Great Lakes district and the interior.

Mr. Donald is understood to have been selected in place of Theodore Marburg of Baltimore, who declined to serve, and Mr. Shackleford replaces Gavin McNab of San Francisco, who also refused appointment. Martin Gillen, originally named for the Great Lakes district, also refused the appointment.

ROWELL ON BOARD.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

FRESNO, Nov. 6.—Chester H. Rowell of Fresno, former editor and publisher of the Fresno Republican, today confirmed the report of his acceptance of an appointment to the United States Shipping Board. He said:

"I have accepted the appointment. A telegram came Wednesday from President Wilson asking me to accept the position. After consulting with friends in San Francisco who have the largest knowledge of the shipping business, I concluded to accept and have just telegraphed my acceptance to the President.

"I am uncertain as to just when I shall leave for Washington as I am waiting for telegraphic information. I presume it is the desire to have the new board organize as quickly as possible because the old board is now out of existence."

WILL ACCEPT.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

TACOMA (Wash.) Nov. 6.—Judge John A. Shackleford, when informed of the press dispatch announcing his probable appointment as a member of the Shipping Board today, said he had received no official information from Washington. He has just returned from San Francisco in the interests of his candidacy. He said he would accept if offered the place.

Judge Shackleford formerly sat upon the bench here, and is one of the leading attorneys of the State. He has been active in politics, and is a Republican. Democrats in the Puget Sound district backed him for one of the Republican posts on the board.

HANDLEY FOUL PLAY REPORT IS DOUBTED.

GROVES DISCREDITS RUMORS CONCERNING DEATH OF DRY LAW OFFICIAL.

Referring to reports from San Francisco that doubts had been cast on the reputed accidental character of the death of Lorin Handley, State prohibition enforcement officer, whose body was found beneath a wrecked automobile near Galt last September, F. Ray Groves, special revenue collector for Los Angeles, who took Mr. Handley's body to Sacramento, yesterday made the following statement:

"While I do not desire to hinder any investigation of Mr. Handley's death, I am of the firm conviction that his death will never be proved other than accidental and, furthermore, the Coroner's jury's verdict should be accepted."

According to the advices from San Francisco, Charles V. Brereton, chief of the department of investigation for the United States Forestry Service, has been inquiring into the circumstances of Mr. Handley's death and has made a formal statement to San Francisco police, also concerned in the investigation. This formal pronouncement, dispatches say, sets forth evidence that places in doubt the true manner in which Mr. Handley came to his death.

ALASKAN POPULATION SHOWS BIG DECREASE.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

SEATTLE, Nov. 6.—The population of Alaska has decreased by 9638 or 14.9 per cent in the last decade, according to census figures made public here today by W. T. Loph, superintendent of the Alaska district.

Mr. Loph's figures gave Alaska a population of 54,718 as compared with 64,356 in 1900. Of the present population 29,210 are whites and 25,508 natives.

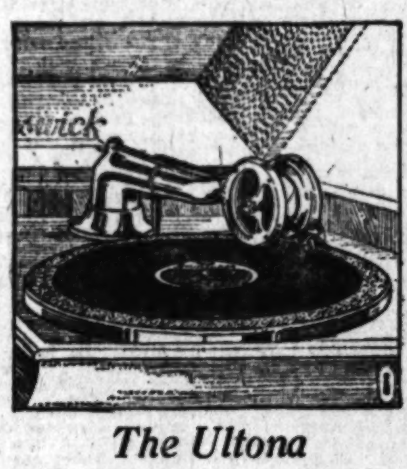
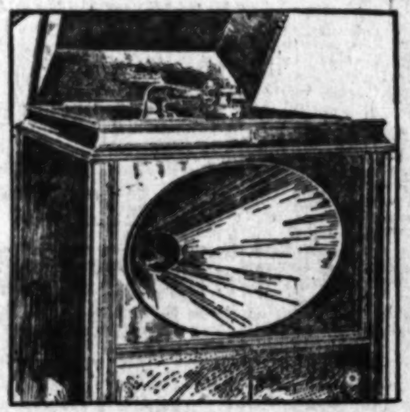
PHONOGRAPHS AND RECORDS

"All music finds full and true expression in the mellow tones of the Brunswick."



The Ultona

The Ultona, an exclusive all-record reproducer, to be obtained only on The Brunswick, not an attachment, but a built-in part of every Brunswick. It plays all the records of all the artists of all the world—and it plays them at their best.



The Amplifier

The Brunswick Tone Amplifier and Acoustic throat made entirely of moulded wood, gives added richness and fullness to the tone. Does away with surface noises and metallic sounds.

The "Christmas Gift" Supreme

The Brunswick Phonograph and the Brunswick Records will put real heart-filling joy into your Christmas. They will carry the glad Christmas spirit through all the year, for Brunswick Music is joyous music—new sparkling dance records, latest song hits, gems from grand opera—popular and classic selections, played by the world's greatest bands and orchestras. Brunswick Records mirror magically the voice of the singer, the rich harmonies of wood-wind, string and brass. The Brunswick makes every record a perfect joy, so wonderfully pure and clear is its tone.

Two Exclusive Features
You can't buy elsewhere

The reason so many critical music lovers prefer The Brunswick is not hard to find. It is all due to the Brunswick Method of Reproduction, two features of which are pictured at the left.

Tone is the chief reason for so many friends for Brunswick. And tone depends largely upon the reproducer and the tone amplifier.

In both of these features Brunswick has gone far in advance. The Ultona plays all records, not confining you to one make. And it plays each exactly as intended, with the proper diaphragm, the proper needle. Best of all, it is not a hastily contrived makeshift, but a basic invention.

The Brunswick Tone Amplifier is built entirely of wood. Not merely the part you see, but the throat between the reproducer and amplifier. The usual way is to make this throat of cast metal, a faulty way that brings metallic sounds.

You'll appreciate how far in advance The Brunswick is; you'll admire its superior tone. Hearing is the proof of The Brunswick pudding. All we ask you to do is to hear The Brunswick with your own ears.

The Brunswick
ALL PHONOGRAPHS IN ONE

—plus its ready adaptability to play all makes of records at their best, their truly distinctive styles and wonderful cabinet work, make it the most sought after and highly appreciated phonograph in the world today.

No Overt Act in Bond Deal; Broker Freed.

With the statement by Dep. Dist.-Atty. Hill that investigation on the part of the District Attorney's office disclosed that there was no overt act or misappropriation of funds, Justice Palmer dismissed a charge of embezzlement made against William H. Cole, local broker, it was announced yesterday. Upon the request of Mr. Hill, the case was taken up and dismissed before it was scheduled for hearing.

Mr. Cole was accused of defrauding Sally Cartmell out of $500 given to him for the purchase of Liberty Bonds. It was pointed out by Mr. Hill that no date was set for the delivery of the bonds and that subsequently the complaining witness had been fully reimbursed.

Because of these conditions the court dismissed the case and exonerated bail previously furnished by the defendant.

CITY LABORATORIES NOW CONSOLIDATED.

OIL AND "GAS" COMPLAINTS NO LONGER RECEIVED AT NORMAL HILL CENTER.

City laboratories operating under the Board of Public Works have been consolidated and complaints as to the quality of gasoline and oil sold to the public, formerly made to the department of oil inspection at Normal Hill Center, may now be made by telephoning to the City Hall. The call will be transferred to the new laboratories at 2424 East Eleventh street.

The laboratories are in charge of T. A. Fisher, chief chemist, who directs a force of chemists and inspectors handling the work formerly carried on by the department of oil inspection as well as testing all construction materials used by the city.

"While a great saving of money is effected under the consolidation," said Public Works Commissioner Treat yesterday, "we have added greatly to the efficiency of the laboratories of the city and to the oil inspection service. It is the policy of the new combined department to bring about harmonious relations among the manufacturers, wholesalers, retailers and consumers of oil products in the city, at the same time firmly enforcing the ordinances, which are made for the protection of the public which buys and uses these products."

FIGHTING OVER THE REMAINS.

McAdoo and Bryan in Death Grip for Leadership.

Both Are Trying to Reorganize the Democrats.

Gov. Cox a Low Private Now in Party's Rear Ranks.

BY ROBERT B. ARMSTRONG.

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

WASHINGTON, Nov. 6.—William J. Bryan and William G. McAdoo are engaged in a death struggle to see which shall salvage the remains of the Democratic party. Mr. Bryan announces that he will spend the winter in Washington trying to reorganize what is left of the Democratic party and breathe into it a little life.

TO DISPUTE LEADERSHIP.

Mr. McAdoo has already had his scouts on the spot and trusted lieutenants at every important point where the party still has strength and being. He is backed by Bernard Baruch and other strong partisans of Democrat faith. He is lining up already for 1924 and will dispute with Bryan the right to the title of Democratic leader until the party nominations are made four years from now.

COX A MINUS QUANTITY.

Gov. Cox does not figure in any of the plans of any of the leaders. He is eliminated as a factor in Democratic calculations and will not again be heard of in party councils. The taint of defeat utter and appalling clings to his political robes and the fact that he lost his own precinct, his county and his State by such overwhelming odds is enough to make him less than a political memory.

KNEW HIS FATE.

Cox and his friends in Ohio knew that this fate awaited him if he could not carry his State and his home. Cox made a desperate fight to retain some little semblance of leadership and hoped against hope that he would succeed, but he could not keep back the ocean of votes, so today he is only a private in the rear ranks of his party.

McAdoo and his friends feared this year as a Republican year and kept off. When Cox was nominated they sought to elect a Democratic Senate to handicap Senator Harding who seemed certain then to be elected. This they wanted in order to checkmate the Executive and make the Democratic fight easier in 1924.

The Senate is so Republican that there can be no embarrassing of the next President, but McAdoo and his friends want control and the battle is on between Bryan and the son-in-law of the retiring President.

Throng Gathers at the Funeral of Joseph Banning.

A special boat from Avalon was necessary to bring the people who flocked from Catalina to attend the funeral services for Joseph B. Banning at the Banning home, 945 Westlake avenue, at 2 o'clock yesterday afternoon. The city of Avalon sent an immense floral piece, and hundreds of friends were on hand to pay their last tribute to a man who had taken a leading part in business development in this section.

The services were conducted by Rev. C. S. Patton of the First Congregational Church. Interment was at Inglewood.

The active pallbearers were Elpinge Brown, James A. Gibson, Jr., Herbert Howard, Reese Taylor, Louis Cass, John C. Macfarland, George Hugh Banning and Edward Lannon.

The honorary pallbearers were W. E. Dunn. Dr. R. Wernick, Dr. E. A Bryant, Edward Stanton, George W. Thompson, David P. Fleming, J. H. Patrick, J. N. Crowell, Harry Crowell, William R. Rowland, George S. Patton, Tom H. Schumacher, Tom C. Cline, George Cline, Judge James A. Gibson, Albert Crutcher, James A. Mellus, Richard Lacy and William Lacy.

DEFENDER BUSY ON PEETE TRANSCRIPT.

HUSBAND OF WOMAN ACCUSED OF DENTON MURDER HAS MOVED TO CITY.

"I will go thoroughly into the case Monday or Tuesday with her," declared Public Defender Wood yesterday in discussing his plans for the defense of Mrs. R. C. Peete, charged with the murder of J. C. Denton. "Meanwhile I am studying the transcript of the grand jury evidence and have had no long conference with Mrs. Peet. She naturally feels injured by the making public of asserted acts in her past life which the District Attorney's office and any attorney should have known could never have been introduced in the trial. That has served only to prejudice the public against her."

The indicted woman's husband yesterday moved into Los Angeles from La Crescenta Hotel, where he and his wife and little daughter were taken when they came here from Denver at the request of the District Attorney's office to discuss the Denton case.

"Mrs. Peete and I are confident that Mr. Wood will give her every advantage of his counsel and the resources of his office," Mr. Peete said last night. "Yet at the same time I wish to express deep appreciation for the efforts of the other attorneys who have helped her in protecting her rights during this trouble.

"I regret very much that we were unable to retain the services of Attorneys Ford, Van Nostran and Bodkin because we could not provide funds for the experts and thorough investigation which they advised, but I am grateful for the work they did. It was also a disappointment to me that Judge Hilton was unable to remain in the case for I am thankful for his efforts in our behalf."

CALOMEL

Calomel is a dangerous drug. It is mercury—quicksilver; and attacks your bones. Take a dose of nasty calomel today and you will feel weak, sick and nauseated tomorrow. Don't lose a day's work.

INSTEAD, TAKE
"Dodson's Liver Tone"

There's no reason why a person should take sickening, salivating calomel when a few cents buys a large bottle of Dodson's Liver Tone—a perfect substitute for calomel. It is a pleasant, vegetable liquid which will start your liver just as surely as calomel, but it doesn't make you sick and can not salivate. Take a spoonful of Dodson's Liver Tone instead and you will wake up feeling great. No more biliousness, constipation, sluggishness, headache, coated tongue or sour stomach. Your druggist says if you don't find Dodson's Liver Tone acts better than horrible calomel your money is waiting for you. Even children like its pleasant taste.

UNION STRIKERS ASK FOR OLD JOBS AGAIN.

NEW MEN WILL NOT BE FIRED TO REINSTATE FRUIT AND VEGETABLE PACKERS.

Several union men who joined the ranks of the striking fruit and vegetable workers yesterday applied for their old places, declaring they are willing to work again under the same conditions as when they quit last Monday, L. K. Small, head of the shippers' organization, stated last night.

"No picketing was done around the shippers' plants today," he said. "Everything was quiet, from the strike standpoint, and busy on the inside. All the shippers have as many men as they need and there is no indication of a strike. Several of the old employees who went on the unauthorized walkout asked during the day to be reinstated.

"The shippers with whom I have talked say they will give the men back their jobs if there is work for them, but that the new men who have taken up the work will not be let out to make room for the others. No report of any trouble or attempt to cause trouble was made during the day."

Showered with telegrams of congratulations from all parts of the world and literally swamped with flowers from California admirers, the veteran actor, William H. "We have been sailing the marital main for fifty golden years and are as happy as the day on which we first kowtowed to Hymen," was the smiling comment of Mr. Crane.

Present at the dinner were Walter Williams, oldest-time friend of the Cranes, whom he has known for fifty-five years; Mr. and Mrs. James Neil of Glendale; Miss Zeffie Tilbury; Mrs. Nelson Wheatcroft, formerly Adeline Stanhope, the actress; Mr. and Mrs. James T. CONGRESSMAN AGAINST LONG CRUISE OF FLEETS.

[BY A. P. DAY WIRE.]

WASHINGTON, Nov. 6.—Representative Blanton, Democrat, Texas, made public today an open letter to Secretary Daniels protesting against the announced overseas cruises of the Atlantic and Pacific fleets next summer.

Mr. Blanton said that Congress had not authorized such cruises and that naval statistics showed that "it would require at least 70 per cent more coal and oil than ordinary to run these two fleets on such a cruise."

REDS CAPTURE YANK MISSION.

Only Americans in Crimea is Red Cross Unit.

State and War Departments Have No Details.

Little Body Had been Supplying Southern Army.

[BY CABLE AND ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

LONDON, Nov. 6.—An American mission in Southern Russia has fallen into the hands of the soviet forces, according to the Moscow newspaper Pravda, as quoted in a wireless dispatch today from the soviet capital. The mission, says the newspaper, was headed by "Gen. Morel."

The Pravda reported the incident in recording details of the Bolshevik attack upon the forces of Gen. Baron Wrangel. The paragraph concerning the mission reads:

"At Alexievka station, which was taken without a shot, an American mission fell into our hands at the head of which was Gen. Morel, who had the task of combating bandits in the White Army."

MAJ. RYDEN IN CHARGE.

So far as known the only American mission in the Crimea is an American Red Cross unit of about a dozen members, commanded by Maj. George H. Ryden of Kansas City, Mo. There also is an American naval and diplomatic mission under Rear-Admiral Newton A. McCully, representing the State Department, but the activities of this mission have been confined largely to the Black Sea area. It is possible, however, that one or more of its representatives have been attached to Gen. Wrangel's army as observers.

The Red Cross mission has been operating in Southern Russia for more than a year and has supplied ambulances, surgical dressings and other needed articles to the Russian volunteer army. On the invitation of Gen. Wrangel several members of the mission have accompanied the army in its operations in the Crimea. The headquarters of the mission is at Sebastopol.

NO REPORT RECEIVED.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 6.—State and War department officials said today they had no knowledge of any official American mission being within the war zone in Southern Russia. Neither had any report been received of a mission falling into the hands of the soviet forces.

The suggestion was made that the "Gen. Morel" reported by the Moscow newspaper Pravda as having been captured by the Bolsheviki might be either a French officer, commanding a detachment in the Wrangel army, or M. De Martel, chief of the French diplomatic mission, sent into the Crimea and accredited to Wrangel. The French Embassy, however, had received no report concerning the incident and expressed doubt that their diplomatic mission had gotten into such position as to make possible its capture.

The only official American mission in Russia is that at Sebastopol. Various American relief commissions are operating on the frontier.

CONSTANTINOPLE, Nov. 4 (Delayed.)—French and British representatives here have asked their governments if their warships in Black Sea waters should support Gen Wrangel at Perekop and Salkova, where the soviet forces are pressing upon the Crimean peninsula. Meanwhile, fresh supplies of rifles and cartridges are being hurried to Sebastopol.

DIET ADJOURNS IN UPROAR.

[BY CABLE AND ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

WARSAW, Nov. 5. — The Diet broke up in an uproar tonight after two hours of wild scenes created by Socialists, who were seeking to obstruct a vote on articles of the constitution creating a Senate.

The Socialists and radicals blew trumpets, sounded sirens and employed other noise-makers. The speaker, nevertheless, ordered a ballot, but the Socialists and radicals rushed on the tellers, scattered the ballot cards, tossed the baskets into the crowd and hung others on the walls and chandeliers.

The meeting finally was adjourned while Premier Witos, Foreign Minister Sapieha and other government officials watched silently.

MANY PRISONERS SHOT.

[BY CABLE AND ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

SEBASTOPOL, Nov. 4 (Delayed.) Eight divisions of infantry and Gen. Budenny's cavalry made up the soviet army, the attack of which broke the strength of Gen. Wrangel's forces in Taurida. The troops advancing from Nikopol, on October 31, attacked both wings of the anti-Bolshevik army.

Ten thousand of Gen. Budenny's men swept southward as far as Salkova, where Gen. Wrangel's counterattack resulted in their surrender. Five columns of superior soviet forces, however, continued to advance along the 200-mile front, and Gen. Wrangel was forced to retreat.

Gen. Wrangel's troops, after their victories on November 1 and November 2, are said to have sorted from the prisoners and shot hundreds of Jewish Bolshevik commissaries, as well as Hungarians, Rumanians, Chinese and Germans.

GOES TO PARK ROAD MEET.

Los Angeles will be represented at the Park-to-Park Highway Convention to meet in Denver, from Thursday to Saturday of this week by Sylvester L. Weaver, vice-president of the Chamber of Commerce, who leaves today for the good roads conference at which the future parks and roads connecting the government camps in the various Western States will be discussed.

One of the chief objects of the conference is to get States and the Federal government to construct roads connecting all the national parks. Such a highway not only would stimulate tourist parties to "See America first," but would be vitally important in connecting western sections that might be cut off easily without road arteries in case of invasion, as was recently pointed out by officers accompanying a convoy of government trucks to Los Angeles from Washington.

The subject of financing such a tremendous road program has been thoroughly investigated by road experts, who point out that local taxation in the sparsely populated States would not cover the expenses of such a project and that as the government would receive benefits from good roads through its parks, Federal funds must be appropriated. It is suggested that Congress provide a road fund of 10 cents per annum per acre on government land, thus establishing a permanent fund adequate to build the proposed good roads.

The advantage of carrying through the national park-to-park roads project is especially important to California since one-third of the parks belong to the government in Western States are situated in this State and one-fifth of all the parks under Federal control are in California.

PAPER PUNCH MISSING; REAL PUNCHES FOLLOW

SCHOOL JANITOR GUILTY OF ASSAULT ON PRINCIPAL, JUDGE DECIDES.

While the trouble is said to have started over the disappearance of a paper punch from the office of Joseph P. Yoder, principal of the Twentieth-street school, the punches that resulted were anything but of paper variety, according to testimony given in Police Judge Frederickson's court yesterday during the trial of Immanuel Hall, 34 years of age, a negro, who was formerly janitor at the school.

Hall was found guilty by the court of assault and battery on the person of the principal, and witnesses stated that Hall knocked Principal Yoder down and out with one punch. According to the testimony, Hall took exception to a letter written by Mr. Yoder regarding the missing paper punch. The ex-janitor will come before the court Monday for sentence.

Police records show that Hall was arrested following the one-sided fight on June 2, but the trial was put off from time to time and could not be heard until yesterday. Deputy City Prosecutors Krowl and Husar prosecuted the case. Hall was defended by Willis O. Tyler.

It will be a courtesy, a treat and a rare experience for mother to take the little one with her to the Saturday morning matinee of "Way Down East."—[Advertisement.

Three Workmen Badly Hurt by Drop of Girder.

Edward Wright, 21 years of age, a construction engineer, of 690½ South Alvarado street, was perhaps fatally injured and two other men were painfully hurt when a steel girder on which they were standing while at work on a new building at Seventh and Alvarado streets gave way and plunged them twenty feet to the ground. All the injured men were rushed to the Receiving Hospital and then removed to the Pacific Hospital.

Wright was treated for an injury to the spine, a possible fracture of the skull and a punctured lung. Pete Lopez, 32 years of age, of Watts, a laborer, suffered a fracture of the left leg, and Chris Wind, 24 years of age, of 175 North Vermont avenue, was painfully cut and bruised.

Mrs. Anna Harding testified yesterday in Judge Crail's court, where she was granted a divorce from Adrian G. Harding, that her husband packed up and left.

"He said he was going home to his mother," she said. "I told him I wanted to go, too, but he told me to stay where I was, as there was not room for me at his mother's home."

As the body of Abbot Kinney, builder of Venice, was being carried from his home in that city yesterday morning at the conclusion of the reading of the Episcopal burial service, an aviator, flying low, dropped flowers upon the coffin and along the route it was to go, while hundreds of people, among them throngs of children, gathered to do honor to one who held in a remarkable degree the affection of his community.

Rev. D. W. Hollister of the Church of the Good Shepherd officiated, and interment was in Woodlawn Cemetery. Most of the business places of Venice were closed throughout the morning as a tribute to the memory of Mr. Kinney.

LEAP COSTS LIFE.

Boy Jumps from Car, Slips, is Ground by Wheels.

Slipping on the wet pavement when he jumped from a Pacific Electric car before it came to a full stop at Rose Hill station late yesterday afternoon, Orville St. Clair, 15 years of age, of 1236 Oak Hill avenue, fell beneath the rear trucks and was fatally injured. His body and legs were crushed and he died a short time later in the Receiving Hospital. The police say Orville was attempting to follow his brother Albert, who had leaped from the car just before him. Albert retained his balance and was not injured.

INJURED IN SECOND SMASH IN TWO YEARS.

NIGHT WATCHMAN POUPLAR IN EAST SEVENTH DISTRICT MAY NOT RECOVER.

For the second time in two years, old John Childers, aged 50, who has been the night watchman of the district around East Seventh street and Central avenue for the past fifteen years, is lying in the Receiving Hospital at the point of death as the result of a collision between his flivver and an inbound four-car Pacific Electric train of the Long Beach line. The smash-up occurred early yesterday evening at East Fourteenth street and Long Beach avenue. The watchman was rushed to the Receiving Hospital, where it was found that he had suffered a basal fracture of the skull.

Mr. Childers is an almost historic character, being known to every policeman, storekeeper and barefooted youngster in his district. And his trusty old flivver is as well known as the police ambulance. Mr. Childers always maintained that his automobile was a 'rattling good car," but others say that it balked several times and the crew of the electric train reported that the machine's reputed balky engine caused the accident last night. According to Motorman W. E. Penn and Conductor C. W. O'Daniels, the red train would not have hit the machine if its engine had not stalled it directly in the path of the swiftly moving train.

Two years ago Mr. Childers suffered a fractured skull in a similar accident when another flivver he owned collided with a Pacific Electric car at East Ninth and Stanford streets. Although he was expected to die, he fought his way slowly back to life and strength.

Last night he was unconscious and his condition was very grave, according to the surgeons at the hospital, who were kept busy answering the many queries of policemen, business men, mothers and little boys and girls—all anxiously awaiting for a word of hope that their friend will recover.

RED CZAR OF ALL RUSSIA LEADING ISOLATED LIFE.

Lenine, Cut Off Like a Leper from All Governments, Yet Keeps in Touch With Dangerous Persons.

BY CAPT. FRANCIS McCULLAGH.

[The writer of the article which follows, Capt. Francis McCullagh, has recently reached London after extraordinary adventures in Russia and Siberia. A British officer, he was taken prisoner in Siberia. He escaped, made his way to Ekaterinoslav and finally reached Moscow. After a long period in that city he managed to get out of the country by way of Finland. Capt. McCullagh is a highly trained journalist of international reputation. He is the only man of his profession who has gone his way through Russia unattended, unsuspected and perfectly free since that country came under the sway of Bolshevism. Capt. McCullaugh's story, as told in this and other articles to follow, will give the world the real truth as to how matters in Russia proceed under Lenine, the Red Czar.]

LONDON, Nov. 6.—On sneaking into the Commissariat of Foreign Affairs in Moscow one day, in order to get the address of a foreign journalist, then in Moscow, I ran into a commissar who was specially charged with English journalistic affairs, who knew of my capture at Krasnoyarsk and who had been anxiously awaiting my arrival in Moscow.

I had a bad quarter of an hour explaining why I had not reported earlier, but I finally succeeded in shifting all the blame for the delay onto the shoulders of the commissar in whose train I had traveled and without whose permission I could not, I pleaded, call on Comrade Tchitcherin.

This press commissar insisted on my moving at once from my railway carriage to one of the guest houses in which the soviet government accommodates its foreign guests. It had formerly been the residence of a German factory owner and was situated near the Red flag. I moved into it next day. Some weeks later I was transferred to the Savoy Hotel, a similar establishment.

THE RED UNDERWORLD.

This change in my fortunes introduced me to a new world, the underworld of the Third Internationale, an institution which aims frankly at the overthrow of every government in Europe, Asia and America. Among the guests were a Korean committee which is working hard for the independence of Korea, though it only contemplates the establishment of a constitutional monarchy there, not of a soviet. The head of the Korean committee is an intelligent and very pleasant young Korean called Pak-Y, who was educated at Moscow University and speaks Russian well.

Under him are several other Koreans as well as a Japanese correspondent of the Osaka Asahi, who had been captured, like myself, in Siberia, imprisoned in Moscow and only released on promising to work against his own country. He is now translating with oriental placidity all sorts of propaganda matter for dissemination among the Japanese troops, and this propaganda is credited with having brought the desertion to the Bolshevists of about 100 Japanese soldiers in Trans-Baikalia last spring. A Communist newspaper is printed in Japanese by the Third Internationale and is periodically dispatched to the Far East.

Capt. Sadul, formerly of the French military mission and now a Red commissioner, was down in the South with the army during my stay in Moscow, but his brother, also a Bolshevik, had arrived from France. Prof. Barrakatula had come from India and was assisted by a number of Indians, who spoke Russian, in planning a revolt against British rule in Hindustan.

PLOT AGAINST BRITAIN.

He worked in combination with an Afghan deputation, dressed in the military uniforms supplied to the Ameer by the Indian government, and with a number of other Mohammedans from Persia, the Caucasus, Central Asia and Turkey. A Pan-Mohammedan congress was held at the Foreign Office with the object of driving the English from India and Persia and Persia and creating trouble in Turkey and one of the furits of its deliberations was the attack on Persia which took place some time later.

The Bolsheviks are convinced that the British raj in India is undermined and will soon go down with a crash. They are equally convinced that chaos will soon prevail in Persia, Mesopotamia and Asiatic Turkey, not so much because the malcontents in those countries are strong as because (in their opinion) the English troops are tired of war and the English people will be unable and unwilling to make the financial sacrifices necessary for the retention or reconquest of these immense territories.

Constantinople is an important center of Bolshevik activity and an unusually energetic agent of the soviet. Dr. Mansur—I think, is his name—oscillates between that city and Budapest. In the center of this fiendish activity at Moscow, with Bolshevik agents arriving daily by some subterranean route or with false passports, with hourly announcements of strikes and labor troubles all over the world, with revolutionary leaders coming from the ends of the earth to do homage to the Red flag, which floats over the Kremlin and to take council with the successful archconspirator who sits under it, I felt as if the end of all things had already come.

LEPROUS ISOLATION.

Cut off, like a leper, from all the governments of the world, Lenine is nevertheless in daily communication with the most desperate and dangerous section of every people. He receives ambassadors not accredited by kings or presidents, but, nevertheless, bringing terrible credentials from lawless associations which have sworn to carry out his policy of violence and blood. One day he signed an agreement with the American I.W.W. as King George might sign a treaty with France. Another day he received a deputation of "the Russian Friends of American Freedom"—an association of expelled American anarchists who aim at smashing the government and the whole social system of the United States—as President Wilson might receive the heads of an interchurch movement. He dined in the ancient palace of the Czars with a group of powerful and dangerous Mohammedans whose object is to create chaos from Alexandria to Khartoum and to deluge half Asia with blood.

And yet he looks a most harmless bourgeois person. At the ninth Communist convention, which was the only public function he attended during my stay in Moscow, he spoke freely, monotonously, without the faintest trace of hesitation or nervousness, like the chairman of a London tea house company reading out an unsensational annual report which most of his hearers knew already. Dressed in rusty black, with trousers which were somewhat baggy at the knees and a general appearance of reasonableness and respectability, he looked at first sight a safe, unpretentious, middle-class person in fairly comfortable circumstances. His head was bald, but with a dull, mottled and not a shiny, billiard ball hairlessness. His beard was scanty and reddish; his eyes far apart and with a cast in one of them; his cheek bones high; his face broad and with a dim, disturbing suggestion of Asia which half prepared one for the monstrous theories he proceeded to set forth in his matter of fact voice and manner.

For some reason or other very little of his speech on this occasion appeared in the newspapers. Perhaps because Russia was at that moment seeking recognition by "capitalist" governments. In one brilliant passage, which was omitted, he declared himself unable to describe precisely the form which the soviet government would assume "until the volcanic explosions cease and the smoke clears away, and we can see the new shape into which the landscape has hardened."

According to Trotzky, the Red Czar often lights up a debate with unpremeditated remarks like this, remarks in which the Commissars discover profound and prophetic significance. But he discounts even his most terrible sayings by the businesslike evenness of his delivery and by his habit of handling pens and other objects on the table in front of him, and occasionally inserting his thumbs in the armholes of his waistcoat, a gesture which displays a comfortable and slightly protuberant abdomen. Looking at him on such occasions without knowing who he was or what he was talking about, one would feel inclined to say, "Now this is a safe, reliable man saying reasonable things."

ALTERS LITTLE.

Save that the sedentary life he has led during the last two years has made him somewhat stouter, Lenine has altered little in appearance since the day he presented himself at the Russian frontier near Torneo, tired, dishevelled, accompanied by a crowd of women and disreputable looking men, at one moment on the point of being refused admittance and the next moment frantically organizing an anti-war meeting among the Russian soldiers and winning their applause by his fierce denunciations of militarism.

He takes so little care of himself in the Kremlin that a deputation of peasants which once came to see him insisted on sending him bread, butter and eggs from their village; and this is only a continuation of the life which he led in exile. An intimate friend of his told me that when Lenine left Paris for Switzerland his furniture fetched only forty francs at auction.

A little known side of Lenine's life is the domestic side. The Red dictator is sincerely attached to his wife, whose health is, however, very bad; and he is passionately fond of children.

DEATH HOVERS.

Despite his determination when he entered Russia of turning everything upside down, doing all the things that a "capitalist" government does not do, and not doing anything which a "capitalist" government does, he has found that the laws of human nature are too much for him, and that he is leading, outwardly, much the same kind of life as any conscientious, hard working and respectable Czar, and a very much more regular life than was led by Peter the Great. His whole day is spent receiving deputations, signing papers, presiding over Cabinet meetings and doing all the routine business discharged by any king or president. Fanaticism in his case has cast out fear, but his entourage have as great and well grounded an anxiety for his personal safety as had ever the bodyguard of a Czar. The display of military force on the occasion of the convention I speak of was as great as when Nicholas II opened the first Duma in the Winter Palace.

FUTURE UNCERTAIN.

His future, too, is more uncertain than was ever the future of a Russian emperor. With a wilderness of blood and horror behind him, with a highly volcanic soil trembling beneath his feet, and with clouds of inky blackness veiling his future, few human beings have ever been enveloped in more tragic menace and mystery than this prosaic, common looking man. Outlawed by every government, anathematized by every church, cursed by his millions of victims, he can never leave Russia alive, he cannot stay in Russia and live.

GERMAN GUESTS.

Among the guests of the soviet were a number of Germans sent secretly by the Ebert government to consider the question of lending skilled German mechanics to the Russian factories. Though themselves Socialists, these Germans were very much disgusted by what they saw in Russia.

The Germans also disliked the systematic and diabolical attempt which the Reds were making to destroy family life by tempting mothers to surrender their children to the state. Mothers were almost forced to spend most of their time at work in government offices.

A large number of German mechanics did eventually go to Russia, but were bitterly disappointed by the treatment they met with there and have all returned to Germany, where one of them has since published an extremely pessimistic account of the Russian industrial situation.

CURIOUS CONTRAST.

The gang of international concession hunters who were also guests of the soviet and who had risked their lives in getting into Russia formed a curious contrast to the still larger gang of foreign capitalists who were ready to risk their lives for the sake of getting out of Russia. The former were the more interesting by reason of their bravery, hardiness, competence, will power, diplomatic skill and absolute unscrupulousness. They were "out" for "big money," for concessions which would make them multi-millionaires, and they would let no considerations of sentiment, religion, nationality or civilization stand in their way. They represented the most inhuman and aggressive aspect of that capitalism which the Reds have sworn to destroy, yet they made friends with the Reds and hobnobbed with Lenine.

The soviet government, which wants recognition by Europe and America, thinks that it can get that recognition by pandering to the greed of these capitalists, and it has accordingly dangled in front of them prizes of practically inestimable value—forests, fisheries, gold mines, dozens of square miles of priceless ore.

MILLIONS WILL BE MADE.

The capitalists of California and South Africa will be paupers in point of wealth and cowards in point of courage compared to the hard-bitten plutocrats who may arise out of this Russian chaos. The dangers from Boers, blacks, wild animals and American "bad men" which figure in the exploits of pioneers in other parts of the world are nothing in comparison with the dangers which these desperate adventurers run in Moscow, and I do not doubt that histories and novels and perhaps even Kiplingesque poetry will be written about those who succeed. But I cannot say that I admire them. It may be a good thing to reopen trade with Russia, but some of the adventurers who will reopen it and get concessions and float companies in England and America will be inspired by greed and also no doubt by that itch for colossal gambles and desperate adventures which one often finds in very great plutocrats who have once been poor.

WOULD BE BETRAYAL.

What I cannot forgive them in connection with this question of Russia's recognition is their cynical and contemptuous attitude toward the moral aspect of it. They would betray civilization, adjure their religion and sell their souls if by doing so they could attain their own selfish ends. I have quite as much contempt, however, for those money bags of Mammon who refuse to trade with Russia till that country has acknowledged indebtedness for all the debts of the Czar's government. These people also would compound any felony so long as they are paid enough for doing so. My sympathies are with those old-fashioned people, if such there be, whose reluctance to trade with soviet Russia is due solely to their high standard of international morality. Reds fear and respect these idealists, for they are idealists themselves.

Many mysterious things are done by those Germans, but to me they are still mysteries; mysteries, however that have no importance since Germany has ceased to be a great military power. It would be easy enough to work oneself into a state of mind wherein these trifles are charged with sinister meaning, but I do not think that there is any reason for doing so. The secret mission from the Ebert government, of which I have already spoken, ended, for instance, in nothing, for though as a result of it German skilled workmen were sent to Russia, these workmen soon came back again. A Swedish consular official who had formerly been stationed in Petrograd was also in Moscow last March and had many conferences with the Bolshevik F. O., but it was probably in connection with a deal in Russian copper, which did not come off owing to the Bolshevik sailors of Cronstadt refusing to let the copper be shipped to a capitalist country.

The collection of hopes, panics, greeds, secrecies, cunnings, treacheries and idealisms which jostled one another in those amazing guest houses of the soviets transcended in interest anything that I ever saw, read or imagined. Secret agents of foreign powers who posed as Bolsheviks jostled open agents of foreign powers who really leaned toward Communism. Quakers who did not believe in war at all defended militarism against Italian naval officers who, after fighting for three years, had become pacifists. Korean Buddhists, who thought it a sin to kill a rattlesnake, advocated the assassination of the Mikado. Mohammedans, whose religion is the sword, tried to prove that the prophet was really a man of peace. Financiers wanted the abolition of finance. Respectable married men suddenly remembered that they had got married again that afternoon according to soviet law, having duly divorced that morning before a Bolshevik commissar their lawful wives beyond the sea. Diplomatists, who knew nothing, fished delicately for information from low-class labor journalists who, having just dined with Trotsky, knew everything.

The ignorance of the diplomatist surprised me more than anything, until I remembered that in all this vast empire the whole diplomatic, consular and commercial machinery by means of which governments keep themselves informed of the ever-changing conditions in a foreign country had been utterly swept away. Russia is now as much of a hermit empire as Japan was sixty years ago. The carefully shepherded journalists and labor men who are allowed to circulate a little outside Moscow learn little more of actual conditions in the districts which they traverse than did the Dutch deputation from Deshima in their annual pilgrimage to Yedo. When I was arrested later on by Lenine's inquisition nothing in my notebook excited such suspicion as some industrial statistics which I had dotted down. A dubious foreigner arrested in England during the war with a map of Scapa Flow in his possession would hardly have been regarded with more distrust at Scotland Yard.

Owing to the great preponderance of Russian Bolsheviks the tone of conversation at these gatherings was always very advanced. Whatever some of us may have thought, none of us openly defended kingship or parliamentary government any more than a visitor to a Jesuit novitiate would have defended free love. The world consists of different atmospheres—the atmosphere of battleship wardroom, the atmosphere of the National Liberal Club, the atmosphere of Wall street, and many other atmospheres. The Bolsheviks have succeeded in creating a special atmosphere of their own, such as never existed in the world before. It is not, in my opinion, a good atmosphere.

CAPITAL DISCUSSES INAUGURAL PARADE.

GEN. PERSHING, RANKING OFFICER OF ARMY, MAY ACT AS GRAND MARSHAL.

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

WASHINGTON, Nov. 6.—In spite of a telegram received from Senator Harding, President-elect, stating that he is not even thinking about his inauguration, discussion of the inaugural ceremonies now includes the formation of the parade, of which, if precedent is observed, Gen. Pershing will serve as grand marshal.

"I have not thought about inauguration plans. Will not consider any program until the new year," Senator Harding wired in response to a telegram sent him by the Evening Star asking if he would favor an inaugural ball.

Republican leaders, however, are planning enthusiastically for a fete amounting to a celebration next March and are confident that the time-honored features of inauguration week, at least, will not be vetoed by the President-elect.

The duty of leading the inaugural parades always has developed upon the ranking officer of the Army stationed at the National Capital, and since the establishment of the General Staff Corps in 1903, the Chief of Staff has served as grand marshal of the military and civil parade at each successive inaugural. Several lieutenant-generals, including Gen. Nelson A. Miles and many major-generals, including Gen. Leonard Wood, have served as marshals. If Gen. Pershing is chosen, however, he will be the first officer with the supreme rank of general to serve as grand marshal of an inaugural parade.

HOME FOLKS GREET NEW VICE-PRESIDENT.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

NORTHAMPTON (Mass.) Nov. 6.—The home folks turned out in full force last night to welcome their neighbor, Gov. Coolidge, and to show him their satisfaction in his election to the Vice-Presidency. He spoke briefly to audiences which filled two halls and was cheered by thousands as he was driven through the city streets.

The Governor said that the Republican victory showed the great desire of the American people for a cessation of governmental extravagance, and that the President-elect, who has vision, but keeps his feet on the ground, could be depended upon to promote peace abroad and prosperity at home.

GREAT COTTON CROP IS KILLED BY FLOOD.

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

EAGLE PASS (Tex.) Nov. 6.—But for the fact that a flood swept down the Nazas River, inundating the rich, broad valley known as the Laguna district of Mexico, the cotton crop there this season would have easily been 250,000 bales, according to the statements of business men who have just arrived here from Torreon. It is stated that the flood came at a time when the cotton crop seemed assured, and that instead of a yield of 250,000 bales the total production was only about 80,000.

The pink boll worm, if it exists at all in the Laguna district, did no damage to the crop, it is asserted. The water supply for irrigating the Laguna district comes from the Nazas River. It is unusual for the river to go on a flood during the growing season. The government has again taken up for consideration the matter of carrying to fulfillment the project of constructing a great dam across that stream at a point some distance above the Laguna district to control its flood waters.

HUBBY FAST WORKER, WIFE TELLS IN COURT.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

CHICAGO, Nov. 6.—Practically all the grounds upon which a decree of divorce could be granted were crowded into the few hours of their married life, according to Mrs. Rose Martine. After listening to her story Superior Court Judge Harry A. Lewis granted her a divorce yesterday.

"My husband, who is a full-blooded Indian, married me three days after his parole at Joliet," said Mrs. Martine. "He certainly was a fast worker. We were married in the afternoon. By that night he had provided all the grounds upon which I could obtain a divorce. He had beaten me, was intoxicated and deserted me."

TRY SULPHUR ON AN ECZEMA SKIN

Costs Little and Overcomes Trouble Almost Over Night

Any breaking out of the skin, even fiery, itching eczema, can be quickly overcome by applying Mentho-Sulphur, declares a noted skin specialist. Because of its germ destroying properties, this sulphur preparation instantly brings ease from skin irritation, soothes and heals the eczema right up and leaves the skin clear and smooth.

It seldom fails to relieve the torment without delay. Sufferers from skin trouble should obtain a small jar of Mentho-Sulphur from any good druggist and use it like cold cream. —[Advertisement.

TIGERS SPLIT WITH HARVARD.

Princeton Goes Ahead in the Third Quarter.

But Forward Pass Saves Day for Crimson Outfit.

Great Football Game Ends With Indecisive Result.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

CAMBRIDGE (Mass.) Nov. 6.—The Harvard football team converted a lost cause into an even issue today when it tied the Princeton team at fourteen points in the last period of their annual game. A forward pass, last of a surprising series, which had swept the Crimson colors down the field seventy-three yards while the Tigers vainly clawed the air in an effort to bring the ball down, was the medium of what Crimson supporters cheered tonight as a victory for substitute members of the Harvard football squad. There were 44,000 spectators.

Honors for the aerial advance and for the pass which was its crowning feature went to second-string players. Called into play after the regulars had proved unable to stop the Tigers, Buell at quarterback, Fitts at right halfback and Macomber, an end, worked out the Crimson salvation. Buell and Fitts were the principal factors in three passes which sent the ball ahead more than half the distance of the field. Buell launched and Macomber received and scored with the pass which was the means of trying the score.

In rush, forward pass and kick Harvard and Princeton were almost as evenly matched as the tie score indicated. Lourie's punts traveled a total of 262 yards and those of Owens and Fitts aggregated 299 yards. Harvard gained 119 yards by rushing; Princeton, 108. The Crimson forward passes almost entirely in the fourth period made an advance of eighty-eight yards, while Princeton's passes during the contest aggregated eighty-two yards. Lourie's agility in running the ball back from punt or kickoff gave the Tigers an advantage in this respect, ninety-three yards to seventy-seven yards.

First period—Princeton kicked off. Princeton was penalized 15 yards for holding and another 15 for piling up on Owen. Owen hit the Princeton line for good gains, and Harvard in three plays carried the ball over for a touchdown, six minutes after play started. Faxon kicked goal. The period ended with the ball on Harvard's 15-yard line. Score: Harvard, 7; Princeton, 0.

Second period—Faxon leaped into the air and took a Princeton forward pass behind his own goal line. The ball was brought out to Harvard's 20-yard line. The Crimson failed to gain and Owen punted outside on the 45-yard line. A kicking duel followed, with honors even. Horween made a first down. Churchill made another first down around end. Owen fumbled and Princeton recovered in midfield. Murray relieved [illegible] for Princeton. Two rushes gained 5 and a forward pass placed the ball on Harvard's 21-yard line. Two forward passes failed, one rolling over Harvard's goal. Murray dropped back to kick, fumbled and finally booted, Owen recovering on Harvard's 34-yard mark. Churchill gained 3 and Owen 3. A forward pass grounded and Owen punted to Princeton's 15-yard line. Lourie punted to Fitzgerald in midfield. Two Harvard forward passes grounded. An attempted field goal by Horween failed. Score end second period: Harvard, 7; Princeton, 0.

Third period—Lourie received Horween's punt and ran back to the 35-yard line. Lourie lost 3, but Garrity rushed 4. Lourie punted and Owen gained 2, putting the ball on Harvard's 33-yard line. Horween gained 3 and punted, Lourie making a fair catch on his 35-yard line. Lourie and Garrity plunged for first down. A forward pass failed. Again Murray tossed. Lourie, 12 yards away, captured the ball, evaded two Harvard defenders, and ran 58 yards for Princeton's touchdown. Keck kicked goal, and the score was tied. Capt. Callahan kicked to Capt. Horween on Harvard's 5-yard line. Horween zigzagged to his 30-yard line before he was downed. Horween gained 4. Owen punted to Lourie, who juggled [illegible] recovered. Lourie made 5 on two plays and then punted to Harvard's 30-yard line, Owen being downed in his tracks. Churchill and Horween plunged for 7. Owen punted to Princeton's 30-yard line. Princeton failed to gain and punted to Owen on Harvard's 27-yard line. Harvard failed to gain and Keck blocked Owen's punt, McMannon recovering for Princeton 3½ yards from Harvard's goal. Garrity went a yard and a half before the period ended. Score: Harvard, 7; Princeton, 7.

Fourth period—Garrity gained another yard and a half on the opening play of the fourth period. The next play carried him over and Keck kicked goal. Score: Princeton, 14; Harvard, 7. Owen, receiving the kick-off on his 12-yard line, returned it 20 yards. Harvard failed to gain and Owen punted to Lourie, who ran it back 14 yards from his own 25-yard mark. Sedgwick, wearing an [illegible] brace for an injury that had kept him out of the game all season, replaced Hubbard. Garrity gained 5, but Lourie was downed by [illegible] without gain. Lourie punted to Harvard's 25-yard line. Owen punted after Harvard failed on two plays. Sedgwick stopped Garrity and Lourie through the line. Lourie wiggled through for 5 and the ball went to Harvard's 25-yard line on a penalty for Harvard offside. Buell passed 5 yards to Fitts, who ran to Princeton's 35-yard line. Horween gained 1, and a second forward pass added 8. A third forward pass failed.

Another forward pass made it first down. From the 18-yard line Buell passed over the Princeton goal line. Crocker reached out and caught the ball for a touchdown. Faxon tied the score by kicking goal. Score: Harvard, 14; Princeton, 14.

Faxon kicked off, Lourie carrying the ball from his 5-yard line to the 21-yard mark. Princeton failed to gain and Lourie punted to the Crimson 45-yard line. Two forward passes gained 15 and gave Harvard first down on Princeton's 35-yard line. Capt. Callahan was injured and was carried from the field. Fitts started a forward pass, but Garrity intercepted, the game ending with the ball in Princeton's possession on its own 45-yard line. Score: Harvard, 14; Princeton, 14.

YALE TRIUMPHS IN HOT BATTLE.

ELI SUBSTITUTES SHOW CLASS ENOUGH TO WIN FROM BROWN ELEVEN.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

NEW HAVEN (Ct.) Nov. 6.—In one of the hardest fought battles seen in the Yale bowl this season, the unbeaten Brown eleven went down to defeat before Yale, 14 to 10. The teams were evenly matched, although Yale's men were nearly all substitutes. The contest was marked by sensational runs by Oden, Brown's star quarterback, who repeatedly ran through the Yale team for long gains and was only prevented from reaching Eli's goal by Murphy's excellent tackling.

FINAL REPORT BY JURY.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

CHICAGO, Nov. 6.—The special grand jury investigating baseball this morning returned its final report in which it stated that "while evidence has been found that some games were thrown by players, the practice was not general and the leaders in organized baseball may be relied upon to keep the game above suspicion."

The grand jury's report says in part. "Considering the magnitude of the enterprise and the great number of ball players engaged, we believe a comparatively small number of the players have been dishonest—we were gratified to find players who immediately reported to their managers the suggestions of 'fixing' and, likewise, managers who immediately discontinued players who were implicated in any way in attempts to corrupt the game. The adoption of this policy as a fixed practice, no matter at what cost, will make impossible a repetition of the present trouble.

"Evidence was given the jury of an instance during a game played in Chicago where a certain player of the New York National League baseball club offered another player a bribe if he would throw that particular game. The player to whom the bribe was offered immediately walked off the diamond, refusing to continue pitching the game.

"We earnestly commend the action of this player, and we likewise commend the manager of the New York club for his action on the following day in suspending the player who offered the bribe. In this particular case and notwithstanding the reprehensible conduct of the player who offered the bribe, no crime was committed under the present Illinois law. Therefore, no indictment could be rendered by this grand jury. At this point we call attention to a law offered by Senator Cummings in May, 1919, making the offering or accepting of a bribe a criminal offense. This grand jury recommends the passage of such a Federal statute.

"The jury thinks it advisable to emphasize in this report the remorse and self-contempt felt by the players appearing before the grand jury who accepted a bribe. Their testimony in this connection was entirely voluntary on their part and showed how cheap and petty each player felt and how their loss of self-respect was in nowise compensated by the sums that were accepted."

BEAR FRESHMEN ARE VICTORIOUS

Down Trojan Frosh in Fierce Football Battle.

Nichols Dashes Fifty Yards to Touchdown.

Milton Counts for U.S.C. on a Smart Play.

BY PAUL LOWRY.

The two best freshman football teams in the State of California met yesterday on Bovard Field, and now there is only one best.

The California peagreens beat the U.S.C. crew, 14 to 6, in one of the fiercest, gamest fights ever staged on the local lot. Both elevens proved themselves to be real football teams.

Two schools of football, as wide apart as the poles, met. It was a heavy, slashing team that stuck to old-fashioned stuff against a light, cunning, tricky eleven. Operating on a rain-soaked field the heavier team led the going all the way.

SETTLED EARLY.

The fracas was really settled in the first five minutes of play when California and U.S.C. each scored touchdowns, and Milton failed to add the extra point for the Trojans. This left the score 7 to 6, where it stuck till the opening of the fourth quarter, when Don Nichols, late of Pomona High School, pulled off the star individual feat of the day.

It was a reverse play near one side of the field, the pass going from Hodges to Nichols, the latter circling Milton's end and eluding Dick Lawson in the backfield for a fifty yard run to the goal line.

Nichols is a character worthy of considerable elaboration. It was due to his earnest efforts that the pill was placed in a position for Dummy Wells's frosh to score in the first period. After an interchange of punts U. C. secured the leather on the U.S.C. 36-yard line. Nichols made fifteen yards around the Trojan left flank, and collaborating with Dunn and Witter, other strong young men who spelled bad news to the Trojans throughout the pastiming, the ball was placed on the U.S.C. 1-yard line, where Jack Witter packed it over.

Milton scored U.S.C.'s touchdown on the ensuing kickoff. He booted and when the Bears let the ball drop to the ground he dashed in and, spearing it on the run, galloped over the California goal line. His prolific boot missed fire.

WITTER STOPPED.

Both teams had a touchdown in their hands in the second quarter, but U.S.C. stopped Witter on the 1-yard line. Soon after, runs by Lawson, Campbell and Milton and a beautiful forward pass from Campbell to Milton for twenty-five yards put the ball on the U. C. 1-yard line and four downs to make it in. Lawson fumbled on the next play and Siler recovered for the Bears, Witter kicking out of danger.

U.S.C. opened up in the fourth session and completed several passes from clever formations, but the slippery ball and uncertain field negatived this style of play. On a dry, fast field the odds would have been all in favor of the Trojans. U.S.C. was handicapped, too, by the loss of Phil Tiernan, who was ruled ineligible to play because he transferred from Santa Clara. This came on the eve of the contest and disrupted Coach Herd's team.

RAH FOR JACK!

The Bears can thank themselves that, besides ten other hard-rock young men, they had one Jack Witter in the line-up. This former Berkeley High School boy outkicked his rivals about ten or fifteen yards on every exchange and was always in there plugging up the gaps.

Gordon Campbell was the outstanding star for U.S.C. He can do everything on a football field, and do it well. Milton played a splendid game, as did Dick Emmons, Lawson, Dolley, Freeman, Cummings, Von Mohr and others on the Trojan eleven. O'Brien and Hufford, Manual Arts men last year, played on the flanks for the Bears yesterday and covered Witter's 50 and 60-yard spirals so well that a run-back was next to impossible. The California line was practically impregnable.

The line-ups:

U.S.C. Frosh.		Cal. Frosh.
Milton	L.E.R.	O'Brien
Cummings	L.T.R.	Newmeyer
Von Mohr	L.G.R.	Nickelmann

COURSING RACING BEGUN AT VERNON.

OCCIDENTAL HANDICAP TO NIGHTSON—FIVE EVENTS ON TODAY'S CARD.

The fall and winter coursing races began at Maier Park, Vernon, yesterday afternoon before a fair crowd of racing lovers. Some of the fastest greyhounds in the West ran in the five races that were pulled off.

The feature event was the Occidental Handicap taken by the Avery Stable's Nightson, who won a nose on the post from Mr. Jiggs, which beat Iodine a short head for the place. Iodine was by far the best and looked the winner turning for home, but swerved in the closing strides carrying the winner out with him. Mr. Jiggs finished with a rush next the rail.

Iodine is the property of Joe Hulen, big ranch owner of Dixon, Cal. He also owns The Bee. These two fleet racers ran one, two in the Futurity last year.

The card for this afternoon's racing will comprise five dashes with the fastest racers at the track competing. The sport begins at 2 o'clock sharp.

EASY PICKINGS FOR BERKELEY.

California Has a Field Day in Big Grid Battle.

Smash Invader's Line With Utmost Ease.

Sax of Northerners Puts Up a Fine Game.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

BERKELEY, Nov. 6.—University of California's undefeated football team here today, by a 49-0 score, added the Washington State college to the long list of western elevens defeated this year by overwhelming scores on California Field.

Washington State college had come down from the north reputed one of the best teams in Oregon and Washington. The game was to be California's first real test. But the heavy blue and gold line and fast backfield stood the test. They broke up the invaders' line smashes, blocked their aerial attack, outlucked them and sent touchdown after touchdown over the northern goal.

TWO IN LEAD.

Victories today of Stanford University at Seattle and California here put the two California schools in the lead in the Pacific Coast conference race. The organization's 1920 championship will go to the winner of the "big game" here November 20 between Stanford and California.

Washington State today found holes in the California line and circled the California ends but not when the blue and gold goal was in danger. In the first period Washington State threatened when Gillis, by an end run, took the ball to California's ten-yard line. But California stiffened and held. In the last period forward passes gave Washington State the ball again close to the California line but the Berkeley men again held.

SAX WAS THERE.

Sax, Washington State quarterback, played a big portion of the game for the northerners. With Gillis, the visitors' fullback, he did most of the offensive work. The entire California backfield figured in the plays that counted.

First period—Sprott ran Washington State's kick-off back 15 yards and Morrison punted 50 yards. Gillis found big holes twice in the California line for gains and then broke through the Blue and Gold right tackle for 30 yards. California stiffened and held for downs on the 10-yard line. Sprott then circled Washington State's left end 9 yards and Morrison kicked 50 yards to touch. Washington State tried in vain to repeat its advance through the California line and Dunlap kicked. Morrison returned the punt to the northerners' 5-yard line and Washington State kicked back, but only to the 20-yard line. Sprott went 15 yards on two line attacks. Morrison took it on the 1-yard line and went over for a touchdown. Toomey converted. Morrison returned Washington State's kick-off and the Pullman team, unable to pierce California's line, kicked. Toomey went through the northern line 12 yards and Morrison went through right guard 20 yards for California's second touchdown. Toomey again converted. Score: California, 14; Washington State, 0.

Second period—Washington State opened the second period by making yardage, but fumbled and Majors grabbing the ball, ran 50 yards for another touchdown. On a forward pass, Sax to R. Hanley, Washington State then made 25 yards and Moran gained 8 yards around the California right end, with Sax, Moran, Gillis carrying the ball. Washington State made yardage three times through the left side of the California line, taking the ball to California's 10-yard line. Washington State tried a forward pass, but Sprott intercepted it. California kicked back to the center of the field and the northern team, failing to gain, kicked. California intercepted and Gillis and Sax went through the Berkeley line for downs. Washington tried four forward passes, but R. Hanley with no one between him and the goal posts, missed one. California intercepted two others and Toomey caught the fourth as the period ended.

Third period—Washington State, after the kick-off touchdown, could not gain and Dunlap kicked. California with Toomey, Sprott and Morrison taking the ball, made yardage twice through the Pullman line and around Washington State's right end. From the 15-yard line Sprott dashed through the right side of the northern line for California's fourth touchdown. Toomey kicked the goal. On the kick-off Gillis ran 30 yards back through a broken field, but a moment later Muller took the ball on a fumble and dashed 30 yards for another Berkeley touchdown. Toomey again kicked. Moran punted after the kick-off and California, by a forward pass and an end run, made yardage twice, putting the ball on Washington State's 12-yard line. Toomey carried it four yards more. Bucks put the ball over the line for California, but an offside penalty sent it back to the 5-yard line. The Washington line stiffened and California lost the ball on downs. Majors blocked an attempted Washington kick and fell across the line for a touchdown. Erb converted. Washington fumbled the kick-off and Latham recovered for California on the northern 20-yard line. Sprott then circled the Washington right end for another touchdown. Erb again kicked.

Fourth period—Morrison punted 50 yards at the opening of the last period. Gillis and Sax made yardage for Washington State, but California held and forced Moran to kick. Van Sant returned the kick. Again Hanley had a clear field on a forward pass, but again he failed to catch. Gillis caught a pass and put the ball on California's 5-yard line. Washington came no closer to the enemy line, however, for the Berkeley men held and took the ball on downs. California was unable to gain and punted to the center of the field. Sax circled the California left end 10 yards, but Washington lost the ball on the next play when Moran fumbled. California lost 15 yards on an offside penalty and Van Sant punted 50 yards. Washington State again started toward the California goal, Gillis and Sax carrying the ball, and made yardage twice through the California line, but was stopped, and Moran punted just before the game ended.

Penn State is Too Fast for Nebraska.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

STATE COLLEGE (Pa.) Nov. 6.—The fast and heavy University of Nebraska eleven lost claim to eastern football honors here today when Penn State College defeated the western team, 20 to 0. Charlie Way, playing his last game on the home gridiron, furnished the pickers of all-American players with plenty of material when he entered the contest in the last quarter. His performance was on an off-tackle run of fifty-five yards. A few minutes later, after a number of punts, Way squirmed through Nebraska's right tackle, running fifty-seven yards for Penn State's second touchdown.

Nebraska twice had the ball within Penn State's 5-yard line but lacked the necessary punch to score. State's line, starred by the all-around play of Beck, Griffiths and Rauch, passed all expectations, holding the Nebraskans for no gain repeatedly. Day and Hartley excelled for Nebraska and the playing of Haines and Killinger was noteworthy.

COLUMBUS (O.) Nov. 6.—Ohio State's football team today defeated Michigan, 14 to 7, and as a result Ohio State will battle Illinois for the football championship of the Western Conference. Neither team has been defeated so far this season.

Ohio State outplayed Michigan in every department of today's game, although Michigan scored the first touchdown in the second period. Ohio State retaliated almost immediately with a touchdown, tieing the score. In the fourth period Ohio State players blocked Steketee's punt behind Michigan's goal and fell on the ball for a second touchdown.

Illinois Wins Chicago Scrap by Field Goal.

STAGG FIELD (Chicago) Nov. 6. Illinois continued its drive for the western conference football championship today by defeating Chicago, 3 to 0 before 32,000, the biggest crowd that ever witnessed a football game on Stagg Field. Ralph Fletcher booted a goal from placement from the 23-yard line in the second period for Illinois' score.

In the fourth period, Illinois threatened to crash over with a touchdown from the three-yard line, but Chicago put up a stubborn defense and Illinois lost the ball when Walquist missed a forward pass on the fourth down. Chicago opened up with forward passes late in the period and made some sensational gains, but Illinois excelled in the attack.

SANTA ANA HIGH SWAMPS ANAHEIM.

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

SANTA ANA, Nov. 6.—Santa Ana High School, with a 28-to-0 victory over Orange already to her credit, took another step toward the league pennant here this afternoon by smothering Anaheim High to the tune of 42 to 0. The slaughter started in the first quarter, with Westgate scoring on a smash through center and Remsberg making a second touchdown with a long end run. In the second quarter three additional scores were made, and Wilcox's trusty boot kicked goal, making a score of 35 to 0, with the game half over.

Anaheim rallied in the third quarter and it was not until the middle of the last quarter that Santa Ana succeeded in making her sixth touchdown. Forward passes and end runs made the Santa Ana score possible. One of the brilliant plays was a successful pass and thirty-five-yard run by Remsberg to a touchdown.

WHITE SOX VS. ALL-STARS.

The Los Angeles White Sox (colored) team will play the All-Stars baseball nine this afternoon at the former's grounds, Fourth and Anderson streets provided it doesn't rain at 2:30 o'clock. Each team has won a game by a score of 5 to 4 and the victor today will be proclaimed the champion.

GOODYEAR WINS.

The Goodyear football team defeated a team from the U.S.S. Vestal yesterday afternoon at the former's grounds, 17 to 0. Benton made both touchdowns, one on a forward pass across the goal line and the other after a run for thirty yards. The other three points came from a goal from placement.

POMONA TAKES MUDDY AFFAIR.

Quaker Football Team Puts Up a Noble Battle.

Covington Has Trouble With His Trained Hoof.

Goo to the Ankles Slows Down Pigskin Athletes.

BY HARRY A. WILLIAMS.

To all intents and purposes the people of Whittier shut up shop and turned their minds and hearts to football yesterday.

Everything considered, it was a large afternoon of hard tackling in soft mud on the hillside, and nearly all the townspeople seemed fairly well satisfied with the result, as their heroes broke even on the day's sloppy doings.

FAIR ENOUGH.

Whittier Union High defeated Harvard Military Academy, 13 to 0, in the opening splash, while Pomona College trimmed the Whittier collegians, 14 to 0, in the main souse. The stand made by Commodore Perry's men against the powerful Nixon machine upset the dope, along with a lot of bespattered athletes, and indicates one of three things, to wit: that a week ago U.S.C. was under form against Pomona, that Pomona was playing over its head against U.S.C., or that Perry had developed a better team at Whittier than generally has been conceded. The latter seems to be the more reasonable hypothesis, as except for the hazard presented by a muddy field and slippery ball, Pomona in all probability would have won by the narrow margin of 7 to 0.

Football sharps had, after perusing the coke sheet, figured Pomona a winner by anywhere from five to eleven touchdowns, the number depending on the strength of the coke used. The Whittier eleven seems to be an in-and-outer, possibly more out than in, which is inevitable in a green, hastily assembled team.

GOOD AFTERNOON.

Yesterday the Quakers had one of their good afternoons, and but for a fumble in the first few seconds of play, quickly followed by a Pomona touchdown, the game would have been one to raise false hair on your head.

The Claremonters crashed through to their second touchdown about the middle of the fourth period, following a neat end run by Stover (providing anything can be neat when executed by a player running in goo up to his ankles) and a mess of heavy-line smashes by the Pomona backs, after a long series of punts between Covington and Suggett, with a distinct shade in favor of the former on each exchange, had placed the ball in Pomona's possession on Whittier's 30-yard line.

This gave Pomona its earned run, an error having figured in the other tally.

PUNTING UNCERTAIN.

Not until late in the third quarter was Covington able to realize substantially on his trained hoof. Up to that point the punting on both sides was uncertain, consisting of long exchanges of short punts, which was fair enough. The chief concern of each kicker was not to kick himself flat on his back. Any punter swinging his hoof in a free and easy manner and with force on that field would have been as likely to have landed on the back of his neck and made a drop kick over his own goal, which is a possible play not foreseen by the rule makers, who made up the code in dry weather.

But when the field began to evaporate and Covington was able to shake the coagulated loam from his master foot, the battle, which had been close and uncertain, as any battle is bound to be in the mud, swayed distinctly in Pomona's favor.

HONORS EVEN.

Honors were about even in the second and third periods. Whenever Whittier acted ominously, Eugene would say Nix—on that, and the Pomona gladiators would bore down through the moist earth until their cleats rested on bedrock where they could get a decent toehold.

Pomona, however, never was greatly in jeopardy, except once when R. Johns intercepted a forward pass with a open field in front of him, only to spill the pigskin. The last half of the game the ball was in Whittier territory most of the time, with Perry's men fighting largely a defensive battle hoping to hold the score down to an irreducible minimum, or words to that effect. A suprising feature of the play was Pomona's inability to puncture the Purple and Gold line consistently until the latter part of the game, except for a substantial gain through guard on a double pass in the early moments of the struggle.

ALL MIXED UP.

Whittier had a rain all its own which threatened to drown out the doings, and necessitated transferring the games from the college campus to the High School. After an inspection of both places it was decided to choose the least wet of two evils and play in the High School dough bin. This gummed up the plans of the High School students, who had expected to meet in the middle of the town and with wide open and joyful gills serpentine to the college campus led by the High School band. Then the band got lost in the fog, or the bus in which it was to ride broke down. But finally all got their orientation, and there was a touching scene when the students and the brass band found each other again.

The curtain raiser brought Whittier High against Harvard. Twice a Whittier lad—they said it was Clayton Nichols, a hero of the Argonne, darted through the red ranks of Harvard to a touchdown. They told me that Nichols had survived when all his squad had been shot down around him, and after seeing him make those two touchdowns I decided he had survived very much.

MAIN ARMIES.

Then the main armies took the field. Pomona kicked off in a field nicely churned by the preps. Suggett, a star—stars are sometimes obscured by clouds—circled under the ball, caught it and then fell where he stood. The ball shot from his grasp, and the alert Cooper fell on it. Pomona ploughed into the almost unyielding line a couple of times. Then a penalty set Pomona back fifteen yards. Suddenly, out of the pack shot the ball high and true from the hand of Voorhies. Rich, down the field and hurdling the Whittier line as though it had been indeed a hurdle, and with two Purple and Gold players converging upon him, pulled down the soaring spheroid, whereupon he stumbled glorious into a mud puddle for the first touchdown. It was one of those forward passes which you see tried repeatedly, but completed much less often, meaning about once in a lifetime. The line-up:

Whittier.		Pomona.
L. Johns	L.E.R.	Cooter
Weaver	L.T.R.	B. Elliott
Stone	L.G.R.	Baker

LINCOLN GIANTS RAP THE ALEXANDER NINE.

The Lincoln Giants defeated the Alexander Giants 9 to 3 yesterday in the first game of the series between these teams for the so-called colored baseball championship of the world. The game was fairly even up to the eighth, Lincoln leading 4 to 3, but in that frame the easterners poured five runs across the plate and iced the festivities. Five fast double plays featured the contest, Lincoln making three and Alexander two.

The same teams will play at the Alexander ball orchard today, Baugh, the Pomona wonder, facing Hubbard of the Lincoln team on the mound. The score:

OXY ROMPS THROUGH TECH.

Tiger Football Machine Looks Like a Real One; "Pud" Hadden Glistens.

BY LAWRENCE COOK.

Great gobs of blasted dope floated despondently over Paddock Field yesterday afternoon when the Occidental Tigers chewed an ear or two off the football boys from the California Institute of Technology and rolled up a tally of 13 to 7.

Though outweighed ten pounds to the man, the Orange and Black performers trailed the pigskin with such zip that the difference in heftiness was scarcely noticed. For the first time this season, the Bengals resembled a tanbark machine. The Technicals, in contrast, with the exception of Lavagnino, were decidedly off their fodder.

JUST INTRODUCED.

The first quarter began with an exchange of formalities. Tech endeavored to find the weak portions of the Oxy line, while the Tigers swung a mean and inquiring paw in the opposite direction. Straight football sufficed for ten minutes or so. Neither crew gained enough ground to build a doghouse on; so the punters on each team indulged in a little game of catch. Tech started in a businesslike manner toward the Orange and Black landscape to grab a touchdown or two, but she made a technical error in calculations, somehow. Occidental then swallowed a horseshoe and got good results. Just before the quarter ended, the Saberteeth worked their way down under the opposing goal posts for the first score of the day. Fulton not only made the touchdown, but booted the pigskin over for an extra digit.

The second semester was scoreless, but it contained some of the most sensational contortions of the afternoon. Lavagnino, the stellar Pasadena quarterback, though he stood so far back of his line that he had to use a megaphone when calling signals, displayed championship ability.

RAH FOR "PUD."

Perhaps the greatest feature of the second period was the playing of diminutive "Pud" Hadden, a 125-pound Tiger recently promoted to varsity ranks from the position of the rankest scrub. Hadden showed himself to be the shiftiest and most slippery specimen on the field. Roberts of Occidental also grabbed his share of laurels in the final handout.

The third spasm was a repetition of the first two. It, too, would have been a drab record were it not that while on Tiger grounds, Tech was forced to kick. The Occidental bleachers pleaded frantically for anyone to "block that kick;" and obediently the Orange and Black athletes responded.

FACE AND TOUCHDOWN.

Not only was the kick blocked, but "Red" Jones, Tiger tackle, scooped up the pig epidermis, made a face and a touchdown in the same wheeze and gained undying glory for himself in the annals of Eagle Rock. Fulton was so upset by the exhibition that he failed to kick the goal.

The last quarter saw more real football than any other period in the struggle. The Engineers ripped off a series of nifty end runs and forward passes and finally bucked over for a touchdown. Frequent advances and penalties occupied the rest of the day, each team making as many errors as possible. The summary:

TENTH BRAVERY MEDAL AWARDED TO ANGELENO.

Deed of Heroism in English Channel Brings Presentation to Navy Man Serving With Asiatic Fleet.

Douglas Crossley, chief carpenter's mate of the destroyer Elliott in the American Asiatic Squadron, son of J. D. Crossley of 795 East Forty-first street, Los Angeles, was decorated at Shanghai, China, on September 23 with the British Distinguished Service Medal for a deed of heroism which he performed in the English Channel in 1918. The [illegible] award makes the tenth in Mr. Crossley's collection of medals for heroism and exceptional service earned during fourteen years of service in the Navy.

Mr. Crossley first enlisted in the Navy at the age of 14 and was with Dewey's fleet at the Battle of Manila Bay in 1898. Since then, save for short periods of civilian life between enlistments, he has served five terms in the Navy.

When the United States declared war on Germany in 1917 Mr. Crossley was in civilian life in Shanghai. He re-enlisted at once, and served on the transport Titagaru, formerly the German liner Camel'a Richman. The Titagaru was torpedoed in the Bay of Biscay on Jan. 18, 1918, with heavy loss of life to the contingent of [illegible]rymen she was taking to [illegible].

TWO WEEKS ADRIFT.

After the sinking of the Titagaru, Crossley spent fourteen days in an open boat. When he had recovered from the exposure and privations of this experience he was assigned to duty in the British mine sweeper Girl Kathreen, operating in the English Channel and after the armistice in the North Sea.

The Girl Kathreen was commanded by Sub-Lieut. Stephens and on a [illegible] morning when the vessel was at work at a point between Brest and Dover Commander Stephens summoned Crossley into the bow to discuss a question of the adjustment of the apparatus carried there to gather in the floating mines.

A steel cable, part of the equipment called a perivane, had been pulled in to the deck of the vessel and the legs of the commander suddenly were caught and imprisoned in a mesh cable that began to tighten.

Almost at the same instant both the commander and the sailor saw an object floating in the sea immediately ahead of the vessel. It was a thing familiar to both, a mine, and they saw that instead of engaging the sweeping apparatus that it was dead forward in a position where inevitably it would be struck by the prow of the ship. It was a matter of seconds only. There came the deed which won the American the British decoration.

RESCUED HELPLESS MAN.

It is related that Crossley stayed with his commander in the face of death, but he was not idle. With seconds only in which to work he seized an ax and succeeded in cutting the officer free. Commander Stephens's legs had been broken; in fact, they had almost been severed, and he was helpless, but Crossley, knowing the explosion that would wreck the ship beneath him was upon them, picked him up and had fled aft when the blast came and both were hurled into the sea.

They tell that after Crossley had swum to an already overloaded life raft after the ship had sunk he insisted that they take the injured commander aboard, saying at the same time that he would shift for himself, and then the survivors on the raft refused to let him sacrifice himself and with the commander they also took him aboard. The raft then carried nine passengers and they were together four days before they were picked up. Commander Stephens lost both of his legs, but his life was saved.

Crossley recovered from his experience and lived to go through a somewhat similar experience on another British ship, the Irish Lass, other mine sweeper, which struck a mine on December 18 of the same year and sank almost immediately off the coast of Norway. He was one of the five survivors from this disaster.

After his experience off the Norwegian coast, Crossley saw service in the Archangel section in Northern Russia, and there he performed a deed of heroism which earned him the award of the American Medal for Valor. This, his ninth medal, was presented to him about six months ago in Washington, D. C., before his return to the Orient.

On the day that the British decoration was presented in Shanghai Mr. Crossley was accompanied to the British consulate there by S. T. Wright, official representative of the American consulate at the ceremoney, and by three officers from the Teal, a British gunboat stationed at Shanghai.

"RIP-SNORTIN' BOY."

Chief Mate Crossley, whose home has been wherever he hung his hammock since his fourteenth birthday, has spent a great many of his shore leaves with his father, who lives alone at 795 East Forty-first street. His mother died several years ago. Several of his brothers live with their families in Los Angeles. "Douglas was always a rip-snortin' boy," declared his father yesterday, "and being the only one of the family who took a turn towards seafaring life, he and I have always been the wanderers."

Crossley spent his last shore leave in this country with his father. After the experiences already mentioned took place, he saw service for some time on convoys sailing from this country to France with American transports, and was later ordered aboard the Galveston, on which ship he traveled to England, and finally to Constantinople. In Constantinople he secured the transfer which brought him back to his home port in San Diego and from there to the Asiatic station, near Shanghai, China, where he is now stationed. Several times during the war his father said he traveled across the country to see his sailor son in New York, Norfolk, and in several of the Southern States, where the latter's ship touched port.

A peculiar incident occurred, said Mr. Crossley, when his son came home from Constantinople. At the time his son secured his transfer, he was in El Paso. Unaware that his son was traveling across the country Mr. Crossley, who is a carpenter like his son, was working within two blocks of the train which carried his son through El Paso. Later they both met in this city, and Crossley left to sail from San Francisco for the Orient July 1.

AUTUMN CARNIVAL AT OTIS ART INSTITUTE.

FOUR HUNDRED STUDENTS AND GUESTS SWELL FUND TO ENDOW SCHOLARSHIP.

More than 400 students and guests of the Otis Art Institute took part last night in the delightful "Carnival d'Automne" in the buildings of the school at Wilshire Boulevard and Park View avenue. It was the opening jollification for the season in local art circles and every fantastic costume that has ever been dreamed of, and some that had never been dreamed of, aded to the brilliance of the scene. There were village policemen, cowboys, queens of Sheba and from remote isles of the sea, mermaids, Cossacks, howling dervishes and a host of others, all dancing and laughing and holding high carnival.

In one booth Mrs. N. M. Chounard read palms. Marita Hickson was the dazzling medium in another booth which was rich in tapestries and drowsy with incense. In another Don Phillips sat as a judge and fined all who came before him.

In addition to the regular dance rooms, there was a moonlight dancing-room, to which a special admission was charged, and those who tried it there pronounced it worth many times the price. The receipts from the various side attractions are to go toward a fund being raised for the purpose of endowing a scholarship for the school.

Louise Everett drew tremendous applause by her solo dancing of the "Bacchanal." In fact, she caused so much tumult that the constables and police rushed and rounded up the largest number of rioters who were sent before Judge Don Phillips during the evening. He placed double fines on all of them and instructed the guardians of the law to bring them before him for another fine before they were allowed to go home.

Among those present were: Misses Cecelia Dellamore, Doris Young, E. Waterman, Helen Boettcher, M. Krohn, Irene Read, Ruth Bengston, Louise Everett, Lucille Ingersoll, Laura Rundel, Marie Racine, Bessie Cooke, and Messrs. H. Herrick, David Purviance, M. H. Browne, J. C. Garrett, F. H. Stout, B. Purviance, Don Johnson, Burt Smith, D. Cametson, L. C. Ryan, William Collins and O. A. Helmberg.

According to the police Brown shot himself through the brain. A revolver with one shell exploded was found beside the body by investigating officers. The note now in the hands of the officers reads: "At my death or serious injury telegraph Earl F. Brown, Atascadero, Cal." It was signed "A. F Brown."

Lutherans Say Film Plant's Too Noisy; Get Court's Leave to Sell Site.

Bethany Lutheran Church, which recently bought a lot in Hollywood upon which it proposed to build a fine church edifice, obtained permission in Judge Shenk's court yesterday to sell the property. It was shown that the Fox Film Company had bought a lot near by and put up studios. Because of the noise due to producing motion pictures the church people found services in the church would be interfered with.

BLAMES IT ON FEDERAL.

[BY A. P NIGHT WIRE.]

CHICAGO, Nov. 6.—The defunct Federal League was the breeding place of the recent baseball scandal, according to Cal Ewing, owner of the Oakland club of the Pacific Coast League, who is here preparatory to attending the meeting of the minor leagues in Kansas City next week.

"The Federal League gathered most of the discontented element in baseball and signed them to ironclad contracts," he said. "Of course there were a number of good players in the league. These players were assured of their places. They could not be disciplined and the result was that gambling was rampant in the old Federal League."

The recent baseball scandal probably never would have occurred, Mr Ewing declared, if organized baseball had refused to back the men who jumped to the outlaw organization. He said that when some of these players joined the ranks of organized baseball they continued their tactics.

"I will not say they got in touch with gamblers," he continued. "it was the 'ace in the hole' men with whom they hooked up and that resulted in a so-called gambling syndicate.

"I have been told that there is evidence of a syndicate that has been operating on the Pacific Coast and which has players on every club in the league. If there is a player on my club who has been working with the 'ace' he must go. I don't care how big a star he is. He no longer is an asset; he is a liability."

STATE LEAGUE NAMES CITIES.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

OAKLAND, Nov. 6.—At a meeting here last night of directors and managers of the new California State Baseball League it was decided that the circuit should include Richmond, Vallejo, San Jose, San Leandro, Santa Rosa, Petaluma (which was substituted for Stockton,) Oakland and San Francisco.

A monthly pay roll limit of $1000 was adopted. It was voted that Oakland should be represented in the league by the "Iperis." Choice between three San Francisco clubs applying for membership was left for a meeting at Santa Rosa November 18.

DRAKE CONQUERS.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

ST. LOUIS, Nov. 6.—Drake University defeated Washington University by 14 to 6 in a football contest today. Drake was leading, 7 to 6, at the end of the first half. A touchdown by Quarterback Niggelmyer in the third period augmented the visitors' lead seven points.

YALE DOWNS HARVARD.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

CAMBRIDGE (Mass.) Nov. 6.—Yale triumphed over Harvard in the annual cross-country run today, 18 to 41. The race was over a distance of six miles.

PENNSY TAKES HONORS.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

NEW YORK, Nov. 6.—Pennsylvania won the triangular cross-country meet with Columbia and Dartmouth today.

WISCONSIN SINGS PRAISES OF DAVEY.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

MINNEAPOLIS (Minn.) Nov. 6.—Wisconsin rooters paraded the streets of Minneapolis tonight, singing the name of Davey, their hero of a 3-to-0 victory by the Badgers over the Minnesota eleven on Northrop Field today. For it was Davey, sent in as a substitute quarterback, who booted the ball in a drop kick from the 20-yard line squarely between the Minnesota goal posts in the third period for the only points of the game.

IOWA IN FRONT.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

IOWA CITY (Iowa) Nov. 6.—Iowa University defeated Northwestern here today by a score of 20 to 0. Coach Jones's rejuvenated Hawkeyes played a stellar game, which, coupled with the inability of the Northwestern backs to gain, gave Iowa an easy victory.

EASY FOR CARD BABES.

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

PALO ALTO, Nov. 6.—The Stanford freshmen completely overwhelmed the Fort Miley Balloon School eleven by a score of 93 to 0 here today. The Cardinal babes seemed to have completely recovered from their defeat by the U.S.C. freshmen last Saturday.

GOPHERS CAN RUN.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

MINNEAPOLIS, Nov. 6.—Minnesota won the annual cross-country run with Wisconsin today.

Grid Sport is Returning to Its Own.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

CHICAGO, Nov. 6.—Football, after a setback, apparently is returning to its own, for about 100,000 persons today saw Western Conference elevens in action in the greatest of collegiate sports. Other minor college games also attracted large crowds including an estimated crowd of 17,000 at the De Pauw-Centre game at Indianapolis. Thousands of persons who were unable to attend the games kept newspaper offices busy giving out scores to football fans on the results of games in various parts of the country.

Chicago set the record for attendance today with a crowd estimated at 32,000, the largest gathering that ever attended a Conference game. Every seat at Stagg Field, where the Illini defeated the Maroons, 3 to 0, was sold out a week ago and standing room was at a premium. Flat buildings to the north and east of the playing field had their roofs crowded to capacity by those unable to get into the grounds.

At Hitchcock Hall, one of the dormitories at the university, a crowd estimated at 2500 climbed up the fire escapes to the roof. The fire department was summoned to drive them down by turning a stream of water, but this procedure was deemed dangerous, so five patrol wagons loaded with police were summoned and the crowd finally was drive them down by turning a twenty-five had been taken in custody by the officers.

Minneapolis reported that a crowd estimated at 22,000 saw Wisconsin win from Minnesota, 3 to 0.

Columbus, O., home of Ohio State, which is giving Illinois a close race for the Conference championship this season, reported an estimated crowd of 20,000 saw Michigan meet her Waterloo, 14 to 7, before the Buckeye eleven.

The game at Iowa City, between Iowa and Northwestern, was played in a downpour and this affected the crowd there, but the rain did not dampen the ardor of the football enthusiasts who went to the game clad in raincoats and carrying umbrellas.

At South Bend, Ind., where Notre Dame played Purdue, a member of the Conference, the crowd was estimated at 11,000.

Indiana, the other member of the Conference, did not play today.

REPUBLICANS AT VICTORY FEAST.

Hundreds Celebrate Triumph of Party at the Polls.

Van de Water Given Ovation; Shortridge Telegraphs.

Harmony and Sturdy Loyalty Mark Dinner Gathering.

More than 400 Republican party workers gathered last night at a dinner at the City Club held in celebration of the great Republican State and national victories on the 2nd inst. The affair was characterized by harmony and keen satisfaction over a popular triumph which has given the national government back to Republican control and has given Southern California the largest Republican representation in the State Legislature that it has known in years.

Pledges of renewed party loyalty and promises to fulfill the Republican platform of economical and efficient government were made by the speakers, who included Congressman-elect Van de Water, winner in the Ninth Congress District; Congressman Osborne, Gov. Stephens, Louis M. Cole, who directed the campaign of the Republican State Central Committee in the South; Alfred L. Bartlett, chairman of the Republican County Central Committee, and Mrs. Florence Collins Porter, Chairman Bartlett presided.

In opening the speaking, Mr. Cole reviewed briefly the effects of the Republican victory in Southern California, declaring the triumph to have been the greatest in the history of California campaigns.

HITS DESERTERS.

"We are here," he said, "in a spirit of exultation because the Republican party, presenting a united front, has won a great victory and brought California back to the Republican ranks." He severely criticised those Republicans who deserted the party's ranks in the campaign and gave their support to Democratic candidates for office.

"That is one phase of the campaign I can neither forget nor forgive," he declared. "We must have loyalty." He referred to the fact that the campaign was conducted on economical lines and without vilification, as one of its "brightest memories."

Congressman-elect Van de Water was given a hearty ovation. He declared that the victory had given him a realization of his great obligation to serve his constituency with faith and unwavering effort to serve its needs.

FOR WOMAN IN CABINET.

Mrs. Porter, in advocating the presence of a capable woman in the President's Cabinet, said women generally should be given a larger place in the governmental affairs of the State and nation.

"Women have come to a sense of responsibility in their use of the ballot," she declared. "They should be given a wider opportunity to display their abilities."

Congressman Osborne expressed keen satisfaction in the fact that the Republican victory in the nation broke the solid South.

"The people everywhere, even in the South, have long realized the utter failure of the Democratic government at Washington," he said. "In a large sense, last Tuesday's great victory was an expression of their feelings over this failure."

Senator-elect Shortridge, who was unable to attend the dinner, wired a message of congratulation, which was read. Mrs. R. W. Richardson also spoke briefly.

In adition to practically all the local Republican campaign workers, there were present the chairmen and members of the Republican committees of San Bernardino, Riverside and Orange counties.

ROBS BOSS'S CELLAR AND TAKES HIS AUTO.

CINEMA DIRECTOR'S DRIVER ADMITS SELLING BOOZE AT BEACH CITY.

Leading a gang of burglars into the residence of his own employer, George Davis, 21 years of age, a chauffeur, looted the wine celler of Lambert Hillyer, a cinema director living at 354 South Harvard Boulevard, and then stole the Hillyer automobile to carry away the liquor.

Davis confessed his part in the robbery yesterday afternoon when he was arrested by Police Detectives Cline and Cato and Detectives Raymond and Erven of the Theft Bureau of the Automobile Club of Southern California. He also told the officers where Floyd Scheffler and Charles M. Walsh, the two young men who he says assisted him in the burglary, could be found. Both of them were later arrested.

According to the confession made by Davis, he was employed by Hillyer as a chauffeur and some time later planned the burglary. With his two friends he waited until Mr. Hillyer left his residence and then looted the wine cellar and stole the automobile. The machine was left on the city streets and the liquor was sold in Venice. Both the liquor and automobile were recovered by the arresting officers.

THREE VICTIMS OF BUSY HOLD-UP MEN.

LAUNDRYMAN, CAR CONDUCTOR AND RESTAURANT OWNER SURRENDER CASH.

Gangs of highwaymen last night held up a Los Angeles Railway car, a Chinese laundry and a restaurant owner on Broadway and took a total toll of $190.

The first report to reach the police came from the laundry of Jung Wot, 721 East Ninth street, where two bandits entered the front door and held up the owner while a third robber came in through the rear door and, after ransacking the place, found $150 in a bureau drawer.

On the heels of this robbery Los Angeles Railway car No. 266 of the Brooklyn-avenue line was held up at the Wabash-avenue terminal and Conductor J. E. Ragsdale was robbed of $35.

The robbers' scene of activities then switched to Tenth and Broadway, where two bandits robbed L. B. Gyle, proprietor of Gyle's restaurant, as he was entering the St. Francis Apartments, where he lives. Disappointed at getting only $5 and his watch, as they probably had expected he would have the day's receipts from his cafe with him, the robbers then hit him on the head with their revolvers and fled.

COVERS TWENTY-FOUR STATES IN AUTO TOUR.

ANGELENO GETS HOME AFTER DRIVING TO ATLANTIC COAST POINTS.

W. Dwight McCaughey, musical instructor at the Harvard Military School and well known in musical circles of this city, has returned from a four months' automobile tour covering over twenty-four States and totaling 13,375 miles. He was accompanied by Mrs. McCaughey. During the trip they encountered hurricanes, extreme heat, desert sandstorms, and at one time were forced to drive through deep backwaters from the swamps in Florida. They visited Canada and Northern New York during the apple-blossom time. Two of the most thrilling experiences were in a hurricane at Mobile, Ala., where they sat in the seat of the machine in a garage, unable to get out, while the attendants waited to run the cars out of the building when immediate destruction was expected, and also when they were near the gulf and were in swamp water so deep that it came into the body of the car.

TAFT DUE FOR A HIGH HONOR.

To Succeed Justice McKenna of the Supreme Court.

Will Likely be Made Chief on White's Retirement.

Will Mean Realization of His Life Ambition.

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

WASHINGTON, Nov. 16.—Justice Joseph McKenna of the Supreme Court of the United States will retire soon after the inauguration of President-elect Harding and this will remove from active service California's only representative on the country's highest tribunal.

Former President Taft will be appointed to succeed Justice McKenna and later upon the retirement of Chief Justice White it is the present plan to make the former President the Chief Justice of this great court, thus permitting Mr. Taft to realize the ambition of his whole life.

APPOINTED BY TAFT.

Chief Justice White, though a Democrat, was made Chief Justice by President Taft and has for some time been eligible for retirement as has been Justice McKenna. Justice Holmes is also eligible for retirement under the law but will not retire for some time to come according to present intentions. He is the most active of all the three justices named and is anxious to retain his place as one of the most industrious of all the justices.

NEXT TO THE OLDEST.

Justice McKenna is the next to the oldest member of the court having been born Aug. 10, 1843, and is therefore 77 years old. He served in the California Legislature from Benicia and later was elected to the Forty-ninth, Fiftieth, Fifty-first and Fifty-second Congresses. He resigned from Congress in 1892 to accept an appointment as Circuit Judge of the United States at the hands of President Harrison. This place he resigned to become Attorney-General in President McKinley's Cabinet and from this position was elevated to the Supreme Court in 1897 to succeed Justice Field who retired at that time.

He took the oath in January of 1898 and will have been on the Supreme bench twenty-three years when he retires.

Justice Holmes will be 80 years old on March 8 of next year and has been on the Supreme bench since 1902.

Chief Justice White was appointed from the Senate by President Cleveland and took his seat March 12, 1894 and thus has already served more than a quarter of a century. The Chief Justice is now 75 years old.

URGES ALL CITIZENS TO SUPPORT HARDING.

NEXT PRESIDENT WILL NEED LOYALTY REGARDLESS OF PARTY, SPEAKER SAYS.

"Boost! Don't knock," was the text of a talk given to members of the City Club at yesterday's noon luncheon of that organization by Dr. Silas Evans, former president of Occidental College, in which he discussed the point of view which should be kept in mind by all Americans.

"I did not vote for Mr. Harding," said Dr. Evans, "but I shall give him my undivided loyalty and support. He has a tremendous task ahead of him, but I believe that he will go about solving it honestly and earnestly. The public wants answered such questions as how are the prices of food and clothing to be lowered and how is law and order to be maintained? Mr. Harding deserves your earnest support in the years that are coming in which he will try to do his part in solving these problems.

"Now a word about Woodrow Wilson. He received at Tuesday's election a solar plexus blow. But I believe that as time goes on posterity will collect the stones that we have thrown at him to make a monument to his greatness (applause.) I admire him. I love him."

Dr. George F. Hall of Chicago introduced Parley Christensen of Salt Lake City, who was the candidate for President at the recent election of the new Farmer-Labor party. Mr. Christensen outlined the objects of the party, stating that its aim is to work to secure the establishment, by action at the ballot box, of an industrial democracy in America, or, as he termed it, "the giving to labor of an important share in the management and control of industry."

D. R. Richards, in a brief talk presenting a pennant to the club, urged that all members work together for a "clean Los Angeles."

Woodworth Clum, general manager of the Better American Federation of California, will speak at next Wednesday's luncheon on "Where the Menace Lies."

PLAN CAMPAIGN DINNER.

Episcopalian Nation-Wide Campaign Workers to Hear Bishops.

Five hundred workers of the Episcopalian nation-wide campaign movement are expected to attend a dinner which will be given on the evening of the 16th inst. at the Y.M.C.A. Building here. Members of the clergy and men and women lay workers will make up the attendance.

Addresses will be made during the evening by Bishop Johnson, Bishop-Coadjutor Stevens and by Rev. Dr. Patton of New York, national director of the campaign. The dinner will be given under the auspices of the church club of the diocese.

JOE PEPPA GIVES HIMSELF UP HERE.

Joe Peppa, chief figure of numerous crime investigations in this city, for whom a warrant was recently issued by the District Attorney's office charging him with grand larceny, gave himself up to Deputy Sheriff Sweesy at the Sheriff's office last night. According to Peppa, he has been in the north and returned to this city last night. His mother told him that the officers were looking for him and he then went to the Sheriff's office and surrendered. He is held in the County Jail.

SPLENDID BALL FOR BIG HOTEL OPENING.

MANY TITLED EUROPEANS TO BE PRESENT AT AFFAIR HERE IN JANUARY.

Preparations are already under way for an elaborate ball to be given in the Hotel California January 10 to celebrate the formal opening of the magnificent new Wilshire-Boulevard hostelry. An international aspect will be given to the occasion by the presence of a number of titled personages from Europe.

Miss Genevieve Myers, social secretary, says that inquiries for accommodations are being received in such numbers from people of rank that it has been decided to convert a section of the building into special apartments, to be known as the Royal Suite.

These apartments, consisting of fourteen large rooms, will be among the most elegant in any hotel in the world, and will be sumptuously furnished throughout, with a grand salon, of the Adams period, and reception, dining, library and bedrooms, done after the Louis XIV model.

Reservations have already been made by a distinguished Spanish party, which will bring a retinue of servants.

Count and Countess Jean de Lasterie of Paris have also signified their intention of reaching Los Angeles shortly after the first of the year, as will a number of leaders of London society.

JOHNSON TO PROPOSE IMMIGRATION CHANGES.

WASHINGTON REPRESENTATIVE BELIEVES INFLUX MUST BE SHUT OFF.

[BY A. P. DAY WIRE.]

ABERDEEN (Wash.) Nov. 6.—Representative Albert Johnson, chairman of the House Committee on Immigration, left yesterday for Washington, will ask for legislation, he announced today, to restrict immigration from Europe to blood relatives only of foreign-born naturalized American citizens. He declared that the country cannot absorb the thousands of immigrants coming and that restriction is urgent.

Mr. Johnson said immigrants were filling up the large cities of the East, and that he had been advised that in Philadelphia alone there was a shortage of 60,000 houses. The immigrants were piling into the crowded tenement-houses, he said, and unless something was done there would be great suffering before next spring.

He also will propose, he said, that American wives of foreign born, but unnaturalized residents, shall not lose their citizenship. He will urge that separate citizenship be granted women, regardless of their husbands. Mr. Johnson said he would propose the voluntary registration of aliens and seek to lengthen the term of probation from five to ten years, with yearly examinations, such examinations to count for credits, so that aliens may earn citizenship within five years.

SHIPPING BOARD TO RETIRE NINE BOATS.

LACK OF CARGOES REASON GIVEN; TAKES AWAY 65,000 TONS FROM SERVICE.

[BY A. P. DAY WIRE.]

SAN FRANCISCO, Nov. 4. — Announcement that it is to retire nine of its freight boats because of lack of cargoes, was made by the San Francisco headquarters of the United States Shipping Board here today. The boats will be taken to Southampton Bay, near Port Costa. They represent approximately 65,000 tons. Three of the vessels were recently built and have never been in service.

Completion of sugar shipments was given as one of the reasons for tying up the steamers.

FATAL ACCIDENT.

Elderly Man Meets Death on Streets of Long Beach.

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

LONG BEACH, Nov. 7.—John B. Coiner, aged 84, of 132 Chestnut street, Long Beach, was instantly killed last night when he was struck by the step of Pacific Electric car No. 543 of the Long Beach line in front of the Hotel Virginia. His body was taken to a local morgue.

According to the railroad company's report, the elderly man was seen by the motorman walking alongside the track, but was a safe distance from the train. The train passed him without any of the crew being aware that they had struck a man. A second train that came along a few minutes later saw the man's body by the track and brought him into the beach city. Railroad officials believe that he must have become confused as the train whizzed past him and wandered too near the track and was struck by a car's step.

HELD AS EMBEZZLER.

Accountant for Motion-Picture Company Jailed; Keeps Silent.

Charged with having embezzled over $1000 from the Metro Pictures Corporation, by whom he was employed as an accountant, Victor C. Henry was arrested at Romaine avenue and Cahuenga Boulevard last evening by Detectives Hurt and MacMahan. He is held in the City Jail.

He refused last night to make any comment on the charges against him. The police stated that the books of the corporation are being checked.

GIRLS WON'T FLIRT AND ONE IS SHOT.

[BY A. P. DAY WIRE.]

CHICAGO, Nov. 6.—Because Miss Grace Phillips, 17-year-old church singer, and her companions, refused to flirt with three young men, one of them shot her in the knee last night. The other girls narrowly escaped being struck by bullets, the police were told today.

A posse of citizens searched the neighborhood early today without finding trace of the assailants.

PANAMA DISPUTE IS TO BE SETTLED

Senate Will Probably Attend to Colombian Treaty.

Has been Reported Favorably by Committee.

All Objections at Last Session Are Removed.

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

WASHINGTON, Nov. 6.—One of the pending foreign questions which it is expected the Senate will take up propmtly after meeting next month is the treaty between the United States and Colombia, settling the differences between the two countries growing out of the Panama controversy.

This treaty is now before the Senate, having been reported back favorably by the Foreign Relations Committee only a few days before Congress adjourned last June, but not in time for adoption at the last session, because of the rush of other business during the closing days. The treaty had been before the Senate previously, but had been withdrawn because of objections, which were raised against an oil decree issued by President Suarez of Colombia, which it was claimed nationalized oil properties in that country.

OBJECTIONS REMOVED.

All objections to the adoption of the treaty have now been removed, as far as known, and the Foreign Relations Committee through its subcommittee so reported when the treaty was returned for the Senate's final approval. Following a decision by the Supreme Court of Colombia, which declared that the oil decree issued by President Suarez was unconstitutional and the passage of mining legislation by the Colombian Congress amply safeguarding, in the opinion of the subcommittee, the interests of ownegs of private property and yet liberal in its terms as inviting American and other capital to develop the petroleum industry upon the national lands of Colombia, the Senate Foreign Relations Committee reported out again the treaty.

EXPRESSES CONFIDENCE.

The subcommittee report expressed its confidence in Colombia and in the desire and determination of the Colombia government and people to always guard the rights of others within its territory and to discharge to the fullest extent its treaty obligations with this country. Further, the hope was expressed that the treaty of Granada, negotiated between the two countries in 1846 and in connection with the interperation of one article, in which treaty the trouble over the land rights arose would be negotiated and a new treaty of amity and commerce may be taken up or at least initiated immediately to the end that all disputes in the future may be avoided.

Under the treaty the United States is to pay Colombia $25,000,000.

President Will Not Pardon Debs; Poor Precedent.

[BY A. P. DAY WIRE.]

WASHINGTON, Nov. 6.—President Wilson is understood to have no intention of pardoning Eugene V. Debs, who is serving a ten-year sentence in the Federal penitentiary at Atlanta for violation of the espionage act.

The position taken by the President, according to those who profess to know his views; is that executive clemency in such a case would set a bad precedent and would encourage others to oppose the government in the event of another war.

Debs was convicted at Cleveland on Sept. 12, 1918, on three counts, a jury finding him guilty of attempting to incite insubordination and disloyalty in the military and naval forces, attempting to obstruct recruiting, and uttering language tending to incite, provoke and encourage resistance to the United States and to promote the cause of the enemy.

A pardon for Debs and others convicted of violating the espionage act has been urged by a number of organizations, including the American Federation of Labor, which, at its last annual convention at Montreal, Can., authorized a committee to confer with Atty.-Gen. Palmer on the matter.

CAUGHT AFTER CHASE.

Boy Accused of Burglary Found to Have Loot from Store.

Following a chase of several blocks, Patrolman L. D. Moore late yesterday afternoon arrested Ben F. Threshier, 18 years of age, wanted by the police for burglary in connection with the looting of the Golden State Gem Company, at 726 South San Pedro street. Following the arrest a quantity of the loot was recovered by Patrolman Moore.

According to police records the gem company was burglarized on the night of October 20 by several youthful bandits. A description of the thieves was obtained by the police and Patrolman Moore yesterday recognized Threshier as he was walking down East Fifth street.

MACHINE OVERTURNS; ONE DEAD, ONE DYING.

[BY A. P. DAY WIRE.]

SAN JOSE, Nov. 6.—Mrs. Harold Thompson, 25 years old, was killed and her husband perhaps fatally injured, when their automobile turned over on a road near here today. They resided in San Jose.

ITALIAN AMBASSADOR TO AMERICA NAMED.

[BY CABLE AND ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

ROME, Nov. 6.—Appointment of Roland Ricci as Italian Ambassador to the United States has been officially confirmed.

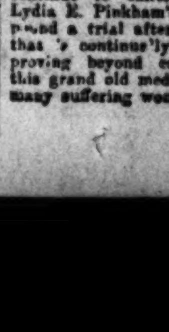
REMARKABLE RECOVERY

Due to Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

Philadelphia, Pa.—"I want to let you know what good Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has done me. I had organic troubles and am going through the Change of Life. I was taken with a pain in my side and a bad headache. I could not lie down, could not eat or sleep. I suffered something terrible and the doctor's medicine did me no good at all—my pains got worse instead of better. I began taking the Vegetable Compound and felt a change from the first. Now I feel fine and advise any one going through the Change of Life to try it, for it cured me after I had given up all hopes of getting better. You can publish this and I will tell any one who writes to me the good it has done me."—Mrs. MARGARET DANZ, 743 N. 25th Street, Philadelphia, Pa.

It hardly seems possible that there is a woman in this country who will continue to suffer without giving Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound a trial after all the evidence that is continually being published, proving beyond contradiction that this grand old medicine has relieved many suffering women.



WHAT'S DOING TODAY.

TELLS EDISON'S SHARE IN WAR.

Inventor's Part in [illegible] Germans Revealed.

Score of Devices Made Ships Able to Evade U-Boats.

Transports and Navy Vessels Given Eyes and Ears.

Revelations of the achievements by Thomas A. Edison during the war, including submarine detectors, novel sounding appliances and devices to prevent sinking of vessels, are contained in a letter received yesterday by J. T. Fitzgerald, well-known business man of this city. Some time ago Mr. Fitzgerald wrote to a close personal friend who is an officer in the Edison Company at Orange, N. J., and the reply contained a resume of Mr. Edison's work.

It appears that Mr. Edison was a leading spirit on the Naval Consulting Board. He forsook his laboratories at the outbreak of the war and practically became a naval officer, spending most of his time in department offices. He also took long deep-sea cruises that he might become personally acquainted with the problems.

Ship protection held the attention of the board most of the time, according to the letter received by Mr. Fitzgerald. "To this problem Mr. Edison devoted his traditional twenty-four-hour working day in perfecting a listening device," says the communication.

"This contrivance was in the form of an outrigger, suspended from the side of a vessel and containing an immense phonograph diaphragm. By means of compensators the noise of the vessel's engines was obliterated, thus making it possible for the device to work perfectly even when the ship was plowing at full speed through the roughest seas.

"With this device boats moving [illegible] yards away could be readily heard while the vessel was under full steam. A submarine bell five and one-half miles away was also audible even during a storm.

"Mr. Edison followed this invention with a device for the quick turning of a vessel whenever the listener indicated a torpedo approaching. He did this by means of huge conical canvas bags. When thrown into the sea these acted as a drag.

"The inventor also worked out plans for ships to sail in and out of danger zones at night, to forsake old beaten lines of travel and to remain in places of safety in the daytime. He also prepared a new set of strategic maps of comparatively shallow waters affording safety from submerged submarines.

"Other war-time inventions by Mr. Edison mentioned in the letter include a cartridge for taking soundings, a convoy light visible to all vessels in the convoy, but invisible from the decks of a submarine, an underwater searchlight capable of throwing rays 200 feet, a projectile that would enter the water from an angle instead of ricocheting, a stabilizer for submerged submarines, and a time fuse to cause shrapnel to burst only six feet above the ground.

He also devised some remarkable means for detecting the presence of hostile airplanes, for extinguishing fires aboard ship, for communicating signals by means of mirrors at sea, and drew up plans for mining Zeebrugge harbor.

EVEN NAMES OF DRINKS BARRED.

Beer, Porter, Ale and All Suggestive Words to be Denied Labels.

The government has taken steps to prohibit not only the use of beer, ale and porter, but the use of the names of their widely known synonyms. U. S. Collector Carter yesterday received from Internal Revenue Commissioner Williams an order which read:

The use of the words "beer, ale or porter" and the well-known synonyms for the same, such as lager, bock or stout, either with or without prefixes or suffixes, is not permissible on labels for cereal beverages.

The order further said cereal beverage containers must carry the legend stating they contain less than one-half of 1 per cent alcohol, or the beverage does not contain that amount of alcohol, or that it contains no alcohol. The order provides that no labels violating these provisions shall be printed or used after January 1, next.

COURT GOES TO FRESNO.

Many Liquor Cases on Calendar Which Will Last Fortnight.

U. S. District Judge Trippet will open the November term of the United States District Court in Fresno tomorrow morning, and it is understood that at least two weeks will be taken by the proceedings.

There are nearly one hundred cases on the calendar, and most of these involve asserted violation of the liquor laws. Many cases are up for the defendants to plead. In others, trial dates have been set, and in still others the Federal grand jury will consider many charges of infractions of the prohibition law.

The office of the United States Attorney will be represented by Thomas F. Green, and the clerk's office by Charles N. Williams.

The business before the local Federal court this week, will be confined to U. S. District Judge Bledsoe's department. A number of liquor cases are to be disposed of.

READY FOR RECORD TUNNEL JOB.

Long-Deferred Second-Street Bore to Start Within Sixty Days and to be Completed in Fifteen Months; Benefits to the City Are Incalculable.

Contractor John Hayes, Contractor Andrew McNally and Contractor James Hill sat in the office of the Board of Public Works at City Hall.

"Gentlemen," said President P. P. O'Brien of the board, "are you ready to dig the Second-street tunnel?"

"We are," said Hayes, Hill and McNally.

"Then," said Mr. O'Brien, "start your shovels. Dig!"

And Hayes, McNally and Hill say that if the people of Los Angeles want to see them in action let them go to the vicinity of Second and Figueroa streets early in January and there will be business enough in sight to satisfy anyone. For, as at present planned, the first dirt of the tunnel construction work will fly on the west side of the hill, which is to be pierced to give a new traffic highway to the northwest. And when the contractors appear on the scene and start to work it will mark the final chapter in a story, the first words of which were written on Oct. 31, 1917, when the City Council passed an ordinance providing for the construction of the tunnel.

The formalities, including the approval of the assessment district by the City Council and the collection of the cash or bonds from the property owners, are expected to be completed by the last of December, so that during the first week in January the contractors, who are now assembling their men and materials, expect to begin work. Under the law they are allowed fifteen months to complete the work, which would give them until April 1, 1921, before penalties for delays would begin. Mr. Hayes believes that unless unforeseen delays occur, the tunnel will be completed inside the time limit, say by January or February, 1922.

GREAT UNDERTAKING.

A comparison of former tunnel projects bears out the statement of City Engineer John A. Griffin that the building of the Second-street tunnel will be the greatest undertaking of its kind Los Angeles has put through, and the fourth of the city's tunnels.

The first tunnel built was the one on Third street, which was completed in 1900 at a cost of $103,958. As compared with the 1502 feet of the new Second-street tunnel, the length of the Third-street tube is but 1059 feet, and the old tunnel gives but thirty-two feet, compared with the forty-two feet clearance for vehicles which the new structure will offer.

When the Third-street tunnel was completed it offered such a great relief to traffic congestion that citizens at once began advocating the building of a Second-street tunnel, but there was opposition, and the next one undertaken was the Broadway tunnel, which was completed in 1900 at a cost of $83,740. In 1915 that tunnel was lowered and lined with white tile at a cost of $184,800, making it, as it stands today, to have cost the city for actual work, $268,540. In 1913 the Hill-street tunnel was completed at a cost of $124,900. This is but 546 feet in length, thirty-two feet in total width, with a clearance between curb lines of but twenty-one feet.

Even after the ordinance was passed in 1917 for the Second-street tunnel, public-spirited and far-seeing citizens who had long campaigned for the improvement and had hopes of quick start were doomed to disappointment, for there followed long litigation in the courts necessary to legalize the entire proceedings before the Board of Public Works could order the contractors to start work. Early this year the State Supreme Court handed down the decision placing the final stamp of law on the entire proceedings and the City Council soon received from Chief Clerk Schreiber the great book setting forth the 2395 separate assessments against the property owners of the district which will directly benefit by the construction of the tunnel. These taxes amount to a total of $1,121,168.45, representing $995,773.21 to be paid to John Hayes and associates under the contract which was awarded to Mr. Hayes on March 18, 1918, together with $103,703 to be paid to owners whose property will be damaged by the tunnel, and $21,692.24 for assessment, inspection, engineering and other expenses.

WORK TO BE RUSHED.

"Every citizen of Los Angeles will be proud of the tunnel when it is completed," said Mr. Hayes yesterday. "The work will be rushed day and night, but there will be no Sunday work. We have fifteen months in which to complete the job, but the sooner we get it done the happier and richer we shall be, for delays cost money."

When Hayes, McNally, Hill and their associates turned in the successful bid for the tunnel in 1918, labor and materials costs were much lower than now, and though they saw the dollar shrink while they waited for the courts to clear the way, they are undismayed by the task ahead of them. For $995,773.21, the contractors must dig a tunnel under Second street 1502.45 feet in length, surround it with brick, concrete and tile, build artificial stone balustrades, install lighting fixtures, a drainage system, and storm drains, as well as a tile-lined stairway tunnel leading from Flower street into the main tunnel at Second and Flower street. And Hayes, Hill and McNally have given their word and their bond that they can do the job, and the records of the Board of Public Works shows an unblemished record for all of the contractors of keeping their word and making good on every job they have ever undertaken.

"If necessary," said Mr. Hayes, "Jim and Andy and I can get in and lay bricks ourselves, for we all graduated from the school of hard work as masons and bricklayers. The citizens of Los Angeles may assure themselves that the work will be done."

MEN OF EXPERIENCE.

The suburban Los Angeles that the new tunnel is to serve was wild, waste land when Contractors Hayes, Hill and McNally came here a pioneers in the early '80's, and all of them have taken an active work in the actual building of the city that is springing up as if by magic. Hill is now at work on the Grauman's Metropolitan Theater Building at Sixth and Hill streets. He was one of the builders of the Third-street tunnel. Hayes built tunnels in New Zealand, and built the Exchange Building and Grant Building here and the Grant Building in San Francisco, as well as other important structures there, including the new main Home Telephone Company Building. He was also one of the builders of the present outfall sewer from Los Angeles to the ocean.

It will be some job, as the contractors showed by giving some figures which will tell the story of the magnitude of the task awaiting them.

The main arch will be built of brick and will be 1502 feet in length and thirty-five feet in width. On each side of the key arch will be concrete flanking sides each twelve and one-half feet in width for the entire length of the tunnel. The brick and the concrete will form the top of the tunnel.

To clear the way for them it is estimated that 118,000 cubic yards of dirt must be removed. To do this work two great electrically driven combination shovels and dumpers have been ordered by the contractors. None of these has ever before been used in Los Angeles. They were not invented when the Third-street tunnel was built. Should these new engines of construction fail to arrive in time, compressed-air shovels will be used. On account of the nature of tunnel work it is impossible to use steam shovels. The contractors expect little or no trouble in boring the hill, as the formation is blue shale and is easily whittled down.

As one stands at Second and Hill streets and looks west up the hill marking the site of the tunnel that is to be the task awaiting the contractors seems comparatively an easy one. But their job begins at the west line of Broadway, and here the grade must be lowered from zero at Broadway to three feet at Hill street, so that it is seen at once much chopping away of dirt awaits the shovels.

Next the grade of Hill street must be changed as a result of the construction of the tunnel. Beginning at a point 180 feet north of Third street and thence north along Hill street to First the shovels must dig and dig until the grade of Hill street to First has been lowered five feet at First street. This part of the job alone will cost $50,000, Mr. Hayes estimated. Los Angeles will know that a tunnel is being built for Second street and Hill street will be torn up for many months while the work is on. When completed the grade of Second street from Broadway to the tunnel will be like that on Third street.

From Hill street westerly the real tunnel work starts. The city has purchased the northwest corner of Second and Hill streets, and from Hill street to Clay street at the top of the tunnel a new street will be built in order that one may walk or drive from Hill street to Clay and then cross over the top of the tunnel to the southward.

When the expression, "top of the tunnel," is used it may convey the idea of height, and the tunnel will be high, the east portal being twenty-five feet and the west entrance sixty-five feet from the ground.

The west entrance will be especially imposing. It will be located at Flower street, leaving both sides of Second street clear from Figueroa street to the west portal. On the north and south sides of this block it is expected that the property owners will build store buildings such as similarly line the approach to the west portal of the Third-street tunnel.

MUST DETOUR.

While the city has provided for a street for vehicular traffic on the north side of Second street leading from Hill street to the top of the tunnel, connecting there with the streets north and south, no provision has been made for vehicles approaching the tunnel from the west on Second street, so that a detour will be necessary at Second and Figueroa streets for those automobiles, teams, etc., desiring to reach the streets a-top of the tunnel, which may be reached via First street.

Looking into the completed tunnel from Hill street, one will see the bore of the tube resembling an elipse. This changes to a semicircle arch. While the Third-street actual tunnel is forty feet "in the clear," as the contractors say, or actual measurement of the bore, the new Second-street tunnel will present on the outside a sixty-foot hole, or fifty feet inside, "in the clear." Inside the tunnel the rise of grade from Hill street to Figueroa will be but nine feet, which will be almost imperceptible.

The tunnel will be lined with white tile at a cost of $75,000. It will be necessary to use 1,250,000 separate pieces of tile. The tunnel will be thoroughly ventilated in order that there will be no fumes from automobile exhausts. It will be as good in this respect, contractors say, as the Broadway tunnel.

Inside the tunnel, when completed, there will be in the center two street railway tracks for cars of the Los Angeles Railway. There will be a seven-foot sidewalk on the south side and a one-foot wheel guard curbing on the north side, with actual vehicular space of forty-two feet.

A CITY JOB.

The members of the Board of Public Works—Commissioners O'Brien, Treat and McGuire—believe that the Second-street tunnel, when completed, will be one of the greatest undertakings ever put through by the city. For it will be a city job. Though contractors do the work, engineers and technical men from City Engineer Griffin's office will be on the job night and day to see that every brick is laid according to the specifications. Maj. Griffin and the members of the board will also watch the work closely.

The tunnel will open up the entire northwest part of the city as far as Glendale and the San Fernando Valley to modern, rapid highway transportation. It will relieve traffic congestion in the north end of the city. The new boulevard to Glendale by way of Lake Shore avenue will form a direct connection with the tunnel. First street is to be widened, and at Temple street will join to become a new boulevard to the sea connecting there with the new State highway at Santa Monica Canyon. The new Second-street tunnel will be an important link in opening up this northwest territory.

"Critics of the Second-street tunnel," said City Engineer Griffin, "declared, when it was proposed, that it was an effort to 'turn back to yesterday' by adding an improvement to the north end of the city. This criticism is absolutely unsound, for the tunnel will serve a territory to the northwest that is growing so rapidly that something must be done to furnish the residents a means of getting in and out of the city. A study of the map of the city will show how great highways will 'feed' the new tunnel and how necessary the tunnel is to end the congestion in and out of the Third-street tunnel. The new Beverly Boulevard will link in with the tunnel, and this and other highways will 'feed' to the city the people from Glendale, Burbank and the San Fernando Valley as well as from Santa Monica Canyon and surrounding territory.

"Great improvements like the tunnel, the new north outfall sewer, storage reservoirs for water, new water mains, more power plants are needed if the city is to provide for the tremendous growth which is coming within the next few years and to give transportation, water, sanitation, light and other public service for the thousands of thousands of new citizens who are at our gates."

TO FIT YOUTHS FOR LIFE WORK.

Citizens' Committee Outlines "Tech" School Plan.

Would Train Pupils for New Jobs and Usefulness.

Promises Double Benefit to Employer and Employed.

Plans that it is believed will assure the success of a proposal for the establishing of an institute of technology as a part of the city's educational system will be outlined by the Citizens' Advisory Council on Vocational Affairs at a meeting Wednesday evening in the rooms of the Merchants' and Manufacturers' Association. It was announced yesterday by Chairman Irwin H. Rice.

Definite, practicable training for students with a view of fitting them with a definite working knowledge of a trade or business, is the chief aim of the plan. This in turn will benefit industrial and business firms by providing them with skilled employees, trained in a commonsense system, one that far excells the apprentice system, council members declare.

The proposal, which includes suggestions for the curricula, and suggestions for the reorganization of vocational and technical education in the city schools, is now under consideration by the Board of Education as a result of two meetings with the citizens' council.

Practical and efficient education as an integral part of the industrial, commercial and civic activities of the city is the keynote of the program. The proposed system would replace, the council sets forth, the present decentralized, unspecialized, more or less loosely generalized system.

AN ADDED ADVANTAGE.

"The institute would be operated under the direction of the Board of Education, as are our other schools," Mr. Rice said yesterday, "but would have the added advantage of close co-operation with a citizens' advisory council composed of representatives of the several business and civic activities of the city. Under this plan the technique of education and the vital needs of business and industry would each be supplied by those who are best fitted to advise.

"The result would be an institution which would thoroughly and skilfully co-ordinate educational processes with their practical application to life's activities. Such a school would provide adequate training for the average worker and also the sound technical training demanded by the most exacting occupations, better than in any other way. At the same time it would be a large factor in establishing democratic industrialism."

Part-time courses, short courses and intensive training of from three months to four years for students are provided for in the plan. The following divisions are outlined: industries, engineering and architecture, commercial engineering, home economics and social service, agriculture, municipal and public service, arts, applied psychology, industrial and technical educational training and research. The foundation of all the courses is practicability, it is pointed out.

EXPLAINS SCHEME.

Mr. Rice's explanation of the factors which make the plan of vital importance follows:

"Many months of study and research, thought and discussion, have been put into the preparation of this plan, and the earnest consideration of every citizen is urged, especially with regard to the broader fundamentals of this subject.

"There is a tremendous need for skilled workers in nearly all the industries. Even though the shops were filled to capacity, the mediocrity of the average mechanic of today is a notorious fact, resulting in inferior product and higher cost.

"Investigation proves that the apprentice system is practically obsolete, the substitute being the training of highly specialized workmen, not craftsmen, in the large plants, and the adding of the cost of mediocrity to the selling price in small plants.

"Many industries are in a semi-crippled condition, that is fast growing more acute, for lack of workers. This applies particularly to the highly skilled trades, in which men cannot be made into machines.

"Thousands of our young people are in an unsettled condition because of their helplessness. They mill about looking for any job that pays a little better than the last one, but under normal conditions will become pitiable objects without knowledge or skill in some gainful occupation.

"It is useless to expect the industries to assume the burden of a broad educational movement. Their efforts would naturally be of a temporary character, limited in scope, and with a constant tendency toward specialization for immediate necessities. It is submitted that this problem belongs to the people; it must be solved in a big way at the public's expense."

CITY TO HOLD TESTS.

Many Vacancies Under Civil Service to be Filled This Month.

Commencing next Saturday, the City Civil Service Commission will hold examinations on seven different days this month to fill a variety of positions.

Those who wish to qualify as expert stenographers will be examined on the 20th inst. Salaries range from $125 to $140 per month. APS MUST LOOSE HOLD ON VAST FERTILE AREA.

rip on Big Acreage Here Will be Released Within Three Years; Making New Leases as Law Delays.

thin three years from December, at latest, thousands of truck gardeners and will immediately take over and operate the vast area of ural land in California from which the Japanese will be ousted under the provisions of the alien land law approved last Tuesday by overwhelming majority of the ers of the State.

In Los Angeles county alone 42,- acres are now under lease to anese. All leases must lapse thin three years after the time law goes into effect, and this vision is resulting in a great rush renew leases for the maximum iod before the law becomes opera-

The rush of the Japanese and er orientals to renew their leases caused by the uncertainty surrounding the date upon which the law will become a working ity. According to statute the sure will become effective five after the Secretary of State ares the result of the election. this date may occur as soon as official receives all certified re but in no event may it be than forty days after the date election. This provision will the law into effect by December at latest, and will terminate by Dec. 14, 1923, all leases held those who are not subject to lization.

PRESENT LEASES STAND.

clamation of the law by the ernor is not necessary. All formalities will have been complied when the Secretary of State certified copy of election returns on the measure in his own office and transmits another copy to Governor. Existing leases to lands will not be affected by the law, nor will leases signed before the law becomes effective be invalidated, but in no case may they run for more than three years.

lifornia lands occupied by orientals—Japanese, Chinese and Hindus—now total 623,752 acres, an increase in area of more than 412 per cent within the past ten years. Of this total Japanese occupy 427,029 acres, which is swelled to 458,056 acres by the holdings of corporations controlled by Japanese shareholders.

Los Angeles county, with 42,911 acres leased to Japanese, is the third county in the State in the matter of the size of Japanese holdings. San Joaquin county comes first with 51,- 884 acres held by Japanese, Sacramento county second, with an acreage of 46,596, and 33,000 acres of Imperial county lands are held by them.

By races, the holdings of California land under leases and crop contracts by orientals not eligible for naturalization are as follows: Japanese, 383,287; Chinese, 65,181; Hindus, 86,240.

HALF HAS NO WATER.

The total area of arable land in the State is estimated at 22,000,000 acres, of which about half, or 11,000,000 acres, is not cultivated because of lack of water. Land under improvement, which will soon be brought to a productive stage, is about 3,000,000 acres.

Agricultural land in the State actually owned by Japanese and other orientals comprises only a small area. In Los Angeles county, for instance, the Japanese own only 1616 acres in comparison to the 42,911 acres they hold under lease.

In the opinion of former Judge E. W. Britt and other attorneys who have studied the new law the latter will not disturb these holdings. The law makes provision to have land escheated to the State under certain conditions, but the present act contains no clause making it retroactive. It is possible that the State might endeavor to carry through escheat proceedings to take land already owned by Japanese, but as a rule laws which do not contain specific clauses making them retroactive are not interpreted as covering cases concluded before they become effective.

Chamber of Commerce Urges That Holiday be Fitly Celebrated Here.

Resolutions urging general observance of Armistice Day, next Thursday, were adopted yesterday by the directors of the Chamber of Commerce.

"It is the sense of the board of directors of the Los Angeles Chamber of Commerce," say the resolutions, "that the observance of Armistice Day, November 11, is a patriotic duty and it urges upon the business interests of Los Angeles that they make this day a holiday and close their business houses in order that all ex-service men and women employed in these establishments may take part in the ceremonies and in order that all citizens may have an opportunity to view the parade and participate in the celebration."

Nuxated Iron is like the iron in your blood and like the iron in spinach, lentils and apples, while metallic iron is iron just as it comes from the action of strong acids on iron filings. Nuxated Iron does not injure the teeth nor upset the stomach; it is an entirely different thing from ordinary metallic iron. It quickly helps make rich, red blood, revitalize wornout, exhausted nerves and give you new strength and energy. Over 3,000,000 people annually are using it. For sale by all druggists. A BAD COLD
Relieved Quickly With MENTHO-LAXENE
You Buy It Concentrated and Mix With Pint of Syrup.

Doubtless every reader recalls having neglected a slight cold until in 24 hours it settled into a "Bad Cold" and then about 72 hours of distress, discomfort, if not weeks of bronchitis or pneumonia or catarrh. Now confess if you've had such an experience, and take time by the forelock by preparing to check and abort colds, coughs, catarrh, difficult breathing, watering eyes and painful headaches.

It can be done, by taking Mentho-Laxene either in its raw state—ten drops to the dose—or by making a granulated sugar syrup and mixing in a pint bottle or jar. A pint will last a whole family for a long time and keeps every member free from the distressing after-effects of a bad cold. Mentho-Laxene is guaranteed to please or money back by The Blackburn Products Co., Dayton, Ohio, and any well stocked druggist can supply you. Don't take a substitute. There is really nothing to compare with Mentho-Laxene. 4000 barrels used last year. Why? Because it's best and cheapest.—[Advertisement.

VETERANS PLAN VICTORY MARCH

Thousands Will be in Line on Armistice Day.

General Order Tells Where Units Will Assemble.

Medal Presentation Listed to Follow Parade.

Three hundred automobiles will be needed on Armistice Day to enable 2000 disabled veterans of the World War to participate in the parade, according to an announcement yesterday by George D. Lyon, of the Disabled Veterans of the World War. Only five automobiles have been offered to date. The disabled men are now patients at Arrowhead, the Crocker-street Hospital and the Soldiers' Home and will form one of the largest contingents in the Armistice Day parade, if enough automobiles are volunteered.

Recalling the days of monster reviews in cantonment and camp and of march orders "over there," the American Legion Armistice Day Committee yesterday issued General Orders No. 1, which contain detailed instructions for the formation of the great parade of service men and women here next Thursday.

The column, expected to contain thousands of marchers, is to move at 10 a.m. from Temple street and Broadway, to Twelfth street, to Hill and to Washington Park, where military ceremonies will be conducted and medals will be presented by Admiral Rodman, Brig.-Gen. J. H. Pendleton and other officers representing the Army, Navy and Marine Corps. Lieut.-Gov. Young and Mayor Snyder will also participate in the exercises.

After the Washington Park ceremonies the guests of the Legion will go to Pasadena to see the football game between Army and Navy teams.

Beginning at 8:30 p.m., the Armistice Ball at the Armory will attract a crowd of many thousands. There will be a short entertainment program, including music by the Los Angeles Post "Jazz Eight," tableaux by Marshall W. Zeno and a group of fancy dances arranged and presented by Mme. Matildita.

WHERE UNITS ASSEMBLE.

The following table shows the places of assembly of all units that will participate in the parade. The groups are listed in the order in which they will be placed in column. All will be in position by 9:30 a.m.

Group 1.—Motorcycle police, mounted police, guests of honor, Firemen's Band, ex-service policemen, ex-service firemen; excepting guests of honor, all to form on Broadway facing east, with head at Broadway; guests of honor to be on Broadway, facing south, head at First street, to follow mounted police.

Group 2.—Overseas girls, disabled veterans of the World War, and Civil War veterans in automobiles; on Broadway facing south, head at First street, to follow the firemen. The cars will be parked completely across Broadway and will execute right by twos.

Group 3.—National Guard Band, Army detachment from Fort MacArthur, March Field and the Balloon School, sailors and marines from the fleet, National Guard units, Naval Reserve detachment; on First street facing south, with head at Hill street.

Group 4.—Lincoln High School Band and R.O.T.C., American Legion posts in this order; Los Angeles, Victory, Harbor; on Court street facing west, head at Broadway.

Group 4a.—Franklin High School Band and R.O.T.C., Gardena High School R.O.T.C., members of the American Legion and all ex-service men not attached to other units; on New High street, facing south, head at Court street.

Group 5.—Los Angeles High School Band and R.O.T.C., Ninety-first Division, Three Hundred and Sixteenth Field Signal Battalion, Three Hundred and Twenty-second Field Signal Battalion; on Hill street, facing south, with head at First street.

Group 6.—Band and R.O.T.C. to be designated later, ex-service men of Coast Artillery; on east side of Olive street, facing south, with head at First street.

Group 7.—Manual Arts High School Band and R.O.T.C., One Hundred and Sixtieth Infantry, Fortieth Division, Fourth Division; on Court street, facing west, with head at Olive street.

Group 8.—Polytechnic High School Band and R.O.T.C., Rainbow Division; on west side of Olive street, facing south, with head at First street.

Group 9.—Jefferson High School Band and R.O.T.C., Virgil R.O.T.C., Air Service, Engineers, Medical Corps, ex-service men of Navy; on Court street, facing east, with head at Olive street.

Group 10.—Harvard Military School Band and R.O.T.C., Loyola College R.O.T.C., Elks' Band, Elks, Veterans of Foreign Wars, Native Sons, detachments of veterans of Allied armies (British, French, Belgian and Italian,) Spanish War Veterans; on west side of Olive street, facing north, head at First street.

All units to assemble on Olive street or Court street west of Hill will get to their positions without using either Hill street between Second and Temple or First between Olive and Broadway.

Units will march in double column of squads, one column on each side of the street.

The reviewing point will be at Tenth street and Broadway.

Any organization that intends to participate in the parade and is not listed in this order will be placed as soon as the committee is notified of the intention of the unit to march.

At noon tomorrow former First Division men will meet at the rooms of Victory Post, 327½ South Hill street, to organize for participation in the parade.

OHIOANS TO FETE ON TWENTIETH BIRTHDAY.

The twentieth anniversary of the Ohio Society will be celebrated Tuesday evening at the Friday Morning clubhouse, 940 South Figueroa street. An elaborate program has been prepared and all former residents of Ohio are invited to attend. A message from President-elect Harding will be read by Attorney Frank M. Bering, secretary of the Federation of Ohio Societies of California.

A Statement by Edgar Apperson

Pioneer Automobile Manufacturer and President of Apperson Bros. Automobile Company

OVER a quarter of a century ago—in 1893 to be exact—when my brother, Elmer and I first started in the motor car business, we adopted as a basic principle the policy of building cars to market at fair prices.

As a result Apperson prices have never been inflated; are not now inflated; and never will be inflated.

Our prices always have been and always will be determined by the market cost of raw materials, plus the actual cost of labor and overhead with a fair margin added for manufacturing profit.

That this policy has been appreciated is evidenced by the greatly increased demand for our product.

You have probably noticed the majority of high grade motor car manufacturers have found it impossible to make any price reductions—in fact several have increased.

We guarantee the present Apperson prices until July 1st, 1921.

Judging from the material and labor market, there are no indications that they can be changed then.

PAVED HIGHWAY TO HARBOR SOON

Commissioners Decide Upon Sale of Port Bonds.

Terminal Island Bridge to be Part of New Work.

Orange County in Line for Support of Program.

Adoption of a resolution yesterday by the Board of Harbor Commissioners setting aside $2,100,000 for the construction of a paved highway on the mainland and on Terminal Island, and for the construction of a drawbridge across Long Beach Channel to the island, followed upon the heels of a pledge of support to harbor development from Orange county, and marked a week of progress in the work of making Los Angeles Harbor one of the great ports on the Pacific.

The money appropriated by the commissioners will be raised by disposing of the unsold portion of the $4,500,000 issue of harbor improvement bonds authorized by the voters last year.

The action taken yesterday was decided upon at a conference called by Mayor Snyder and attended by Attorney A. S. Halsted of the Salt Lake Railway, Assistant City Attorneys Stephens and Leach, the members of the Board of Harbor Commissioners and City Engineer Griffin.

SALT LAKE AGREEMENT.

It was a move on the part of the Mayor to iron out the differences which have been delaying approval of the contract between the Salt Lake Railroad and the city to permit the Federal government to widen the main channel. The conference ended in complete agreement, and it is expected that each step necessary to widening the channel will be promptly carried out, the final move being the signing of the contract by President Workman of the Council.

Mayor Snyder expressed himself yesterday as pleased at the result of his efforts to bring all of the parties to a complete understanding, and said that apparently all danger of losing the Federal appropriation for the widening work is ended, and that the government engineers will soon be told that Los Angeles has fulfilled its obligations and that the government work can start.

Assurances that Orange county is interested in and will suport the Los Angeles Harbor development program were given at a joint conference of the Los Angeles and Orange county chambers of commerce at Anaheim day before yesterday. It was the second of a series of meetings in the interests of the harbor. At the first meeting, in Pasadena last August, 200 representatives of Southern California communities formed a permanent organization to promote the interests and development of the harbor. A third conference will be held in Riverside in about a month.

HELPED BY SEA TRAFFIC.

Harry D. Riley, president of the Anaheim Chamber of Commerce and other Orange county speakers said that Orange county is squarely behind the move to further develop Los Angeles Harbor and that Orange county, with its big citrus and other crops has a direct interest in facilities for water shipments.

Maynard McFie, president of the Los Angeles Chamber of Commerce, was made chairman of the meeting. In his talk he emphasized the growing opportunities for foreign trade expansion and of the fact that all Southern California, including inland communities, will participate in the increased business.

Marius De Brabant, vice-president of the Los Angeles-Pacific Navigation Company, said that with passenger lines running to Los Angeles from the Mediterranean, Southampton and Cherbourg many immigrants now landed in New York would be brought here and that the problem of finding men to till the land would thereby be partially solved.

A. J. Frey, general manager of the Los Angeles Steamship Company, George B. Carpenter, president of the World Traders of Los Angeles, and others, predicted continued rapid growth of port business and urged the necessity for providing additional facilities.

"THE LOVE FLOWER."

Latest Griffith Photoplay Opens at Miller's Today.

Romantic in its phase of human interest, beautiful in its scenic placement, exquisite in its charm and tingling the blood to the verge of the melodramatic, "The Love Flower," David Wark Griffith's newest photoplay, direct from the metropolitan successes, will vie with that producer's other local presentation this week.

Griffith's latest contribution to the modern screen world, received as it has been in other important motion-picture centers with really great acclaim, makes its premiere at Miller's today. Naturally it is the object of much curiosity, the story of the play, "Black Beach," by Ralph Stock, having been featured in a popular weekly, where it found unusual favor.

Creator of some of the most advanced innovations in motion-picture production, discoverer and developer of many of the foremost stars of the screen world, Mr. Griffith has given to moviedom another superb spectacle. Heralded everywhere as a creation of rare charm, "The Love Flower" was but recently released by the United Artists' Corporation.

The story of "The Love Flower" has to do with Stella Bevan, whose father returns from serving an undeserved sentence in prison to find himself a social alien in his home town, and the breach between him and his unsympathetic wife is widened by Bevan's affection for, and his wife's hatred of, his daughter by a former wife.

Among the players in this dramatic love story, with its South Sea Island scenes, are Richard Barthelmess, Carol Dempster, George MacQuarrie, Anders Randolph, Florence Short, Crauford Kent, Adolphe Lestina, William James and Jack Manning, forming the utmost in well-balanced casts, and again revealing the excellent judgment of Mr. Griffith in the choice of his dramatic interpreters.

The play takes its name from the water hyacinth, the dainty floral emblem that passes between Stella and young Bevan when first they meet, and which serves as the lyric of love that finally unites the two.

TEMPORARILY MAD.

This is Plea of Man who Shot and Killed His Wife.

Temporary insanity was the defense advanced yesterday by the attorney for Augustus M. Estes, accused of the murder of his wife, Elena Estes, on October 16. The hearing was in Justice Hanby's court and was continued until Tuesday.

Testimony showed that the defendant shot his wife twice, the scene being the entrance to the Metropolitan Building, near Fifth street and Broadway.

The disappearance of an automatic pistol, with which the shooting was done, was a question raised by Fred Thompson, who represented the defendant. Additional evidence along this line will be introduced on Tuesday.

ASKS DAMAGES FOR ARREST.

Oscar Leuschner, who says Nathan Shapiro swore to a criminal complaint charging him with disturbing the peace, demanded $10,025 damages for false arrest in a complaint filed yesterday. Mr. Leuschner declares the charge was false and malicious. He was found not guilty in the Police Court.

Captain Collings sailed the seas for many years; then he sustained a bad double rupture that soon forced him to not only remain ashore, but kept him bedridden for years. POLITICS.

THE WATCHMAN.

TREND OF POLITICAL THOUGHT AND ACTION.

By the Sentry on His Beat.

With the smoke of battle fairly out of their nostrils and their senses attuned appreciatively to the bigness of last Tuesday's victory, the minds of local Republicans are turning speculatively toward the Federal appointments in Los Angeles that fall to the new administration. There is, of course, a keen interest in this question, though I must add that the movement of Republicans who feel themselves entitled to reward for campaign services has not yet assumed the proportions of the pie-counter rush which has characterized the Bourbon appetite in times gone by. In fact, Chairman Al Bartlett, who managed the victory for the Republican County Central Committee, tells me that the real boys likely to be struck by appointment-lightning are disposed not to press their claims at this time, but are marking time until the local Republican leaders have had an opportunity to powwow on the job situation. At any rate, neither Mr. Bartlett, himself, nor Louis M. Cole, who directed the southern end of the State Central Committee battle, is now on the job-seeking list. They tell me that the one thing on their minds is to shake the political shackles for the time and get back to their own business adjustments, which the campaign management left up in the air.

The Federal jobs to be filled by the new administration include those of Collector of Customs, postmaster, United States District Attorney and United States Marshal for this district, Collector of Internal Revenue, Registrar of the Land Office, Federal Prohibition Enforcement Director and a bunch of minor offices that belong to the victors. While the weeding-out of the Democratic incumbents will necessarily be gradual, for certain of them can hold on for a time by reason of fixed tenure, it would not surprise me to see a number of resignations handed in before long.

I am told that State Senator Charles Lyon and Attorney Joe Burk of Santa Ana have their eyes on the United States District Attorneyship; in fact, their friends have already placed them in the preferential position for this office. Frank Doherty's name has also been mentioned in the same connection. Frank did considerable work in the campaign and may think himself entitled to a plum. Gossip also connects the names of Leo Youngworth and Perry Weidner with the Collector of Customs berth, though neither admits a receptive mood toward anything political. Leo found considerable delight in the campaign in mixing in with the management, and now that it is all over no one is inclined to deny him mention in the victory. The matter of filling the Collector's job with a Republican, however, may go over for some time unless Collector Elliott decides to quit voluntarily. Legally he may hold on for a year or more.

The local postmastership has been yawning for an able administrator for some little time, and in filling it the party heads should give their first thought to an energetic business man. I was told yesterday that because of the closeness of its members to the city's business affairs, the Association for the Betterment of Public Service desires to have some say in picking the man to fill this important post. Special care, I understand, will be observed in picking a man to succeed U. S. Collector of Internal Revenue John P. Carter. This job is considered too important to go to some party worker without reference to his particular fitness.

Joseph Nolan, who did good service in Samuel M. Shortridge's Senatorial campaign, and Cadet Taylor of Pomona, who directed the city end of Congressman-elect Charles F. Van de Water's campaign, are mentioned for the United States Marshalship to succeed C. T. Walton. Nolan has two advantages that may give him the bulge on this important post. He happens to be a brother of Congressman Nolan, and I am told stands well with Senator-elect Shortridge. Mr. Taylor, however, may land in something equally desirable if he should not land the first. Claire Woolwine, who managed the speakers' bureau in the recent Republican battle, may loom up later for one of the legal posts to be filled, but right now is as mum as a clam about his aspirations.

Gov. Stephens will have a Superior judgeship to fill by reason of the election of Judge Gavin Craig to the Appellate Court. While the Governor himself has indicated no choice up to this time, I am told that friends of J. Walter Hanby and George E. Cryer, both of whom were nosed out in the Superior Court contest, will urge them strongly for the vacant place. Another name mentioned is Judge Dana R. Weller, who already has a good record on the bench. Gov. Stephens is known to regard him highly.

Friends of J. L. Matthews, who directed the southern end of the Republican publicity, tell me he is in line for an appointment in case he desires to enter public service, but the slate makers have so far no definite place for him. He publishes a newspaper in Covina, and happens to be independent of the inducement of official emolument, and up to this time, though he has been active in numerous campaigns, has studiously side-stepped job-holding.

I am told that throughout the Ninth Congress District a feeling of deep satisfaction prevails over the final elimination of Congressman Randall, who has managed to make himself a storm center for several years rather than to create a record for efficient public service. Congressman-elect Van de Water, as I size him up, is equipped with the kind of business experience and a sense of obligation to make him an ideal Congressman. Aside from his stand as a party man, he is likely to go to Washington with the primary idea of making good and not merely to perpetuate himself in office, as I am compelled to admit was the impression that Mr. Randall gave a great many in his district.

Senator-elect Shortridge will help himself materially if he appoints a capable private secretary to accompany him to Washington. To the ordinary mind, the service of a solon's private secretary is incidental, but in reality it is quite the opposite. Hundreds of important matters of great concern to the State must necessarily be delegated to an assistant, and the matter of choosing one of especial capability is something that occurs to the lawmaker once he adjusts himself to conditions at the national capital. The new Senator might do well to consider a Los Angeles man for this post. This, from the outset, would establish a valuable link between himself and his Southern California constituency. There is no particular reason that this berth should be filled by a northern man, except sentiment.

I am told that the Young Republican League, the purpose of which was to create and foster continuous interest on the part of the average voter in Republican ideals of government, intends to keep a watchful eye particularly on the winners in the State legislative contests in Southern California. It is proposed by the league heads to hold a public meeting prior to the meeting of the next Legislature and invite these new State lawmakers to be present and state their intentions with regard to the presentation of new statutes. Beyond this, it is proposed that a system of checking up on the lawmakers be established, with the object of determining which of them make good in the sense of fulfillment. The league points out that in the past we have had an insufficient amount of performance at the Legislature in proportion to the pre-election promises. On its face, this scheme has merits if only to keep an accurate record of the doings of our legislators.

From George E. Cryer and Ira F. Thompson, unsuccessful candidates in the recent Superior Court contest, I have received communications thanking The Watchman for good words spoken of them in the campaign. Mr. Cryer writes:

"Permit me to extend through you to The Times my most sincere thanks for your generous support of my candidacy for the office of judge of the Superior Court. I have never received an indorsement which I prized more highly, and the fact of its having been extended to me without suggestion or solicitation on my part made it even more deeply appreciated. Since my boyhood I have been a friend and admirer of The Times and have noted with the greatest satisfaction its growing power and influence in the community."

HOSPITAL TO BUILD NEW WING IF CASH IS RAISED.

Children's Institution, Noted for Never Having Been in Debt, Plans Addition to Meet Big Need.

When a great teacher once declared that men must become as children before they can know the gates of heaven, he doubtless had in mind that great majority of little ones whose spirits are untainted and whose lives flow like rivers of gladness. For there are children in the world with whom few of us—however painful or unhappy—would care to change places, and they are the ones whose diseased and crippled bodies are racked with pain and whose innocent minds are full of unbidden tears. Shut up in tenements or in dark asylums, thousands of these unfortunates are almost totally uncared for, seldom see the sweet light of day or feel the touch of sympathetic hands.

However, scattered throughout the country (yet all too rarely found) are many hospitals whose doors are freely opened to the afflicted children of the poor. One such institution as this is the Children's Hospital at Sunset Boulevard and Vermont avenue, the only hospital for children in Southern California. Starting nineteen years ago, with grounds, buildings, equipment and services donated by good-hearted people of the Southland, the splendid work of this institution has increased with the rapid growth of Los Angeles until today the hospital has 101 beds, usually occupied, and more than fifty competent physicians donate their services for many hours every week to alleviate the sufferings of boys and girls whose parents cannot afford to pay for their treatment.

FOR NEW BUILDING.

Because the number of rooms and beds is insufficient and because scores of sickly and crippled children are being turned away from the hospital each week to await their turn, Mrs. Albert Crutcher, president, and the other officials of the institution, are planning the construction of a new wing, to cost approximately $250,000, the work to start as soon as the people of Southern California donate the necessary funds. The officials do not doubt that the money for this noble purpose will be forthcoming for as one expressed it, "The population of Los Angeles consists of perhaps one-tenth of 1 per cent tent hogs and more than half a million human beings."

"Never before has the management of the Children's Hospital asked a cent of the public for building purposes," said Mrs. Crutcher yesterday. "The present group of class A buildings was built with donations from those who love children and have confidence in an institution that knows no creed or color. The growth of the city, however has made it necessary to enlarge the plant if we are to continue to look after the children whose relatives are unable to care for them. To give an idea of the work that is being done here it will be of interest to record that from Oct. 1, 1919, to Oct. 1, 1920, 6565 children were treated at the hospital. Of this number 1918 were cared for in the hospital. In the out patient department and free clinics 4647 children were given treatment, and in the crippled children's department 1598 little ones were treated in orthopedic, these cases covering every kind of structural and postural defect. In the medical and surgical departments 1660 children were treated, 363 of these being babies under 2 years of age."

CHILDREN CAN HELP.

Mrs. Crutcher stated that since the founding of the hospital the institution had never gone into debt and that it is not the intention of the officials to begin making debts now.

"We want to have the money in hand before we start building," said Mrs. Crutcher, "and we are confident that the people who donate to the cause will make their gifts without any strings attached. It would be difficult to promise that any specific amount of money donated will go into the construction of such and such a bed or room or door but we can and do promise that every penny will be used as wisely as possible in the general structure and equipment of the addition planned.

"I think it would be a splendid thing if the more fortunate children of the Southland could be encouraged to donate something toward the new building. If 100,000 children would be willing to deny themselves one picture show, or one 10-cent box of candy, it would mean a donation of $10,000 toward the alleviation of the sufferings of thousands of their brothers and sisters of the Southland. What a glorious Christmas present that would be! This would be better, I think, than putting thousands of dollars into a marble statue to commemorate a dead hero—for it would be putting roses in the cheeks and light in the eyes of living children. And did not the Master say, 'Insomuch as ye have done it unto one of the least of these, ye have done it unto me?' There has been some talk, I believe, about building a new children's hospital in Los Angeles, but would it not be far better to enlarge and improve the present institution, so long and so well established and so perfectly organized? We have nearly three acres of ground on which to build and the purpose is to erect the new building just west of the present structure."

SCIENCE GIVES ITS BEST.

Every discovery and invention that therapeutic science has to offer is brought into use at the Children's Hospital and all the medicine, surgical instruments and other apparatus are the gifts of individuals whose hearts went out to those children who were and are in sore need of help. Free clinics are held every day, to which any child under 12 years of age is admitted. In addition to the operating rooms, there is a large laboratory, an X-ray room and a splendid gymnasium, the latter being in charge of Miss Antoinette White.

In the gymnasium crooked little limbs are straightened, bodies strengthened and, in cases of paralytics, certain muscles are developed to take the place of the ones that are useless. The sanitary conditions of the building are perfect, the operating rooms exceptionally light and airy and sleeping porches are provided for all the little patients. During the last seven years the Board of Education has furnished a teacher who continues the mental training of the children over the time of treatment, thus allowing them to re-enter their classes when discharged from the institution. A social welfare nurse is employed to follow up all cases discharged from the hospital and to see that the little ones continue to have proper care. An automobile, donated to social service work, enables the nurse

RESHAPING THE BODY

REDUCE OR INCREASE YOUR WEIGHT

BY CORRECTIVE METHODS OF PHYSICAL EDUCATION

Physical education when properly taught will positively reduce or increase your weight. It builds up your general health—prevents disease and establishes complete co-ordination between the mental and physical forces and gives you the knowledge to do for yourself that which no one else can do for you.

Every woman owes it to herself to improve her physical appearance, and when rightly instructed has it within her power to attain the correct weight for her height.

A LADY PAID $20 for 20 Cents of Printed matter telling her to eat less—roll on the floor and other foolish stunts — for reducing her weight—after trying it without success she became a pupil of mine and in ten days has reduced six pounds without dieting or vigorous exercise.

—Any part of the body can be increased or reduced without vigorous exercises.

—The physical appearance can be improved and a healthy body the result of my teaching.

Corrective Method of Physical Education Did It.

Gained 15 lbs.

Pasadena Young Lady Made Happy.

Measurement Before and After—Height 5 ft. 7 in.

Weight 115 lbs.	130
Chest 31½	35
Hips 33½	37½
Biceps 9¼	10
Forearm 7¾	8½
Calf 12	14

—This gain in weight changed her whole physical appearance.

—This young lady accomplished just what any one can under my teachings. She acquired firm elastic muscles, not an ounce of fat.

—It is just as easy to reduce one's weight as to increase—no vigorous exercises are necessary. Come and talk to me and I will convince you of my ability by showing proofs of my work covering twenty years' experience.

Gymnastics is for the strong child and for the athlete. Great harm is caused by performing strenuous exercise by those whose age or habits have weakened their tissues or vital organs.

Twelve Lessons Completes a Course

You will have acquired the knowledge as it pertains to your particular needs. You will be able to execute instructions without fatigue, without any strain on your organs. Fortify yourself against disease; build up contentment, your physical forces—it spells peace and happiness.

Twenty Years of Success

as a physical educator. Hundreds of the best families of Chicago, Pasadena and Los Angeles have been taught HOW to become STRONG—STAY WELL—and always remain at NORMAL WEIGHT.

Prominent physicians and laymen speak highly of the splendid results attained by my teachings. To those interested credentials will be shown that will positively remove any doubt they may have as to my ability.

No Obligation Incurred by Calling on Me.

Will gladly explain my method of teaching to anyone interested.

RENT HOGS ARE GETTING SCARED

Drop Haughty Demeanor and Are More Reasonable.

Rapid Home Building Factor Bringing 'Em to Time.

American Legion Activity is Frightening Gougers.

Four straws yesterday showed that the wind is blowing against the rent hog sooner and harder than even the most wearied tenant had hoped for.

First came the announcement from F. D. Sweger, executive secretary of the housing commission of the department of health, that Los Angeles is now building homes at a faster rate than even New York and that if the present rate is maintained the supply of houses in this city should before very long get somewhere near the demand.

Second, Messrs. Etherton and Williams put up on schedule yesterday their instant home, an attractive tent-house arrangement, and announced that they have already received over 100 orders for abodes after that model and that by the middle of this month their plant should be putting them out at a good rate daily. The crowd which gathered to see the 12x15 tent house go up at the corner of Fourteenth street and South Grand avenue showed an interest which landlords would do well to think over.

Third, the boys of Post No. 8, American Legion, are pushing their plan of securing army tents from the government in a way that indicated that they mean to get results. They also said that inquiries and applications have been pouring in ever since announcement of the project of a municipal tent city was made.

GREEDY ONES NERVOUS.

Fourth, the Chamber of Commerce began reaching out into nearby towns, and even as far as Catalina, in search of quarters outside of this city to which it could divert all persons who could not secure reasonable and satisfactory quarters here. Secretary Wiggins stated that a feeling of nervousness seems to have come over the greedy type of landlord, for many who previously had disdained to offer their accommodations through the bureau maintained by the chamber are now fairly deluging it with offerings, and are making them far more reasonable than ever before. Likewise many people who have never before rented rooms or portions of their houses have started offering them with a view to upholding the fair name of the city and in the hope of so flooding the market with places for rent that a general reduction in charges will ensue.

"We prefer to keep people here in Los Angeles," said Mr. Wiggins, in discussing the reason prompting the chamber to send scouts out to nearby towns to list available quarters for tourists, "but we also feel that it is just as much a part of our work to make people feel that they get a square deal here as it is to get them here. When people are being treated unfairly here, or say that they are, we will tell them that they can get a furnished house in Catalina for from $25 to $40 a month, and we will also place before them all of the information which we may have on other places close to Los Angeles. The best thing for the city, of course, is to keep people here when they want to stay here, but the first task before the Chamber of Commerce is to get a place for these people to live, and we are going to do our best to accomplish that.

"I really feel that a turn in the tide has already set in," he continued. "People are not only listing places faster than ever but a new spirit seems to have come over many of them. People now call up and say that they can spare a room or two if the need is urgent, but that they do not know what is a fair price, and they would like us to fix it for them. That is quite an advance over the haughty demeanor and the ridiculous demands which characterized the offerings of the more greedy a few weeks ago."

Working with these four factors in helping to give pause to the rent hog is the steadily growing sentiment among the substantial element of the community that rent profiteering is not only an injustice to the tenant, but is doing real damage to the city.

"I believe that this problem involves the raising or lowering of front-foot values all over this city just in proportion as we solve it fairly and in a broad way, or greedily and in a short-sighted way," said one of the prominent realtors of the city yesterday.

"The future of the city and the permanency of real estate values here are not bound up with temporary hold-up rentals, but depend on steady, sure returns on investment. Such returns on real estate can only be assured by a steady inflow of population and by a constantly mounting percentage of permanent, all-the-year-round residents. It would be sheer folly for Los Angeles, at the time when she is more favorably known than almost any city in this country, to allow every detractor who wishes to keep people away from here to say: 'Yes, it is nice out there, but you must expect to get skinned.'"

"I only hope that The Times will keep on putting the rent hog in the limelight, and burning him up with it," said S. W. Meyers, who has charge of the rent-hog fight for Post No. 8 of the American Legion."

Letters received by Los Angeles people from the north tell of complaints of profiteering made by traveling salesmen who visit this city. The manager of a Spokane (Wash.) drug company writes that recently a salesman complained that he was charged $7 a day for the privilege of sleeping on a cot in the hall of a Los Angeles hotel, and on another occasion was charged $15 a day for a room of the kind for which he pays $5 a day in hotels of the same grade in other Pacific Coast cities. The Spokane business man writes that these reports are so general that many northern people who usually come to Los Angeles during the winter months are planning to spend their vacation at San Diego.

At the Chamber of Commerce tourist housing bureau it was stated yesterday that some difficulty is caused by misunderstanding that leads people to call by telephone to list houses or rooms for rent. The bureau cannot take listings by telephone. They must be written out and sent in or, better yet, brought in personally.

COURT FLAYS LANDLORDS.

In awarding Miss Katherine Fehr, a young saleswoman, $350 damages for the treatment she received at the hands of the new landlords of the apartment she occupied, Judge Valentine yesterday made it plain that he had no sympathy with rent profiteers.

Miss Fehr for several years had been paying $16 for the monthly rent of a room in the Ratcliffe Apartments, 1329 West Fifth street. Louis and Katherine Peterson became the new landlords, and immediately they jumped the rent on Miss Fehr and other tenants of the apartments to $35 a month. Miss Fehr protested. She refused to enter into an agreement covering the jump in rent.

The evidence showed that the Petersons locked her out, and stowed her personal belongings in the basement. She was in poor health and was compelled to take refuge with friends because there was no other place for her to go.

"While it is not the province of the court to consider anything but the evidence developed in the case," said the court, "it was sufficient in this case to show beyond question that the defendants were of the class at present stigmatized as rent profiteers; that they had not been satisfied with a reasonable rent, but as soon as they acquired possession of the apartment-house, they immediately raised the rent of all of the tenants.

"This poor working girl had declined to enter into the agreement which they swore under oath she had made covering the increased rent. Notwithstanding her declining, they had come into court and sworn they had given the proper notice when the documentary evidence in the case showed that was not true. They immediately took the law into their own hands, threw her belongings out of the apartment she occupied, while she was at work in a store, and when she came home at night, refused, though she was ill, to permit her to remain there overnight.

"When people so flagrantly violate all rules of humanity as well as justice, they must pay for it."

Englishman Makes European Tour in Plane; Travels 3250 Miles in Month.

[BY CABLE—EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

LONDON, Nov. 6.—A flight of 3250 miles for business is a new record just made by an English business man. He is R. Wright, a Manchester engineer, who has just returned here from a tour of Central Europe in a Handley Page flying machine. The return trip was made from Jassy, 215 miles beyond Bucharest, by way of Strasbourg. From Strasbourg a record nonstop flight was made to London, a distance of 420 miles, in three hours and fifty minutes. From Jassy to Cricklewood the distance is 1625 miles.

"It was a very successful and enjoyable trip," Wright said. "I was away a little more than a month and covered 3250 miles in all."

To Dispose of Whole Carload of Real Stuff.

A carload of grain alcohol, containing 3527 gallons, that has been held by the Federal authorities at San Diego, by order of U. S. Attorney O'Connor, was libeled in a proceeding taken before U. S. District Judge Bledsoe, yesterday. It will be disposed of under the law. At present high prices the value of the cargo is estimated at not less than a half million dollars.

The stuff was seized some time ago and held until the officers could learn whether it had been taken out of the local or the San Francisco bonded warehouse. Following the seizure the asserted owner of the alcohol appeared in the person of Manrico Cardinale of Tia Juana, who declared that he intended to manufacture perfumery with it. When it was pointed out that Tia Juana had no such factories, he shifted the reason and said that it was to be used to make liniment for the horses on the Tia Juana track.

The prohibition enforcement officers made a raid on the Ocean Jewel Cafe, 214 West First street, yesterday, and captured the proprietor, Roxy Ned Ostaja, and an automobile load of assorted liquors. The stuff was seized. Ostaja was arraigned before U. S. Commissioner Long. He gave bond in $500 for his appearance.

Ostaja admits that he has violated the national prohibition and the Volstead acts, according to the statements of the arresting officers, and will plead guilty at the first opportunity.

The Best Support in the World

For a Rupture

Is the Human Hand

The WORST Support Ever Devised, Is a Hard, Unyielding Knob or Pad, Pressed Into the Rupture by a Steel Spring—Thereby Preventing Nature From EVER Having a Chance to Bring A Healing of the Parts.

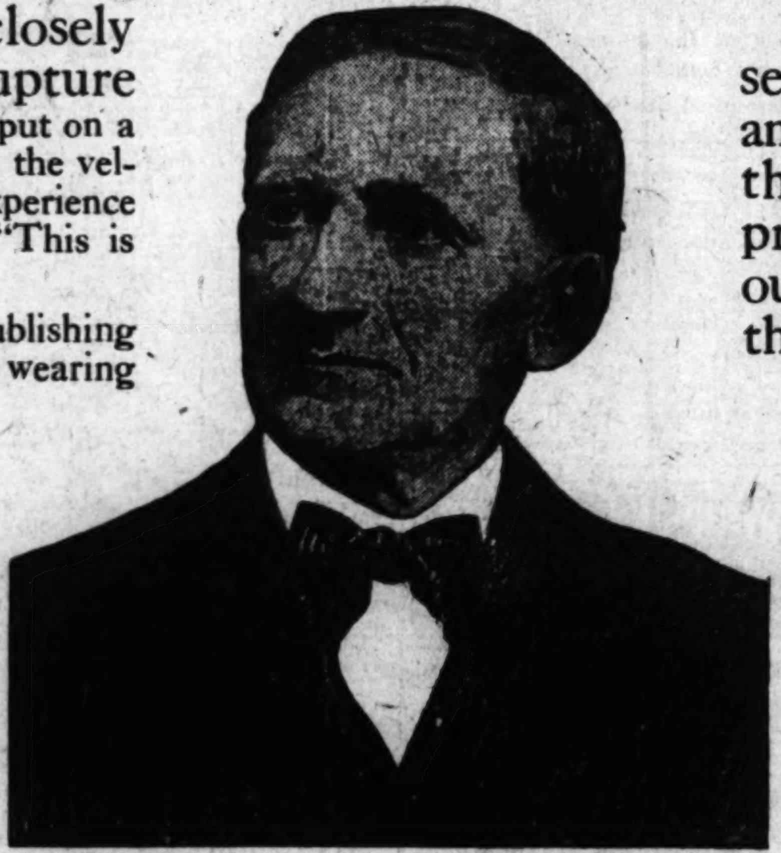
The Brooks Appliance most closely resembles the human hand as a rupture support. You will notice the first moment you put on a Brooks Appliance, the pliable, flesh like touch of the velvet finished rubber and it will take only this first experience of comfort and security to make you decide—"This is what I want."

For the benefit of readers we take pleasure in publishing the Brooks offer to save all who are ruptured from wearing painful makeshift trusses that do not cure.

No man or woman ever can look and feel his or her best while suffering the torment, pain and discomfort of rupture.

Every day that you suffer from rupture—every hour of truss torture that you endure—after you read this page is your own fault.

For many years we have been telling you that no make-shift truss will ever help you. We have told you about the harm ill-fitting trusses are doing. We have told you that the only truly comfortable, sanitary and scientific device for holding rupture is the Brooks Rupture Appliance.



A Portrait Done in Charcoal by Herman Pfeifer, From a photograph of Mr. C. E. Brooks, Inventor of the Appliance and Founder of the Brooks Appliance Co.

Now we offer to prove it to you, entirely at our risk. We will send you a Brooks Rupture Appliance on trial. If you really want to be rid of your rupture fill out the coupon below and mail it today.

Instead of wearing a steel spring or inflexible harness, try the velvet-soft Brooks Appliance.

Instead of the old hard or stuffed pad, use the soft automatic rubber air-cushion of a Brooks Appliance.

The Brooks Appliance clings to you without force and you are hardly conscious of its presence. But above all else, it HOLDS always.

Within an hour after you receive the Brooks Appliance, if you take advantage of this remarkable trial offer, you will throw away your truss.

Many hundreds of physicians and surgeons recommend the Brooks Appliance and condemn makeshift trusses as more harmful and dangerous than any other method of retaining and treating rupture. Thousands of people have written us testifying to the amazing results they have secured from this great invention. Many of these people live right in your vicinity and we will be glad to send you copies of their thankful letters if you will ask for them when you write.

Men, Women and Children Find the Brooks Appliance Equally Effective.

No matter if your rupture is old and severe or only recently developed, no matter if you are young or old, you should not fail to profit by this No-Risk Trial Offer.

No other rupture support, truss, lock, device, pad or plaster is offered to the public under so broad a guarantee of satisfaction.

The Brooks Appliance Has Freed Thousands of Men, Women and Children From Rupture—Without Pain, Operation, or Loss of Time

Over 715,000 People Have Accepted This Offer. Why Not You?

Doesn't that prove that the Brooks Appliance is not an experiment but a positive success—that it does all we claim for it? Among these 715,000 men, women and children there must be hundreds whose condition was identical with yours. Can you afford not to investigate and satisfy yourself when it costs you nothing to prove what the Brooks Appliance will do for you?

This wonderful device is a triumph of scientific and mechanical genius, the outcome of more than 30 years' experience and the results accomplished by its use are little short of miraculous.

When you try a Brooks Appliance you will notice instantly how very much this support resembles the touch and clinging pressure of a human hand.

Send the coupon NOW for further description of the Appliance and for our FREE, NO RISK TRIAL PLAN.

The Brooks Appliance Co. gladly send their remarkable patented Appliance ON TRIAL to prove that it holds the rupture back, keeps it in place, prevents it coming down or slipping out and finally assists nature to heal up the rupture.

Ten Reasons Why You Should Accept This Offer

1. It is absolutely the only Appliance embodying the principles that inventors have sought after for years.
2. The Appliance for retaining the rupture cannot be thrown out of position.
3. Being an air cushion of soft rubber it clings closely to the body yet never blisters or causes irritation.
4. Unlike ordinary so-called pads, it is not cumbersome or ungainly.
5. It is small, soft and pliable, and positively cannot be detected through the clothing.
6. The soft, pliable bands do not give the unpleasant sensation of wearing a harness.
7. Nothing to get foul; it can be washed without any injury.
8. There are no metal springs in the Appliance to torture one by cutting and bruising the flesh.
9. All materials are the very best that money can buy, making it a durable and safe Appliance to wear.
10. We guarantee your comfort at all times and in all positions, and sell every appliance with this positive understanding.

The Times Literary Page Books and Their Makers

By Thomas F. and Lillian C. Ford

THE YOUNGER SON IN FICTION.

An Uproariously Funny Picture Which Incidentally Shows the Finer Qualities That Underlie the British Chappies' Foppish Veneer.

THE LITTLE WARRIOR. By Pelham Grenville Wodehouse. George H. Doran Company, New York.

As a writer of rollicking fiction, as absurd as it is exuberant, the name of Pelham Grenville Wodehouse, like that of Abou Ben-Adhem, leads all the rest. And the implied comparison with old Abou is not as absurd as it might seem, for surely no one who did not love his fellow-man could or would exert himself in order to give them joy.

"The Little Warrior" is almost if not quite as jolly a production as "A Damsel in Distress," and that is saying a good deal.

It is a joyous melange in which the author moves his leading characters from London to New York and guides them through a maze of experiences sometimes farcical, sometimes not, but always provocative of mirth.

That the plot is as full of absurdities as a musical comedy, that characters are mostly burlesques, and the style as inconsequent as is the structure, only adds to the success of the book. For Mr. Wodehouse, as the slip cover suggests, is one of these happy mortals born with the power to turn everything he touches into a source of innocent merriment.

His most successful character is the British Chappie, glued to his monocle. In this book it is Freddie Rooke, who plays that part. Note the way in which this delectable fop is introduced:

"Freddie Rooke gazed coldly at the breakfast table. Through a gleaming eyeglass he inspected the revolting object which Parker, his faithful man, had placed on the plate before him.

"'Parker!' His voice had a ring of pain.

"'Sir?'

"'What's this?'

"'Poached egg, sir.'

"Freddie averted his eyes with a silent shudder.

"'It looks just like an old aunt of mine,' he said. 'Remove it!'"

So Mr. Wodehouse drolls along with the effect of spontaneity, never tired of poking fun at his characters and at the world in general, but possessed of an acuteness of perception and a knowledge of mankind that renders even his caricatures something more than creatures made of ink and paper.

With all his lightness, Mr. Wodehouse can be serious, as is shown when he discusses theatrical producers and their ways that are dark and tricks that are vain. He handles such gentry without gloves, jabbing home at every opportunity.

We cannot but suspect that this attitude toward producers is the result of some rather unpleasant personal experiences of Mr. Wodehouse, who is the author of several musical comedy successes. He has had experiences and it has made him not sad, but just a little sour in this one respect. But this drop of acid only helps to produce the froth, the sparkle, the effervescence that makes "The Little Warrior" the pleasing draught it is.

Mr. Wodehouse is 39 years old. He joined the staff of the London Globe in 1902 and in 1904 he succeeded Harold Bergie in the editorship of the "By the Way" column of that paper. He is third son of Henry Ernest Wodehouse and as many of his characters are the younger sons of British gentry, we readily understand the fidelity to type of these characters.

Properly Introduced.

The tourist had just reached the top of a hill outside the village, when he came upon a large crowd.

In the center of them, as he pushed his way forward, he discovered that two men were fighting each other with bare fists.

"What's the fight about?" he asked.

One of the locals, who was egging the two men on, answered him, just as the antagonists broke apart for a breather.

"On my right," he said, in correct boxing parlance, "is Job Hodges wot married Widder Green, and on my left Ben Blinks, wot interduced him to her!"—[London Answers.

THE ADVENTURES OF A MODERN OCCULTIST
By Oliver Bland.

This profoundly interesting book details the author's researches into the debated fields of Occultism and Magic, and opens up an entirely new vista for the average reader. It is not the usual book on "mediums" and "psychics," but an account of original investigations into Ceremonial Magic; Black Magic; the Powers of Incense, Drugs and Perfumes; the Astral Light, Protective Vibrations; Possession; Oriental Occultism; The Reality of Sorcery, etc. It is the first volume to appear in this country dealing with these topics. It is sane, clear and written in a simple, fascinating style.

THE MAGAZINES.

The Century.

A decidedly interesting number is the Century Magazine for November. The leading article, "In the Land of the Basques," by Francis Augustus Rugg, takes us in a leisurely way through the romantic domain of these "warders of the Pyrenees," whose remarkable history makes them one of the most fascinating races of Europe. The article is well written and is enriched and illustrated by a remarkable series of photographic illustrations.

Ernest Boyd writes interestingly on the "Enchantment of Distance," and Agnes Carey continues her series, "An Empress in Exile," dealing particularly with Farnborough Hill and its inmates. Herbert Adams Gibbons deals with "America's Interests and the Revision of the Treaties." A very remarkable series of paintings, eight in number, by W. Herbert Dunton, entitled, "The West of Today," is attractive. "The Worship of Beauty in the South Seas," by our own Frederick O'Brien, whose recent book, "The White Shadows in the South Seas," is one of the best sellers among nonfiction books, is a typical O'Brien article. Into it he has woven all the color and romance of the region and to read it is to live the life he describes.

Ralph D. Paine's series, "Lost Ships and Lonely Seas," is continued in an account of the tragedy that befell the frigate Medusa. There is fiction a plenty. "The Awful Miss Brown," by William Cairns; "Calf Love," by C. S. Evans; "Initiation," by Louise Forsythe, and "The Tug of War," by Phyllis Bottome.

Atlantic Monthly.

An outstanding feature of the Atlantic for November is a series of letters entitled, "From an Austrian Prison," written by Alice G. Masaryk, eldest daughter of the life President of Czecho-Slovakia. The letters are glowing in their simplicity. They give an account of this girl's experience while a prisoner of the Austrian government, held, in defiance of all civilized usage, as a hostage for her father, who was beyond the grasp of the Austrian authorities. "The Future of the Cotton Industry," by Melvin T. Copeland, is an authoritative statement as to the present conditions and the future prospect of this industry. It is pointed out that with the increased purchasing power of many of the backward nations and with the ever-increasing demand for cotton in manufacturing industries, particularly in the automobile trade, the problem that really confronts the nations heavily interested in cotton is the producing of sufficient raw material to meet this expanded demand.

Sisley Huddleston pictures Europe of today under the caption, "The Human Spirit in Shadow." Charles Bernard Nordhoff's article, "Marooned on Mataora," a real romance of the South Seas, is one of the interesting narrative features of this issue. Cornelia James Cannon asks the rather startling question, "Can Our Civilization Maintain Itself?"

Gamaliel Bradford gives us a pen portrait of Grover Cleveland that throws new sidelights on his character.

There are other articles, fiction, a sonnet by Olive Tilford Dargan, a poem by Gretchen O. Warren, and the usual Atlantic features, not the least important of which is the Atlantic's bookshelf.

British Artist's View.

Mrs. Walter Sefton,
Author of "High Society," just published by G. P. Putnam's Sons, New York.

ENGLISH WOMAN ARTIST FINDS GREENWICH VILLAGE DULL PLACE

Mrs. Walter Sefton, well-known English artist, who, under the name of "Fish" has done many drawings for American humorous magazines, and whose book of satirical sketches, "High Society," has just been brought out by the Putnams, has formed some interesting impressions of New York City and of American society.

"Don't you New Yorkers ever sleep?" she asked the interviewer who visited her at her hotel to find out what the Big City seemed like to an Englishwoman who had only been in America two weeks. "I suppose you must sleep some time, for recently I noticed an advertisement of a motion picture called 'While New York Sleeps'—but when, yes, when do you sleep? Since my arrival from England a month ago I have marveled at the New Yorker's ability to keep going at all hours of the night. At 2, 3 and even 4 o'clock in the morning the taxicabs keep dashing past my hotel until I wonder whether they aren't all participating in some endurance test. How different your night life is from ours. In London things are very quiet after midnight; here things begin to liven up about that time.

"New York's artist colony, Greenwich Village, isn't nearly so thrilling as I expected to find it—or did I happen to strike it in one of its human moods? The two artists I met refused to perform—one discussed building construction all night, the other talked about his babies. No risque conversation, no dissertations on art—just babies and building construction.

"While English and American 'high society' are different in many respects, they have one thing in common—the brainless busybody. In America the things essential to this person's comfort are a spiritualistic seance now and then, a sex-problem novel, a Pomeranian dog, a limousine with a coat of arms inscribed on one of the doors, her name in the society columns once a week and a husband whom people characterize as distinguished looking. In England she is the same with the exception that instead of a husband she has a poet-worshiper (England, you know, is fairly overrun by poets)—and instead of a sex-problem novel she has a book of the poet's songs. In both countries this type has 'literary evenings,' and these affairs are usually very interesting, especially when those present begin to discuss Shakespeare's 'Vicar of Wakefield,' or Tennyson's 'Ancient Mariner.' And when Thackeray's 'Paradise Lost' comes up for discussion, these affairs become positively fascinating. I'll never forget the fun I had in depicting these types in my book.

"Your prohibition does not seem to be very effective, does it? In England, when a law is passed, we take it for granted that it must be obeyed and we obey it. Here you pass laws and then get busy at once thinking up ways of breaking them. How we English have squandered sympathy on you poor liquorless children! And all the while you have been drinking as merrily and almost as copiously as before. I'll grant that some of you have suffered—those of you who have to put up with the home-brewed cocktail, but even that is a drink and you don't deserve half the sympathy we have lavished on you.

"Won't you solve the mystery for me? Why do husband and wife enjoy themselves separately at so many of your social functions? This was done at most of the affairs I attended, the husband and wife each being presented with a 'partner' for the evening. How odd this seems to an Englishwoman! You don't seem to take marriage so seriously as we do. When my husband and I were at Hot Springs recently, a kindly soul advised us not to be seen together too much; it wasn't smart, we were told.

"Which reminds me that the use of the word 'smart' as a synonym for 'exclusive' is unknown in England. It is an American invention, although, of course, England also has its people who try to be 'smart.' You will find some of these people between the covers of 'High Society.'

"Broadway is a wonderland. At night, when its marvelous signs are illuminated, it presents a spectacle that one cannot see anywhere else in the world. My husband and I have visited Broadway at least a dozen times since our arrival and what we have seen has never failed to thrill us. Broadway, more than anything else I have seen, has made me realize the vast racial difference between America with her smashing enterprise and England with her far more conservative tendencies."

Mrs. Sefton does not like our dances. "They have no grace or rhythm and what their raison d'etre can be I am at a loss to understand. And these dances seem such hard work for the men. The girls seem to enjoy them thoroughly, but the men—poor things—wear a worried look and seem to be longing for an opportunity to thump the inventor of these impossible steps.

"I like your advertisements. They are wonderful—and yet there are those who say you are not a literary people," she said with a laugh.

"Speaking of literature," she continued, "would you mind giving me a list of some good contemporary American poets?"

The interviewer was worried. Who are the good contemporary American poets? He didn't know, but he took a chance and named his favorites, Robert Frost, Edwin Arlington Robinson, Vachel Lindsay and Louis

RECENT FICTION.

MARY WOLLASTON. By Henry Kitchell Webster. The Bobbs-Merrill Company.

A novel risque enough to arouse the curiosity of those who seek sensation, but discreet enough to pass muster in most public libraries. Why Henry Kitchell Webster chooses to skirt along the edge of sex problems while writing a novel that must make its appeal to the young and romantic if at all is probably best known to himself. The point is that only mature minds can consider such problems as he presents dispassionately; that the book is not written for such readers is self-evident.

The resemblance of the heroine's name to that of the bold spirit who mothered Shelly's wife, but never took the name of Godwin, is apparently not without intent. For this Mary also has the courage of her convictions. She took the plunge that made her not the innocent and pure young thing she appeared, and then tried to tell her tale to her father, her brother and most of her friends, but no one would listen. So poor Mary had to pose as an angel just because she happened to look like one.

Even in the fast life she led in New York during and after the war she looked like "a seraphic vision gone astray," so that the natural impulse of anyone seeing her drinking and smoking in the cafes she frequented with her gay friends was to rush to her rescue. "Her coloring," we are told, "helped the illusion along, the clear unsophisticated blue of her eyes, the pallor of her hair that the petals of a tea rose could have got lost in—it was, literally, just about the tint of unbleached linen—and the pearly translucence of her skin. If you got the opportunity to look close enough to see that there wasn't a grain of powder upon it, not even between the shoulder blades, it made you think of flower petals again. What clinched the effect was her healthy capacity for complete relaxation when no effort was required of her. She drooped a little and people thought she looked tired. She never could see herself like that and never made due allowance for the effect she produced, invariably, upon strangers and not infrequently upon an old friend."

This unlikeness of Mary to her appearance is the motif of the book. We find it woven in and out a score or more of times, until we form the habit of waiting expectantly to hear just what it was that Mary had done that made her not as other heroines. Only at the last is the story told, and by that time we have discounted it enough to have it lose its effect. In fact, one is tempted to doubt the veracity of the author and to think, that he has gravely maligned his witching heroine just for the sake of producing a new effect. Thus putting the sin upon the author, we are able to take Mary at her face value and all is well.

Along with Mary's hectic story is that of her father, a famous surgeon who has married a young wife, an opera singer. Paula is a little more inconsequent and erratic than are most artistes in fiction, and so she is a little difficult to grasp. Then there is Anthony March, a man who thought he wanted to be free of all entangling alliances, but who assumed the fetters of matrimony with considerable grace when his time came. He is another of those fascinating vagabonds that walk through our novels at such a pace, capturing the hearts of all susceptible readers. Many a 16-year old maiden will dream of Anthony. He has a philosophy of his own and is at least distinguished among heroes for not sticking to the double standard of morality.

Take it all in all there is no reason why "Mary Wollaston" should not become a widely-read novel; it has action; plenty of heart interest; and no end of gripping situations. And Mr. Webster is the master of a style that is in no wise hard to read. The story first appeared in one of the popular magazines and is now published in book form.

MARGOT'S PROGRESS. By Douglas Goldring. Thomas Seltzer, New York.

This, the slip cover tells us, is the story of a modern Becky Sharp. As most readers will see it, the only resemblance lies in the fact that both Becky and Margot are adventuresses. Neither in method nor in mind are the two alike. And it might also be added that Mr. Douglas Goldring has not yet attained to the same degree of genius as the creator of Becky Sharp; also that there is no indication that he will in the very near future.

Margot Cartier, who started life in Montreal as Maggie Carter, the daughter of a Montreal small grocer and his French wife, had achieved style and a sense of her own value while employed at Estelle's, a fashionable couturiere. First she had been a mannequin, because of her lovely figure; but she had quickly proved her skill as a saleswoman, and had become popular with madame's clientele—so much so that her employer had been bitterly disappointed when Maggie decided to leave. "I'm going to Paris, madame," Maggie had said very decisively; and the old Frenchwoman, in spite of her chagrin in losing so useful and attractive an employee, had not been able to resist sympathy with this natural determination. She gave Maggie an introduction to a friend of hers in Paris, saying, "She will soon find you something to do, Miss Carter, if you decide to stay in Paris." The smile with which this was said made its underlying significance plain to the girl, but she had no intention of taking any such dubious method of life.

Success in big terms was what she sought and what she eventually achieved. By using one person after another with nice calculation she managed to get settled in London and to meet and marry a scion of British aristocracy. It is all very sordid, a little disgusting, and not quite convincing until at the last we see Margot come to a realization that wealth and social position do not make her happy. There is a glimpse of something other than sheer materialism here, but it is weakened by the cold cruelty of the woman in her disposal of her husband, who is in fatuated with her even th has come to hate and dis

IN THE AIR AND ON THE SEA.

THE LAFAYETTE FLYING CORPS. Edited by James Norman Hall and Charles Bernard Nordhoff, Associate Editor Edgar Hamilton. In two volumes, with illustrations. Houghton Mifflin Company, Boston.

This is an elaborately gotten up story of the Lafayette Flying Corps. It has been carefully edited and well illustrated and the introduction was written by Marshal Foch.

The first volume contains biographical sketches, with portraits, copies of citations, etc., of the 215 men who were brevetted in the French service and actually served at the front with the French combat or bombardment squadrons; a brief history of the Lafayette Flying Corps from the date of its organization in 1916 until January, 1918, when most of the American volunteers were transferred to the United States air service; reproductions of the official documents, letters, etc., dealing with the history of the Lafayette Corps; and official lists of victories, men killed in combat, prisoners of war, etc.

Volume II is an intimate history of the Lafayette Flying Corps as told by the men themselves in letters, or extracts, most of which have never been printed. These selections are extraordinarily interesting and give a most accurate and vivid account of the life of the American volunteers at the front during their service with the French.

Photographic illustrations for the history have been gathered with great care, and the collection is probably the most complete which has been made of the airman's life at the front during the Great War.

The whole work is published by the authority of the Executive Committee of the Lafayette Flying Corps. It is undoubtedly the only history which will ever be writt sumptuous format it make manent and beautiful the most glorious pages of A history.

A very delightful miscellaneous shower was given at the home of Mrs. Dan Bard of 61 West Sixty-first street, Los Angeles, on Saturday afternoon, in honor of Miss Milfred Huckings of this city, whose marriage to Rolland Venable, will take place soon. The house decorations were yellow and black. The gifts, which were many and beautiful, were presented in a huge pumpkin. Friends from Santa Paula, Tulare and Redondo were present. Miss Mary Cresswold, a cousin of the guest of honor, assisted the host in entertaining.

Miss Margaret Glazier of La Habra, was the guest over Sunday of Lorel Davis, at her parents' home on Emerald street. A trio of young people motored down from Fullerton and enjoyed the plunge and dance as Miss Davis's guests, Sunday afternoon. They were Miss Avis Coffee, Mort Jones and Lee Wilson.

TORRANCE.

The Torrance Tennis Club held another one of their original and delightful meetings Monday evening at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Sam Rappaport. After a short business session, the members enjoyed a game of five hundred for a couple of hours, then an old-fashioned spelling match was held. The ladies, of course, easily won all honors, Mrs. J. S. Lankaster winning first for the best speller in the crowd and Mrs. R. H. Smith won second. Much merriment was occasioned by the weird way in which some of the words were spelled. Honors were divided in the card game, Mrs. Harry McManus and Mrs. Von Hagen winning the ladies' prizes, and Mr. Von Hagen and George Proctor carrying off the gentlemen's honors.

Hirum Reeve and son will make an extended tour of the East. They left Tuesday and expect to be gone a month. While away they will visit St. Louis, Chicago, Cleveland and Pittsburg, combining business and pleasure.

Mr. and Mrs. L. A. Wesley and Mr. and Mrs. W. Rice are Los Angeles people that have purchased property here and will make their home in this city.

THE LETTERS OF MRS. ANTROBUS.

[Mrs. Antrobus, formerly of Sydney, Australia, writes home.]

Los Angeles, Nov. 4.

My Dear Millicent:

We have just survived a general election here and the Republicans have won. Everybody seems to think that means a rush of new prosperity, although it did not see possible [illegible] for any country to be more prosperous than this. Why, in this town everybody has a car, even the workmen and the girls who work in the packing-houses. You know how stylish it is to own one's own motor in Australia and how petrol, which they call gasoline here, is four shillings a gallon. It is only one shilling and three half pence here and they seem to think that dreadful. All the women I have met drive their own cars, although the traffic is awful. Two or three of them have cute little baby baskets and drive around with their babies everywhere and look so jolly.

They are very disconcerting, these American women. They seem so capable and yet in some ways they are so silly. For instance, dear, they nearly all wear evening dress in the day time. I went to a little afternoon party and mine was the only high gown there. And think of it, in this sunny country, where their climate is their chief asset, they pull down all the blinds and turn on the electric lights for a daytime party. Yes, really. And just because it is done "back east," meaning the Atlantic side of the continent, they all wear heavy furs with the sun shining and the temperature at 70 and it does look so ridiculous and they can't comfortable. And the men all automatically discard their straw hats on October 1, although they would certainly be the logical wear all the year around here.

Another thing I find so interesting is the exclusively feminine party. I suppose the American man is so engrossed in business that he cannot be lured away in the day time, but quite large stylish functions are given with elaborate appointments and full dress, just for women. They don't seem to miss the male element at all but are really most vivacious. You know how flat we should find such parties in Sydney. I begin to see that we really depend a great deal too much on the men.

But the women's clubs are still the most amazing things to me. They took me to a Women's City Club, which has nearly 2000 members including women in all classes of life—minister's wives, merchants' wives, women doctors and lawyers, working women, surburban mothers— all on the best of terms and social equality. I am afraid, dear, we are dreadfully snobby in Australia. We still think it is rather a disgrace for a woman to earn her living, don't we? But here one finds a young woman from a department store holding high positions in the club, making clever speeches, and rated entirely on her own personal merits. I met a forewomen tailoress who quite enchanted me with her manners and amazing fund of information.

At this club they were all up to date in politics and listening to speakers on both sides of every question. And they often have what they call "candidates day," when they invite these men to come and explain themselves, answer embarrassing questions from the floor, and generally submit to a regular courtship. Oh, can't you imagine what an incredible innovation this would be at home? Yet we, too, all have votes. I am afraid we got our votes too easily, we certainly don't begin to figure in politics like the women do here.

I went to another party where the women were all so smart and well-groomed, many of them in rich furs that I thought I must have broken into the very elite of social sets. Then I discovered they were all school-teachers. You know our Australian teachers are nice and all that but they could never deceive one into supposing them social queens, could they? Many of them had their own machines, too, yet is was amusing to hear them all complaining of their salaries and they told me that a little while ago they were all considering a strike for higher pay. It seemed too utterly incongruous, this group of chic, cultured gentlewomen talking about striking just like miners and tram conductors!

Another friend took me one of their luxurious hospitals to visit a "sick friend." We met said friend, a jolly plump dame, in the corridor, tricked out in a French negligee, saucy French boudoir slippers and cap, visiting the other patients and distributing her flowers amongst them. It appears she is a bereaved widow who decided she needed a rest and is taking this method of getting it. She said that all the time her late husband was ill, she envied him the attentions he received and is now indulging herself with a long-planned story of petting. She hires two special nurses and looked as if she was having the time of her life. She has beauty specialists come in to improve her charms and told us of her plans for some very chic mourning. Yet they say she was a really devoted wife and nobody is criticizing her for these amausing indulgences. She spoke feelingly about the virtues of the late lamented, and then went right on to say she had warned the young men at her bank "not to rush her too hard, there was plenty of time." Could you find a case like this anywhere but in this amazing America?

Which reminds me. Even the social elect go to hospitals to have their babies. Yes, really. You know we at home always feel it rather shameful to have a baby in a hospital, but here it is just the other way round. And oh, my dear, even the most modestly-placed people lavish expense on their babies—no wonder they can't afford to have many.

Yet as against this, boys in good families go barefooted, wear corduroy clothes, and play in the streets. I must say the California children all look wonderfully healthy. But they are very independent and, according to our notions, seem rather impertinent at first. But I am beginning to understand their attitude and have decided it is not impertinence but just self-confidence. You see, there is very little of that suppression of youth here that we think so necessary to good discipline, but I don't believe they are any the worse for it. They grow up much sooner, of course, but it is all right when one is used to it.

I have tried hard to keep an open mind and not indulge in the silly criticisms that so many of the British do here. I remember how disgusted I was when visiting Americans belittled everything with us that we happened to do differently. There are several little colonies of British here who never get over this critical attitude, but after years of residence peeve about all sorts of ridiculous things. I certainly can't understand how any British woman can complain about California; women have a wonderful time here and enjoy privileges and equalities that the British men will never concede them if they can help it.

Personally I can already call a blouse a "waist," and botts "shoes," and biscuits "crackers" and porridge "mush" and pavements "sidewalks" and trams "streets cars" and blinds "shades" and rhubarb "pie-plant" and marrow "squash," but it is an ardous language to learn, dear, because so many of the same words mean something else. For instance, I complimented a lady on her homeliness and found that I was actually alling her ugly; and ugly here means cross and unpleasant.

So long dear,

Yours affectionately,
SOPHIA ANTROBUS.

RECIPROCITY TEA IS ARRANGED BY D.A.R.

WEDNESDAY MORNING CLUB PLANS BAZAAR.

At the Wednesday Morning Club last week Lillian Burkhart Goldsmith entertained the audience. Her program on romance and duty as handled by English writers, was prefaced by humerous stories.

Berenice Johnson in the public welfare section talked of the political situation in the city and State. She commented upon the marked intelligence displayed by the ordinary voter in marking the ballot.

Vocal numbers given by Miss Helen Heller were especially good.

Mrs. Walter Vanvalkenberg was appointed Curator to fill the vacancy on the board of directors caused by the death of Mrs. H. H. Harrison, and on recommendation of the directors Miss Helen Meigs, first secretary of the club, was by unanimous vote made an honorary member.

An affair is planned for December 8 at which a bazaar will be only one of many attractions. Mrs. Frederick Gladhart, assisted by Mrs. Frank Wilmot, will have charge of a fancywork section that will help solve the Christmas present problem and Mrs. F. J. Thayer of the French class will have supervision over another section. Vaudeville and blackface minstrels will be features.

On December 10 Dr. A. H. Sutherland will talk on "Psychology in Education," based on his experience as director of psychology and research in the public schools. Miss Nell Stegner will give musical numbers and Mrs. F. J. Thayer will be club hostess.

MUSIC SECTION GIVEN GLIMPSES OF FRANCE.

Last Monday the music section of the Los Angeles Travel Club met with Prof. Ralph Laughlin at 11 o'clock, after which Mrs. Edward C. Shoene invited all present to her apartment and where a delightful luncheon was enjoyed. The president, Mrs. Grace Nicholson called a board meeting when a number of important business features were discussed and at 2 o'clock the regular business meeting of the club was held. Chairman of different sections gave reports and Mrs. E. C. Kesling, Mrs. May Wood Hoffman, and Mrs. Grace Nicholson each presented a book of Thrift Stamps and Mrs. W. C. Finch gave $5 to the club treasury fund.

After the business meeting Mrs. Olive Ellis read a paper on the "Rivers of France" and Mrs. Edward Shoene, one on the "Climate of France."

Tomorrow at 2 o'clock Mrs. Ellen French Aldrich, chairman of the public affairs section, will give a repoart of the biennial convention at Des Moines, Iowa, and Dr. Jessie Russell will talk upon some of the important present-day issues. Mrs. Harry L. Hartman, chairman of community service, has secured Supervisor R. F. McClellen to speak on the "Girls' Home at El Retiro."

Mrs. Chester Smith, chairman of finance, wishes to remind the members of the bazaar to be held on the 29th inst.

TO GIVE READINGS FROM REVELATIONS.

Lillian Burkhardt Goldsmith will read the book of Job at a meeting of the Pasadena Shakespeare Clue Tuesday at 2:30 p.m.

To the Bible section to meet at 10 a.m., Miss M. Winifred Rouzee, the director, will present the subject, "Fulfilled Prophesy, Substantiating the Inspiration of the Scriptures."

At the book and magazine section meeting the subject will be "The Trend of the Modern Magazine," by Mrs. W. F. Thurston. Mrs. J. H. Pearman will preside.

Miss Mary Wallace Weir and Miss Katherine Davis will be the luncheon speakers. Miss Weir was stationed in Constantinople, serving as professor in the Woman's College for two years, and was also engaged in Red Cross work. Miss Davis will speak of her experience in relief work in the Near East in connection with the Red Cross.

DANCES IN FOLLIES.

Los Angeles Girl Makes Hit in "Village" Show.

Mlle. Phoebe, Los Angeles girl and pupil of Ernest Belcher of the Celeste School, is winning the plaudits of New York audiences with her ballet dancing in the Greenwich Follies. Mlle. Phoebe is the feature in the metropolitan revue. But a few months ago she was here, appearing in pictures.

A short tour over the Orpheum circuit won her eastern attention. Immediately following this she signed with the Follies.

Her partner is none other than the noted Ivan Bankoff.

The pair are scheduled for another Orpheum tour this winter that will bring them here for two weeks.

CHINESE STONE PICTURE MAKERS.

Director Frank Lloyd and the Goldwyn Company filming "Out of the Dark" met with obstacles while taking Chinatown scenes in San Francisco, whence they have just returned tothe Culver City studios. The Chinese residents turned in fire alarms on streets where the players were working and even went so far as to throw stones at the company. One of these missiles struck Alan Hale, an actor, but did not seriously hurt him.

The Chinese said that their race is picture ond the screen in an unfavorable light—that the scenario writers always make the yellow men out to be "dope" peddlers and gunmen. Director Lloyd tried to explain that the Chinese in "Out of the Dark" was a good Chink, but the orientals said they had heard that story before from other companies.

ABLE MUSICIANS ON ORPHEUM BILL.

The Orpheum has been harboring, more or less incognito, the past week, two very well known eastern musicians. They are Howard Collins, the musical director of "Bits and Pieces" and Thomas Griselle accompanist for the McFarland sisters.

Mr. Collins has been prominent as a director of both light and grand operas for the last twenty years.

His last visit to the Coast was about seventeen years ago as musical director of "The Wizard of Oz." Since that time Mr. Collins has been almost continually in New York. He was the director of "Oh my Dear," "Oh Boy," "Leave it to Jane," and in fact all of the Comstock and Gest productions of the last five years.

It is rather astonishing to behold a man of this caliber with a vaudeville act, but the need and importance of an above-the-ordinary musical director was seen by the producers of "Bits and Pieces," since it contains as many musical numbers as the general run of big shows, and is playing with new orchestras almost every week.

On his last trip to the Coast Mr. Griselle was accompanist for Alice Nielsen. He has also played a season with Mme. Olive Fremstead and was Nora Bayes's pianist for two years.

BEAUTY QUITS GERMAN MATE.

Princess Pless Believed to Have Left Her Husband.

Was Held in England During War as Alien Enemy.

Now Back in London for Her Own Good, 'Tis Said.

BY LADY MARY.

[SPECIAL FOREIGN CORRESPONDENCE.]

LONDON, Oct. 14.—The beautiful Princess Pless, who has again taken p her abode in London, has, I hear, efinitely left her German husband, hough I understand no legal proceedings of separation have been aken.

Princess Pless, whom we used to now as Princess of that title, is the der of the two famous daughters of e late Col. Cornwallis West of thin Castle (the younger being the ecently divorced Duchess of Westinster,) and has always been rearded as one of the loveliest Enlishwomen of her time. Her bapmal name is Margaret, but preous to her marriage a dozen years more ago to the then Prince Hen of Pless she was always known as Daisy" Cornwallis West.

MANY RUMORS.

During the war, which made her enemy alien, it was persistently ispered that the Princess had been ested as a spy and was a prisoner the Tower of London. But then, sorts of unlikely people were cond in the Tower, according to idely credited rumors. The Prin's husband, Prince Pless, is now of his family, and, had it not en for events following the war, uld have been ruling over a small

SISTERLY DEVOTION.

I have been exceedingly interested ely, by the way, in noticing the detion that evidently exists between rincess Pless and her famous sisr-in-law, Mrs. George Cornwallis West, better known to the general ublic as Mrs. Patrick Campbell, the ctress. It will be remembered that Mrs. Pat" (as she is generally lled in the theatrical world,) is successor in name and marital s to Lady Randolph Churchill, o married George Cornwallis est in the early days of this cenry and divorced him about six ars later. Mrs. Pat and Lady andolph (or Mrs. George Cornwal West, as she was then known,) d to be devoted friends, and, as th ladies are enthusiastic and brilnt musicians, they frequently gave mber concerts, at which they uld play duets upon the piano y delightfully.

HARMONY ENDS.

It is to be presumed that Cornwallis West turned over pages of the famous actress's with considerable fervor. At rate, his wife brought a suit orce against him, which was d, and they separated. Lady dolph gave up the name of ornwallis West and publicly anced her return to her original rried title by permission of the g, and within two years of her vorce, made still another matrinial venture, becoming the doestic partner of Montague Porch, most distinguished and charming ntleman, who, like George Cornllis West, is many years the junior his distinguished wife.

WEDS AGAIN.

In the meantime, George Cornallis West also sought and d another partner in the game matrimony in the person of Patrick Campbell, and now the e of General Post, it is to be umed, has been more or less rmanently brought to a finish. At y rate, "Mrs. Pat" and Princess e are apparently on the most afionate terms, and are to be seen ther in theater boxes whenever ew play is produced.

The Princess has one of her sons h her just now at her flat in ightsbridge. This lad, Prince illiam of Pless, is tall, fair and tonic looking. He seems to be eedingly happy in England, alh I am told that his elder ther has most definitely anti-En sympathies and feelings with his father in the splendid Schloss that was formerly the residence of the reigning head this German principality.

VING SEASON OPENS IN PEARL ISLANDS.

The opening of the pearl-diving n, the great event of the year the French settlements, comes in ptember. Diving is not permitted two years in succession at the island. The various pearl s are opened in rotation. This e that all gear, stocks of merdise and building material must taken to a new island each year— mall undertaking when it is rembered that the coral atoll, h in ordinary times supports than 200 persons, becomes in diving season the abiding place 3000 or more.

This year the open island is Hiku, one of the Paumoto archipelago, miles to the eastward of Tahiti. Already this lonely atoll is taking a metropolitan appearance. BEAUTY QUITS GERMAN MATE.

Princess Pless Believed to Have Left Her Husband.

Was Held in England During War as Alien Enemy.

Now Back in London for Her Own Good, 'Tis Said.

BY LADY MARY.

[SPECIAL FOREIGN CORRESPONDENCE.]

LONDON, Oct. 14.—The beautiful Princess Pless, who has again taken up her abode in London, has, I hear, definitely left her German husband, though I understand no legal proceedings of separation have been taken.

Princess Pless, whom we used to know as Princess of that title, is the elder of the two famous daughters of the late Col. Cornwallis West of Ruthin Castle (the younger being the recently divorced Duchess of Westminster,) and has always been regarded as one of the loveliest Englishwomen of her time. Her baptismal name is Margaret, but previous to her marriage a dozen years or more ago to the then Prince Henry of Pless she was always known as "Daisy" Cornwallis West.

MANY RUMORS.

During the war, which made her an enemy alien, it was persistently rumored that the Princess had been arrested as a spy and was a prisoner in the Tower of London. But then, lots of unlikely people were confined in the Tower, according to widely credited rumors. The Princess's husband, Prince Pless, is now head of his family, and, had it not been for events following the war, would have been ruling over a small [illegible].

SISTERLY DEVOTION.

I have been exceedingly interested, by the way, in noticing the devotion that evidently exists between Princess Pless and her famous sister-in-law, Mrs. George Cornwallis West, better known to the general public as Mrs. Patrick Campbell, the actress. It will be remembered that "Mrs. Pat" (as she is generally called in the theatrical world,) is successor in name and marital status to Lady Randolph Churchill, who married George Cornwallis West in the early days of this century and divorced him about six years later. Mrs. Pat and Lady [illegible] (or Mrs. George Cornwallis West, as she was then known,) [illegible] to be devoted friends, and, as both ladies are enthusiastic and brilliant musicians, they frequently gave private concerts, at which they would play duets upon the piano delightfully.

HARMONY ENDS.

It is to be presumed that Cornwallis West turned over pages of the famous actress's music with considerable fervor. At [illegible], his wife brought a suit for divorce against him, which was [illegible], and they separated. Lady [illegible] gave up the name of Cornwallis West and publicly announced her return to her original [illegible] title by permission of the [illegible], and within two years of her [illegible] made still another matrimonial venture, becoming the domestic partner of Montague Porch, a distinguished and charming [illegible], who, like George Cornwallis West, is many years the junior of his distinguished wife.

WEDS AGAIN.

In the meantime, George Cornwallis West also sought and found another partner in the game of matrimony in the person of Mrs. Patrick Campbell, and now the game of General Post, it is to be presumed, has been more or less permanently brought to a finish. At any rate, "Mrs. Pat" and Princess [illegible] are apparently on the most affectionate terms, and are to be seen together in theater boxes whenever a new play is produced.

The Princess has one of her sons with her just now at her flat in [illegible]bridge. This lad, Prince [illegible] of Pless, is tall, fair and good looking. He seems to be thoroughly happy in England, although I am told that his elder brother has most definitely anti-English sympathies and feelings and lives with his father in the splendid [illegible] that was formerly the residence of the reigning head of a German principality.

[illegible] SEASON OPENS IN PEARL ISLANDS.

The opening of the pearl-diving season, the great event of the year in the French settlements, comes in [illegible]. Diving is not permitted two years in succession at the same island. The various pearl islands are opened in rotation. This means that all gear, stocks of merchandise and building material must be moved to a new island each year—a big undertaking when it is realized that the coral atoll, which in ordinary times supports less than 300 persons, becomes in the diving season the abiding place of 3000 or more.

This year the open island is Hikueru, one of the Paumoto archipelago, lying to the eastward of Tahiti. Already this lonely atoll is taking on a metropolitan appearance. The profits to be gained come not only from the pearl shell won from the lagoon, but also from the sale of all sorts of wares dear to the native heart and from the providing of entertainment to refresh the weary diver and his womenfolk after the labors of the day are over. The average native diver wins a good sum from the bottom of the lagoon and much of it goes on expensive silk dresses for his wife and daughters, [illegible] delectable canned goods of the "popaa" (white man) and on the [illegible].

This year there are to be, it is said, three moving-picture theaters, a number of motor cars for hire—the length of the roadway in Hikueru is less than one-half mile, but that apparently does not make any difference—a brass band, and it is reported electric lights along the "Great White Way" of this little coral island.

Advices indicate that the season this year at Hikueru will be the biggest in many years. It is estimated there will be at least 1000 divers at the island. These, together with their families and the traders and their staffs, will swell the population of the island during the season to nearly 4000.—[L'Echo, Tahiti.

$1000.00 in Prizes

For the Best Title to this Picture

By Charles Dana Gibson

YES, one thousand dollars given away—1st prize, $500.00; 2nd prize, $300.00; 3rd, $200.00—and the best part of it is that everyone has an equal chance. Democrat or Republican, pro or anti, married or single—it doesn't make a bit of difference. Perhaps you have never even seen LIFE—no matter, this is for everybody.

For twenty-two years readers of LIFE have been winning prizes by giving titles for pictures. And they've had so much fun out of it, in addition to the money they've received, that this time it has been decided to let the other people who haven't yet had any fun out of LIFE, try a hand.

Think of it! $500.00 in cold cash for writing from one to ten words. Isn't it worth trying? An idea you already have in mind may be the very one that will strike the judges as being the best. Even if you get the smallest prize offered—that alone amounts to $200.00.

Rules of Contest

All that is necessary is to send in your titles before the closing date. The titles are limited to ten words—but if you can put your title in five or even three words, do so. Brevity is usually the soul of wit. Titles may be originals or quotations.

Send in as many titles as you want. Send in the first one that occurs to you now. Later you can send in others. Jot down your title or titles on any sheet of paper, sign your name and mail to the Contest Editor of LIFE.

The final award will be announced in LIFE as early as possible after the close of the contest. Checks will be sent simultaneously with the announcement. In case of ties, $500 ($300 or $200) will be awarded each winning contestant.

The contest is now open. It will close at noon on November 30th, 1920. Remember, all you have to do is to write your title on a piece of paper, sign your name and address and mail it to Contest Editor of LIFE, Dept. 116, Box 262, G. P. O., New York, N. Y. Send in a title to-day—then others, if you think of better ones.

Money Saving Offer

Of course you know LIFE, the sprightly weekly magazine of fun with its many pages of brilliant humor and satire in picture and text—the magazine which has dominated black and white pictorial art in America. LIFE has more regularly contributing artists than any other paper in the world. It is the only magazine to whom Charles Dana Gibson, America's greatest black and white artist, contributes.

To enter this LIFE Contest, you have no entrance fee to pay whatsoever. And LIFE will co-operate with you in making it easy for you to land one of these big prizes by reprinting in its pages in the next few issues the pictures and winning titles of previous contests, besides the present contest picture will be reproduced in a way that will show up the details and facial expressions much better than can a newspaper cut.

You can buy LIFE at your newsstand, 15 cents a copy, but in order to be sure of getting it weekly—if your dealer is sold out—you can accept this special offer and save money at the same time.

Just mail the coupon below enclosing a single dollar bill and you will receive the next twelve issues which also includes the 25c Christmas number. This means that you get $1.90 worth of LIFE for only one dollar.

The People and Their Daily Troubles

DOROTHY DIX TALKS

AND ALSO INTELLIGENCE.

BY DOROTHY DIX.

I have received a letter from a man who says: "In your matrimonial articles you say much about good humor, good housekeeping, etc., as requisite essentials of a good wife. All good and very true, but an excellent servant can all of these qualifications and yet not qualify a good wife. You have missed the main point. th not on bread alone.' In addition to all comforts, we men require one overpower- essential, and that is education and intelligence ability to understand and appreciate the finer of life.

For generations women have been taught to pan- the physical side of man to the exclusion of mental. This is a mistake that has been respon- for 90 per cent of the failures of marriage, and continue to be the cause of the break-up of in the future unless writers of your type the matter in hand. Have you ever stopped to that men's clubs are the re- of the lack of mental under- at home?

When are well read, and have on topics of the day, opin- that are based on intelligence on prejudice, they will have in finding the proper hus- and there will be more home husbands."

perfectly agree with my corres- as to the value of the in- educated woman, who is to be a comanion to an edu- intelligent man, and who can him as spicy conversation as a dinner. Also, I agree with that the cause of most men from their own fireside is they get so bored listening same line of chatter of the they have picked out for life that flesh and blood can't trouble with the situation, is that most men want one in a woman before marriage another thing after marriage. be exact, they want all the and virtues bunched in one and as nature deals out her with a pretty impartial hand, find the paragon that even ordinary of the masculine is his due.

man, for instance, wants a wife young and beautiful, and slim and highly educated, sympathetic, and a good cook, thrifty manager, and as Sarah said of Mrs. Harris, "There such a person." When you nature has been over gen- the outside of a girl's head find that she has skimped inside furnishings.

A.'s and Ph. D.'s their names, whom you know, would never look in at a beauty being the case, and poor men to make a choice more or between the different types of he has made the mistake of out a wife that was easy eye instead of one whom it be easy to live with. And the foolish men have made mistake. Even the wise make Hence the prevalence of divorce. the living picture is bound in a few years, and a man of looking at a picture He wants somebody to talk somebody who will understand and who can sympathize with somebody who is interested in that he is interested in, can wander hand in hand down the pleasant path- of literature, and art, and education and intelligence know that he is going to want of a wife, but does he take to provide himself with mind is on a par with He does not. He marries a fluffy-ruffles without two ideas in her head because she's pretty. Just pretty. The girl doesn't fool him. She couldn't. A woman can camouflage good looks with clothes and cosmetics, but she can't imitate brains, and give a life-like illusion of being clever and entertaining if she is dull and stupid.

Now the country is overflowing with clever, educated, intelligent girls. The high schools and colleges turn them out by the thousands every year. And they are mostly sitting at home of evenings reading Ibsen, while their silly little sisters, with pretty painted faces and a conversational repertoire that consists of giggles and "I said," and "He said," and "Ain't it fierce," and "It sure was some party," are out at parties, and theaters, and joyriding with men who will marry them, while the female intellectuals are earning their own bread and butter.

Of course there are a few men who pick out their wives for something more than their looks, and these marriages are invariably happy marriages, for when the romance that daily life is bound to tear to tatters, is thrown into the discard, and when beauty has fled, these people have still left comradeship, and a mutual interest in thousands of different subjects. And they never get on each other's nerves because they never bore each other.

My correspondent is right. Most of the marriages that are failures go on the rocks because the wife is not the intellectual equal of her husband. But it is the men who pick out their wives. The problem is up to them.

Pawtucket Woman Converts Pastime of Doll Making into Productive Business

"WON'T you please let me come in and play with one of your dolls?"

This request, uttered in a high, childish treble, and backed by the further urge of a very earnest little face, used to be an everyday occurrence at the front door of the cottage occupied by Mrs. M. J. Chase of Pawtucket, R. I.

That was some thirty years ago. Now these very kiddies have children of their own, but they don't have to summon up their courage to go to Mrs. Chase's front door. They can go to any one of the big toy shops and make their own choice of dolls from the five sizes which this early and insistent demand made it necessary for her to put on the market.

Partly for her own children and partly because she felt the need of doing something to occupy her mind, Mrs. Chase began to work on the idea of a hand-painted and loose-jointed doll. For several years she made these dolls purely for pleasure, giving them away to the children in the neighborhood. Finally, after some five or six years, Mrs. Chase went up to Boston and, while there, went into a toy store to fit some shoes on one of her gift dolls. The clerk who waited on her became enthusiastic about the doll and insisted on calling on the buyer, with the result that—in spite of her protestations that making dolls was her pastime and not her business—Mrs. Chase consented to make up a few as a trial order.

In a few months orders began coming in from all parts of the world. Even India, Australia and Sweden demanded a supply of the soft cuddly playthings and Mrs. Chase was literally forced into business on a large scale. She still maintains that the most interesting part of the whole affair was the way the idea grew almost without any work on her part. "But," as she adds, "it's mighty good to know that I'm still making lots of children happy in all parts of the world."

LETTERS TO "THE TIMES."

The Hidden Hand.

LOS ANGELES, Nov. 4.—[To the Editor of The Times:] Just at this time, the "hidden hand" of the S. P. Company is being manifested here, through their so-called Business Men's Association—and at Pasadena through its so-called committee of one hundred. Nineteen years ago, when the Ocean Shore Railroad Company started to get a franchise to build a road from San Francisco to Santa Cruz, this company did everything possible to prevent it; even going to the extent of buying property on the right of way. Then, when the right of way was condemned, they paralleled the road fourteen miles up the coast from Santa Cruz and took the business of the cement plant there.

When the Western Pacific was trying to get the waterfront at Oakland, they not only fought them in the courts, but kept an armed guard day and night for several weeks—but the W. P. won out. They fight in the open and in the dark—in the courts, in front of the bar, and behind the back door.

It is to be sincerely hoped that at least a majority of our Council are not "spineless" and will not stultify and degrade their positions by yielding to the dictations of the S. P. Company. Also, that the people of Pasadena will not listen to the protestations of the S. P. and P. E. committee of one hundred and the bankers, who always favor the corporations, as they are corporations themselves. Let us hope that notwithstanding the opposition of the S. P. and the P. E., which are both one—we will ere long have a magnificent union station at the Plaza. GEORGE NEWMAN.

From an Old Timer.

LONG BEACH, Nov. 4.—[To the Editor of The Times:] Take it from an old-timer, we are going too fast a gait. It is time to put on the brakes and slow down.

The majority of the people are keyed to such a pitch, their lives are not normal.

In the mad rush every man strives to get all he can with a minimum of exertion. There are too many shirkers on the road and too few helpers to bear the load. The hysteria over the Japanese menace is overworked. The 3,000,000 of whites are in no danger of being trampled on, or hog tied by 150,000 Japs. One count against the latter is they work too hard—working fourteen hours a day. If all the white men would work half as long it would be better for them as well as the State. There are a large number of retired farmers living here, who made their money by hard work. They rose before the sun and were on the job until after it had set. My memory harks back to a time when able bodied men were paid $10 a month and board, to work in a brick yard. No eight-hour shift, either.

It is not so much what a man earns; but what he saves that counts.

Thirty years ago a man was living in a small town in the Middle West. He had a wife, a wagon and team and owned his home. He cultivated some lots and did odd jobs about town. His neighbors claimed that he didn't make more than $1 a day on an average. His wife may have been the best man of the two. She took in sewing, clothed herself and supplied the most of the food they ate, but between them they saved up $10,000 in thirty years. There were no moving-picture shows and other allurements to relieve them of their coin as there are in the present generation. W. B. McDONALD.

Speaking of Hearts.

LOS ANGELES, Nov. 4.—[To the Editor of The Times:] For the many intellectual symposia we have attended at the behest of the President, since his return from Paris, the piece de resistance has usually been "heart"—of the world, sometimes, served broken—of the covenant, sometimes, served cut out, or torn out, according to the state of mind of the host.

The election has shown that the American people believe this heart to be a pretty tough old muscle; that they are willing to have it served again, and are prepared to receive it with calmness, in what condition, soever, it may be offered for their delectation—even with the same imperturbation as was shown by the Washington hostess of ante-bellum days.

It was at a dinner party; the dessert was to be a plum pudding, for the compounding of which Mrs. Poore's black cook was famed. But just before the psychological moment for its serving the table-maid hastened to the side of the hostess, and, her every feature registering consternation, exclaimed: "Oh, Missey Poore, de pudden's bust!" And Mrs. Poore replied: "Well, Susie, we'll have that pudden', bust or no bust."

It may be that the American people are willing to have Mr. Bryan's heart served again, if he cares to take it out of the grave-y where he soused it a few months ago.

A New View.

GLENDALE, Nov. 2.—[To the Editor of The Times:] There is an ancient law in existence that no one seems to be aware of which reads "Six days shalt thou labor." There is no record that this law has ever been repealed or amended, and yet, our legislatures and governors are continually shooting it full of holes with so-called legal holidays. Where are all of the reformers? Why does not some one rally to the support of this part of the law? This is the foundation stone of what follows. Why? O. H. JONES.

About Building Associations.

EAGLE ROCK, Nov. 4.—[To the Editor of The Times:] I am much interested in an article in a recent issue of The Times on the organization of a new building and loan association in Los Angeles to be known as the mutual and the assertion that there are hundreds of these associations in the eastern States, mentioning Philadelphia with more than 800 and Newark, N. J., with more than 400. The undersigned is from Newark, N. J., and has been active there for many years in purely co-operative building and loan work, and the associations such as you have here in California do not exist in the eastern States. I am surprised that there are no co-operative building and loan associations here, but presume it is the lack of the get-together spirit due to new associations in a new country that time will overcome. It is due to the people and workers, that the newspapers should enlighten them on the great work that the building and loan associations are doing for the home builders of the eastern States, especially so in Pennsylvania, Maryland and New Jersey. W. T. BENJAMIN.

Walt Mason Talks.

LA JOLLA, Nov. 5.—[To the Editor of The Times:] In The Times yesterday there was an editorial paragraph referring to the Wainwright murder case as something of recent occurrence.

I have long contended that the Newgate Calendar and the Police Gazette should be studied in our public schools, and there should be a chair of homicidal history in our universities. People waste their time studying the things that don't count, and when they grow up they are forever displaying their ignorance of the things that do count. When a writer refers to such an epoch-making event as the Wainwright murder as though it happened yesterday, well, may we ask whither we are drifting. It might also be well to inquire if it isn't time to call a halt.

It is true that Mr. Wainwright removed a young lady because he didn't indorse the shape of her legs—not her ankles; but this happened about sixty years ago, and was the London sensation when Charles Dickens was in the full glory of his reputation; and he was so impressed that he made Wainwright, thinly disguised, the hero or villain of a story called "Hunted Down," which he sold to the New York Ledger for a princely sum. Thus we see that it is an ill wind which blows nobody good; and it is a long lane that knows no turning, and birds of a feather flock together.

Read up on crime, and don't waste so much valuable time over theological works. WALT MASON.

Front-Door Entrance.

LOS ANGELES, Nov. 4.—[To the Editor of the Times:] There is no problem before our city and county of greater importance than this of a convenient and centrally located railroad terminal. In times past the railroads have always had the whip-end of all terminal bargaining. Some days ago, in company with a bunch of Times readers, we went carefully over the Plaza district, taking in all of precincts 676, 677 and 678. One of our friends remarked: "It seems as though providence has miraculously preserved to our city this spot as a rendezvous for a great railway terminal system, and that it is now pleading with us to put it to this beneficient use—even if only out of self-respect and municipal pride."

You notice that all that section including the above precincts north and east of the Plaza is at present a positive eyesore and so it is likely to continue until it is appropriated for some such service municipally.

In years to come, when reflecting upon our experience and first impressions on entering other cities by their uninviting approaches, what pride we will all take in seeing Los Angeles a bright exception, with a really creditable and adequate front-door entrance for our increasing multitude of tourists!

I wish I might call your readers' attention to this in a way that would lead each to look into the merits of the problem as seriously as if he felt that the future of our city depended upon himself alone. Here is an obvious need, and a rare opportunity for meeting this need. But if we are lax in improving this opportunity now we play into the hands of the railroad that is chiefly interested in opposing this great improvement.

The Boston Trade School for Women and Girls recently opened a nine months' course in box making, divided into three periods of training. After a period of instruction at the school the girls spend a second period between school and factory, and during the last three months will return to the school for a study of specialized process. Active interest on the part of the box manufacturers, followed by an investigation of the industry by the school, led to the inauguration of the course.—[Vocational Summary.

The boatwoman, whether she be a single woman or a wife or widow, is the head of the house, that is to say, of the boat. She does the steering, makes bargains with the passengers, collects the money, buys supplies and in general lords it over everything.

May Fish but Not Bathe.

Under the English common law no one has a right to bathe in the sea. This was decided by the courts a hundred years ago, and an attack on the decision at the beginning of this century failed to upset it, the higher court deciding that in the strict legal sense one could fish in the sea, but could not bathe in it.—[Indianapolis News.

Untermeyer. She'll read them, she said, but she's willing to bet—and so is her husband—that none of them measures up to Walt Whitman, whom they both worship.

"How do you account for the many sophisticated young girls that one finds in New York?" continued Mrs. Sefton. "It seems a pity as so many of them are beautiful. In their conversation and in their manners they seem so old. Or am I old-fashioned? There does not seem to be enough naturalness about them. Your New York girl, I think, suffers in comparison with your far western types. Recently I met a girl from the West who represented my idea of what a young girl should be—alert, instead of tired-looking, as so many of your New York girls are; athletic, unrouged and without the slightest trace of self-consciousness—just a natural, healthy, bright-eyed girl. I suppose you must have thousands like her in the West.

"Artistically I have found Americans very appreciative. You like beautiful theaters and buildings; in fact, everything that is beautiful appeals to you.

"One thing that struck me very forcibly is the remarkable Amercan faculty for collecting and storing away in the mind odds and ends of information of all kinds. As a result you can talk convincingly on anything from baseball to Chinese rugs; you have a superficial knowledge of everything under the sun. And that is only natural. You are so energetic that you refuse to permit yourselves to be uninformed on anything. If you have not time to study a thing carefully, you at least gather some surface information."

Mrs. Sefton is puzzled by our small coins. "Like W. L. George," she said, "I wonder what one does with them? Surely one cannot purchase anything with them. I know because I tried," she smiled; and then she added, "On second thought, I am afraid that is a bit unfair; it occurs to me that I know what you do with your pennies. You put them in slot machines to find out what you don't weigh. But what do you do with your other small coins?"

Mrs. Sefton has fallen in love with our slang. "It is delightful," she said, "but why do a people who are imaginative enough to invent a masterpiece like 'rum-hound' use so many stock conversational phrases? When are you going to inter such expressions as 'Pleased to meet you,' 'Make yourself at home,' 'Pleased to have had the pleasure of your acquaintance,' etc., and find some colorful substitutes for them? Soon, I hope, because when I return to the United States next year—(of course, I'm coming back!)—I'd love to have my friends greet me with some rollicking new phrase of greeting; and if nothing new is devised I hope they'll shout a merry 'Look who's here!' in preference to the well-worn 'Glad to see you back.'"

Mrs. Sefton, having completed her arrangements with the publishers of her book, will return to England in a few days.

Recent Fiction.

ress" has superior technique and holds the interest more grippingly. For "The Fortune" is largely spoiled as a work of fiction by its post-war pro-Germanism, disguised as a revelation of the merits of the British pacifist. But in both novels there are brilliant patches and characters that ring true. The author is a versatile iconoclast, expressing himself in poetry that ranks high, in essays that are as original as they are propagandist, in criticism, that never walks in the beaten path, and in at least one drama of revolt.

AMHERST BOOKS.

In 1921 Amherst College will celebrate the completion of her first century. In connection with that commemoration, it is proposed by the faculty and trustees of the college to begin the publication of a series of volumes written by Amherst men, to be known as "The Amherst Books." The first volume of the series will be published about Oct. 1, 1920. Arrangements for publication have been made with the Marshall Jones Company of 212 Summer street, Boston, Mass. In typography, paper, and binding, "The Amherst Books" will, we trust, give satisfaction and pleasure to those who appreciate well-made books.

The first Amherst book, now in the press, is President Alexander Meiklejohn's "The Liberal College," a collection of his papers and addresses on educational problems, which will command much attention. Two other books are nearly ready for publication. One is Prof. John F Genung's "The Life Indeed," his last and perhaps most characteristic work, which was found among his papers after his death. The other is Prof. Anson D. Morse's "Parties and Party Leaders," a collection of his best political essays, which were published in various periodicals and will now for the first time be made available in a single volume. Other volumes are in preparation and will soon be announced.

I can't imagine a more pleasing gift than one of those art model phonographs they are showing at Richardson's, 727 W. Seventh. There is a William and Mary "period" table in exquisite design which conceals a wonderful talking machine in its depths—there's a luxurious davaphone which is at once a phonograph and a davenport—oh, there are many lovely conceits, any of which you can buy on most reasonable payments.

The very newest and smartest conceit in stationery is to have your "kalogram" engraved upon it! Now, a kalogram—perhaps you know already—is your last name worked into a beautiful design. Some of the most exquisite of these are designed around a body of mother of pearl. Of course, a monogram on handsome stationery is very good form, but a kalogram is "the last word." You have guessed by now, that the place to have this made is at that most delightful of stores, Cunningham, Curtiss and Welch's. Here you will find the smartest ideas in stationery—put up in gift boxes for holidays—and nothing could be more charming for a Christmas gift than a box of note paper, with the monogram or kalogram of the recipient engraved upon it. Of course, plain stationery is always lovely. At either of their stores 250-55 S. Spring, or at 723-25 S. Hill street you will enjoy their splendid service.

You will be surprised at the clever work done by W. Earl Starr in remodeling old jewelry into new and smart designs—he's a wonder at it. He carries a line of fine cameos, La Tausca pearls and lovely jewelry at 709 S. Hill.

Ostrich is very popular for trimming hats.

If you are longing for a new evening dress and just can't figure out how to get it—let me suggest that quaint little shop in a home, called Everywoman's. This shop was designed for just you and for that reason things are priced within reach of your pocketbook. They have any number of perfectly adorable evening frocks, many smart coats, suits, street dresses and clever hats, too. I saw some lovely furs there the other day which would help out a second best dress wonderfully. It is at 448 S. Alvarado, one door north of Sixth. Red is decidedly in favor this winter.

You have no idea what an improvement it will make in your fur just to have it relined and cleaned and to have it remodeled will make it like a new fur. At the Bogue Fur Shop they are artists in this work and their prices are most reasonable at 746 S. Hill. Evelyn Myers, who was formerly with Colburn's, is the manager and she oversees all the work.

Scotch tweeds are used to fashion the mannish sport coats.

I saw some of the cunningest little boutonnieres out at Cawston Ostrich Farm—they were made of ostrich flues in pastel shades and looked like berries or tiny buds. There were Martha Washington geraniums in many colors, pansies as natural as life, daisies and huge chrysanthemums which make wonderful corsage bouquets. Wouldn't these make lovely gifts for Christmas? Of course, you would be perfectly wild about the ostrich feather fans which are made huge enough to hide completely "miladi coquette"—some of these have peacock feathers worked in and they set off the ostrich wonderfully. Then there are the tiny opera fans and the smart new single-stick fans, all of which are popular as never before. Why not go out to South Pasadena and see these beauties?

Such a lot of pictures to choose from for your Christmas gifts are found at Phil S. Bernays Art Shop, 315 W. Third. There are the famous Curtiss orotones of Indian life, charming oil paintings of the desert in New Mexico—the "Little Masters," typical California scenes of trees and sand dunes and many other delightful subjects. A lovely lot of Christmas cards, booklets and wonderful pottery are also shown.

They made me gasp—they were so fearfully and wonderfully made—those blouses at Seymour's, 617-19 South Broadway. There was one created from copper-colored Georgette delicately embroidered with traceries of bronze beads and silken threads and tying itself about the waist in the careless fashion blouses are wont to use these days. Besides these blouses de luxe, one also finds smart models as low as $5, if you please!

When listening to Galli-Curci sing on the marvelous Pathe phonograph—it seemed too good to be true! The reproduction was perfect, bringing out her wonderful voice as if she herself were there, indeed. Of course it was partly due to the Actuelle—a shallow cone of parchment, which does away with tone arm, reproducer and tone chamber and accomplishes the wonders by itself—and partly to the little sapphire ball, which is used instead of a needle and which mellows the tone and does not wear out. Now, this wonder machine can be purchased by their special Christmas service at the Smith Piano Co., Ninth and Grand. You may make a payment on a Pathe now and Christmas delivery will be made, with no further payments necessary until after Christmas.

Stockingette is another favorite material for sports togs.

Turkey, cranberries and all the fixin's can be bought at Young's Market Company—and they will be the very best that can be found. You know about their wonderful little cakes for ice cream service and the good old-fashioned pound cake all made with butter and the very best of everything. So when ordering your Thanksgiving dinner you might give a little thought to Young's various departments and your dinner will be a success.

Aided by Junior Red Cross funds, hot school lunches have been inaugurated at Lindsay. The Parent-Teacher Association sponsored and established the school lunch as an experiment, the Juniors furnishing the equipment. The cafeteria has lived up to all expectations, having served at cost since its establishment on an average from 120 to 140 children daily.

Not only does the cafeteria enable the children to have a hot meal at noonday, but it relieves the parents of the necessity of putting up lunches for the children.

Through the enfrachisement of the women of Maryland, according to an announcement made by Dr. William Westley Guth, president of Goucher College, the institution will come into the immediate possession of the Elizabeth Ellicott Fellowship Fund of $25,000 for the political education of women, which money will be used in the establishment of a special course.

This money was left in trust by the late Mrs. Elizabeth King Ellicott, organizer of the Equal Suffrage League of Maryland. The first expenditure will, according to President Guth, be in the publication of a history of the woman suffrage movement in Maryland. Last year Goucher College was the first woman's college in America to make political science a required alternate course. Goucher College will be the first woman's college to provide for the education of the new voters.

A sick benefit for all members of the Troy Citizens' Corps post of the American Legion has been established at Troy, N. Y. This is believed to be the first time that any one of the almost 10,000 posts of the Legion has made use of this form of mutual aid. Any member of the organization who becomes incapacitated in any way will share in the benefits. The amount to be paid will be increased as the fund for the purpose is enlarged.

This same post has named a visiting committee to call on disabled men in the government sanatorium nearby and to attend to any personal wants that the government is unable to supply.

If the campaign soon to be undertaken is successful the University of Virginia will receive a $3,000,000 birthday gift when it celebrates its one-hundredth anniversary next June. Alumni in all parts of the country will be asked to subscribe to this fund which will be used to increase faculty salaries and to provide some needed new buildings. Approximately two-thirds of the $3,000,000 is to be reserved for the permanent endowment of the university. The rest will provide a memorial gymnasium, new dormitory, engineering hall, a building for the medical sciences and for alumni activities. Actual canvassing will be begun in January.

FIXED UP EVERYTHING.

Washed the servant of the High Priest and put carmine on his cheek.

Revived the flames of hell, put a new tail on the devil, mended his left hoof and did several jobs for the damned.

Put earrings in the ears of Sarah.

Put new stone in David's sling, enlarged the head of Goliath and extended his legs.

Mended the shirt of the Prodigal Son and cleaned his ears.—[Independent.

TWO THEATERS HERE, HIS PLAN.

Morosco Sees Fine Outlook for Western Business.

Musical Comedy House to Have Smart Program.

Many Bright Projects Are in Producers' Scheme.

BY GRACE KINGSLEY.

The theater hounds of Los Angeles aren't going to suffer for lack of a new show to go to every night, whatever else happens to them, judging from the present outlook. A musical comedy house is to be one feature of theatrical enterprise, to be built by Oliver Morosco. This will fill a long-felt want.

Perhaps the most important and significant theatrical announcement ever made in this city, in fact, is that just issued by Mr. Morosco, to whom Los Angeles already owes so heavy a debt for its first-class amusement is to the effect that he intends to build, not one new theater here, but two. One of the new houses will be at Seventh and Olive, the location of the other, announced now for the first time, will probably be on Broadway, very near Ninth street.

These two theaters will be the home of different sorts of amusement. The one on Seventh will be of moderate proportions but beautiful construction, and will be used to house musical comedy attractions.

Some of these will be produced by Mr. Morosco, for which purpose he is to bring some well-known musical comedy stars here, and others will have productions of New York musical success to which the producer has recently secured the rights or will do so when the theater is finished.

One of the finest scenic artists in the country, a famous costume designer, and a well-known stage director are to insure pictorial finish, while a beauty chorus will be a regular feature.

"I feel there is a big field for good musical comedy production here," said Mr. Morosco, "and I mean to give it to local theatergoers at a not exorbitant price."

The other new theater which Mr. Morosco will erect on Broadway will contain 2500, possibly 3000, seats, and will be devoted to the exploitation of the Morosco special feature pictures. It will have an orchestra of not less than thirty-five to forty musicians, all European artists, whose concerts will precede the picture. He will also engage some of the best operatic stars to appear on the programs. This theater will be modeled after the famous new Capitol of New York.

Mr. Morosco plans a trip to Europe in the near future to engage artists for this theater. He will book them in conjunction with others of his theaters in the East and with other theater managers throughout the country, so that there will be a change every two weeks at least. It is his intention to make this house a great symphony orchestra theater.

The Oliver Morosco Productions Company will probably start their first picture at the Brunton studios. Mr. Brunton and Mr. Morosco have been friends for years. At one time Mr. Brunton was Mr. Morosco's scenic artist, and upon learning that Mr. Morosco intended to enter the field, Mr. Brunton came to Morosco and volunteered to help him in every way possible, giving the producer what he desired at his own studio until the new Morosco studios could be built.

The assets which Mr. Morosco brings with him from New York for his picture-production work are twenty plays, tried and proven. This is enough to last any picture company three years or more. He does not expect to try to produce over five pictures a year of the feature variety, aiming to do them all well.

The first picture will be a film version of one of Mr. Morosco's own plays, "The Half Breed," to be started in about ten days, and will have in the cast William Desmond, Francis X. Bushman, Ann Little, Beverly Bayne and a number of other well-known screen artists. The nucleus is composed of those herein named, showing that Mr. Morosco means to give all-star casts in his productions.

The list of famous names which make up the roster of the scenario department of the Oliver Morosco Productions Company reads like a playwrights' who's who. Included are Edward E. Rose, Anna Nichols, author of "Linger Longer Letty," and also, by the way, of "The Gilded Cage," the new play which is to have its premiere at the Morosco shortly; Ed Nye, who has just completed a fine scenario of a picture, entitled "Back Home;" Frederic and Fanny Hatton, authors of "Lombardi, Ltd.," "Upstairs and Down," "The Walk-Offs," "Years of Discretion" and other plays; Jane Feigl, one of the best-known women writers of the East, who is now at work on one of Mr. Morosco's personal plays, and who will take up a great deal of the responsibility of the writing in connection with Morosco photoplays.

Both authors and players will soon all be a part of the film colony of Los Angeles. Edward E. Rose left New York for Los Angeles yesterday, to join the Morosco forces. William Desmond leaves Philadelphia next week, and Ann Little arrives in Los Angeles today. Mr. Morosco, as heretofore announced, will personally direct "The Half-Breed."

In discussing the picture proposition, Mr. Morosco said: "I do not want to convey the impression that I am so interested in pictures that I am going to desert the legitimate drama. That would be an impossibility for two reasons.

"The first is that the legitimate drama is my first love, and it is necessary for me to pursue that vocation, as in former years, in order to provide plays for my company, and thereby keep that company independent of having to barter with other producers for plays.

"With the wonderful start we have—twenty plays to picturize—and with the innumerable productions I am to present not only in Los Angeles, but in New York, this coming season, I believe by the end of my first year we will have at least ten more plays which have proven successful not only in Los Angeles, but in New York.

"I have tried most of these plays out in the East in cities like Atlantic City, Washington, New Haven, Hartford, etc., but did not bring them into New York this season, owing to the fact that my business made it imperative that I come to Los Angeles."

Asked how he meant to divide his time, Mr. Morosco said he could systematize his work very well by spending one-half or three-quarters of his time here, and the other part of his time in the East.

"We are now producing in New York, begining in September of each year," he said, "but after we are once settled there I will be only too happy to run away from the approaching cold weather, and land in the sunshine of Los Angeles."

Rehearsals start tomorrow at the Little Theater on a play called "Marry the Poor Girl," by Owen Davis, which Mr. Morosco states he NOVEL FILM WEDDING.

May Allison Designs Own Church and Gown.

May Allison—interior decorator and designer.

Such might be the title bestowed on the blonde Metro star, because of her work for one of the scenes of her latest Metro starring picture, "Are Wives to Blame?"

An elaborate wedding is called for in the script with May portraying the role of the bride.

"At first, we considered using one of the Los Angeles churches for the setting," said Miss Allison, "but I had a vivid mental picture of what I would like the wedding scene to be. So I finally persuaded Director Rosen to let me design the interior of the church and the altar. I have been supervising the work of carpenters and painters for the last few days, and trying on my bridal outfit in between.

"My gown is going to be a dream The wedding is supposed to be a very elaborate one, where everything that wealth can supply is in evidence. The bridal costume must be one appropriate for the surroundings. I selected a very heavy pussywillow satin, of a delicate shell pink color, for the material. The dress is an exact copy of an original Worth model. It is made en train with the train falling from the shoulders. It is very plain as to style, depending on the exquisite veil, made of real Venetian lace, to relieve the severeness. The veil is caught on the hair with a band of orange blossoms, and falls in folds in a long train, completely covering the satin train.

"I carry a shower boquet of calla lilies and lilies-of-the-valley instead of the usual spray of orange blossoms."

LIFE PARTNERS.

McIntyre and Heath Have Been Associated for Forty-five Years.

After an association of forty-five years, dating back to 1874, McIntyre and Heath, the blackface comedians, are coming to the Mason tomorrow night in a concoction of tom-foolery that is a cross between the gloriously blazing musical extravaganza and the old-time minstrels. It is called "Hello, Alexandria." The Messrs. Shubert produced it at the Forty-fourth Street Theater in New York, and it has since been sweeping along with a riot of laughs.

In these days of overnight stars, when temperamental artists are with one management today and another tomorrow, the association of McIntyre and Heath is one of the really wonderful friendships of the American theater. It is not an uncommon thing in the personnel of any company to have one star belittle another, or for an actor or an actress to kill the scene of another; but it is rare, as in the case of these blackface comedians, to have, for instance, Heath say that McIntyre is the best comedian on the stage, the best friend any man ever had, etc., and then go into the dressing-room of McIntyre and have him say that in his profession or out of it he has never met a man whom he thinks as much of as Heath. Friendships of this sort are rare enough in private life, but when they extend into the theater today, it is at once evident why these great minstrels have played together over a span of nearly a half century, long after other teams have had their fling and are now forgotten by the theater-going public.

McIntyre and Heath formed their partnership in 1874, and have worked together without a break ever since. The comedians made their first big success in Chicago, when they introduced the buck and wing dance. Five years later they invaded New York and made their first appearance at Pastor's. Their two most successful vehicles were "The Georgia Minstrels," in which they appeared in vaudeville for years, and "The Ham Tree," which was produced fourteen years ago and served them for six years. Later it was revived and they played it for two years more.

But from present indications, "Hello, Alexander," with its originality and its modernized minstrelsy, will equal in both popular appeal and financial returns anything these unique comedians have ever done in their long career on the stage. The Messrs. Shubert have surrounded the stars with a notable company.

HER TWO DIRECTORS.

Viola Dana's Story Path Carefully Looked After.

Metro's tiniest star now can boast of twice the number of directors possessed by even the most gigantic player of the screen. For the producing company has assigned two full-fledged directors for Viola Dana's forthcoming production, the title of which has not yet been selected.

Al J. Kelly, for more than four years an assistant at Metro, and George Probert, who was seen in Nazimova's last production, "Madame Peacock," have been named as Miss Dana's co-directors because of special qualifications for the position possessed by each.

Mr. Kelly's work on numerous big Metro productions has made him better known than many full-fledged directors. Because of his deft handling of certain phases of "The Right of Way," in which Bert Lytell was starred, he was given screen credit, although he still was serving only as an assistant director. He served as an assistant in the production of Nazimova special pictures, and for four years has served as an assistant with Miss Dana's company.

Mr. Probert, who is well known on the speaking stage, played with Nazimova in a series of Ibsen plays produced at the Plymouth Theater, New York. He made his film debut with Pathe, when he played a leading role in "The Spender." When Nazimova selected the cast for "Madame Peacock," she selected Mr. Probert as her leading man because of his rare ability in character parts. Those who have seen the production pronounced his portrayal of the part of the neglected husband as especially noteworthy.

MAYER STARTS WHEELS TURNING

Casting for Special Films is Now in Progress.

Dramatist Writing Story for Anita Stewart.

Flashes and Flickers from Showland.

With the return of Louis B. Mayer from New York the wheels of production have begun to turn merrily at the film magnate's studio in Los Angeles. Yesterday Mr. Mayer made an announcement of his plans.

Included in these is the making of a number of spectacular specials, in addition to his First National releases starring Anita Stewart and Mildred Harris Chaplin. Two of these specials will be commenced within the next fortnight.

While in New York Mayer purchased the film rights to Sarah P. Greene's old New England classic, "Cape Cod Folks," and "The Bishop of Cottontown" by John Trotwood Moore, which he will film.

Mr. Mayer also controls the picture rights to Harold MacGrath's "Drums of Jeopardy," and a number of James Oliver Curwood's earlier books. Casting for these pictures will be begun almost immediately.

Anthony Paul Kelly, playwright, who has been lured into picture writing, has arrived and will devote his efforts to the preparation of Anita Stewart's next vehicle, "The Tornado," which Edwin Carewe will direct. The story is an original by Jane Murfin.

This is Mr. Kelly's first visit to California since his resignation from the Bosworth company here, seven years ago. His play, "Three Faces East," was one of New York's big hits last season.

An original story is now being written by John M. Stahl, who directed "Sowing the Wind," in which Anita Stewart starred. The new story is called "Women That Pass in the Night," and is to serve as a Mayer special vehicle, which will be directed by Stahl.

On the completion of "The Tornado," with Anita Stewart, Mr. Carewe will start on a new contract with Mr Mayer which provides for the making of a series of big dramatic features to be known as Edwin Carewe Productions. They will be filmed on a lavish scale, with casts to be chosen according to the demands of the story.

Woman's Lyric Club.

The Woman's Lyric Club will give its first concert of the seventeeth season Sunday afternoon the 21st inst., at Philharmonic Auditorium.

"Humoresque" Plays on.

"Humoresque," Fannie Hurst's appealing story, is in its second week at the Palace Theater.

The story centers around Leon Kantor, a boy, who shows an intense love for music. His mother who has always wanted a musician son, is delighted and on his seventh birthday buys him a violin. Fifteen years later, Leon is a recognized genius.

On the night of his triumph at a big concert given for his people of the Ghetto, he enlists in the army. Later he returns from France with a shattered shoulder and it was said that he would never be able to play the violin again. But in a rather remarkable way he is restored to strength.

Domestic Note.

There was a meaning the audience didn't get when Henry B. Murtagh, organist of Grauman's Theater, was playing his solo number, "All You Have to Do Is Smile," Sunday night at the second performance.

Just a short time before, Sid Grauman had rushed back-stage to tell the organist that a new baby girl had arrived in the Murtagh home. Murtagh quickly left the organ and hurried to the Good Samaritan Hospital to welcome the little stranger, while Grauman quickly summoned to the console, Ernest H. Hunt, another Grauman organist.

Hunter with Dial.

When Production Manager E. P. Hunsiker of the Dial Film Company went to New York a few weeks ago it was presumably for the purpose of arranging distribution details with the W. W. Hodkinson Corporation for the Dial's latest production, "The Tiger's Coat."

However, it now comes out that his main purpose was the securing of the services of T. Hayes Hunter to act as director for one of the Dial companies.

"Earthbound" put the seal of sure-fire success on Hunter's ability, and since then he has received a score of offers. He has many other successes to his credit.

Otto Bollman, president of the Dial Film Company, producing at the Brunton studios and releasing through the W. W. Hodkinson Corporation, announces that Mr. Hunter's initial production will be an adaptation of Irving Bacheller's latest novel, "The Light in the Clearing."

This is to be followed by four special productions.

Rice Writes for Mrs. Fiske.

Elmer L. Rice, playwright and member of the Goldwyn forces, doesn't care how much money he spends treating his co-workers to Bevo these days. He has written a play which is to be produced in New York this season, with no less a person than Mrs. Fiske in the leading role.

Rice wrote the sensational play, "On Trial," which used motion-picture cut-back methods on the stage.

Turkish Pasaz.

To celebrate the one thousand and first performance of his musical revue company's presence here, Ed Armstrong assembled his troupe on the stage after the regular performance Wednesday night in the midst of a Turkish setting of special design entertained a group of friends with an impromptu production. He arrayed himself as Harun Al Rashid, while Henry Sherr, attired as Sinbad the Sailor, prompted Mr. Armstrong during his specialty, which, in the wording, was patterned after the tales of the "Thousand and One Nights."

Is Your Dining Room in Readiness for Thanksgiving?

DEDICATED TO BETTER HOMES

Thanksgiving marks the real opening of the entertaining season. Through the weeks and months to follow, your dining room will play a very important part in the entertaining of your guests.

As an accomplished hostess you fully realize the importance of creating in your dining room that environment which will promote a spirit of hospitality and good fellowship, and which will properly reflect your ideals of home.

Surely now is the logical time to carry out the plans you have perhaps had in mind for a long time for the betterment of your dining room.

Whether your needs involve the complete refurnishing of the room, or perhaps just the addition of a new dining table and chairs, or a new serving table, or a dinner wagon, or some other individual essential, you will be accorded at the "California" a sincerity of helpful, intelligent service that will insure the permanent satisfaction of your selections.

The "California" shows very extensive selections in dining room furniture of superior merit, in complete sets and in individual pieces—for the home that is modest as well as for the home where only the very finest is good enough.

You will like the "California's" method of pricing everything in plain, readable figures—one price to all alike and that the lowest for which similar quality can consistently be sold by any store anywhere at any time, and under any conditions.

Comparison of prices can involve no obligation or embarrassment, and it will give you first hand information which we believe will be a revelation to you.

The "California" most cordially invites

OF ART AND ARTISTS.

BY ANTONY ANDERSON.

On a Painting.

You mark at eve, far outward to the sea,
Enormous cliffs that rise and grandly loom—
Monsters portentous of some direful doom,
Guarding the gateways to immensity.
Low down the scarlet clouds are drifting free
Where dying roses of the sunset bloom;
And voices, as of phantoms from the gloom,
Reverberate the things that are to be.
Darkness is coming from the caves of sleep
To soothe the restless breezes, and to lull
The crimson billows that unceasing roll;
And silence broods upon the purpling deep
Where, like a disembodied, wandering soul,
Wavers the pinion of the lonely gull.

LLOYD MIFFLIN

California Painters.

A friend—an artist and an art lover—remarked to me the other day that in almost every one of my art reviews I start my subject in the sky, coming down to earth at last with something of a thump. He did not use the word thump, but he thought it. I don't know whether he meant to reproach or praise me. However, as my natural modesty forbids me to accept compliments, and as I am not at all used to pats on the back in my saunterings through the realm of art, I assume that my friend was registering dissatisfaction.

But where else can one begin but in the sky—the empyrean—the highest heaven, where the immortal gods keep their fire forever at a white glow? All art begins there, does it not? All wisdom, all knowledge? And if one is to talk about art, one must mount and grasp a spark from the divine fire to light the dangerous path. For that path leads over the earth, where art takes root after its descent from on high, and where there is a vast and general darkness, with pitfalls and quagmires.

The fact is, art is a much bigger subject than most of us realize. Even the artists, themselves, self-conscious though they are and must be, are building better than they know. To see their wonderful airy structures, you may, of course, approach them from any direction you like, but the best view, the most complete, is from above. After that glorious vision of them you may walk around the walls at your pleasure, picking out flaws in construction and errors in ornament. But always take the birdseye view first.

If you make that sweeping survey you will discover that art is not paint on a canvas, not words in a book, not a printed score of music notes, but the soul of the artist making heroic attempts to express itself to other souls through these refractory mediums. If he succeeds at all— even in the smallest degree—is it not wonderful? The sign and symbol of the artist's—and our—kinship with the divine, the creative? Nature herself has not anything more amazing to show than a statue by Phidias, a play by Shakespeare, a symphony by Beethoven, a cartoon by Angelo.

We must believe this to be true, and therefore it is that we approach every work of art, no matter how unpretentious, with a certain measure of respect, and try to treat every artist, however humble and obscure, with the consideration that is his due. The artist may make egregious blunders in his attempts at self-expression—but so do you and I, and all the rest of us. If he is sincere, this is enough for us. If we find fault with him, it must be without rancor, and above all without flippancy, that last and deepest insult to the earnest worker in art.

But let us descend to earth—that is, let us enter the galleries of Cannell & Chaffin, where the painters of California are having an exhibition that does not close till a week from today. Not all the painters of California are represented, of course, for there are only twenty-eight canvases and a few of the painters show more than one. But some very good men are here—some of the very best we have—and the exhibition is an exceedingly interesting one, even though one or two of the painters have not sent in their best work.

For instance, C. P. Townsley exhibits a small picture of a girl at a piano that does not represent him in the least. The shadows are black, and the thing has not been made interesting. However, it happens that Mr. Townsley had nothing else to show, and that he sent this little canvas with a protest. If you would see him at his best—and how good that is!—go out to the present exhibition of the California Art Club. Edgar Payne, too, offers us a rather dead picture—one painted without enthusiasm, and, therefore, affording none to us. Armin Hansen's "Sunset" is an attempt at the impossible—he tried to paint the sun—and is interesting, but unlovely.

Fine pictures, thoroughly up to their authors's standard and reputation, come from Carl Oscar Borg, Guy Rose, William Wendt, Marion Kavanaugh Wachtel and Jack Wilkinson Smith. Mr. Smith's larger canvas, "Tranquil Sea" — or is it "Golden Shore"?—is really superb, quite on a par with his later and best efforts.

Hanson Puthuff's "Majestic Hills" is a notably beautiful canvas, one of the very best from his brush. Note how well the hills are modeled, what stupendous weight they have, and see how tenderly transparent the foreground shadows are. Karl Yens's "Aquamarine" is as colorful as its title, as full of motion as the sea itself. Otis Willliams's "The Swimming Pool," two nude boys by a stream, glows with light, is redolent of the charm of the out-of-doors. The figures are well drawn. There is movement in the horse, the rider and the cattle in Douglass Parshall's "Fall Roundup," an interesting play of color that, unfortunately, has not been kept kuite clean. Paul Lauritz's "Rainy Day" has caught one subtle phase of nature with much skill. Dana Bartlett's "In the Park" gives us the morbidezza of night with truth and feeling. Martin Borgord's "My Studio at Taos" is truthful, no doubt, but its technique is exasperating—we are given no textures, and what is still-life without textures well rendered?

William Ritschel's big "Marine" is one of the finest things that ever came from this really great painter's brush. It is a magnificent study of sea and shore, rich and full in color, done in a masterly way. Another wonderful canvas is William V. Cahill's "Supplication," a female figure, whose hands are folded and whose face is turned heavenward. The drawing is superb, the blue-green tone is exquisite, the jewel-like color is a joy to the beholder. If this keeps up—and why shouldn't it?—Mr. Cahill will soon take rank with the best figure painters in America. Perhaps his place is there already.

De Witt Parshall's "Oaks and Mountains" has beauty of tone and beauty of drawing, and breathes poetry. Beautiful and poetic, too, is Orrin White's "The Snowy Range," exquisitely refined in its technique and feeling—perhaps almost too refined. "Eucalyptus," by Maurice Braun, has been painted with a facile brush, for Mr. Braum always knows what to do to produce a good picture—perhaps he knows too well.

"That Way Danger Lies," "Landscape," by Theodore Criley, is splendidly big in its handling, a daring performance successfully carried out. "On the Edge of the Desert," by Benjamin Brown, is an admirable study of sunlight. In a small portrait of Ann Andrews, which he calls "Blue and Ivory," Max Wieczorek is at his best, with his combination of crayon and charcoal—or whatever it is that he uses in these delightful drawings of his.

You will enjoy this exhibition of recent pictures by California painters. Don't miss it.

After he has reached years of discretion, the professional reviewer of art is not given to vituperation and abuse. He has learned the folly and unfairness of such raving. He leaves it to the self-constituted censors of all art endeavor, the pallid pessimists who believe, or affect to believe, that our community is doomed forever to a hopeless philistinism in art.

"Did you ever see such a rotten exhibition in all your life!"

The voice, loud and raucous, came from behind me as I stood contemplating the pictures at the eleventh annual showing of the California Art Club. I had been very happy in the exhibition, and for a moment I was paralyzed, the onslaught was

He leaves it to the self-constituted censors of all art endeavor, the pallid pessimists who believe, or affect to believe, that our community is doomed forever to a hopeless philistinism in art.

"Did you ever see such a rotten exhibition in all your life!"

The voice, loud and raucous, came from behind me as I stood contemplating the pictures at the eleventh annual showing of the California Art Club. I had been very happy in the exhibition, and for a moment I was paralyzed, the onslaught was

Thoughtful Gift Seekers Are Buying Christmas Gifts Now

THERE is really a very great advantage in selecting your Christmas Gifts now.

First of all many of the interesting gift suggestions you will find here are of European production. By their very unusualness they are necessarily limited in quantity. As a matter of fact the same condition applies to the many unusual gift wares from American makers, which means that those who come early will find many gift suggestions which later buyers will not find.

And it is so much more satisfactory to make selections when you can do so with deliberation and care, and when we can serve you more carefully than is possible during the final rush days of Christmas shopping.

So let us suggest that you do all the Christmas shopping you can now. Any gifts you select now can be held in our Gift Storage Department for delivery at any time you wish before Christmas.

Art and Artists.

so unexpected, so utterly uncalled for. Then I rallied to the defense, though I felt all the time that the exhibition stood in no need of my feeble support. For the pictures and sculptures were there, their own triumphant vindication.

I respect my opponent as a man of general intelligence in most matters, but I have no high opinion of his value as an art critic. So I did not argue with him long. Feeling myself rapidly growing hotter and hotter under the collar, I wisely moved on. I don't like to come to blows with any man in public.

How is it that I often find myself surrounded by the enemies of art and artists—by men and women, who, though they pretend to love, in reality dislike art, and go to the exhibitions to give vent to all their [illegible] spleens and prejudices. If you listen to them you may be led to believe that the art impulse in Los Angeles is deader than a doornail—even if it has ever existed at all. The artist speaks to them in vain. They remain untouched by his dream, unresponsive to his message of beauty. He asks them for bread, and they give him a stone. They are like an imbecile farmer, who, having planted a hill of potatoes, immediately proceeds to dig them up and hack them to pieces with his hoe—still protesting that he expects a full harvest in the fall. Art is even more delicate than the potato, needs more care in its nurture. Why not let it have a chance at the rain and dew—and plenty of sunshine? Why not, once planted, let it grow? Why stamp on it with both feet and tear it to pieces with both hands?

Not that it is easily killed. Oh, no! Its roots strike too deep for that. But it may be maimed, hurt, retarded in its development, and then the lives of every one of us may be made the poorer. Next time you start in to knock a picture and its painter, be sure you are right—or don't do it. Or, if your conscience says you must, do it kindly and gently, even sympathetically.

We have been taking such a "sympathetic" survey of the pictures and sculptures in the exhibition for several weeks past, and it now remains for us to glance at a few more canvases. The miniatures by Ella S. [illegible] and the medallions by Julia Bracken Wendt and May Mott Smith will be considered next week. I discovered them too late—or, rather, their position in the smaller gallery was pointed out to me too late. They are shown in a large glass case which for months has contained a permanent collection of miniatures. I supposed the same miniatures were still there, and passed the case by in my wanderings through the galleries. The artists have my sincere apologies.

Ernest Browning Smith's two canvases are highly characteristic. They are sincere studies of Nature done in his rather laborious technique. They have [illegible] and interest. Otis Williams's "[illegible] Improvise," a rollicking portrait, is exceedingly clever. [illegible] Smith's "My Doorway" is restful and intimate. Karl Yens's "[illegible] Center of Interest," a man and a boy standing on a rock at [illegible] Beach and fishing for dear life, is brilliantly spontaneous, full of [illegible]. Louise Everett's two small [illegible] have movement and vitality, and are moreover good in color.

From John Frost, son of A. B. Frost, the illustrator (who is himself a notable illustrator), by the way, comes a fine study of sunlight in the desert, "The Whitewater [illegible]." From J. H. Jenkins, an excellent study, "In Wilshire Glen." From Kathryn W. Leighton, "After the Rain," a shimmering stream full of color, rich green trees along the banks—a genuinely attractive translation of Nature in one of its happiest moods.

[illegible] Castello's three little sketches in pastel, all figures of women, are done in a wonderfully simple and effective way; they have much distinction. Anna A. Hills's little water-color triptych, "Where the Shadows Play," is technically crisp and delightful. Susie M. Dando's still-life study of zinnias is a technical tour de force, an admirable piece of painting in every way. Theodore [illegible], too, shows some good still-life in water color.

The exhibition remains open to November 15.

In Hollywood.

The Hollywood Art Association will hold an exhibition of arts and crafts and of small sketches, at the corner of Hudson avenue and Hollywood Boulevard, on Wednesday, November 10, at 8 p.m., and on the following Thursday, Friday and Saturday from 10 a.m. to 10 p.m.

Richard Bret Harte, grandson of the novelist, will show a number of pictures of an extremely modern note and decidedly decorative in design, some of them quite suggestive of Aubrey Beardsley, under whom Mr. Harte has studied. Faust Lang, a [illegible] of Anton Lang of Oberammergau, is staying in Glendale, and has a few examples of Bavarian wood-carving to show. Duane Lyon will exhibit his sketches of Hollywood; Francis W. Vreeland of New York and Paris will exhibit his interesting sketches of the Seine, and there also will be sketches by Karl Yens and Douglas Donaldson.

The exhibition is open to the public free of charge, as is also the regular meeting of the association, which will be held at the Hollywood Public Library on Monday, November 8, at 8 p.m., when Miss Helen Smith will speak on "The Peasant Art of Eastern Europe."

Art Notes.

More than two thousand canvases are shown at the autumn salon, in Paris, which opened October 15, to continue to December 12. The exhibition is held at the Grand Palais, in the Champs-Elysees. Helena Dunlap of Los Angeles has four canvases in the salon. The European edition of the New York Herald says of her work: "Miss Dunlap's oasis scenes are specially interesting, both for their subject and treatment."

An interesting display of statuary has been given all this week in [illegible]'s Broadway windows. The sculptures are the work of Harry F. Winebrenner, director of the department of fine arts at the [illegible] Union Polytechnic High School. They are the final work for a sculptured fountain depicting the physical, mental and moral [illegible] in education. The figures [illegible] part of the American portion of an Exposition Universelle of [illegible] from all parts of the world.

Portraits and figure studies by [illegible] Hubbard Rich are shown in the Friday Morning Club, through the month of November. The gallery is open every day, except Sunday, up to 4 o'clock.

Let me hasten to say that the [illegible] who was quoted last week in this column did not declare that the last word in sculpture has been said by Angelo." Read Angelo for [illegible] and, if you and the [illegible] are still in doubt, make it [illegible] Michael Angelo."

The Smiles of Thousands of Women Tell How Well

This Great New York Store Sale Is Appreciated

—It's the first sale to bring prices down on a full and complete stock of suits, coats, and dresses

—And it is the first sale to bring prices down to anywhere near a pre-war level.

—To be sure there have been certain reductions here and there in women's apparel where the wholesale prices were lowered. But the New York Store, regardless of the wholesale costs or the values of present stocks on hand (the like of which, we have never had before) has made bold and radical reductions on all of its stocks.

—Of the certainty that it is being appreciated by thousands of the women of Los Angeles and surrounding towns, there can be no doubt. You can see it in the smiling faces of the customers, you can see it in the active buying in every section of the store, and you can see it any day that you come down to the sale.

You see there were so many things that were so much higher than women felt they could pay —And everybody was talking about the high prices and manufacturers had promised to do something about it and had put it off and put it off, so the New York Store went ahead and did something; waded right in and reduced all of the very fine garments which are right up to the minute in style and loveliness. No wonder our friends are smiling. Let's see these new prices.

—We believe that we have struck a blow at high prices that will have a lasting effect. We have made it possible for Los Angeles women to enjoy low prices on our beautiful styles many months ahead of the time they would have had we waited for reductions to take their course.

—Every day, almost every hour since this sale started, has brought us fresh proof that the women of Los Angeles appreciate this sale as a sincere attempt to accomplish the purpose which we claim for it. We could fill this entire large advertisement with the complimentary remarks that women have made about this sale to us personally, and which have been overheard by our salespeople throughout the store every day since this great event started.

It is a Sale That Has All the Earmarks of a Definite and Determined Purpose

—November is one of the best business months of the fall season. Stocks are more complete and up-to-date now than at any other time of the season. While goods are new and in demand is when a merchant must expect to make a legitimate profit on his merchandise.

—But in spite of all these things, in spite of the fact that The New York Store has been enjoying an unusually brisk business, we have foregone our profits and marked the goods, not on the basis of what they cost wholesale, but on the basis of what we are striving to set as a new price level.

Many Brand New Styles Will Be Unpacked for Tomorrow's Selling

—But please bear in mind that nothing has been bought in job lots specially for this sale. Every one of the hundreds of new garments that will be put on display tomorrow for the first time, was bought with the same careful regard to style and quality as is every garment that comes into this store. Our buyer bought these new goods to sell at a legitimate profit, but we have resigned the profit in your favor, and will continue to do so as long as this sale lasts.

—Why wait longer to get the new clothes you need? All the latest styles are in this sale. We've removed the objection of high price. And, too, the time will soon be getting short in which to wear the new things. Come tomorrow and see why this sale has been designated the Big Smile Sale.

Some Visitors, a Bride and a Bride-Elect.

Mr. and Mrs. Vanderbilt have been among the prominent visitors to Los Angeles this autumn. They have just left after a ten days' stay at the Beverly Hills Hotel, where they posed for this picture. They were married recently in New York and their visit here was included in their honeymoon trip by automobile. Mrs. Grady, who was Lucretia Del Valle before her marriage, was snapped at the home of her father, ex-Senator R. F. Del Valle, where she and her husband, Harry W. Grady, who is commercial attache of the American Embassy at London, are visiting with their children, Reginald Del Valle Grady and Patricia Marie Grady. Miss Hoyt is the interesting bride-elect of LeRoy Sanders, a Seattle newspaper publisher. Their engagement was announced last Sunday by her mother, Mrs. Albert Sherman Hoyt of Pasadena. Mrs. William Osborne Rutledge was Miss Mary Louis until her marriage a week ago yesterday at the home of her cousins, Mr. and Mrs. Chester Brown, on West Adams street.

SOCIETY.

BY VIRGINIA WOODS.

[illegible] Military Wedding.

All Saints' Church in Pasadena was yesterday afternoon the scene of a brilliant military wedding when Miss Helen Staats of that city became the bride of Ensign Turner [illegible] Battle, U.S.N., in the presence of a distinguished gathering that filled the church. Dr. Leslie E. Learned, rector, officiated.

Huge chrysanthemums and with pom poms in all the gorgeous shades of flame, bronze, yellow and pink were massed with ferns and palms to make a picturesque setting. The colors in the flowers blended with the hues in the frocks of the bridesmaids. Tall cathedral candles illuminated the altar and chancel.

The bride, who is one of the loveliest girls in the Southland, was a picture in her gown of white satin, embroidered in seed pearls. She wore a long tulle veil, which framed her face and hung from an orange blossom bedecked crown of rose point lace. Her shower bouquet combined butterfly orchids and lilies of the valley.

First six naval officers, Ensigns [illegible] Walter Smith, Myron A. Baber, Stanley J. Michael, Wilmer T. Cox, [illegible] Underwood Hines and William [illegible] marched to the foot of the chancel, followed by the flower girl, Miss Mary Lloyd Macy, cousin of the bride, who was frocked in yellow taffeta and carried a basket of rose petals. The two bridesmaids, Miss Mabel Shoemaker of Fresno and Elizabeth Barroll, wearing gowns of yellow and pink changeable taffeta with brown tulle trains and hats of brown tulle, walked singly down the aisle, then came Miss Helen [illegible], the maid of honor, who [illegible] a brown tulle train with which she wore a hat of tulle in brown and carried a bouquet of chrysanthemums to match her gown. The other girls carried chrysanthemums matching their costumes.

The ushers and the bridesmaids and maid of honor formed in [illegible] at the foot of the steps to the chancel awaiting the bride, who came down the aisle alone to [illegible] her father, Mr. William Richardson Staats, who gave her in marriage. After the couple marched to the head of the chancel and were pronounced man and wife, Ensign William Johnstone Strothers, the best man, gave the command to draw sabers, and an arch was made of three pairs of swords under which the bride and groom passed. As they marched out, he gave the command to sheathe sabers and then the rest of the wedding party followed the couple in pairs.

After the wedding a reception for intimate friends and relatives was held at the home of the bride's parents at 294 South Grand avenue, Pasadena. The bride cut the wedding cake with her husband's sword. The couple left for a honeymoon trip that will include a visit with his mother, Mrs. Nelle G. Battle of North Carolina. They will also go to Washington and New York, where the groom is well known. Upon their return they will reside in Coronado, where they have a handsome apartment awaiting them.

By Mrs. Guasti.

Mrs. Secondo Guasti is to be a hostess at luncheon today, complimenting Mrs. Marcus Daly, Mrs. William Randolph Hearst of New York and Mrs. Michael J. Connell, the latter of whom is leaving with Mr. Connell today for a six weeks' visit in the East, including New York.

The luncheon is to be at the beautiful Guasti home and the table and dining-room floral adornment will add charm to the beautiful Italian interior.

Della Robbia vases on the lace-covered table hold chrysanthemums in the rich purple and gold shades tints massed with fruits in the same tints massed with fruts in the same color tones. The same motif is used on the buffet and in various niches in the dining-room. Plates will be laid for twenty.

On Friday Mrs. Guasti entertained twelve guests at luncheon at the California Club, assembling them later at the opening concert of the Philharmonic Orchestra. On Tuesday this charming hostess will again entertain a group of twelve at luncheon at her home.

By Mrs. Denis.

Mrs. George J. Denis presided over a charming luncheon on Friday, the affair planned as a courtesy to Mrs. Michael J. Connell. The guests were seated at an oval table at the California Club. The entire center was a garden of chrysanthemums with the little pom pom chrysanthemums in all the rich autumn shades massed with maidenhair fern. Japanese ladies holding lanterns marked places for Mrs. Connell, Mrs. John Percival Jones, Mrs. Robert I. Rogers, Mrs. Charles Potter Kling, Mme. Elizabeth Rothwell, Mrs. Dean Mason, Mrs. Mary Wilcox Longstreet, Mrs. E. Avery McCarthy, Mrs. William May Garland, Mrs. Eugene O. McLaughlin, Mrs. William Ellsworth Dunn, Mrs. Ida Peacock, Mrs. King, Mrs. Joseph Kithcart Clark, Mrs. Edwin T. Earl, Mrs. Henry Norman Jenson and Mrs. Lucien Brunswig. Later the guests went in groups to the Philharmonic concert.

Baron and Baroness De Ropp.

Baron and Baroness Alfred De Ropp have issued invitations for a large reception on Saturday afternoon, Nov. 13, in honor of Mrs. T. Ridgeway Trimble of Montecito. The tea will be preceded by an auction bridge party. Society is keenly awaiting this affair as no one in Los Angeles entertains more charmingly. Mrs. Trimble is the mother of Mrs. Harold De Ropp.

Young Mr. and Mrs. Harold De Ropp are receiving congratulations upon the birth of a daughter, born at the Good Samaritan Hospital on Friday. The child has been named after her two grandmothers, Margaret Elizabeth De Ropp.

Baroness De Ropp also entertained for Mrs. Trimble on Monday, the affair being a luncheon for ten in celebration of Mrs. Trimble's birthday.

For a Company of Buds.

Miss Leontine Bayer was an attractive hostess on Friday evening when she entertained at dinner forty-four members of the Junior Cotillion Club and later assembled them at the opening dance of the season given by that club, the membership of which includes the prominent young members of the subdebutante set.

The guests were seated at small tables that were trimmed with dahlias in bright hues. They were Misses Emily Earl, Elizabeth Taylor, Hortense McLaughlin, Betty Bettingen, Audrey Workman, Harriet Andrews, Margaret Barnard, Rosemary Hancock, Lucia Turner, Ruth Dockweiler, Margaret McGarry, Josephine Cook, Catherine Cheney, Katherine Phillips, Polly Hampton, Polly Schoder, Helen Tibbens, Louise Innes, Mary Milbank, Dorothy Green, Carolyn Allen, and Messrs. Edwin and Jarvis Earl, D'Alcy Van Alystine, George Wigmore, Henry Duque, William Kennedy, Walter Schneider, Walter Leeds, Jr., Edward English, Douglass Mueller, Burnett Turner, James and Stewart Stevenson, Felix and Cyril Chappellet, Fred and Stewart Peters, Albert Anton, John Kellar, Richard Byrne, David Hampton and Everett Smith.

On Wednesday evening Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Bayer celebrated their wedding anniversary at a dinner-dance for a company of sixty-five, most of whom were family connections.

Arranging Dinner Parties.

On the evening of Saturday, November 13, which will mark the opening of the California Dinner Club dances, there are to be numerous parties. Mr. and Mrs. James G. Scarborough, Jr., are to have a dinner party for a company of twelve in honor of Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Brown (Frances Beveredge,) who have returned from Berkeley to Los Angeles to reside. Dr. and Mrs. Wayland Morrison are to have a dinner party that evening and so are Miss Georgia Kean, Miss Eleanor MacGowan, Mr. and Mrs. Alvin Frank, Mr. and Mrs. Edward Maier, Mr. and Mrs. Eugene Clark and Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Kerr.

For a Visitor.

Miss Florence Murphy of Virginia was the charming cause for another one of the smartest functions of the season when Mrs. Lloyd L. Krebbs of Oak Lawn, Pasadena, entertained at a large reception. Her rooms were lovely in a gay arrangement of chrysanthemums in all the rich autumn shades. The shades were drawn and candles in artistic silver and bronze candlesticks illuminated the rooms. Assisting Mrs. Krebbs were Mmes. William A. Brackenridge, Edwin T. Earl, Neill Snow, Irving Wright, Howard Huntington, Fred Smith, Louis Stott, Page Warden and Grace Wood Jess.

Miss Murphy visited here last spring and made hosts of friends, who are only too glad to welcome her back. She was looking particularly stunning in a dark gown of beaded French chiffon, worn over rich dark rose satin. She wore a corsage bouquet of orchids. Mrs. Krebbs was lovely in a gown of beaded georgette crepe in dark blue with which she also wore orchids.

Handsome Luncheon.

One of the handsomest luncheons of the season was that presided over by Mrs. Edwin T. Earl on Thursday, when she assembled a group of forty at the California Club to greet Mrs. W. D. Stephens, wife of Gov. Stephens, and to say au revoir to Mrs. John Hooe Iden, wife of the fleet surgeon, who leaves Novem-

New Hair Growth After BALDNESS

HAIR GROWN ON MR. BRITTAIN'S BALD HEAD BY INDIANS' MYSTERIOUS HAIR GROWER

My head at the top and back was absolutely bald. The scalp was shiny. An expert said that as he thought the hair roots were extinct, and there was no hope of my ever having a new hair growth.

Yet now, at an age over 66, I have a luxuriant growth of soft, strong, lustrous hair! No trace of baldness. The pictures shown here are from my photographs.

Indians' Secret of Hair Growth

At a time when I had become discouraged at trying various hair lotions, tonics, specialists' treatments, etc., I came across, in my travels, a Cherokee Indian "medicine man" who had an elixir that he asseverated would grow my hair. Although I had but little faith, I gave it a trial. To my amazement a light fuzz soon appeared. It developed, day by day, into a healthy growth, and ere long my hair was as prolific as in my youthful days.

That I was astonished and happy is expressing my state of mind mildly.

Obviously, the hair roots had not been dead, but were dormant in the scalp, awaiting the fertilizing potency of the mysterious pomade.

I negotiated for and came into possession of the principle for preparing this mysterious elixir, now called Kotalko, and later had the recipe put into practical form by a chemist.

That my own hair growth was permanent has been amply proved. Many men and women, also children, have reported satisfactory results from Kotalko.

How YOU May Grow YOUR Hair

My honest belief is that hair roots rarely die even when the hair falls out through dandruff, fever, excessive dryness or other disorders. I have been told by experts that often when hair falls out the roots become imbedded within the scalp, covered by hard skin, so that they remain for a time like bulbs or seeds in a bottle which will grow when fertilized. Shampoos (which contain alkalis) and hair lotions which contain alcohol are enemies to the hair, as they dry it, making it brittle. Kotalko contains those elements of nature which give new vitality to the scalp and hair.

A Parade of Toys

If Robinson's Toys should ever take it into their heads to have a parade, it would certainly be a long one.

Even if the Teddy Bears rode by fours on a kiddie car, or three of the French dolls sat in the gray and blue limousine—still, it would take the parade a great while to pass a given point!

For Toyland has more good things than ever this year. Automobiles enameled red and other exciting colors; games for indoors and outdoors; Christmas tree decorations, all glisteny and mysterious-looking.

Yet with all these rows and rows of treasures, children do not get lost, for there are people who know the way to pilot them about.

Come in and see how near Christmas looks!

years' furlough, and will return to Africa the first of the year.

The Parent-Teacher Association held its regular meeting on Wednesday afternoon, at which time they listened to a very interesting talk by Mr. W. P. Shriber of Occidental College on "How to Bridge the Gap Between the School and the Home." Mr. Shriber suggested some very practical ideas well worth considering by both teachers and parents, by way of giving the child credits in school for the work accomplished at home.

The Thursday Morning Musical Club met with Mrs. A. R. Ludlow on Thursday, at which time they began the study of Johann Sebastian Bach's life and his compositions. On November 18 there will be a continuation of the same composer.

On November 11, Armistice Day, the Women's Twentieth Century Club will have the ex-service men of the valley as their guests to a luncheon and an interesting program in the afternoon, and in the evening a program of unusual interest with fine speakers and music will be given in the Central School Auditorium at 8 o'clock. Dr. J. A. Francis will deliver the principal address.

MONROVIA.

Members of the Octo Club were delightfully entertained on Saturday evening by the Misses Laura Newcomb, Grace Worthen and Wauneta Rives at the home of Miss Newcomb on East Greystone avenue. The Halloween motif was used in the table appointments and also in the decorations of the rooms. Zinnias of various shades of yellow, and chrysanthemums, shading from a bright yellow to almost a brown, were used in profusion, the autumn blossoms making a pleasing feature. Little pasteboard pumpkins served as place cards and favors were small Halloween baskets. Places were arranged for Mrs. William Hilts, Mrs. Claude Chess, Mrs. W. J. Bailey, Mrs. Hugh O. Marshall, Miss Anne Crews, Miss Edna Chess, Miss Louise Merry, Miss Helen Reed and the three hostesses. Auction bridge served as the evening amusement, Miss Crews being winner of first prize and Miss Merry being awarded second honors.

Mrs. Mary Vickers of West Lime avenue left on Sunday for Vancouver, B. C. She will visit in San Francisco, Victoria and other points of interest. She expects to be gone about six weeks.

Capt. Palliser and wife of Detroit, Mich., are the guests of Mrs. A. H. Palliser, his mother, of South Encinitas avenue. They expect to spend the winter in Southern California.

Mrs. J. Allen Munro presided over a charming affair on Tuesday at her home on West White Oak avenue, where she entertained the members of the Foothill Luncheon Club and a number of other guests at luncheon and auction bridge. Luncheon was served buffet style from the dining-room, the table being adorned with a centerpiece of vari-colored zinnias. Guests found places throughout the rooms in which to enjoy the dainty lunch, and later made up tables for an afternoon of cards. Mrs. Hugo Krutzsch was the winner of the club prize, and Mrs. Frank O. Eager was awarded the guest prize. Members of the luncheon club who attended were: Mrs. Montague Graham, Mrs. Hardy Harris, Jr., Mrs. Kenneth Price, Mrs. Hugo Krutzsch, Mrs. H. R. Miller, Mrs C. T. Reneker and two newly-elected members, Mrs. Harry Fenn and Mrs. Henry Waterman. The club guests included Mrs. W. M. Baird, Mrs. Harry Klein, Mrs. Edward Scott, Mrs. A. L. McCament, Mrs. Charles Savage, Mrs. Harold Geiger, Mrs. MacGregor, Mrs. F. O. Eager, Mrs. Hugh Marshall, Mrs. C. D. Parkinson, Mrs. C. W. Higgins, Mrs. A. I. Mellenthin, Mrs. V. E. Head, Mrs. W. G. Barks and Dr. Pauline Munro.

After making her home here with her sister, Mrs. A. J. Lyons, for over a year, Mrs. Clara Fregan left on Sunday night for Denver. She will probably return to this city in a few months. Mrs. Lyons's daughter, Mrs. Modest King, and a friend, Miss Laura Hodge of Bakersfield, spent the week-end with her.

The attractive Two B's Tea Room furnished the setting on Tuesday for a charmingly appointed luncheon, the hostess for the affair being Mrs. E. H. Grassett. Places were for members of the Alpha Club and three special guests, Mrs. M. E. Spellicy, Mrs. M. E. Conable and Mrs. Lucien B. Howland. Following the luncheon the party adjourned to the home of Mrs. Spellicy on East Lime avenue, where a pleasant afternoon was enjoyed with auction bridge.

A pleasant gathering of friends took place on Wednesday evening at the home of Dr. Fred J. and Gertrude O. Phillips, when they entertained in compliment to Mrs. Martha Voyce, who was celebrating her birthday anniversary. An informal evening was enjoyed, with music the principal amusement. Delicious refreshments were served later. The greater number of the guests included Detroit or former Detroit residents, many of whom are here for the winter. Mr. and Mrs. Roy Patterson of Eagle Rock, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Gillette of Glendale, Mr. and Mrs. Omar Carson, Mrs. Honigh, Mrs. Lydia Jackson, Mr. and Mrs. B. Luther of Grand Rapids, Mr. and Mrs. Harry Powell, Mr. and Mrs. William Gates, Arthur Gates, Miss Florence Gates and Miss Beulah Voyce.

Mr. and Mrs. Lucien B. Howland, Mrs. E. H. Grassett and Mrs. M. E. Spellicy made up a jolly party that motored over to Hollywood on Wednesday afternoon, where they were guests at a daintily appointed tea given by Mrs. Grassett's daughter, Mrs. Morgan. The charming affair was given in compliment to a friend of Mrs. Grassett, who leaves soon for an Eastern trip. Music was enjoyed during the afternoon.

Mr. and Mrs. E. J. Blacker of Pasadena entertained Mr. and Mrs. L. V. Brooks at dinner at the Two B's Tea Room and Craft Shop on East White Oak avenue on Thursday evening. Decorations were in keeping with the Halloween season.

Mrs. Alice M. Worden presided over a jolly little affair on Thursday evening at her home on Ocean View avenue, inviting a few friends in for the evening, cards furnishing the amusement. Those who accepted Mrs. Worden's hospitality were: Mr. and Mrs. Montague Graham, Mr. and Mrs. V. E. Head, Mrs. Harry Andrews and Capt. Thomas Maney.

A quiet wedding took place on Wednesday, when Miss Mabel Bonham became the bride of William M. Mann of this city. The young people were married at the home of Rev. J. Thurman Pugh, pastor of the Christian Church, at 5:30 o'clock. Those who witnessed the ceremony were Miss Isabella Mann, Mrs. J. Thurman Pugh, Mrs. M. Roberts, Robert Mann and C. Cole. The bridal couple will make their home in this city.

CORONA.

Miss Katherine Sias of Santa Barbara, who spent the week-end with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. T. C. Sias, was honored by a delightful luncheon given by her mother at their home on Lemon street. Mrs. Sias was assisted by her daughter, Dorothy, and Miss Doris Mansfield of Santa Barbara. The guests were Mmes. Lester Hampton, Stanley Linn and R. L. Willits, the Misses Ruth Wilkins, Eloise Jameson, Emily Jameson, Elizabeth Andrews, Harriet Williams and Miss Charlotte Schumaker and Miss Fundenberg of Pasadena.

Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Ashcroft entertained Monday evening in honor of the birthday of Miss C. M. Jones of Los Angeles, who has been their house guest during the past week. Elaborate refreshments were served including a beautiful birthday cake, which was cut and served by the honoree. The guests included Messrs. and Mmes. T. H. Ashcroft, John Baldwin, W. G. Tower, C. Berner, Leo Kroonen, G. W. Roberts and Mrs. M. R. McVicar.

The home of Mr. and Mrs. C. P. Wilson on Victoria street was the scene of a jolly Halloween party Friday evening. The guests were the young ladies of the Congregational church choir and young men to make the right number. Spooks were in evidence and many ghost stories were told by H. M. May who was dressed as a ghost. Orange and black crepe paper and jack-o-lanterns were effectively used in the decorations. Weird games, which had been carefully planned by the hostess were greatly enjoyed. A candy pull and refreshments carrying out the color scheme followed the Halloween frolic. The guests included Misses Neva Miller, Mary Kroonen, Esther King, Esther Crawford, Forence King, Charlotte Dickinson, Kathleen Glass, Viola and Verna Peeler; Messrs. Gilbert Moore, Bruce and David May, Eddie Reid, Wilbert Miller, Glenn Waterbury, Lloyd Dickinson, Dan and Malcom McMillan.

RIALTO.

On Sunday, Mr. and Mrs. D. A. Crawford dispensed open-hearted hospitality at their ranch home on beautiful North Riverside avenue. Stately chrysanthemums added to the attractiveness of the pleasant rooms and graced the charmingly arranged table, where an old-time chicken dinner was enjoyed by Mr. and Mrs. C. N. Flint, formerly of Rialto, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Winters of Los Angeles, the host and hostess.

A happy home is that of Mr. and Mrs. W. R. Wise of Lilac avenue, because of the arrival of Mr. Wise's sister and husband, Mr. and Mrs. W. R. Price of Kansas City, Kan. The brother and sister had not seen each other in twenty long years. The visitors will remain for the winter.

Mr. and Mrs. H. P. Welborn left this week for their new home at Long Beach, greatly to the regret of their many local friends.

Largely attended at the Epworth League Halloween social held at the parlors of the Methodist Church, Tuesday evening, and the most san-

"I Feel as Tho' I Could Not

is the complaint of many a woman in the household, office or factory. After suffering pain, feeling nervous, dizzy, weak and dragged-down by weaknesses of her sex—with eyes sunken, black circles and pale cheeks—such a woman is quickly restored to health by the Favorite Prescription of Dr. Pierce. Changed, too, in looks, for after taking Doctor Pierce's Favorite Prescription the skin becomes clear, the eyes brighter, the cheeks plump. It is purely vegetable and contains no alcohol.

Druggists sell it in tablets or liquid, or send Dr. Pierce, at Invalids' Hotel in Buffalo, N. Y., 10 cts. for trial package. After taking this well-known remedy you will feel strong and healthy. Such a change in feelings, too—there's sparkle in the eyes, a rose tint in the cheeks, for one has rich, red blood. There's elasticity in every movement and a spring in the step. Love comes to every woman who has bounding health—but when she is pallid, dull-eyed, languid, she has no magnetism, nor does she appeal to any man.

SOCIETY.

guine anticipations of a happy affair were fully realized. The young people appeared in full costume and just before unmasking a jolly guessing contest as to identity furnished jolly division. Other diversions were in keeping with the Halloween spirit as were the appetizing refreshments of pumpkin pie, doughnuts and coffee. Mrs. Paul Maxwell, who is possessed of a particularly happy faculty of entertaining, was responsible for the program of the evening.

Mr. and Mrs. A. V. Herkelrath on Sunday happily entertained Mr. and Mrs. Chester Lucas and children for an all-day visit, a dinner of most complete menu and beautiful appointments being a feature of the visit.

ALHAMBRA.

The Round Table held their Halloween social frolic at the home of Mrs. H. J. Goudge, 333 Vega, on the evening of the 29th. The house was decorated with huge bouquets of gaily colored flowers, festooned with orange and black streamers and a goodly number of witches, black cats and goblins. After the Halloween rites had been observed, the club held a short business meeting and indorsed the park bond issue for improving Alhambra Park, which City Manager Lorraine explained to the club members.

On November 3, the Wednesday Afternoon Club gave the second 1 o'clock luncheon of the season. At 2:30 the regular meeting was held. Judge Sidney M. Reeve spoke on "Juvenile Court Experiences."

Mr. and Mrs. Dean Van Norman entertained with a dinner at their home Thursday evening. The guests were Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Games of Riverside, Mr. and Mrs. Grant Lorraine, Mr. and Mrs. George Rice, Jr. and Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Clapp.

Virginia Nielson was hostess to fourteen of her Alhambra, Pasadena and Los Angeles friends at an informal tea, given at her home last Thursday afternoon.

Miss Ethel Riley, a dramatic student at the Polytechnic High School of Los Angeles, entertained twenty of her friends and fellow students at a dance at the home of her mother, 412 North Electric avenue, on the evening of the 6th.

SIERRA MADRE.

Social events here during the week somewhat likened Gretna Green in the number of marriages, four such events occurring during the past week. Former municipal nurse, Miss Kate Brewington, was quietly joined in wedlock on Monday to Claude Vetter of Oregon. Rev. William Carson Shaw officiated at the service in the home of the bride before her immediate relatives. After a short honeymoon at the seashore the couple will establish a home here. On Wednesday Miss Lillian Goldberg, assistant postmistress, was married to Charles Kove of New York in Christopher's banquet room in Los Angeles, Rabbi Meyers performing the ceremony in the presence of close relatives. After a wedding dinner the couple left for San Diego and will make their home in Los Angeles. The Rev. W. H. Rawlings, pastor of Bethany Church, was united in marriage to Miss F. D. Butler of Reading, Eng., on Thursday by Rev. Dr. Horton of Los Angeles, before a number of intimates of the bridegroom. After the ceremony Rev. Rawlings and wife left to spend their honeymoon touring Southern California, after which they will reside here. Miss Winnifred Wallace, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. R. B. Wallace, was married to William Sidney Barton of Altadena on Thursday, at the home of the bride in Santa Anita Court, by Dr. Blue of Pasadena, in the presence of immediate members of the family. After an extended trip throughout the Eastern States and Canada the couple will reside in Pasadena.

Many unique fancy dresses and masks covered pretty forms and faces at one of the most successful masquerade balls held under the auspices of the Woman's Club on Friday evening. Mrs. Milton Steinberger, in Spanish custom, captured one of the prizes; also Mrs. Frank Hart of the Villa, Dr. R. Mackerras as a traffic officer and Miss Yerda Appleby as a bird were also awarded prizes. Mrs. Edith Hawxhurst, in her characterization of a local resident, was among the star characters.

Mrs. F. B. Seeley, daughters Mattie and Helen and son William, spent the week-end on Santa Catalina Island.

Reciprocity day luncheon will be at the Woman's clubhouse on Monday, at which there will be an unusually fine musical program and several interesting speakers.

Miss Edith Walker of Portland, Or., is to reside here permanently with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. William Walker.

After a month's visit with relatives in Alton, Ill., C. B. Klunk returned home last week, bringing his daughter Ruth, who has been living with her grandmother, Mrs. S. G. Harless of El Paso, Texas.

George C. Howell of New York arrived here during the week to spend the winter in this health resort with his wife and daughter Martha, who have been residing here for the past five months.

The Dickens Fellowship will be entertained at luncheon next Wednesday at the home of Mrs. John T. Mason, West Central Boulevard.

RIVERSIDE.

The opening of the winter's social activities for the Casa Blanca Tennis Club was marked by the election of officers and the serving of tea by the hostesses of the occasion early in the week. The courts were filled with players, while others found diversion at cards in the club rooms. A. H. Halsted was elected president; E. E. Daley, vice-president; A. B. Wright, secretary and treasurer, and F. D. Hudson, A. S. Holden, G. E. Dole and R. F. Burnham directors.

The seniors of the Boys' High School were the guests of the seniors of the Girls' High School Saturday night. The guests found the study halls gaily decorated for an old-fashioned Halloween party as they executed a serpentine with their hostesses through the administration building and awoke the echoes with their school yells. Refreshments of pumpkin pie, cider and sandwiches were served by the Misses Audrey Manifold, Louise McClure, Elizabeth Newton, Eleanore Jackson, Marguerite Peterson and Dorothy Brison.

Before a candle-lighted altar in All Saints' Episcopal Church, Miss Leah Stalder and Ernest L. Yeager plighted troth Wednesday morning. The service was read by Rev. R. A. Kirchhoffer, rector of the church, in the presence of nearly seventy relatives and intimate friends of the couple. The bride's attendant was her sister, Miss Ona Stalder. Breakfast was served at the Mission Inn, where covers were laid for twenty. The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. F. W. Stalder of 680 Fourteenth street, is a graduate of

This Actually Removes Superfluous Hair Roots
(Entirely New and Quick Method)

By the introduction in this country of what is known as the "phelactine process," any woman can now rid herself completely of annoying superfluous hair or fuzz. The process is entirely new, different from all others, and far better—because it actually removes the roots, as well as the surface hair! It is almost instantaneous, perfectly harmless, odorless and non-irritating.

Just get a stick of phelactine from your druggist, follow the simple directions—and see the hair roots come out, with your own eyes! No depilatory or electrical treatment can produce this result. The skin is left soft, smooth and hairless as a child's. Phelactine can be used with absolute safety—one could even eat it with impunity.

To Give the Hair a Naturally Wavy Effect

Ever since the virtues of the silmerine hair-curling method first became known in this country, druggists here have been having a really extraordinary demand for liquid silmerine. Its effectiveness, its convenience and its entire harmlessness doubtless have been responsible for its increasing use among well groomed women.

One need only apply a little of the liquid with a clean tooth brush before doing up the hair and the tresses will have a beautiful wavy and glossy appearance which bears no marks of artificiality. The best way is to divide the hair into strands and moisten each of them from root to tip. There is no discoloration, no sticky, streaky or other unpleasant feature. Liquid silmerine is fine also as an aid in shaping "ear muffs" and in keeping them in place over the ears.

SIMPLE LIFE AND THE FILM.

Dexter Applies Reposeful Principles in Acting.

Rural Vocation Furnishes Him Enough Thrills.

Prefers Flivver to Elegance of Limousines.

BY EDWIN SCHALLERT.

When the featured picture actor of note disposes of his limousines and buys a flivver, forsakes his apartments of elegance and sequesters himself in a little rear cottage—why the Hollywood alarm clock of gossip isn't going to remain oblivious. In fact, it's going to ring loudly and long, until everybody wakes up to the fact.

Of course, it's in any leading man's province to cultivate a diversion if he wants to. But in Elliot Dexter's instance it isn't a diversion, it's his mode of life. And to all intents and purposes, that mode of life is not a transitory thing.

It's a complete reflection of his mental attitude—which is that you can't cultivate repose for picture acting or anything else out in the genial whirligig, but have to seek the quiet of a hermit's existence to begin with.

And that's altogether a new thing, believe me, in the cyclonic cinematic circle. But it's a very successful thing in Dexter's case, as witness his splendid performance in "Behold My Wife," which recently showed here. Even finer things he has expressed, it is said, in "Something to Think About."

It's not unlikely that he will popularize the idea of the hermit's existence in Hollywood. And first thing anyone knows, we'll have even the he-vamps residing in bungalows that are obviously built for one—if there be such a bungalow—and rusticating amid lime trees, roses and yellow calico curtains, as Dexter is doing at present.

Dexter had just returned from the Northwest when I met him. He had spent two weeks on a farm near Seattle.

The chief event of his stay had been a picnic in the mountains—something he had not enjoyed since his youth. Most of the time, though, it rained and he spent his time indoors reading. That was his vacation, and he enjoyed it.

Dexter has come back on the screen with evidence of increased powers—even over his remarkable performance in "For Better or For Worse," which was his last appearance before his illness, which kept him away from the screen for a time.

It is rather curious that the theme of "Something to Think About" is one Mr. Dexter himself suggested, and is, to an extent, the result of his own experiences with mental control.

QUIESCENT ATTITUDE.

Mr. Dexter's views on portrayals in pictures emphasize his quiescent attitude. "The principle of keeping the mind in repose can be applied to picture-making," he declares. "The mind, you know, is like a lake. If it is calm and unruffled it will reflect everything in beautiful reality; if it is disturbed it will reflect nothing. If it is in commotion one cannot hear the still small voice of inspiration.

"It used to be that when I had an important meeting, I would try to imagine what the other party would say, and try to anticipate my own conversation. Things would rarely turn out as anticipated. My view would be distorted, whereas if I had laid the matter on the shelf until the proper time, I would have been able to act properly and for good, because I would have been free from prejudice.

"It is the same with playing a part on the screen. I do not think about what I have to do before I go on the set. I do not try to live my role. I wait until the time comes to act and then I am certain of the proper inspiration."

Mr. Dexter is at present working in special productions. He is to have an important role in Cecil De Mille's film version of "Anatol" plays by Arthur Schnitzler, which will feature one of the most brilliant casts ever assembled, including Wallace Reid, Gloria Swanson, Wanda Hawley, Bebe Daniels, Theodore Roberts, Theodore Kosloff and others. Later it is probable that Mr. Dexter will go to New York and abroad, possibly making pictures there.

JOINS METRO STAFF.

George Elwood Jenks, continuity writer, has joined the Metro staff under Bayard Veiller. He has just concluded several months of free-lancing with the adaptation of "The Heart Line," a popular novel by Gelett Burgess, now being produced by Arthur F. Beck as a special for Pathe release. Just before that he adapted "The Trail of the Ax," Robert Brunton's coming big woods production starring Dustin Farnum.

THE SPOKEN DRAMA ATTRACTS CHANEY.

TOD BROWNING WOULD HAVE HIM AS STAR IN STAGE PLAY.

Lon Chaney may become a star of the spoken drama when Tod Browning adapts his underworld film feature, "Outside the Law," to the stage, as he plans.

Browning will leave for New York this month to confer with eastern managers regarding production. Probably Morris Gest or J. J. Shubert, because of their personal friendship for the film author-director, will have the first chance at staging the picture.

Mr. Browning is now titling "Outside the Law." It will be released as a Universal-Jewel special production starring Priscilla Dean with Lon Chaney, E. A. Warren, Wheeler Oakman and Edgar Lewis in the cast.

With the cutting and titling of the picture off his hands Browning will start his dramatization. It is not considered possible that Miss Dean can obtain a release of her Universal contract to appear in the play, but Chaney, one of the highest-priced character actors on stage or screen, is a freelance player bound by no contracts.

"If I can get Lon to play in the stage version of 'Outside the Law' I certainly will do so," said Mr. Browning yesterday in his office at Universal City. "I cannot visualize any other actor in this country as 'Black' Jack Moran, nor in the other part which Chaney plays in the picture."

Chaney's personal appearance behind the footlights after his spectacular stardom in "The Penalty," following his work as the frog in "The Miracle Man," would be a Broadway sensation without precedent, it is believed. The dual role in "Outside the Law" is Chaney's latest film work and Irving Tholberg, Carl Laemmle's personal representative, declares it his best.

Harry Fox and Beatrice Curtis,
Appearing prominently on Orpheum bill.

AT THE ORPHEUM.

Headliner of the Coming Week is Harry Fox of Pomona.

Harry Fox, who came out of Pomona to electrify the world as a musical comedy and movie star and a vaudeville headliner, will return to Los Angeles as star of the Orpheum bill, opening Monday matinee, November 8. Mr. Fox has appeared here before, of course, and is remembered both by this city and by the Pomonans, who came over in force to see and hear him. This time he fetches with him Beatrice Curtis, called by Harrison Fisher, the artist, "the prettiest miss on the stage," and they combine their talents in a musical melange that is highly diverting.

Maude Powell and Vernon Wallace will be another "team" in the new bill; they offer a skit called "Georgia on Broadway." Lord Chester and Marven Morgan, with their little company, have a lively skit by George V. Hobart, "At the Phone," which contains all the humor—to the other fellow—of the chap trying to get a number from the gum-chewing central, and all the tragedy of the man trying in vain. Nelson Story and Elsie Clark are a young couple just from the Antipodes, with some songs given in the way they do e'm in the land of the kangaroo, with costumes and effects likewise.

Lee Rose and Katheryn Moon will proffer a story in song and dance, with Harry Stover at the piano. Tucker and Clare will offer some "twists and tunes," and Charles Henry's Pets, cleverly trained dogs, will do a complete little play, "A Canine's Dream."

Sheila Terry and her little company will again present "Three's a Crowd."

ANOTHER PORT STORY.

Katherine MacDonald in Rita Weiman's "Curtain."

"Curtain" from Rita Wieman's Saturday Evening Post story is showing in film version at the Kinema Theater. Katherine MacDonald is the star.

"Curtain" is the romance of an actress who sacrifices her career for a marriage. It introduces a new phase in the mingling of the environments of stage and home. The woman's longing to go back on the stage is greater than the love for her home, which has already been shattered by the infidelity of her husband, and the romance then journeys towards a strange ending.

The Kinema program also includes Chester Conklin's initial starring comedy, "A Soft Boiled Yegg." Rene Williams will conduct the orchestra in Victor Herbert's "Serenade" as overture. Other numbers are the Kinema weekly review; "Japanese Sandman" played as organ solo by Earl Abel; the Bruce-Scenic beautiful "Flowing Waters;" Amos Dorsey Cain, baritone, singing the prologue to "Pagliacci," and a Gumps cartoon.

MUST MARRY STAR SAYS ADMIRER.

Colleen Moore is threatened with a breach of promise suit!

It all started when a national news syndicate carried a story giving the popular young star's opinions on "The Ideal Man to Marry." Miss Moore was quoted as saying that not until she found a man filling every requirement would she consider marriage.

At least fifty men from all parts of the country wrote in letters to say that they measured up to the standard set, and all of them admitted their willingness to wed. Miss Moore courteously answered all the letters but accepted none of the offers.

A Chicagoan refuses to have his offered spurned. He has kept up a bombardment of letters and telegrams and now threatens to sue unless the lady of his heart will listen to reason.

GRIFFITH INJURED DURING ICE SCENES.

D. W. Griffith bears on his cheek today a scar that will probably never disappear. And that scar is the result of his bravery in saving from death in the ice-choked White River of Vermont an assistant who was in imminent danger of being washed down the stream in a sudden flood.

It happened during the taking of "Way Down East," showing at the Philharmonic Auditorium.

Griffith was so badly injured that he had to suspend all operations for several days while he lay in a farmhouse under care of a surgeon. His leg was ripped open and both cheeks were severely cut when he fell upon the ice. However, he was successful in saving a man's life.

INDIA PICTURE MAD.

People Want Own Studios as Well as Theaters.

India has gone "movie" crazy. This is the word brought to the United States by R. A. Broekman, detailed from the Far Eastern country thoroughly to investigate the American motion picture industry.

"In

"India has gone absolutely mad over pictures," he said. "There is a growing demand for more theaters, more and better productions and most of all, studios for producing our own pictures.

"I have been detailed by the government of India to investigate the cinema industry. On arriving in New York, I decided to come direct to Hollywood, the motion picture center of the world, to continue my work.

"On arriving in Los Angeles, I visited the Famous Players-Lasky studio. I had never dreamed that a motion-picture studio was so big, wonderful and business-like. I will have a great story to carry back to my government and I assure you that it will not be long before India will be on the map as a producing nation for motion pictures."

COMEDY AT GRAUMAN'S.

Bryant Washburn Booked for Laugh Bringer, "Burglar Proof."

The attraction at Grauman's for next week, beginning tomorrow, will be, says Sid, one of the funniest comedy-dramas given to the screen in many moons. The title of this brand new creation from the Lasky studios is "Burglar Proof." The star of the production is Bryant Washburn, who is looked upon as one of the most promising lights in the cinema firmament. Mr. Washburn is an optimistic young American who considers one smile worth a million frowns. In his nine years of picture work he has made thousands laugh.

Lois Wilson, Grace Morse, C. H. Geldart, Clarence Burton, Blanche Gray, Emily Chichester, Tom D. Bates, Hayward Mack and Frances Le Berthon are well-known players who are seen in support of Mr. Washburn in this happy screen offering, which deals with a man, who, finding that the world hates a tightwad, decides to turn over a new leaf. The "turning" is replete with humor for the playgoers.

Among the events on the bill of added attractions are Grauman's Symphony Orchestra, conducted by Misha Guterson and Henry B. Murtagh at the Wurlitzer.

SATIRE ON "MADAM X" AT BROADWAY PAN.

The Broadway Pantages will add four acts of vaudeville to its program of musical revue and pictures. The acts programmed for the coming week include acrobatic, novelty, musical and comedy numbers, and will be interpolated into the musical show.

Al Bruce, the newly enlisted producer of the Albright organization, is responsible for the coming show, which bears the name, "Oh, You Kid," and includes a travesty on "Madame X" under the title "Madame Xcuse Me."

"The Silent Barrier," from the novel by Louis Tracy, adapted for the screen by Charles T. Dazey, has been booked as the screen feature. The "barrier" is the eternal snow of the Alpine fastnesses where the action of the picture takes place.

The Fox adventure serial, "Bride 13," will continue, nearing its climax of interest.

FARNUM PICTURE STILL AT SYMPHONY.

"Drag Harlan," the western photodrama, starring "Bill" Farnum, and the Fox Sunshine comedy, "An Elephant's Nightmare," with Jack Cooper, "the man who made the Prince of Wales laugh," will continue at the Symphony Theater.

As the famous "Pardo two-gun man," Farnum gives many exhibitions of his skill. Romance adds charm to the picture. The film was produced from Charles Alden Seltzer's story in the Argosy Magazine, and was adapted to the screen by H. P. Keeler, who also adapted Tom Mix's "The Untamed." J. Gordon Edwards was the director.

Among the prominent players in the cast are Jackie Saunders, Arthur Millett, Herschel Mayall, Frank Thurwald, "Kewpie" Morgan, Al Fremont and Eric Crane.

The same atmospheric prologue, featuring the actor, Westcott B. Clarke, in a "bad man" scene from "The Virginian," will be given, but there will be new music by the Symphony Concert Orchestra and a new Mutt and Jeff cartoon and Fox news weekly.

TORRID LOVE DRAMA.

"Leopard Woman" at Tally's Has Egyptian Locale.

Louise Glaum in the atmosphere of Egypt and the hot heart of the African veldt, surrounded by a train of slaves and exotic luxury of peacock fans, leopard skins and rare gold robes, is one of the attractions of "The Leopard Woman," showing at Tally's Broadway. House Peters plays opposite her, an impenetrable emissary of the British government, sent to take possession of a savage kingdom in Africa.

Miss Glaum, known as "Madame," is also a secret government representative, whose duty is to check Culbertson's (Mr. Peters) progress, even to the point of doing away with him if necessary. They meet in the African Congo, and, while she knows he is destined to be her prey, she delays exercising her official duty through a ruse which throws them together for days.

One evening, while under the spell of the witchery of a star-jeweled night, the purpose of her mission is swept away with the wakening of her heart. At first the emissary accept her love, then scorns her. In a fit of rage, she orders him killed.

Circumstances, however, entangle her in a web from which she can scarcely extricate herself, until Culbertson, whom she thought killed, makes possible her rescue.

GRIFFITH STATISTICS.

Hundred Thousand People Have Seen "Way Down East."

D. W. Griffith's production of the great American drama, "Way Down East" begins its fourth week at the Philharmonic Auditorium with Monday's matinee. There will be the usual two performances daily throughout the week.

To date there have been one hundred thousand people who have attended the performances of "Way Down East" at the Philharmonic Auditorium. By actual count the first three weeks of "Way Down East" have played to a much greater number than attended the first three weeks of Griffith's former big successes at the same house, "The Clansman," "Intolerance," "Hearts of the World" and "Broken Blossoms."

The Griffith story of "Way Down East" is a simple story of plain people, surrounded by events of such dramatic intensity that critics throughout the country have been unanimous in their expression that it is a production that no one interested in the drama, or screen or the really good entertainment of life can well afford to miss. The original story of "Way Down East" was written by Lottie Blair Parker and the value of its appeal was proved by the fact that at the time of its presentation on the stage it was one of the biggest dramatic successes of its time.

"OLD-FASHIONED BOY" STAYS AT GARRICK.

Charles Ray will be held over at the Garrick for a second and last week in "An Old Fashioned Boy," his final Paramount picture.

"An Old Fashioned Boy" is an amusing tale of a youth who has his grandfather's tastes, but who is in love with a very new-fashioned girl. How she refuses his proposal when she learns that he had built a bungalow for her before asking her permission, and how he concocts a scheme, through the aid of three youngsters, to win back her love, forms the backbone of the story.

"Wild, Wild Women," the latest Hall Room Boys comedy, starring Hugh Fay, "the stylish comedian," will also be held over.

POSTHUMOUS PICTURE.

Olive Thomas in "Darling Mine" at the Walker.

Because they have not been able to satisfy the demands of those who wish to see Olive Thomas in her last play, "Darling Mine," the management has decided to keep the attraction on the screen for a second week, beginning tomorrow afternoon. Those who loved the beautiful young star—and they number hundreds—are evidencing a keen desire to behold her in this picture.

Miss Thomas appears in the role of the little Irish fisher girl, transplanted to the East Side of New York and then to theatrical life. The settings range from the wind-swept Irish coast to a luxurious Long Island country home.

Walter McGrail, who has played leads in a number of pictures, has the principal male role, and others in the cast are J. Barney Sherry, Walt Whitman, Margaret McWade, Betty Schade, and Richard Tucker.

A comedy picture and several other features are on the programs

"HONEST HUTCH" TO SHOW AT THE PALACE.

Starting today, the Palace will show a photoplay that comes close to being one of the greatest comedies ever made—Will Rogers in "Honest Hutch."

This is a picture that will put Will Rogers across as the most lovable male star in pictures. He plays the role of Old Hutch, the laziest man in the laziest village in the world. The most strenuous thing Hutch ever did was to extract tobacco money from his work-ridden wife. A mysterious ailment of the neck prevented his engaging in anything remotely resembling labor, but he was able, by an almost superhuman effort, to drag himself to the river bank on sunny days to fish for mythical trout.

It was on one of these excursions that Hutch collided with the miracle that changed his life. He needed worms, and dug up instead a tin box containing fifty $1000 notes—the fruits of a bank robbery in Vicksburg. Hutch decides to become respectable, work, save and thus prepare his neighbors for his wealth. The astonishment of his wife and children at the sight of Hutch plowing a field like a diligent farmer will only be equaled by the astonishment of the audience.

On the same program a new "Gump" comedy is scheduled.

WALLIS SCHOOL PROGRAM.

A society of the Westlake Methodist Church was entertained Friday evening by a company of students from the Wallis School of Dramatic Art, giving a sketch entitled "The Census Man." In the cast were the Prohaska children—Walter, Dorothy and Lillian. The same evening at the review in Wallis Hall, Gamut Theater Building, the leading numbers were Miss Lucy Wolcott's "Musical Message," one of a series now being given every Friday night on the review programs; a sketch presented by Miss L. Schall and H. W. Hoffman, entitled "A Pair of Lunatics;" dances, pantomimes and dramatic readings.

Jan Rubini,
Violin virtuoso at New Pantages.

VIRTUOSO AT PANTAGES.

Popular Violinist is to Head Vaudeville Bill.

The recent engagement here of Jan Rubini, the Russian violinist, developed such popularity for the artist that Alexander Pantages at once made arrangements for an early return, and the artist's appearance at the New Pantages is promised for next week. Rubini will be accompanied by Mlle. Stantone, French composer and pianist.

Noodles Fagan is also brought back at the request of several fraternal and social organizations of which Mr. Fagan was the guest during his recent engagement here. "Mammy's Birthday," a musical review with a southern setting; Lady Alice's pets, clever feline actors; Will and Mary Rogers in comedy, and the Three White Kuhns, a vocal trio, make the vaudeville list, with Mitchell Lewis featured in his latest film drama, "King Spruce", from Holman Day's novel.

Words of the most degree and descriptions of the most laudatory nature have not been found to express in adequate wonderful picture play of love and adventure such as only a Griffith, a master, may reveal in all its strength and excitement. WOMEN'S WORK AND WOMEN'S CLUBS.

BY MYRA NYE.

Friday Morning Club.

To smoke or not to smoke, that is the question; whether it is better to burn tobacco rolled in paper and held thus burning with rubied lips or Puritanically to abstain from everything nicotine forever, shutting our eyes tight to the fact that many a "lady" ancestor of Friday Morning Club members puffed on her old yellowed clay beside the fire in a thatched cottage across the water.

This, along with the demerits of hissing speakers at luncheon, direct citizenship for women married to aliens, the wisdom or unwisdom of sipping wine or a low-per cent beer of mild blandness was discussed by the presiding genius of the Friday Morning Club at the last meeting, when that resolute body of women, the G. F.W.C. was quoted as passing resolutions to a great number concerning all manner of things, but decidedly against women smoking and decidedly for the Volstead Act.

"Now that we are emancipated by the franchise," said Mrs. O. Shepard Barnum, "we should not stupidly imitate the men in their vices or their faults, if you prefer to call smoking that. Some 'new' women tried to imitate the men in dress years ago, but it didn't work. Imitation is enslavement."

Orcella Rexford, she of the colorful name to match her colorful subject, knocked over like ten pins some seemingly adamantine and fixed notions when she said: "Dark colors, like drabs and browns, are conducive to crime and black is positively criminal." The women began to think they knew now why so many men are criminals and that perhaps Mrs. Peete didn't do it after all, for she wears a blue beaver hat and a blue dress and blue is the "intellectual color" and the "virtuous color." Straightway Mrs. Barnum was compelled to disclaim any intention of provoking crime by wearing a black dress, and Miss Faith Chevalier surreptitiously slipped off her red, red rose of a jacket that matched her velvet skirt and her crown-like velvet hat, for the speaker said red caused naughtiness in little girls, and Faith preferred to reveal her yellow satin waist that swore at her majenta skirt rather than be thought "naughty."

"French wear complex colors, for they are complex; Germany has the fewest colors and is criminal. My message is 'wear colors'. At the foot of the rainbow lies happiness," said the speaker, who, herself was an autumn symphony of the newest shades of henna, yellows, russet brown and rust.

There is no need to fear that Broadway, Figueroa and Seventh streets will become Peacock Alley by the scintillating raiment of Friday Morning Club members. Nothing so trival attracts them. We have it from their last bulletin: "We are no longer satisfied to be amused, instructed and continually diverted. We are tired of detached superficialities and clevernesses and prettinesses and make-believe. We are in the current of human progress and we mean to keep ourselves there, not floating, but steering, not drifting as spectators, but doers and sharers and contributers. Women's clubs should afford preparation for the opportunities life presents. Our programs should keep us aware of the larger movements of life which enclose ours. They should give us a community of interests and activities, a sense of close fellowship in service. If they do this our clubs will become indispensable elements to community life. Unless they do this they cannot long endure."

But last Friday a week ago the club digressed from this stringent seriousness to hear a truly wonderful program of pure music interspersed with no addenda of club life. May Mukle, who is recognized universally as the greatest woman violin-'cellist in the world, with Laurence Schauffler at the piano, was presented by the club in the only program she has given in Southern California. The excitement and stress of election crowded out due notice of the harm of her playing.

Ruskin Art Club.

Mrs. W. S. Bullis and Mrs. M. A. Lewis were in charge of the program of the Ruskin Art Club Monday morning, when a study was made of those influences, beginning with impressions, which have been potent factors in the development of art in the twentieth century.

Mrs. Walter Sohier spoke on "What is Art?" bringing to the subject a decidedly modern viewpoint. The change in the conception of painting, color and values inaugurated by the great French impressionists was the theme of a talk by Mrs. Thomas Berkebile. Mrs. Samuel Storrow, former president of the club, gave an interesting study of Renoir and his predecessors in the impressionist school of painting.

On Wednesday the program will be under the direction of Mrs. C. E. Day and Mrs. F. L. Kennedy, and will be devoted to the work of Puvis de Chavannes and his followers.

Mrs. W. H. Council president of the club, entertained members of the executive board and chairmen of committees at a luncheon Friday of last week at her home in South Pasadena.

Woman's Press Club.

At the Woman's Press Club meeting Tuesday at 2:30 p.m., in the Ebell clubhouse, W. Pigott, editor of "Screenkrafters," will discuss the "Scenario." He will speak from the producer's standpoint, whereas Mrs. Pigott, who is a member of the club and the author of over 300 photoplays, of which "The Price of Silence" is the best known, will answer questions on scenario writing. Mrs. Clara V. Winlow is chairman of this program and will preside. The meeting is for members only. The executive board meeting will precede the program.

The musicale scheduled for the evening of November 20 has been changed to a dinner later in the season, when a number of famous writers who will be in the city then have promised to attend.

The short story section of the club meets every Friday at 1:30 p.m. in the music room of the Public Library. Mrs. Caroline Clough McQuinn is chairman and reports so large a number enrolled and in regular attendance that a change of place of meeting will be necessary after the next meeting.

Eugene Manlove Rhodes, author of "West is West;" Madam Elsie Deremeaux, concert pianiste, and Miss Miriam Meredith, speaking of "The Scenario," will appear upon the program November 23.

Wa-Wan Club.

Reflected 'glory" of Wa-Wan Club's many artists is to shine forth on the talented members of the club's student membership. Through Mrs. William Mabee, the president of the club, and Mrs. Franklin Harper Crawford, a student membership has been started, whereby all students of music, drama and the dance between the ages of 14 and 24 may become members upon the recommendation of their club teacher.

A two-artist program, a luncheon and one students' program are given each month. The first student program was given last Wednesday at Symphony Hall. Mrs. Gertrude Ross gave a talk on "Musical Compositions," followed by the program by the students, which proved to be a great success.

Assisting Mrs. William Duffield and Mrs. William Boyce of the hospitality committee for the regular program in the Alexandria ballroom Wednesday at 2:30 p.m. are Emma Porter Makinson, Mrs. Caroline Cadman, Maud Howard, Ruth Hutchinson and Elizabeth Wilbur. Mrs. William Mabee will preside and Mrs. Gertrude Ross will present the artists. Anthony Carlson will give a group of his own song compositions.

La Camarada Club.

After the storm of politics for women, "Dress" was taken up Wednesday afternoon, when La Camarada Club met at the home of Mrs. F. O. Burnell. "Our Grandmothers' Dress," was discussed by Mrs. G. R. Murdock; "Our Mothers' Dress" by Mrs. F. L. Irwin; and there was a clever satire on our own dress by Mrs. W. I. Pickney.

Then followed Mrs. Louie L. West, Mrs. Chase Garfield and Miss Manbach and Miss Rose in costumes of the periods.

A touch of sentiment was given in song after these sentimental visualizations. Mrs. D. H. Budlong, Mrs. A. D. Davies and Miss Grace Grubb sang some of the old-time songs, and Mrs. Nicholas Messer gave a reading, "Nothing to Wear."

The climax of the afternoon came when Mrs. Florence Schoneman, in the costume of a Spanish senora, spoke on "The California Woman of One Hundred Years Ago."

At the close of the afternoon the hostess served tea and the club adjourned to meet at the home of Mrs. F. L. Fuller the 17th inst.

Oral Arts Association.

"Stagecraft and Modern Play Production," was the subject of a talk by Gilmore Brown, director of the Pasadena Community Playhouse, Saturday before the Oral Arts Association of Southern California.

At this, the first meeting of the year, the following officers were chosen: Mrs. Isabel Gray, president; Miss Evelyn Dayman, first vice-president; Miss Isabel Myrtle Goodykoontz, second vice-president, and Miss Carolina Abrams, secretary-treasurer.

Following the business meeting there was a presentation of "Rebecca of Sunnybrook Farm" by Kate Douglas Wiggin, given by the Pasadena Community Players, in whose hands the comedy of youth lost none of its spontaneity and charm.

Miss Katherine Craig, the retiring president, has placed this organization in an enviable position with a record of progress in knowledge of the drama.

Club Paragraphs.

Mrs. Henrietta Herton Kapp will give her lecture, "The Development of Art and Art Principals," at the meeting of the University Book Club, Tuesday morning and Mrs. J. A. Kennedy will lead in the discussion of current events.

Mrs. Jacques Georges Van der Kley, who until recently was associate editor of Vogue in New York City, has joined the circle of women writers in Los Angeles. She plans to make Los Angeles her home.

Netting the sum of $700, the fall festival given by the Santa Monica Bay Woman's Club was a great success. This was the initial benefit of a series to be given during the club year. At the last meeting the deed to the new lot adjoining the clubhouse was presented to the club.

Cabrillo Chapter D.A.R. will meet Wednesday at 2 p.m. with Mrs. George Bent, 2205 South Gramercy Place. The program will begin at 3 p.m. when Mrs. Benjamin Goldman will read John Drinkwater's play, "Abraham Lincoln." Mrs. W. H. Anderson has charge of the music.

On Sunday, November 21, the Woman's Lyric Club, which ranks among the first in the United States as a choral organization of women, will present the first concert program for the season in Philharmonic Auditorium. Miss Modesta Mortensen, violinist, is the solo artist to appear. Tourists' temporary memberships may be secured from Mrs. Paula Dohrman, 1767 West Twenty-fifth street.

Reservation for the Comos Club luncheon Tuesday at the Ebell clubhouse may be made through Mrs. E. M. Ford. Members are privileged to bring guests. There will be a talk on "Vocational Education Among Returned Soldiers," and Mrs. George Louis Charette will be the vocalist accompanied by Mrs. Clayton J. Hinman. A food sale will be held by the building association at the close of the meeting.

Don Francisco, president of the Advertising Club, and advertising manager of the California Fruit Growers' Exchange, will be one of the speakers at the meeting of the Business Woman's Civic Club in the Investment Building at 8 p.m. tomorrow. "The Progress of the Department of Occupation of the County Federation" will be discussed by Miss Winifred Hausan, and the "City Civil Service Department" will be presented by one of its members in this program of public affairs, with Miss Alice Church as chairman.

Wade Hampton Charpter, U.D.C., will hold its monthly meeting tomorrow at 1 p.m., at the home of Mrs. McLaughlin White, 519 Raleigh street, Glendale.

Entertaining the Los Angeles District Board Tuesday at the home of Mrs. J. B. Baker, 2137 West Twenty-first street, the Reciprocity Club will hear talks by the district chairman. Miss Mildred Wheat of Redlands will give a piano recital.

The Gleason Parliamentary Club will meet at the home of the president, Mrs. I. W. Gleason, the 27th inst., when the members will choose a flower, color and motto. At the last meeting an open forum on the Japanese question was held, with Mrs. J. Joel Smith, Mrs. Harry Shultz, Mrs. Norman M. Day, and Mrs. H. P. Sweet taking part. The parliamentary drill, always a feature of the club work, was conducted by Mrs. F. W. Fuller in the absence of Mrs. J. R. Dudley, district parliamentarian.

Mrs. W. Silverwood, president of the Galpin Shakespeare Club will preside at the meeting Wednesday at 10:30 a.m., in the Friday Morning clubhouse, when Miss Gertrude Darlow of the public library, will talk on "Modern Drama."

Corinne L. Dodge's song poem, "Peace Rests Upon the Hill of God," a new world anthem, has been given a musical setting by Cadman, and was awarded the first prize in the national patriotic songs contest.

At the Philanthropy and Civics Club, Tuesday afternoon, Dr. John R. Haynes will speak on "The Aftermath of the Political Situation."

Armistice Day will be celebrated Tuesday by the West Ebell Club, meeting at 2 p.m. in the club rooms, 4802 Western avenue. Lieut. Col. James S. Knight will give "Bits from Over There," and Mrs. McKnight (Anita King) will give an address, "My Audience with the Pope." Mrs. Gertrude Campbell will sing a group of patriotic songs.

"Malnutrition Among School Children" is the subject to be presented to the South Side Ebell Club at the Vernon branch library Thursday by Dr. Everett Beach.

Mme. Anna Ruzena Sprotte will appear in a song recital before the Woman's Club of Hollywood Wednesday at 2:30 p.m.. An informal talk of Bohemian folk songs will be an interesting feature of her program.

The California pictures now hung in the Ebell clubhouse are the works of a Hollywood artist, Ralph Davidson Miller.

Recently organized, the Intercollegiate Club is inviting university people to join the organization. It is stipulated that members shall be not over 35 years of age and shall come together for social enjoyment. Miss Vivian Monier, 1333 West Adams street, will answer inquiries concerning the organization. The club is extending invitations to an open house to young college men and women today at 3 p.m. at the home of Miss Monier.

NOTABLE EXHIBIT BY CRAFTS STUDY CLUB.

The most notable event in the history of the Crafts Study Club was the exhibit in the parlors of Hotel Clark last week.

Quaint and striking were the beautiful sconces, products of the skill and imagination of members, interesting were the pieces of wood sculpture of Faust L. Lang, recently of Oberammergau, and colorful were the paintings by Richard Bret Hart, a grandson of Bret Hart, the famous California writer.

Mr. Lang is a cousin of Anton Lang, world renowned for his work as Christ in the Passion Play. Mrs. Lang, his wife, exhibited a collection of water-color studies of animal life. Miss Nell Brooker Mayhew of Pasadena was represented by some original color sketches, or "Phantom Pictures."

Miss Carolyn Ashbrook, Miss Bertha Barker, Miss Helen Smith and Miss Evelyn Ringeman exhibited decorative work, batik dying, posters and embroidery of distinctive originality.

The club makes a specialty of metal crafts and there was more than usual interest in the pictures in enamel on copper by Douglas Donaldson and in Carl Johonnot's wood carving, queer bird pins in enamel, lanterns and jewelry, handwrought.

Other members whose work was noted as especially attractive are Mrs. Lurah Davis, Mrs. Fred Bacon, Mrs. Henry Henderson, Miss Ruth Jonghin, Miss Ruth Tally, Miss J. E. MacNabb, Miss Rose Cooner, Mrs. A. B. Smith, Mrs. C. L. Powell, Miss Lillian Fletcher, Mrs. Lois Akey, Mrs. F. M. Dimmick, Mrs. Everett Barnes and Mrs. George B. Anderson.

DRIVE FOR PENNIES IS DUE IN SCHOOLS.

"Give a penny, it takes many," is the slogan for Los Angeles school children this week, as the P.-T.A. penny drive is on in earnest. All the money thus raised is to go into the scholarship fund of the federation of the Parent-Teacher associations of the city.

Last year the federation paid out $2000 in scholarships and again this year the oportunity is given the children to help those less fortunate than themselves, by giving a Thanksgiving offering of at least one penny. Mrs. Dorsey, Superintendent of Schools has authorized and is encouraging the drive. The ways and means committee consists of Mrs. E. Fletcher Scott, Mrs. Ralph Braddock and Mrs. F. M. Adamson. In the city, 250 yetters have been sent to principals, who have responded enthusiastically with their co-operation.

WALLIE MAKES HIS OWN MUSIC.

Lasky Star Plays for Dance in the Yosemite.

Agnes Ayres is the Belle of Halloween Party.

Gleams and Glimpses from Studio Colony.

Wallace Reid was the chief musician and Agnes Ayres the belle of the ball at the Halloween party held in the heart of the Yosemite Valley recently, while the Reid company, directed by Frank Urson, was there on location for scenes in Eugene Lewis's adaptation from Frank Spearman's "The Daughter of a Magnate," in which Mr. Reid will star and Miss Ayres will be the leading woman.

The members of the company were invited to the party, which had been arranged by the various visitors in the valley and which was held in one of the big pavilions.

The music didn't quite suit the star, so he took one of the instruments away from one of the players or dug up one of his own, starting things according to his own ideas. Miss Ayres was the cynosure of all eyes, and everybody wanted to dance with her.

Presently Mr. Reid was forcibly dragged from the music stand and compelled to dance with some of the maidens who had known him long via the screen but never had met him face to face.

Altogether it was a festive occasion much enlivened by the fact that Paramount folk happened to be on hand.

"I was really alarmed," laughed Miss Ayres, "for fear our star would be kidnaped before the trip was over. They simply besieged him. But we finally got him away safely and now we're back at the studio. I gained five pounds on the expedition—which I didn't mind a bit."

The company is now working on interiors at the Lasky studio.

Jackie Saunders with Metro.

Executives of Metro's west coast studios are concentrating all their efforts on the organization of the strongest casts for all-star productions about to be started and as support for their stars. Jackie Saunders, one of filmdom's most charming young actresses, is the latest addition.

She has been engaged for an important role in support of Viola Dana in her new starring picture, "Sorrentina," work on which will begin in a few days.

In this story by Don Byrne, centering about a young Italian couple, Miss Saunders will enact the role of the vamp manicurist who lures the young Italian from his wife.

Other members of the cast are Francis MacDonald, Fred Kelsey, Tom Kennedy and John Herdman.

Mrs. Chaplin Still Here.

Mildred Harris Chaplin is still in our midst. She stated last night that she expected that the business which called here here, viz., matters related to her expected divorce from Mr. Chaplin, and certain business affairs, would keep her here for another week at least. After that she will return to New York.

Carey Writes Script.

Harry Carey is credited with having written the scenario for his photoplay, "Sundown Slim," which is to show next week at the Superba Theater. The feature is an adaptation from H. H. Knibbs' novel. Carey was at one time a successful playwright, appearing in several dramas of his own creation.

Play "Finlandia."

Sibelius's tone poem, "Finlandia," is being rendered by the orchestra under the baton of Rene Williams today at the Kinema Theater. Williams's aggregation has been augmented with second horns and strings to round out the tone volume and rehearsals lasted late Friday night.

In the section of a musical accompaniment for the James Oliver Curwood story, "Nomads of the North," Williams has picked three numbers by Gaston Borch: "Sunrise on the Mountain," "Turbulence" and "Mountaineer's Dance." Schubert's "Erl King" has been chosen as the dramatic theme, while Ruholph Friml's "I Love You, Dear," has the romantic motif.

LOUISE LOVELY STAR IN HIP PHOTOPLAY.

The special production of "The Little Gray Mouse" will have its initial run starting today at the Hippodrome. This picture, regarded highly by critics, also serves to introduce Miss Louise Lovely as a Fox star. Miss Lovely is well known from her appearances as leading woman opposite William Farnum.

Heading the vaudeville program are Tom Ward and Hettie Wilson, who call themselves "The King and Queen of Hokum." Others on the bill are Tom Brown's musical revue, with lots of pep, comedy and jazz, featuring Irene Delroy and Gus King; the Myrtle Moore trio in a refreshing interlude from the musical shows; Nick Verga and Gladys Marvin, the newsboy Caruso and the flower girl, and Bud and Jessie Gray in a variety offering.

Gloria Swanson,
Playing stellar role in "Her Decision" at the Alhambra.

REX BEACH STORY.

"The North Wind's Malice" to Show at the California.

One of the finest motion pictures that ever came from Rex Beach's pen is "The North Wind's Malice," a story cast in the frozen heart of Alaska in the romantic days of the gold rush, and this powerful story will open at the California Theater today.

Vera Gordon, famous mother of "Humoresque" is said to give another remarkable performance of intermingled humor and pathos in the story, and Tom Santschi, the star of "The Spoilers," has an equally strong role in the new photodrama.

The theme of "The North Wind's Malice" is distinctly unusual. Mr. Beach tells of the dread winter of upper Alaska which descends upon the country like an avenging spirit, shrouding the land in its freezing pall. This furious cold shuts men and women up tight in their cabins and grinds into their minds a terrible despair—the grim specter of monotony—and in this atmosphere trivial incidents are exaggerated beyond their importance and rage flames up on the slightest pretext. This is the background for a wonderful story—a story of love, adventure, furious revenge—golden romance, real heart appeal and cleverly conceived humorous touches.

W. G. Stewart's presentation of selections from the opera "La Tosca," featuring the famous dramatic tenor, Armando Iannuzza, late of the Manhattan Grand Opera Company and the La Scala Opera Company of Milan, Italy, will also be on the program.

IN :: "NORTH :: WIND'S :: MALICE."

Rex Beach Story at the California.

Vera Gordon and Tom Santschi.

EVENING OF DANCING.

Marion Shipp, director of dancing, gave a review of her production of last season, "The House Not Made With Hands," Thursday evening. Aside from the dancers, the following musicians contributed to the program: Margaret Messer, soprano; Mrs. Hazel Anderson, Mrs. Edna Voorhees, and Daisy Prieaux, with Mrs. Hennion Robinson at the piano

JAZZ BAND ADDED.

Burbank to Have Navy Troupe Plus Music Revue.

Scoring a scoop in the special guest engagement of the famous U.S.S. Texas Jazz Band of ten pieces, in conjunction with the presentation of Ed Armstrong's latest musical revue comedy, "Kiss Me," at their Burbank Theater, Gore Brothers are setting a new pace in combination of quality and quantity. The U.S.S. Texas Jazz Band is the organization which has made a record on the Coast for its distinctive style.

One of the featured members is Teddy Arpa, the "Laughing Trombonist," who is to be heard in several selections. There will also be a drum and trombone musical contest.

"Kiss Me," the musical comedy, deals with the merryisms evolving after the visit of a famous actress to a summer resort, where a millionaire makes love to her, only to find that his wife is in his wake. Walter Spencer, a newcomer to the Burbank organization, will be heard in a novelty of laughing songs, while Irene Brooks, the dainty prima donna soubrette, will render a specially written number by Ed Armstrong. The thirty-six Baby Dolls are to be in evidence during the entire run of the show, with many new gowns, costumes, songs and specialties.

ECHO ORGAN AT MISSION THEATER.

The new Mission Theater is to have the distinction of possessing an echo organ. A modern and costly instrument is being manufactured and will be completed and installed for the opening, about November 13. The echo organ is a separate unit from the main organ, and its effect is said to be both unusual and beautiful. After the notes have been voiced by the main organ, they are heard emanating from the rear of the theater, softly, as though they came from a distance.

OMAR KHAYYAM TRAMP.

Carey to Visualize Odd Character in "Sundown Slim."

A "ramblin' son with the nervous feet that never was made for a steady beat" is the way Harry Carey describes his character, Sundown Slim, who sings and poetizes his way through the feature film of the same title at the Superba Theater.

Sundown Slim is a new type of role for Carey and he makes of the rhyming hobo and troubadour of the railroad ties a human and humorous character.

Wherever he works he charms with his tramp poetry and finally he lands right in Arizona where a fight is going on between rival camps of cow and sheepmen, and his active, though uninvited, part in the activities changes his happy-go-lucky attitude into one of fighting force.

H. H. Knibbs wrote the story for Carey, and that author and star understood the spirit of Arizona and the heart of a sort of Omar Khayyam tramp is evidenced through the production. Mignon Golden, said to be as dainty as her name, plays the role of the girl whom Carey loves deeply enough to give her up to another man.

Carey's flying squadron of rough riders display many of their tricks in the round-up scene.

Supper was served at midnight.

All Mothers Will Find U
For This Laxative

Give Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin to a constipated child and note its quick recovery.

IN a growing family the subject of thought with the parents is how to keep the children healthy and happy, and what to do when they become ill. Most illnesses of childhood are the symptoms of constipation, such as headaches, coated tongues, flatulence, dizziness, loss of appetite and sleep, biliousness, etc.

You can surely feel safe in doing what tens of thousands of others do with good results, so give, according to the age of the child, a small quantity of Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin. Eight million bottles were bought last year at drug stores. It is America's favorite family remedy for constipation, indigestion and similar ills, and is especially suitable for children, women and old folks as it is so mild and gentle in action.

There is no secret about Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin. It is a combination of Egyptian Senna and other simple laxative herbs with pepsin and pleasant tasting aromatics. Druggists have sold it for thirty years, and a sixty cent bottle will last for months. Experienced mothers are never without it in the house.

Friends of Mrs. T. R. Jones tendered her a surprise party in honor of her birthday Saturday evening, bringing with them not only the program of entertainment, but refreshments as well.

SANTA PAULA.

The reception and card party given on Friday afternoon by Mrs. Alice S. McKevett and Miss Maria Stowell in the Women's clubhouse was the first occasion on which the building, which was given by Mrs. McKevett to the women of Santa Paula, has been used by the donor for the entertainment of her friends, although for two years it has been the social center of the community. Over one hundred invitations had been sent out by the hostesses who, although they now make their home in Los Angeles, are still held in the hearts of Santa Paula friends. Clusters of golden rod, baskets of zinnias and dahlias in shades of copper, yellow, bronze, and red, decorated the auditorium, where the guests played bridge and 500 during the afternoon's earlier hours, many coming in later for tea and an informal program. Other unbonneted ladies with the hostesses were Mrs. Charles Collins Teague and Mrs. Ruth McKevett, who assisted, and the young ladies who helped in the serving were Misses Alice Teague, Virginia McKevett, Marie June Dennis, Jean Dennis, Ida Shively, Winnifred Cauch, Jessie Balcom, Reita Balcom, Ruth Jerrard, Adelaide Briggs and Ora Peck.

Those who came as Mrs. Balcom's guests were Misses Alice Teague, Winnifred Cauch, Elsie Martin, Alice Martin, Katherine Higgins, Ardis Decker, Marie June Dennis, and Ida Shively.

ATASCADERO.

The society events of the week seem to center largely about Halloween. Prominent among the various gatherings on Friday and Saturday evenings, was the Study Club Halloween party, held out at the old Fortney ranch, Saturday evening, and given to the young ladies of the club by the young men. According to all reports, they had a "gorgeous time," with all sorts and kinds of "eats," all the evening, ending up with a wonderful moonlight ride homeward.

The Christian Endeavor Society had a delightful Halloween party at the parsonage on Friday evening, October 29. Miss Rose Lowery was in charge of their entertainment, a prominent feature of which was a number of ghosts of rather too substantial a character to correspond with the shadowy figures which history and fiction depict so clearly. Other features were fortune telling, which was truly remarkable for its accuracy, ghost games, apple bobbing and other regular Halloween stunts, which kept the guests in a constant state of merriment and hilarity. The appropriate ration of nuts and apples was served for refreshments, and the party broke up in the happiest of moods.

Another party given on Halloween, which was not, however, a Halloween party in the true sense of the word, was that given by Mrs. Roland Howe, when she entertained a few of her musical friends at her home on Santa Lucia avenue, on Saturday evening, October 30. A most delightful musical program was enjoyed, prominent upon which were several wonderful piano solos by Mrs. Edith Wood's, London guest, Miss Agnes Purvis, of the Royal Academy of Music. Delicious refreshments were served at the close of the program, and the guests lingered until a late hour, hating to break up so delightful an evening.

SOCIETY.

mona. The bridal couple took their places for the ceremony beneath a bower of chrysanthemums and smilax. The Rev. Charles Augustus Kent, pastor of the Upland Methodist Episcopal Church, was the officiant, using the ring ceremony. Mr. and Mrs. Speaker left immediately following the ceremony on their wedding trip and on their return will make their home in Ontario.

The home of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Latimer, 945 North Euclid avenue, formed the charming setting for a merry Hallowe'en party Saturday afternoon, when their small sons, Billie and Bobbie, were hosts to a group of little friends. Decorations were in keeping with the season and unique favors, hidden about the rooms, furnished an amusing hunt. Delicious refreshments were served. Present were the little Misses Barbara Ross, Elizabeth King and Bobbie Fowler and Masters John Ingalls, Clegg Walker, Jack Frankish, Buddy Taylor, Edward Alford, Billie and Bobbie Latimer.

Mr. and Mrs. Harvey Oliver Chapman were hosts Friday evening at dinner at their home, 317 West F street, to the members of the executive committee of the Cotillion Club. DUARTE.

Very charming was the affair at the Hotel 'Leven Oaks, Monrovia on Tuesday afternoon where members of the Duarte Reading Circle and other guests of this city assembled there as the guests of Mrs. E. B. Norman. The lobby was very attractive with its beautiful decorations of golden rod and tiny yellow chrysanthemums, these autumn flowers being chosen with the view of adding the hostess's color scheme of yellow. A business meeting of the circle was held. During this time it was decided to continue the support of a 6-year-old French girl, an orphan. The circle has been supporting this little orphan for the past two years now and with the decision on Tuesday will enter upon the third year of its worthy work. The program was given by Mrs. Joseph Fowler and Mrs. R. M. Golder. Mrs. Fowler devoted her time to current events and Mrs. Golder to several readings. Preceding her readings she gave a brief sketch of the life of James Whitcomb Riley, which was a fitting introduction to her readings which followed and was greatly enjoyed. Dainty refreshments were served at the close of the afternoon, the chosen color being used.

Unusual interest centered around David Tappan, who spoke on Thursday afternoon at the regular meeting of the Presbyterian Missionary Society, as he is a brother of Mrs. W. B. Langsdorf, a former resident of this city, who is well known here and active in church work. Mr. Tappan is a missionary from Hainan, China, and is an interesting speaker.

The home of Dr. and Mrs. Walter A. Brown, 638 East Kingsley avenue, was the scene Friday afternoon of a very delightful affair, Mrs. Brown entertaining with a Halloween party in honor of her little daughter, Rosalyn.

Members of the First National Bank staff and their wives and friends formed another party of Halloween merry makers, as guests of Mr. and Mrs. Charles A. Steadman, 190 Columbia avenue, Saturday evening.

The home of Mrs. Elizabeth Johnson, San Antonio avenue, was the scene of a pretty wedding ceremony Sunday afternoon when her daughter, Miss Ellen Johnson, became the bride of Martin R. Speaker.

One of the merriest of the season's Halloween celebrations was that taking place at the ranch home of Mrs. A. J. Hitt, Spadra, Saturday evening when employees of the local telephone office gathered there for a barn party. The affair was planned by the Misses Lole Girard and Anna Wilson, assisted by Miss Maude Hitt.

TAFT.

The marriage of Miss Mary Corah and Edward Prickett, both of Taft, was announced here this week. After the ceremony a wedding dinner was served at the home of Mrs. W. R. Wheller in Bakersfield. Bergmann, Mr. and Mrs. Phil Rathbone, Mr. and Mrs. Al O. Dodd, Mrs. Charles Shearer, Miss Colleta Schloesslin, Messrs. C. Smith, George Kinney, Irvine Nelson, Fred Allis, Joseph Schloesslin and H. Mr. Bert B. Peticord and Miss Virginia Dunn, were the honorees at a beach party given by Miss Wilma and Lora Russ on Sunday. Kully of Coachella and Mrs. M. Russ as chaperone.

The goblins were out in force at the home of Robert and Genevieve Browning of 303 North Gurtruda street, Friday evening. Black cats and owls were a real setting for a witches den, where a mysterious old dame brewed love philters. Individual pumpkin pies, ginger cookies and apple cider, helped to make happy the merry crowd. Among the guests noted were the Misses Helen Umstead, Marion King, Cecilia Coo-

When the December winds whirl snow against the windows, when homes are bright with love and laughter and dear ones gather around the family board—then is the Joy of Giving fully realized. Whoever would experience the fullest joy of giving must take time to choose personally and with care, the gift that will be most appreciated.

Will you be able to say, "I Haven't Forgotten a Soul!" Have you learned the lesson that those who do the right thing at the right time—those people we come to love for their constant acts of kindness, who are always known for their thoughtfulness—they don't act on the impulse of the moment.

THEY SIMPLY USE FORETHOUGHT—THEY LOOK AND LOOK, AND SHOP AND SHOP—and as a consequence their gift to you is JUST RIGHT, just the very thing you wanted most—

BECAUSE THEY DID THEIR CHRISTMAS SHOPPING EARLY AT THE VILLE DE PARIS.

MUSICAL.

OPERA REPERTOIRE.

NOVELTIES MAY BE GIVEN BY CHICAGO COMPANY.

While as yet the repertoire has not been definitely settled, there is promise of several novelties during the presentations of the Chicago Opera Company in this city. This organization is to visit here next April; announcement of the securing of the necessary guarantee fund was made by L. E. Behymer, manager of musical attractions and president of the Gamut Club, last Wednesday evening, at the monthly dinner of the organization.

As at present indicated, the company will open the engagement here with "Aida," giving a spectacular performance of this always favored work. Succeeding this will come "Carmen" and "Traviata." "Lohengrin" is also programmed, as is "L'Amore dei Tre Re." All of these operas have been heard here before, although "L'Amore dei Tre Re," has only been given twice during the visit of the Boston Opera Company, several seasons ago.

Two operas are on the tentative bill, however, which have not been heard here previously, namely "Werther" by Massenet, and "L'Elisir d'Amore" by Donnizeti. The Massenet opera is exceedingly popular in France, while "L'Elisir d'Amore" is a light and highly favored Italian opera of the old school.

Lhevinne Here Soon.

Josef Lhevinne, the Russian pianist, will return to Los Angeles after an absence of five years. He will be heard in recital as the first artist on the evening Philharmonic course the 16th inst. at Trinity Auditorum.

Lhevinne is looking forward eagerly to two distinct types of pleasure while in Los Angeles—first he wants to visit the principal motion-picture studios and then he wants to visit the observatory at Mt. Lowe. Always interested in the arts and crafts outside of his own profession, Lhevinne has made a special and intensive study of astronomy. During his stay in Los Angeles he will be the guest of the L. J. Selbys, whose daughter Ida was one of his most talented pupils.

The Lhevinnes conducted a most interesting studio-salon in Berlin for many years, in fact they were interned there for the period of the war by the Germany government, being considered as aliens. Mrs. Lhevinne, a pianist herself of very remarkable ability, assisted in the teaching.

Theirs was one of the genuine romances of the music world. As the little girl of 9, she was a pupil of the young Lhevinne, at the studio of Safonoff. When she was 17 and Lhevinne 21 they were married, and despite the parental objections to the precarious income and the one or two difficult years which followed they have created one of the lovliest romances of the music world, reminding one of Mozart and his Constance and Robert and Clara Schumann.

Campana as Soloist.

Ettore Campana, the Italian operatic baritone, will be the soloist at the concert given today by Grauman's Orchestra. Mr. Campana can always be depended upon for a virile, artistic presentation, particularly of the famous baritone arias from Italian opera. His performance of Tonio in "Pagliacci," the title role in "Rigoletto" and many other principal baritone roles with the Bevani Opera Company, though that was a number of years ago, are still remembered.

Ettore Campana,
Baritone soloist with Grauman Orchestra.

It was while visiting here with the Bevani company that Signor Campana became so enamored of Southern California that he decided to settle here, and he is now one of the most valued members of the local music colony.

The orchestra, with Misha Guterson directing, will present a program of unusual length and variety, featuring as usual a Strauss waltz, "Artist's Life," as the concluding number. Mr. Guterson's interpretations of these dance compositions are giving them a distinct vogue among Los Angeles concertgoers, as Mr. Guterson is probably without a peer as a director of Strauss waltzes, having played and directed with Johann Strauss, the younger, and Oscar Strauss for several years in Vienna.

The other orchestral numbers will be "Jubel" overture (Weber,) "Kamenoi-Ostrow" (Rubenstein,) "The Swan" (Saint-Saens,) selections from "Pagliacci" (Leoncavallo) and "Barcarolle (Tschaikowsky.)

The engagement of Mabelle Burch, the coloratura soprano, who was booked to appear at Grauman's last week, has been changed to next week, beginning tomorrow. She will sing the Titania aria from "Mignon" at afternoon and evening performances. Bob Davis and Mary White are two other well-known singers on the new bill.

The Ellis Club will make its appearance in Philharmonic Auditorium this afternoon, this being the first concert of the season. The club has prepared a program replete with attractions of exceptional musical worth. This occasion will be assisted by the Philharmonic Orchestra in the rendition of David's symphonic ode, "The Desert." The orchestra will also give individual selections.

Hobart Bosworth, actor and dramatic reader, will recite the spoken lines of the symphonic ode. Mr. Bosworth's splendid delivery in this classic number will be very pleasantly remembered by those who have heard him with the club heretofore.

The tenor role in "The Desert" will be sung by Ralph Laughlin.

Miss Hilda Kathryn Schultz, dramatic contralto, will assist the club in two groups of solo numbers. Miss Schultz has appeared in concert and oratorio in many of the leading cities of the United States with much success.

The club's ensemble numbers will include the following: Sullivan's "The Long Day Closes;" the opening number each season sung in honor of the late Judge C. J. Ellis, founder of the organization; "The Sword of Ferrara;" "Venetian Love Song;" "Bells of St. Mary;" "Tarantella;" "Flanders Requiem;" "Idylle Mongolienne," and "Soldiers' Chorus" from the opera "Faust" with brass instruments used.

The club will be directed by J. B. Poulin and Mrs. M. Hennion-Robinson will be accompanist.

Russian Music Lectures.

Dr. Alexis Kall, former professor of the Imperial University of Petrograd, will give five lectures on Russian music, one each succeeding Tuesday morning in the Ebell Club Auditorium. The first will take place next Tuesday.

Dr. Kall will have Mme. Romanova, the pianist-composer, and Theodore Bekefi, former premier dancer of the Imperial Ballet, Petrograd, to illustrate the first lecture. Representative Russian artists will appear at each succeeding one.

The lectures are sponsored by Mrs. Daniel Murphy and Mrs. Henry S. McKee. Dr. Kall gave a series of musical talks at the home of Mrs. Murphy last season with such success that it was decided to present lectures in a larger hall.

Dr. Kall is an authority on the history of music in Russia, having been a personal friend of some of the greatest Russian composers, such as Balakireff, Rimsky-Korsakoff, Liadow, Glazounoff, Cesar Cui, Scriabine, Rebikoff, Stravinsky and Prokofieff.

During his recent trip to Europe he succeeded in attaining many rare Russian compositions which will be presented for the first time in America at his forthcoming lectures. He will also relate personal talks with Arthur Nikisch on the Russian symphonic music.

An interesting feature will be that Dr. Kall will speak on the development of the Russian ballet in connection with the creative activities of Glinka, Tschaikowsky, Glazounoff and Stravinsky.

The former premier dancer of the Imperial Russian Ballet, Theodore Bekefi, has kindly consented to stage as illustration a few scenes of the Russian ballets in which he used to appear at the Imperial Theater of Petrograd.

'Cellist to Assist.

Earl Meeker, baritone, whose recital will be given at the Ebell Club House, Tuesday evening, will have Axel Simonsen, 'cellist, as his assisting artist. Mr. Simonsen is well known to Los Angeles musicians as he has been principal 'cellist with the Los Angeles Symphony Orchestra for several years.

Mr. Meeker feels that the most artistic program is a combination of 'cello and voice and will adhere to the idea throughout his concert season. He has one number which is very appropriate for Armistice Day, only two days after the song, "Flanders Field," written by Vincent Jones. Mr. Meeker was in Paris on that memorable day and the impression of the wild scenes enacted there still lives with him.

Mr. Meeker, whose rich melodic baritone has endeared him to the music lovers of Los Angeles and vicinity, plans an extensive tour of the Pacific Coast this season. He will feature songs by American composers on most of his programs.

Van den Berg Concert.

Brahm Van den Berg, the brilliant pianist, whose concert at the Alexandria Hotel last week proved him to be a master of the piano, will be heard in recital Friday evening at the Hollywood Woman's Club house.

Mr. Van den Berg has selected a program of more than usual interest. He will include several numbers by American composers such as the lovely Nocturne by A. Gorno and the Serenade and Polonaise by E. R. Blanchet, which have not been presented before in Los Angeles.

"The Indian" an impression, by W. W. Stockhoff, a novelty, will no doubt prove very popular with Mr. Van den Berg's admirers.

The whole program will include:

Sonata Quasi Una Fantasia	Beethoven
Romance	Schumann
"Hunting Song"	Mendelssohn
"Spinning Song"	Mendelssohn
Ballade	Chopin
Nocturne	A. Gorno
Serenade	E. R. Blanchet
Polonaise	E. R. Blanchet
Polka	Rachmaninoff
"Christmas Night"	Busoni
"The Eagle"	MacDowell
"The Indian" (An Impression)	W. W. Stockhoff
En Forme de Valse	Saint-Saens

Orpheus Club.

The first group of concerts to be given by the Orpheus Club, under the direction of Joseph Dupuy, will take place December 2 and 3 at the Gamut Club. Miss Frieda Peycke will be the soloist.

The Bel Canto Club, also under the direction of Mr. Dupuy, will be heard November 17, by the Gamut Club members and their friends.

Santa Ana Concert.

The opening concert of the Santa Ana Musical Association took place October 26. Several Los Angeles musicians contributed to the program. Blanche Ruby, soprano, sang an aria from "Carmen," and a group of modern French songs; Earl Bright, 'cellist, played a group of modern Russians, and Alfred Kastner harpist, gave several numbers from the classics. Maude Howard acted as accompanist.

Recitals Postponed.

Owing to her illness the series of four recitals to be given by Miss Helen Klokke at the Egan Little Theater, November 9, December 14, February 1, and March 29, have been postponed until further announcement.

Anaheim High School.

Mme. Elizabeth Rothwell sang last Thursday at the Anaheim High School auditorium, under the auspices of the Ebell Club of that city. Mme. Rothwell is to sing at a series of musical teas this season at the Maryand Hotel, under the supervision of Hubach and Riggle, managers of distinguished California artists.

New Dillon Compositions.

"Birds at Dawn" is a composition of Fannie Dillon's which Percy Grainger has chosen to play at his forthcoming concert in Cuba. "Melodic poems of the Mountains" is a recent composition of the same writer which has received the approbation of Grainger.

Hollywood Community.

The Hollywood Community Chorus will meet on next Tuesday, Hugo Kirchhoffer conducting. The Women's Quartet, with soprano soloist, will sing.

Luminaries in Lyric Realm.

Modista Mortensen, violinist

Hilda K. Schultz, Ellis Club soloist

Norma Gould, Dance director

In Concert Events.

Premiere of Chiaffarelli Lyric Drama.

"Lenore," a lyric drama by M. Chiaffarelli will be presented for the first time in Los Angeles tonight at the Mason. The cast for the performance will include Mme. Constance Balfour, the well-known American soprano; Phoebe Harvey, contralto; George W. Kadel, tenor, and Emory Foster, basso.

A new classical ballet, staged by Mlle. Qualroni and also by the maestro will follow.

Mr. Chiaffarelli is well known to the musical world and also to the music lovers of Los Angeles, for he conducted the Ellery, Venice of America and Santa Monica bands.

The libretto for this musical work was written by Miss Miriam White.

BUHLIG SYMPHONY LECTURE POPULAR.

Manifesting his comprehensive knowledge of musical history and esthetics, Richard Buhlig, pianist and lecturer, gave the first of his series of lectures to precede concerts by the Philharmonic Orchestra last Wednesday afternoon at the Alexandria. Mr. Buhlig, it will be recalled, was engaged by Walter Henry Rothwell, director of the orchestra, in New York last summer, to carry on this series, and also to appear as soloist with the orchestra.

In addition to throwing illumination on the content of the works on the first Philharmonic program, Mr. Buhlig traced the course of music's development from the very earliest times through all its various forms and stages. He emphasized in particular the perennial return to a natural expression, and brought out that every great development in music had contained the seeds of its own decadence. Always, though, he said, a new development was to be found in the return to unartificial methods.

The audience completely filled the ballroom and balconies of the Alexandria and listened attentively to Mr. Buhlig's quiet and interesting exposition of his subject.

RUYSDAEL IS GUEST.

Basil Ruysdael, the Metropolitan basso, will be honor guest of the Friday Morning Club at its regular luncheon next Friday at the clubhouse. Mr. Ruysdael will speak briefly of the Metropolitan, its lure to the student, its possibilities to the artist, and many interesting phases of "back curtain."

Mr. Ruysdael was also honor guest of the Gamut Club at its monthly dinner last Wednesday at which meeting he was made an honorary member of the club.

SMART COMPLETING STUDIOS.

George Smart, the noted Russian ballet master, announces that his new school, to be known as the Smart studios, is nearing completion. In an ideal location in the Wilshire district, near the new Ambassador Hotel, it promises to be prominent in Los Angeles artistic circles.

SUPERFLUOUS HAIR—
WARTS AND MOLES.

Pulling a few stiff hairs from the face may start a serious growth. Let me demonstrate free of charge how pulling, cutting using wax depilatories and the so-called hair removers promote growth of hair on the face. My electric machine is the only known method of killing superfluous hair, fuzz, warts and moles, without destroying the surrounding tissue. This machine destroys 300 hairs an hour. I have had 19 years' experience and devote all my time to the work. A binding guarantee that any hairs or moles I treat will never return. Many L. A. noted customers will testify to my skill as an expert. Mrs. F. A. Scott, suite 407 Wamiliber Bldg., 430 S. Broadway.

SUPERFLUOUS HAIR—
HUMILIATING AND UNSIGHTLY.

There is only one method known today of permanently removing superfluous hair, and that is Electrolysis (electric needle). This process in the hands of a reliable and expert operator insures absolute satisfaction. I stand back of my work and guarantee any hair treated by me will be permanently destroyed, leaving no scars.

NOTICE—
"PETERSON'S PROGRESS"
"PETERSON'S PROGRESS"

WE MOVE TO OUR 3-STORY AND BASEMENT BUILDING AT 1047 S. GRAND NOVEMBER 15, 1920.

Starting 5 years ago from a small office space in the Union Oil Bldg. with a capital of $300, we have built up a business in rebuilt and used cars which is today the largest of its kind in the West and which comprises four complete up-to-date stores with repair shops in Los Angeles, Pomona, San Bernardino and Anaheim. The great forward step we are now taking places us in the front ranks of the automobile industry as a whole in this section and proves our faith in the future of the rebuilt car industry.

In our new location we will operate a complete rebuilding plant including body-building, painting, upholstering and overhauling. We aim at all times to carry a complete line of popular rebuilt cars ranging from Fords to Locomobiles, it being our intention to satisfy any want regardless of price or make, at lower prices than our competitors.

We shall cater only to that class which demands value and mechanical excellence and shall adhere even more strictly than in the past, if that be possible, to our motto, "THE TRUTH TOLD ABOUT EVERY CAR SOLD." Our business has been built on truth and honor, not because that was good business policy, but primarily because that is the only honest and satisfactory way to trade—on a basis of mutual service.

To our friends whose patronage has helped us build our splendid business, we offer our sincere thanks. We bespeak the patronage of the automobile-buying public in general, assuring it of fair and courteous treatment and exceptional values in guaranteed rebuilt cars.

DISCUSSES EDUCATIONAL FACILITIES IN MEXICO.

Famous Writer Tells of Efforts Southern Republic is Making in University and Grammar Schools.

BY E. J. DILLON,

Who is accompanying Gen. Obregon on his journey through the republic.

[SPECIAL CORRESPONDENCE.]

PAPOLOAPAM (Vera Cruz) Oct. 26.—Having myself studied and graduated in several European universities and been professor of comparative philology and sanskrit in one, I naturally felt an interest in the University of Mexico. Learning this, Senor Cabrera kindly put me in communication with the rector, Don Jose Macias. I called on him one morning, accompanied by an illustrious foreign prelate of the Roman Catholic church.

We were received with that perfect courtesy which characterizes the social intercourse of educated Mexicans. The rector, assuming that we were from the United States, assured us that we would recognize in the institutions and various landmarks of progress in his country mere copies of originals in our own. The United States, he went on, is the standard-bearer of culture and from her accummulated stores Mexico is drawing freely and contracting a moral debt, which she can only acknowledge without repaying. But her gratitude is profound.

She welcomes citizens of the great northern republic, whose various dissenting preachers are sowing the good seed on a fertile soil. . . . and saying this he bowed to the prelate. I listened without committing myself, but expressed the hope that in the process he described, the university at least would be allowed to retain some features of its own, distinct from those of the United States.

I suggested that, after all, education ought to be adjusted to the needs of the people, which are not wholly identical with those of foreigners. Adaptation, I said, ought to be substituted for imitation.

MISPLACED COMPLIMENTS.

This elaborate eulogy of the United States by one of Carranza's advisers and friends reminded me of an amusing experience which I had with the late Prince Ghika, when he first came as Minister Plenipotentiary to Russia, in the reign of Alexander II.. I met him at a dinner in the house of Prince Cebeliani, and as French was the language of the salons, he had no sure criteria by which to distinguish the Russian from the foreign guests.

Approaching me after dinner, he discanted with rapture on the beauties of Russian literature, which he regretted his inability to read in the original and then passed on to the praise of the Czardom and the Czar—to all of which I listened with due attention and cold acquiescence, although I wholly disagreed with his appreciation of the Czardom and its doings. A few days later Prince Ghika met me at a court function, and having in the meanwhile ascertained that I was not a Russian and that I had published over a pseudonym a tremendous indictment of the Czardom and its works, he apologized profusely for his mistake, asked me to treat his remarks at the dinner as purely diplomatical, alluded in discreet terms to my writings, which he had read and then we both laughed heartily at his misplaced compliments.

NOT TO BE CAUGHT.

A similar development was brought about in the case of the Mexican rector by an observation which I purposely made, implying that I came from over the Atlantic.

"Then, you are not an American?" he asked in a flutter.

"No," I replied.

Oh, oh really. But what, then, may I venture to ask, is your nationality?"

"British."

"Indeed, I am truly delighted. The British, not the North Americans, are our best foreign friends. Well, in this republic you will find that the people receive your countrymen with open arms and warm hearts. The British are" . . . and a string of compliments followed. Then came the query:

"But your companion is a United States preacher, surely?"

"No," I answered, "he is not."

"Is he a Baptist?"

"No."

"A Presbyterian?"

"No, he is a Catholic."

"A Catholic?" repeated the rector.

"Not a Roman Catholic?"

"Yes, a Roman Catholic priest."

The rector was overcome by the announcement. For he had been extolling the merits of the non-Catholic American preachers.

CO-EDUCATIONAL.

The rector took us to various schools and confined himself to pointing out the peculiar features of the buildings. What struck me more than anything else was the large percentage of girls in the university offices and in the preparatory schools, where they attend classes together with the young men. For this innovation the rector took the awful credit, and smiled when my companion warned him that the dangers of the arrangement might outweigh its assumed advantages.

We met the teacher of one of the modern languages and spoke to him through the medium of the idiom which he was teaching. He was a Mexican and his pronunciation of the foreign tongue was, I regret to say, as defective as his choice of words. The teaching was obviously elementary and superficial.

But in the medical school I fancied I would discern signs of real vitality. There the students were hard at work, keenly bent on qualifying themselves for their profession, and the head of their institution struck me as a man of extraordinary energy and scientific method who endeavored successfully to communicate his own spirit to the young men under his charge.

That and the mining school were the only educational establishments in the country where to my own knowledge sound instruction was imparted and real progress was being made. I understand, however, that the mining school overstresses the theoretical knowledge at the expense of practical skill.

READY WITH PROMISES.

I asked the rector whether I could obtain a copy of the university charter. He answered that it was being drafted. When I remarked that what was being drafted could only be a new charter and that there must have been one in existence before the decision was taken to supersede it with a new one, he agreed with me and promised to let me have a copy, together with certain other documents. He undertook to send them to me that very evening. On the following day I reminded him of his promise and he forthwith renewed it. Several days later it was again reiterated. But I never received either the charter or the documents and I ought perhaps to add that I never expected them.

Education in Mexico is a difficult problem to tackle, owing partly to the lack of funds and partly to the scarcity of qualified pedagogues and in an appreciable degree to the long distances and inadequate means of communication. I visited many schools in the south and the center and I found, oddly enough, that some of the best were the creation of wealthy English-speaking foreigners who deem it their duty to raise the moral as well as the material status of the working population, with whose help they build up their various enterprises.

In one of these schools the teachers are selected by the workingmen whose confidence they enjoy. I listened to some of the lessons there and was favorably impressed. In Tampico, which is an Americanized town, the number of educational establishments, was a surprise to me. For there are few provincial towns in Spain that possess half the number of schools or anything like some of the hygienic arrangements which Tampico, Vera Cruz, Puebla and Oaxaca boast of.

REMINDED OF RUSSIA.

As for the teaching, however, it reminds me of that which prevailed in Russia during the pre-revolutionary period, in the reigns of Alexander II, Alexander III and Nicholas I, when humanitarism with a decidedly socialistic streak was methodically inculcated in the minds of the children, in subtle and insinuating forms.

That preparation was the Russian equivalent of the encyclopedist seed-sowing in France. In any and every case educational establishments outside the principal cities are not only far too few, but the whole system of training is utterly defective. Moreover, according to competent Mexican critics, maxims of the narrowest nationalism are implanted in the breasts of the rising generation and borne out by falsified history.

These two contrary currents take their rise in different sources. The nationalist doctrines were the creation of well-to-do pedagogues in the capital whose contact with and dependence upon the political circles there account for the direction which they imparted to school teaching. The latter-day theories, or rather the interesting stores, the impressive anecdotes, the innuendoes, the light in which historical events are visualized and all the elements that go to make up that peculiar atmosphere athwart which it appears virtuous and heroic to rob the rich and penalize the successful, are the creations of a much-suffering, embittered class which lives from hand to mouth and seldom rids itself of the gnawing anxieties of indigence or of the pain of wounded self-respect.

TEACHERS POORLY PAID.

The teachers, I was informed, were badly paid at best and were in some places not paid at all for months on end. This brand of unmerited indignity and self-starvation leaves on most people who can think an indelible and festering wound. In some cases, I was credibly informed, school mistresses, stung by hunger and confronted with despair, sold their bodies in order to save their lives. Others sacrificed their lives in order not to lose their souls, while millions were being wasted or embezzled.

One can readily imagine the successive stages by which hungry, humbled and exasperated teachers reached the position that the redistribution of wealth, however, effected, is meritorious work and that private property is a crime.

It is not that these theories were openly taught. By no means. But they were indirectly insinuated and the impressible minds of the children are not slow to imbibe them and to draw their own practical conclusions. The most efficacious means of converting a whole nation to communism or Bolshevism is by gradually and skillfully indoctrinating it by means of interesting narratives and emotional appeals.

SILVER LINING FOR CHICAGO HOMELESS.

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

CHICAGO, Nov. 6.—Homeless people of Chicago and those who have a roof over them for which they must pay any price demanded by a greedy landlord begin to see a rift in the clouds.

The labor unions have signed an agreement to suspend their jurisdictional quarrels, the prime cause for all strikes, for a period of eighteen months. This is a tremendous step forward and contractors are now encouraged to go ahead with the building operations which have fallen almost to the vanishing point. Some building materials, notably lumber, hardware and nails, are considerably cheaper, and with labor agreeing to cease bickering and give a day's work for a day's wage, prospects are bright for a great revival in home building.

Fifty of Chicago's best-informed building and housing experts have been summoned as witnesses before the United States Senate Committee on Reconstruction and Production, which will conduct a two-days' hearing here. This committee will go deeply into the reasons for the shortage of homes and the cessation of building operations.

X-Ray in Shoe Store.

A leading New York store has recently installed an ingenious X-ray outfit which permits its patrons to see just how their feet fit in any pair of shoes. In fact, at a glance the patrons can note the position of the bones of their feet in any given pair of shoes, and in that manner determine whether they are trying the proper last or not.—[Scientific American.

GOVERNMENT OF ENGLAND DEFIED

Famous Artist Refuses to Pay His Increased "Rates."

Asserts, Though Seventy-nine, He'll Go to Jail First.

Declares Beer-Soaked Individuals Run the Country.

BY HAYDEN CHURCH.

[SPECIAL FOREIGN CORRESPONDENCE.]

LONDON, Oct. 26.—If Sir William Richmond, the veteran Royal Academician, lives up to threats which he made in a talk with me recently his home in the Hammersmith district of London may soon be the scene of remarkable doings.

Sir William, who ranks among the most distinguished of British artists, recently announced that he would go to prison rather than pay his "rates," but he thinks it likely; he told me, that the authorities, rather than arrest him, will swoop down and attempt to seize some of his furniture. And if they do, he declared, it will be in the presence of a distinguished company of onlookers consisting of members of Parliament, highly-placed officials, and possibly including even the King himself. All of which would make a remarkable spectacle, which would give British cinema men the chance of their lives.

REFUSES TO PAY.

Sir William states that he is now called upon to pay $945 a year in the way of rates for his house and grounds which do not cover two acres.

"I have refused to pay," he said, "and a number of my friends have told me that they will follow my example. I am 79, but I will go to jail rather than submit to such extortion. I do not think, however, that the authorities will dare to imprison me. They probably will come here and seize my furniture. When they do I will have present stenographers, journalists, members of Parliament and highly-placed officials. I could even get the King to come if I chose. I want to see how far the authorities will go.

SHEER BOLSHEVISM.

"The present orgy of high prices and high taxes is sheer Bolshevism," added the fiery old painter, "the government is in the hands, not of the workers, but of the sham workers—the beer-sodden individuals who want high wages for no work, and who are getting this at the expense of the intellectual and cultured class. I have a friend who is one of the most famous Latin scholars in the world. Under the present state of affairs he has not sufficient money to buy much-needed boots either for himself or his wife.

RATES AN OUTRAGE.

"I have a record of fifty years of commendable work for my government behind me. The money I have earned in that period has decreased in value by more than half. This new increase in the Hammersmith rates because of increases in salaries is an outrage. The middle classes cannot stand it much longer. I think a revolution is probable."

Nobody who knows Sir William Richmond will doubt that he will be as good as his word.

Some years ago he was the center of a tremendous national controversy, resulting from his proposal to decorate with mosaics the dome of St. Paul's Cathedral. He made a very able appeal for greater warmth and color in this country's national buildings, St Paul's particularly, while the more austere strongly urged that Wren's work should remain untouched. In the end Sir William carried the day, and the mosaics around the dome of St. Paul's will attest his craftsmanship for generations to come.

LIFE COLORFUL.

His life has been as colorful as his paintings. He was one of London's boy prodigies more than fifty years ago, when he astonished his relations by cartooning them upon doors, walls, tables and window frames—on anything, in fact, that would take a drawing.

Sir William became a Royal Academician in 1895, and was knighted two years later. He was Slade professor at Oxford for five years, and has been president of the Society of Miniature Painters. Among his best known pictures are his "Prometheus Unbound" and "Ariadne Deserted by Perseus." Many celebrities have sat to him, two of his most renowned portraits being those of Darwin and of his fellow-artist, Holman Hunt.

CONTEST STARTED ON LARABEE WILL.

CHILDREN OF NORTHWEST PIONEER CLAIM SECOND MARRIAGE ILLEGAL.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

KLAMATH FALLS (Or.) Nov. 6.—Claiming that their father's second marriage was illegal because it took place six days before the six months' limit fixed by the laws of Washington for remarrying after divorce, Benjamin R. Larabee and Mrs. Gladys Kelly, children of Oskar B. Larabee, are seeking to break the will leaving his $100,000 estate to his widow.

Larabee's divorced wife and mother of the plaintiffs in whose interest they bring the suit, was in court when the trial opened. So was the second Mrs. Larabee.

Larabee was a pioneer of the Klondike gold rush and later was connected with the building of the government railroad to Seward, Alaska. He was widely known in the Northwest.

BEETLE HAS 25,000 TINY EYES.

There is a beetle, which entomologists call the mordella, that is provided with enough eyes to outfit a company of ordinary animals. It possesses 25,000 little eyes and it can see out of the back of its head.

Under a lens these multitudes of eyes are very beautiful. They give off gleaming prismatic colors. A microscopic examination reveals what looks like a section of honeycomb, and each of these seemingly unlimited number of eyes has a perfect lens system.

Probably next to the magnificent mordella beetle the ordinary common dragon fly ranks for its remarkably supply of eyes. This insect is said to have no less than 20,000 eyes.

The horsefly, too, has eyes by the thousand, and its head is one mass of microscopic optics.—[Detroit News.

FAMOUS WRITER HER DREAM MAN

Weds Woman but Half His Age; Surprises Friends.

Clergyman's Daughter Sought Her Masculine Ideal.

Found Author Filled Bill in All Particulars.

BY HAYDEN CHURCH.

[SPECIAL FOREIGN CORRESPONDENCE.]

LONDON, Oct. 26.—A British writer of distinction and wide renown who is the younger brother of a well-known peer and supposedly was a confirmed bachelor, greatly surprised his many acquaintances, some while ago, by getting married, at the ripe age of 55. His bride was a very beautiful and, as it has since proved, exceptionally clever and talented woman, of something less than half his age.

According to what he told me, the other day, the eminent writer had little or no option in the matter. For it appears that, years before he and his wife met, the lady had made up her mind quite definitely as to the type of man she wanted—and meant to have—as a husband, and he, as it happened, exactly filled the bill. So, of course, she bagged him! In telling me the story of his "little romance" as he termed it, he warned me that it was not for publication. The temptation to relate it has proved irresistible but in proceeding to do so I am salving my conscience by giving no positive clue to the identities of the parties.

DECIDED ON NAME.

"My wife decided the principal characteristics of her future husband," said the distinguished victim of the circumstances in the case, "long before she was of marriageable age. She decided that his Christian name should be (mentioning his own Christian name) that he should be considerably her senior and have certain lines, that he should have long hands and that he should be, as she termed it, 'brainy'." This represented her curious masculine ideal and she was determined, if she could, to find him.

"My wife is a clergyman's daughter and lived, until our marriage in the heart of rural England. Certain business in connection with a library took me down there some years ago and I was the guest of people who have a large country house. I completed my business one Friday and was for returning to London at once. My host, however, urged me to remain over the week end, explaining that a big garden party was to be given by one of his near neighbors on the following day and that the guests would include the great novelist, Thomas Hardy. He was anxious to introduce me to Mr. Hardy whom, as it happened, I had never met.

"Delighted at the opportunity of doing so I stayed on. As it turned out, I had no more than a few words with the author of 'Tess' who was being rapturously lionized, and at the end of our brief chat felt rather 'at a loose end,' garden parties not being exactly in my line. Seeing this, my hostess offered to introduce me to 'the prettiest and cleverest girl in the district.' Thinking that at least this would be some one to talk to, I begged to be presented, and forthwith was made acquainted with my future wife. She, astonishing as it still appears to me, at once recognized me as the man of her dream and I—well we got on very well from the start."

In passing, it may be mentioned that this distinguished writer makes no claim to manly beauty, being, in fact, the absolute type of scholar, bookworm and semi-recluse. He would not be the ideal of many women, I imagine.

"And how long after this were you married?" I asked.

"Less than two years," he replied with a smile of which the significance was plain, as they are known to be prodigiously happy.

ONE FOR O. HENRY.

Another curious little real life tale, of quite a different kind, that I heard recently, would have appealed, I believed, to the late "O. Henry," who might have found in it the germ of a short story. Possibly some other trans-Atlantic writer may do so; in any case here it is, to interest whom it may:

The League of Nations.

LOS ANGELES, Aug. 8.—[To the Editor of The Times:] The Los Angeles Examiner of August 1st, in the editorial, tells us what terrible things would happen if the United States joined the peace league. It says: "One side of this big continent is enough for us to look after. Let the melancholy Japanese soldiers freeze in Siberia or go home where it is warm. Let the British hold and rule their own colonies but let them do the ruling. If any man tells you he is in favor of the peace treaty, he is a fool or thinks you are and so on."

In this same newspaper is a lengthy article about Rasputin, the Russian monk and his vile doings and also another article about Gaby Delys and her escapades over in Paris. How she gave a blackmailer a thrashing and so on. How does the Hearst paper know so much about the private affairs of foreign people, if it does not have representatives in those countries, spying into their doings? Itn't there enough gossip and scandal in this big country to fill the Hearst newspaper without going abroad? But the people of the United States have other reasons for going. They go to collect art treasures, and to get the fashions and get merchandise and to get scenery, for pictures and people who travel just for pleasure get the civil and military protection, and do not pay any taxes for it, either. When our movie people go to Europe, including Douglas and Mary, if they were not treated with utmost courtesy by foreign nations, England, in particular, would anyone quicker than Hearst complain and set up a howl through the columns of his newspaper about the terrible injustice. When all other progressive nations of the world have entered into a peace league, there is no sensible reason why the United States should not take a seat along with the others, If we cannot sit down with our neighbors and help them out of their troubles, when we can take everything they have, except the soil and the climate, and allow ourselves to be influenced by newspaper that fattens itself on the doings and misdoings of foreign people, when the owner of said paper has an ingrown hate against England and is mortally afraid that nation may be benefited by the League of Nations.

EVA RUGG GARRISON.

In one of the suburbs of London there is a large grocery store which stands exactly across the street from the local railway station. One of the assistants, as they call them over here in this shop is a middle-aged man, whose only son—the pride of his father's heart—was reported "missing, believed killed," in the early days of the war. He has remained missing ever since, but his father all along refused to believe that his boy was dead and still is living, in the hope that some day he will return.

Some little while back this man was given the grinding of all the coffee sold in the shop and this job, he explained, with unconscious pathos, to a friend of mine, was the one of all others he would have chosen had he been given a chance to choose. For, you see, the coffee-grinding in this shop is done in the front window, which enables the bereaved father as he works to keep constant watch on the exit from the neighboring railway station, through which, as he persists in hoping, his boy will some day emerge and rush across the street to wring his hand.

MOVIES SUPPLANT THEATERS.

One by one, the biggest and most famous of London's theaters are succumbing to the all-conquering movies. The fine London Operahouse, built by the late Oscar Hammerstein as a temple of song, was consistently a white elephant until, as the Stoll Picture Theater, it began to exhibit films, since when it has proved a gold mine. The classic Empire Theater in Leicester Square and the old Queen's Hotel, which adjoins it, are to be torn down and replaced by two big picture palaces, at one of which a variegated movie program will be given, while at the other big films will be shown, kept on the bill as long as they continue to attract.

The Empire's famous neighbor and rival, the Alhambra, has also experimented with movies during the rehearsals of the so-called revues, which constitute its stock bill of fare, and rumor has it that this relic of mid-Victorian London will shortly go the entire hog and cease to be other than a movie house. Terry's Theater in the Strand, where "Sweet Lavender" had its long run, has been a picture house for three or four years. The London Pavilion in Piccadilly Circus, locally known as the "Pav," has replaced its last attraction, "Afgar," with a movie bill consisting of Mary Pickford and Douglas Fairbanks films, and Lady Wyndham, who inherited the famous Criterion Theater on the opposite side of the Circus, is known to have been approached by interests who yearn to transform the "Cri" into a picture house.

The latest playhouse to capitulate definitely to the movies is the also-renowned Palace Theater in Shaftesbury avenue. It was built some thirty years ago by Richard Morton, the man who discovered the motif of the song "Ta-ra-ra-boom-de-ay" in the United States and caused that ditty to become a world craze as a home for light opera, but later became a vaudeville theater.

CAUGHT AN ALLIGATOR ON LONG ISLAND.

It has become known that Raynor R. Smith, better known as "Tip" Smith, now an employee of the Waterwork Department of New York City, but for many years a member of the Short Beach Coast Guard Station, in which capacity he supplied the newspaper man with tips for more than one front page story, has again come to the front with a bit of news which has caused no end of comment.

A three-foot crocodile or alligator, the only alligator ever known to have been captured on Long Island, was captured by "Tip" Smith with the assistance of Lincoln Smith, foreman of ponds, and another fellow employee and recently sent to Battery Park Aquarium.

A number of workmen had seen the alligator disporting itself in the big storage reservoir between Rockville Centre and Hempstead, but many attempts to capture it proved futile. Finally Mr. Drew, engineer in charge of the department, called for volunteers to try to make the capture. "Tip," who has figured in nearly every class of adventure under the sun, was called upon. He said:

"I never fished for alligators, but with a boat and a 100-foot net and hope I will see what I can do."

The first attempt to catch the alligator in the net failed, as did the second. At first it paddled right over the net and turned to laugh at its would-be-captors, as it were; the second time it ducked serenely under the net, but the third time it was cornered in the northermost corner of the pond by "Tip," who jumped from the boat and literally rolled the baby alligator in the net. It was picked up in this manner and taken to a box, which had been prepared for its reception. When released in the box it turned toward its captors and growled like a young angry puppy.

After keeping it at the Milburn pumping station for a time it was shipped to New York, where it can now be seen.

It has been reported that there is another baby alligator still at liberty in the big pond, but this is doubted as many believe it originated from the fact that the one alligator was seen by a number of workmen at different times. One theory is that during the heavy storms of last winter the alligator was washed from a private pond; another theory is that it was once someone's pet, but because of its fondness for choice cuts of meat was abandoned by them close to the reservoir to which it soon made its way.

In the spring of 1917 a detachment of boys of old Company I, of Flushing, under Sergt. Daniel F. Kennedy, who had been detailed for duty guarding the aqueduct at Rockville Centre, lost a baby alligator which a friend had sent them from the South. It was much smaller than the three-foot fellow described in Smith's adventure. It somehow got out of a small aquarium the boys had fixed up for it, and it was believed at the time that it found its way into the nearby reservoir.—[Brooklyn Eeagle.

WOMEN HAVE CALL IN OREGON TOWNS.

[BY A. P. DAY WIRE.]

PORTLAND, Nov. 6—Two Oregon towns, Yoncalla, in Douglas county, with a population of about 300, and Burns, county seat of Harney county, with a population of about 500, elected women to the office of Mayor in Tuesday's election. Loncalla also elected an entire administration of women. In Lynn county two women officers who ran for re-election were successful.

PRAGUE STRONG FOR AMERICA.

Red, White and Blue Much in Evidence About City.

United States Capital Would be Welcome in Bohemia.

French Seem to be Forging Ahead in Business.

[SPECIAL FOREIGN CORRESPONDENCE.]

PRAGUE, Oct. 24.—Bohemia is the strength of Czecho-Slovakia, and the head and heart of Bohemia is this capital of Prague, which, though normally about the size of Cincinnati, is now terrifically overcrowded with Czechs and Slovaks, who have returned from all parts of the world to share in their national renaissance.

Were Americans able to see for themselves the unbelievable prestige which their country enjoys in Prague, the new republic would become a sort of hobby throughout the United States. Prague rings with Americanism. Just now, a third of the flags which flutter in its streets are of the new red, white and blue of the Czecho-Slovak national emblem, another third are American flags and the rest a scattering of emblems of other nations.

LEADS SIMPLE LIFE.

Dr. Thomas Masaryk, the first President of the republic, lives in the ornate imperial apartments in the great Hradcany Castle amid far less red tape than prevails in the White House. Dr. Masaryk is utterly devoid of any love of that pomp and circumstance with which most European rulers surround themselves; his daughter, Dr. Alice Masaryk, was formerly a social settlement worker in Chicago. Not far from the castle is the American Legation, the largest legation in Prague. Between the two are the offices of the American Relief Administration. On the opposite side of Prague from the castle is the Wilson Station, the most important railway station in Prague. Prague apparently has not yet heard about Harding and Coolidge.

ECONOMIC TROUBLES.

The immediate difficulties which confront the new republic are economic difficulties. Normally, the country is a producing country with 40 per cent of its population dependent on industry and 34 per cent on agriculture. It is normally able to provide food for about 80 per cent of its population. A large part of the beet-sugar crop of the old Austro-Hungarian empire came from its fields.

The beer of Pilsen is world-famous and the great Skoda Works of Pilsen, which formerly manufactured heavy ordnance and armor plate for the Austrian government and which are now turning out locomotives, are less famous, but none the less a national asset.

In normal times, there is a large production of pottery and glass. In the textile trades, Bohemia holds a notable place, although most of the raw materials must be imported. Normally, Bohemia's output of leather goods enables her to export large quantities. There are all the raw materials in the new republic for an important economic unit of the continent, but at present it is unable to work at anything like capacity.

CHIEF OBSTACLE.

The chief obstacle in the way is the exchange rate. Czecho-Slovakia can only buy what she requires abroad at prohibitive prices. In an effort to better the exchange, she has exported coal and sugar, much of it, however, to countries like Austria, which either cannot pay or pay in a currency much more depreciated than Czecho-Slovakia's. The export of coal has crippled her own industries, more particularly as her mines are producing only two-thirds of their normal pre-war output. What the country needs is credit, and long credit, which will enable her to buy abroad and set her industries going. There is, for instance, a world demand for paper, and Czecho-Slovakia has the raw materials and machinery for paper making in abundance. Yet today she imports paper because there she has not enough coal, and two tons of coal are required to produce a ton of paper.

CAPITAL NEEDED.

After credit comes capital. Much of it will have to be found outside the country, for Czecho-Slovakia has not recovered from the large doses of Austrian war bonds which were fed to her people during the war. At present, large amounts of French capital are entering the country. The French have seen the commercial possibilities of the country and have a large commercial representation here. Our own forces have not been marshalled on anything like the French scale in Czecho-Slovakia.

Yet there is no big business establishment in Prague which has not English-speaking men and women on its staff. Nor is there any foreign country which harbors so many Czechs as the United States.

GERMANS READY TO RESUME FRIENDSHIP.

UNIVERSITY PROFESSORS AND MEMBERS OF REICHSTAG ANSWER OXFORD APPEAL.

[BY CABLE AND ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

BERLIN, Nov. 6.—German university professors and members of the Reichstag have drawn up a reply to the appeal for re-establishment of the friendly intercourse which existed before the war, which the professors and doctors of Oxford University recently addressed to professors of arts and sciences and members of universities and learned societies in Germany and Austria.

"Science knows only one aim—the search after the truth—and it requires for the performance of this task the common labor of all, regardless of national boundaries," the German reply says. "The World War interrupted this joint labor and dissolved many personal ties. We are ready to resume these connections and common labor and relegate to oblivion everything offensive spoken or writen in both camps."

New German Taxation Law Proves Sorrowful to Many.

Government Takes Lion's Share of All Profits.

Millionaire Has No Chance at All in the Country.

BY EDWARD L. BRYNE.

[SPECIAL FOREIGN CORRESPONDENCE.]

BERLIN, Oct. 24.—An American citizen of German birth, who during the war made $500,000 by honest trading and after the armistice bought a cottage in his native Bavarian Highlands, lately received a demand from the Berlin taxation authorities to hand over to them $494,600 of his $500,000. He could keep the remaining $5400, they added, kindly.

When the frightened American consulted Munich city's best taxation expert he received the perturbing answer that he did owe to the German state $494,600 out of his $500,000.

NEW GERMAN LAW.

"That," said the expert, "is our new German law. In practice, as most of your money is in America, Germany cannot seize it; but you owe it to her, nevertheless, so she will seize your cottage and everything else you have in this country, and if you return to America, which is the only thing you can do, she will register you as a tax defaulter and you will never be able to come back."

"But tell me, please, why didn't you first read our taxation laws before rushing off to buy that cottage in the Highlands?"

GOING TO GET STUNG.

This question ought to be put to the thousands of Americans and other foreigners who in the last six months have been buying German municipal and State loans, industrial stocks and bonds, factories, hotels, apartments and country estates. These speculators will be badly bitten.

"The sole lure in German investments to them has been the lowness of the mark exchange.

"The mark," reasons the American, "now costs in dollars only one-thirteenth of what it costs in normal times; when it recovers to normal my capital will be increased just 1200 per cent."

ARE NOT SO SIMPLE.

But in practice things are not so simple and nearly every foreigner who has bought German stocks or property on no better foundation than the favorable exchange has suffered sharp disillusion. And many foreigners who bought not in order to get rich quick, but in order to help toward Germany's reconstruction are now in pressing need of reconstruction themselves.

Every American who thinks of touching German loans, stocks or real estate should reflect that the extreme cheapness of the Reichsmark will prove a pitfall unless the other counterbalancing factors are taken into account.

YIELD IS LESS.

Firstly, apart from all taxes levied on the individual the yield of German securities is considerably less than it appears on paper. The new German corporations tax, of which, probably not one out of the American buyers of German stocks has heard, places a 10 per cent tax on all dividends or interest, regardless of the residence of the owner. In this matter an American holder in San Francisco is no better off than a German holder at home.

Secondly, almost any kind of vague connection with Germany subjects a foreigner to incredibly severe taxation. All Erzberger's new taxes are levied not only on property in Germany, but also on property held abroad; and the briefest residence in Germany makes a foreigner taxable on property in his own country.

The increment of wealth law of 1919 is a good instance. For this everyone with a house or an apartment in Germany is liable. In strict law an American millionaire with a small apartment in Germany, wherein he never lived, loses nearly all he has. With the exception of 270,000 marks, which at present exchange is $5400, he must give up both his property in Germany and in America to the German state. This is the law to which the German-American in Bavaria fell victim.

STAMP MAIL BY METER.

New Device Authorized By Congress Permits Firms to Cancel Letters.

"Metered mail" is to be the next novelty in the rapidly developing postal system of the country. It has received the indorsement of Congress and the Postoffice Department and is scheduled to make its appearance within the next two months.

Metered mail will be sealed, stamped and canceled by the individual owner of a meter. The mail then will be taken to the postoffice and placed immediately upon an outgoing train without necessity of remaining in the postoffice until handled in routine fashion.

Metered mail is provided for in a rider on an agricultural bill passed at the last session of Congress. The rider grants to first-class mail matter the registered permit privileges now enjoyed by second-class mail. Instead of being required to stamp each letter a firm now will have the privilege of obtaining a mailing permit, thus expediting its mail.

Under the postoffice plan which soon will be in effect, firms will be able to lease postal meters that have been authorized for use by the postal authorities. The local postoffice authorities will register the meter and will issue a permit number to the firm.

The meter will be a rather heavy metallic box, about the size of a lunch box. It will have two small doors, which will be locked by the postal authorities and securely sealed. A firm will take the meter to the postoffice and buy a desired amount of postage. The postal authorities will adjust the meter so that it will stamp and cancel just so many letters and no more. The numbers of letters for which advance postage has been paid will be automatically registered on the lower of the two doors and the postal authorities will keep a record of the amount of postage sold to each meter owner, so that an absolute check may be kept.

The firm will keep the meter at its offices except when it is necessary to buy more postage. The meter will be operated by a small electric motor. The letters will be fed into the meter in batches and will be sealed, stamped and canceled at the rate of 250 a minute. As the letters

MAGNIFICENT WILSHIRE HOME SACRIFICE.
Between 6th st. and Wilshire Blvd.

Just think of buying a 2½-story frame residence, main downstairs rooms of which are finished in finest hardwoods, having 3 baths, gas furnace, Ruud water heater, and on a lot 80x150, for such a price! Remember, this house was designed and built for the owner by one of our foremost architects, and this architect advised that the property would be cheap at $35,000 because the material is really there. Owner is leaving city and offers this sacrifice in order to get an immediate start. This price is subject to change without notice, so investigate at once. The case is bona fide, as investigation will prove to you. Call us early Monday about this. MR. J. D. KELLY, 10745; evenings 568556.

$35,000.
COMPLETELY FURNISHED WILSHIRE HOME.
House and furnishings practically new.

The house and lot alone are worth $30,000 and the owner says he can show invoices for over $30,000 in furnishings—and at prices considerably under today's market. This home is of finest construction, white cement plaster exterior, tiled roof, with mahogany and oak finish downstairs. The furnishings are undoubtedly the finest quality and the taste displayed is wonderfully artistic. No advertisement could begin to describe the wonders of this beautiful home, but if you will call at our office we can show you a complete set of interior photographs which will be of great help to you. The owner is going back to Denver unexpectedly, and you can depend on his willingness to make you an awfully good deal. This is a remarkable opportunity to save over $15,000, also six months' time and work which it would take to collect the art treasures and furniture to be found here. Call MR. WILLIAMS, 10745; evenings 567183.

WHY YOU SHOULD OWN A HOME.

"Have you ever noticed the comfortable feeling your friend has who owns a home of his own; what a pride his wife has in owning her home what a standing it gives you in the community what a pleasure to the children and the importance they feel at school when they say they live in their own home? Ownership of a home is regarded as a basic investment a man should make to insure the welfare and stability of his family. IN FREMONT PLACE.

The most magnificent new home in Los Angeles. Many months have been spent in the designing and building of this rarely beautiful Italian villa, constructed of the finest materials and ideally located it leaves nothing to be desired by those whose wish is for a home distinctive, yet architecturally correct. Through a tropical garden to the entrance of carved stone an entry is made into a formal reception hall, from the rear of which is seen the breakfast porch, with floor of blocks of black and white marble and woodwork of antique Pompeiian Verde finish, off which is the walled-in courtyard, filled with rare plants. The living-room, also is worthy of special note; two stories high, its ceiling heavily beamed and richly decorated, with a balcony from the organ loft, supported by hand carved columns finished in gold and vivid polychrome colorings. Throughout the house most subtle decorative art has been used; yet careful attention has been given to those features that aid in modern comfort and convenience; no detail has been overlooked. The bedchambers are each very distinctive, and baths sumptuously appointed. Garage for 3 cars, with man's room and bath. Servants' quarters and dining-room on lower floor of house. Drive out today and inspect this property, No. 114 Westerly Drive. You will agree with us that it is the finest home of its type, in the southwest.

MONEY TALKS.

Immediate possession and the best real, genuine bargain in Los Angeles. Yes, it's a home and a beauty, too, come and see for yourself. It's located on beautiful Magnolia Avenue, near Pico. Is it modern? Yes, you bet it is. It is a beautiful full 2-story home, and when you say home it is all that the word "home" means. It consists of 4 beautiful bedrooms with very large closets and large hall and big bathroom on the second floor, and on the first floor there is a large music room, very large reception hall with beautiful staircase, large library and a very large dining room with built-in buffet and china closet, big butler's pantry and a large kitchen. Every room is flooded with sunshine, spacious screen porch off of kitchen with toilet and a large clothes closet; also large store closet off of music room and another large closet off of hallway. In fact, more and larger closet room than any house in Los Angeles, and a great big wide front porch extending clear across the front of the house, and what more do you want? Oh, yes, the lot—that goes with the house, of course, and it's a big one, too, 52 ft. 6 in. wide by 150 ft. deep to an alley. Oh, yes, I forgot to tell you about the floors; the hall, music room, library and dining room have beautiful quarter-sawed oak floors, the entire house has just been newly decorated and painted throughout, mostly in ivory white, and yes, the entire outside has just been beautifully painted steel gray with white trimming, and oh, yes, it's got a nice little garage, too. What more do you want? Oh, yes, I almost forgot to tell you about the fine hot air heating system that heats every room; can be arranged to burn either crude oil or gas. Yes and there are 2 beautiful palm trees in the yard, too; and did I hear you say you wanted to buy a real home? Well if you are thoroughly in earnest it is just barely possible that you might find it greatly to your advantage to look at this one. I am going to sell it to the highest bidder. It is located 1415 Magnolia street. And last, but not least, remember, it is going to be sold to the highest bidder; the best offer I get takes it. I have got positive orders to sell it this week without fail, but I am not going to wait; it's up to me to use my judgment and I shall cut it loose to the first fellow that makes a decent offer. Look it over and tell me what it is worth to you. Somebody is going to get a home cheap. Who will it be? Remember the days of miracles are not over; yes, as strange as it may seem, there is one real home to be had in Los Angeles at a real bargain, but you have got to act quick to get it. Open for inspection Monday and all the week from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m.; terms part cash, balance 7 per cent interest. So wake up, Mr. Sleeper. We made real history last Tuesday when we throttled Wilsonianism and re-established true Americanism and common sense. Yes, America spoke last Tuesday and told European arrogance and Wilsonian autocracy where to head in at, and my brother citizen, do you not see a wonderful and a glorious sunrise of great prosperity for this entire nation about to rise such as we have never before experienced? If you are wise you will get into line and help head the procession and get some of it. The procession starts at 1415 Magnolia Avenue, Los Angeles, California. If you are a live wire you will get in early and pluck this plum. "A word to the wise is sufficient." Yours truly, FRANK S. SNELL, Licensed Broker, Telephone West 1507.

FOR SALE—

BUNGALOW COURT

For sale in Hollywood, just north of Hollywood boulevard, a 4 unit bungalow court. There are three cement and one frame unit. The cement units are exceedingly well constructed and will be just as good 10 years hence as now. All the units are fully and beautifully furnished. The lot is 54x150 and has plenty of room on account of its depth for 2 more units. The income of $330 a month shows a return of over 16 per cent on the price asked. The scale of rents is very low for these times and can be maintained indefinitely. This bungalow court with its well built units, its beautiful grounds, its closeness to the car line, promises absolute permanency of income. In these days of inflated rents we consider this a wonderful investment at the price asked; $24,000. For full information ask for MR. NIMMER or MR. PURCELL at Holly 781.

FOR SALE—

BIG BUNGALOW BARGAIN.

I can show biggest bargain on bungalow north of Hollywood Blvd. that has been offered for a long time. Beautiful white plaster, tiled roof house, that is most expensively designed and decorated. Living-room, dining-room and den finished in southern gum; walls and ceilings hand-painted. These are the most artistic rooms I have seen in a bungalow in the district. Two large, airy bedrooms, lots of closet space, well-arranged kitchen, tiled sink and all built-ins; breakfast room, tile bath, center hall, linen and cloak closets, large back porch. The lot is 65x145. Garage to correspond in architecture. Has tile roof. The tile covers both the house and garage. Snap hunters, bargain hunters and home seekers, here is a pick-up. Owner wants to sell. He knows it is worth $14,000, but said: "Can you get me $12,000 fast?" And $3500 will handle. There is a $4000 mortgage. I think all cash for his equity would affect the price. A good trader will get a real buy. Call Holly 781, Mr. Clark or Mr. Rogers.

Offers for sale Fine Country Home.
31 Acres. $45,000.
Income $12,000.

For the benefit of you late arrivals from the East and Middle West who are not familiar with the location of Exeter will advise that situated about half way between California's two largest cities, in the great San Joaquin Valley, will be found Tulare county, and lying on the east side of this county is one of the richest agricultural belts to be found in the world; it extends over an area of some sixty-five miles in length by about ten miles in width, and skirts the foothills of the Sierra Nevada Mountains, which rise majestically in their snowcapped splendor as a background to the picture of green vineyards and groves; pretty villages and towns with which the picture abounds. In the center of this rich belt will be found Exeter, the home of the early orange, and just at the edge of the south city limits, situated on a paved highway, is the country home we are going to tell you about. It consists of 31 acres, improved to 15 acres of big healthy navel orange trees, 15 years old; 3 acres of fine thrifty young navels, 6 years old, and balance in full-bearing almonds, apricots, peaches and olives. Has had good care and pays big returns each year, and will get better. A $10,000 crop of oranges now on the trees. No frost to worry you, no smudge pots to light. A good modern 5-room bungalow, with bath, large screened porch, cement basement, furnace, electric lights, city water and sewer; beautiful shade trees, large lawn, flowers and shrubbery, very attractively arranged. Pipe lines, garage, barn, tractor, together with all necessary implements; good well with an abundance of water when you want it; everything complete, and only $1500 an acre. We assure you it is worth more money. Taking into consideration the condition of this grove, the location, the future, and what it can be bought for today, it's unquestionably worthy of your most earnest consideration. Can be handled on $15,000 cash, terms for the balance. Might accept as part payment a residence up to $8000, but must be worth the money. See, phone or write

WE OFFER
The biggest bargain in California.
A ranch in the FAMOUS IMPERIAL VALLEY.
It is worth $46,500.
$28,000 IS THE FULL PRICE.

OIL PROPERTY—Miscel.

I HAVE secured some excellent leases next to Standard and General Petroleum drilling and want to get in touch with oil companies and investors who may or may not have taken advantage of leasing ahead of production. Standard Oil well on this ranch is now down about 1000 feet, and General Petroleum on adjoining property are down 800 feet. When these wells are producing my leases should be worth several hundreds of dollars per acre. I still have a few acres left which I will sell. I cannot put on paper the great possibilities of these leases, but is sufficient to say the Standard, Union, Doheny, Associated, General Petroleum and other oil companies have acquired leases in this district. I am handling my own property, and not acting as agent for others, so that you are purchasing direct without and middleman profit. I have parcels as small as 20 acres, so that all investors may participate. For full information write or call E. E. SHORT, 503 Grosse Bldg., Los Angeles.

MINES AND MINING.

OIL SHORTAGE IS INCREASING—

No better investment can be made now than test holes in new territory. The country needs all the oil you can find, and you have a safe and sure market.

Don't resort to old-fashioned methods of drilling, with large and expensive machinery. Never forget the cost of a hole increases in the approximate proportion to the "square of its diameter."

So drill small diameter holes with the latest and most efficient portable machines ever built for territories from 800 to 2500 feet deep. Write for particulars and circulars.

THERE IS CERTAINLY A BUY FOR SOME ONE

When we tell you that we can deliver a furniture store for $13,500 cash that has cleared $16,000 the past twelve months, we admit that it sounds too good. We advertised this for the first time last Sunday, and have two buyers who will pay a deposit today if we will hold it for them for a month to enable them to get their funds together, but as we only have 30 days exclusive on this exceptional buy, we do not propose to be nosed out of a deal by the possibility of them falling down. We know and know positively that the first live business man who is looking for a business of this kind will lose no time in planking his money down, as it is not something that can be picked up every day.

WANTED—Banks, trust companies and other large concerns who handle monies belonging to the public, issue regular statements showing their financial condition, thereby enabling the general public to understand and know just what they are doing from time to time. It goes without saying that everybody wants to feel they are dealing with a strong capable well organized concern, whether their interest is a few hundred or many thousands. Is it not true, therefore, that the public would be interested in knowing that this company, who for the past eight years have been able to build up a business that based on the regular commission basis, have sold an average of nearly $50,000 a month or nearly half a million dollars worth of business propositions during the past ten months and is this not more remarkable when it is told you that this has been handled by two men? NEWS AT THE STATE CAPITAL.

[SPECIAL CORRESPONDENCE.]

SACRAMENTO, Nov. 5.—Preparations are being made by the State motor vehicle superintendent, for a meeting here the end of this month to discuss probable amendments to the State motor vehicle law.

Included in the list of organizations that will send delegates to the conference are: Southern California Automobile Club, State Supervisors' Association, highway committees from the Senate and Assembly, California Draymen's Association, State Dealers' Association, State Highway Commission, accessory dealers and insurance agents.

The present law will be gone over in detail, and suggestions invited from all angles.

Recommendations will be made at the meeting for a more stringent provision to protect automobiles against theft. It is understood the National Automobile Chamber of Commerce will present an antitheft amendment which it will ask all State Legislatures to adopt in the hope of securing a uniform law.

Another provision that is expected to come up is a uniform law for maximum truck loads for roads in all counties. Under present conditions, there is a wide diversion in some instances, as to the maximum load permissible, so that a truck that is within the law in passing through one county, is regarded as overloaded in another county.

Despite the fact that a large percentage of discharges were granted to ex-service men too late to enable them to take advantage of the $1000 tax exemption to which which they are entitled, the report of the State Board of Equalization shows almost a 50 per cent increase in exemptions for 1920 over 1919.

According to the report, the veterans' exemption law has been found to be broad enough to cover all those persons inducted into the service at training camps or elsewhere, even if immediately discharged, so that with those who actually did service the number entitled to exemption is large.

The following table shows the exemptions by years since the law went into operation:

	Claimants.	Value of exemptions.
1912	10,[illegible]	$[illegible]
1913	13,902	[illegible]
1914	14,980	[illegible]
1915	15,647	10,942,17[illegible]
1916	16,480	9,451,974
1917	17,[illegible]	11,[illegible]
1918	17,982	11,[illegible]
1919	20,623	12,[illegible]
1920	30,611	1[illegible]

Through a new checking system installed in the bureau of vital statistics of the State Board of Health, close tab is to be kept in the future on physicians who failed to register birth records in compliance with the law. In cases of continued neglect after reasonable warning has been given, it is planned to prosecute offenders. Under the law, a physician has thirty-six hours to file a certificate with the county or city registrar.

Thirty thousand dollars is spent annually by the State for tobacco for the inmates in its various institutions and prisons. According to the State Board of Control the tobacco supply for the next three months cost the State $7750.

The cost of pipe tobacco for the three months last past was $2800, while chewing tobacco cost $2200, and cigarette tobacco $2750.

In the matter of consumption of chewing tobacco, the Stockton hospital leads with 1000 pounds every three months, with the Southern California hospital second with 900 pounds.

Another branch office of the State motor vehicle department will be established in San Diego some time during this month, the State motor vehicle superintendent announces.

This will make the fourth branch office, the other three being in Fresno, Los Angeles and San Francisco. Mrs. B. B. Kelleher, assistant office manager of the local department, will be placed in charge of the San Diego branch office.

Domestic Tragedy.

"Henrietta," said Mr. Meekton, "you never ask me to water the rubber tree nor put the cat out any more."

"It has been attended to, Leonidas."

"And you don't mind how many cigarettes I smoke nor how late I stay out at night."

"I consider you able to take care of yourself."

"Henrietta, many a home has been wrecked because of ambition and business preoccupation. You have grown to be so interested in woman suffrage I don't believe you care what becomes of me!"—[Washington Star.

Staging the Pieces.

A leading theatrical manager tells the following story:

"There was one chap I couldn't get rid of. He was persistent. I refused his play seven times, and he still kept turning up with it, rewritten here and there. The eighth time he came I told him firmly it was no use.

"'But sir,' he said, 'is there no possible way you could put my farce on the stage?'

"'There's one way,' I told him, 'but I don't know if you'd submit—'

"'Oh, I'd submit!' he cried. 'I'd submit to anything.'

"'Then,' said I, 'we'll grind it up and use it as a snowstorm.'"

JEALOUS.

"The prima donna refuses to sing."

"What's the trouble?" asked the vaudeville manager.

"She says she won't follow the acrobats."

"That's just like these song birds. I'll bet she'd give ten years of her life to be able to turn a handspring."—[Birmingham Age-Herald.

[LOCAL CORRESPONDENCE.]

PASADENA, Nov. 6.—During a spectacular electric storm atop Mt. Wilson last night, lightning struck the Mt. Wilson Hotel and seriously injured W. E. Corry, the manager, who is now in Pasadena Hospital with a fractured skull.

The lightning struck an electric wire in one of the hotel buildings, blew off the cover of a fuse box and hurled the iron lid across the room. This lid struck Mr. Corry in the head, felling him. It ricocheted across the room again and narrowly missed a hotel employee.

After first-aid treatment by a physician who ascended the mountain. Mr. Corry, accompanied by Mrs. Corry, was brought down the trail to the hospital this morning in a motor lorry. It is believed he will recover.

YOUNG MATRON MISSING.

Mrs. Charlotte Duff, aged 27 years, wife of T. J. Duff of 1212 Garfield avenue and the mother of two children, has strangely disappeared, according to a report Mr. Duff made today to the Pasadena police. He asked them to assist in finding her.

Mrs. Duff has been missing since Tuesday night, according to her husband, though it is learned she telephoned to one of her neighbors on Wednesday and inquired about her children. She declined to reveal her whereabouts to the neighbor. Mr. Duff told the police that his wife had been extremely nervous since she underwent an operation some time ago and believes that her nervous condition may have prompted her to go away.

No trace has been found yet of Miss May Aldridge, 16-year-old daughter of A. L. Aldridge, local transfer man, whose disappearance was reported to the police yesterday. Miss Aldridge drove her father's car away from the family residence and has not been seen by relatives since.

BANK DEPOSITS GROW.

"With daily extra two or three sections on the limited trains, Pasadena is filling up and bank deposits continue to grow," said Dr. John Willis Baer, president of the Union National and Savings Banks in an interview here. "Bank deposits are mounting much earlier in the season than usual. Extra trains and increased bank deposits go hand in hand. We all have a right to believe Pasadena is having a banner business season. Let everybody smile."

SHE DARKENED HER GRAY HAIR

Tells How She Did It With a Home-Made Remedy.

Mrs. E. H. Boots, a well-known resident of Buchanan County, Ia., who darkened her gray hair, made the following statement:

"Any lady or gentleman can darken their gray or faded hair, and make it soft and glossy with this simple remedy, which they can mix at home. To half a pint of water add 1 ounce of bay rum, one small box of Barbo Compound and ¼ ounce of glycerine. These ingredients can be purchased at any drug store at very little cost. Apply to the hair every other day until the gray hair is darkened sufficiently. It does not color the scalp, is not greasy and does not rub off. It will make a gray-haired person look twenty years younger."

His machine turned over, pinning him beneath it.

George B. Baer, who was in the machine with him, was thrown clear and escaped with slight bruises. In another machine ahead of the Jones car were Mr. and Mrs. H. A. Colyer, H. B. Landreth and Mrs. Baer, who, with Jones and Baer, were motoring to San Francisco to attend a house party. Baer released Jones from beneath the car and telephoned to Santa Maria, where the other machine party first heard of the accident. Jones's condition is serious but not critical.

SAN DIEGO, Nov. 6.—Albert Sedgwick, alleged liquor smuggler, was shot and probably fatally wounded last night by United States Immigration Officer Fred Buck near Otay, close to the international boundary line. Sedgwick, it is declared, was preparing to bring forty gallons of whisky across the line from Lower California, and was seeking two men from Los Angeles to whom the liquor was to be delivered when brought across the line, when he met Buck. Both Buck and Sedgwick, according to the stories told by both men, reached for their revolvers at the same time. Buck, however, was quicker on the draw, shooting Sedgwick in the left breast close to the heart. Sedgwick, who is 45 years old and a native of Sonoma county, was brought to the County Hospital here and today was reported close to death.

BEET GROWERS FORM MUTUAL ASSOCIATION.

One of the association's purposes is to get a better understanding with sugar factories, but it was expressly stated the purpose was to co-operate with the factories rather than to start a fight with them. The basis of organization is to be formulated by a committee consisting of C. L. McComber, Buena Park; J. W. Martin, Santa Ana; W. Dean Johnston, Westminster; Sam Gisler, Huntington Beach; Mr. Koch, Compton; R. B. Marshbank, Artesia; Earl Gardner, Smeltzer; Will Draper, Los Alamitos, and George C. Buehen, Norwalk.

EASTERN MANUFACTURERS PLAN TO LOCATE HERE.

Many Inquiries Concerning Local Conditions Are Being Received by Chamber of Commerce.

That Los Angeles is facing a period of great industrial expansion, and that during the next few months many big eastern manufacturing concerns will investigate the local field, was the opinion expressed yesterday by Frank Wiggins, secretary of the Chamber of Commerce. During the past week the Industrial Bureau of the Chamber of Commerce has received inquiries from six big companies, all of them nationally known, in regard to the facilities which Los Angeles has to offer to manufacturing plants. At the present time there are three representatives of well-known manufacturers in Los Angeles looking over the field, said Mr. Wiggins, and if the necessary facilities are afforded, these plants will locate here.

The housing shortage, it was pointed out, applies to buildings which can be occupied by manufacturing plants as well as to dwellings. At the present time there are practically no industrial plants which can be leased, and if these new concerns locate here they will have to purchase their own ground and erect their own buildings. According to Mr. Wiggins, some of these manufacturers have expressed their willingness to build here if the other requirements are filled, but a certain number of them desire to lease buildings until they have become well established.

To supply the needs of the latter, the Chamber of Commerce will make an effort to induce owners of good industrial land to erect buildings upon their property for leasing purposes, stated Mr. Wiggins. If these buildings are erected, there will be no difficulty in leasing them for long-term periods to reliable concerns, many of whom will take a lease with an option to buy later. These buildings must be erected and leased at a figure which will compete with other cities of the Pacific Coast, however, if Los Angeles is to obtain its share of new industries which are coming this way.

RECENT INQUIRIES.

"Since the election, we have had half a dozen bona fide inquiries from big eastern concerns for locations here. We hope to be able to bring them to Los Angeles, but our only drawback is that we have no modern manufacturing buildings to offer them. We have plenty of industrial land and railroad facilities, and if we can get the owners of these properties to build, we will have no difficulty in leasing them.

"The interesting part of the whole thing is that these big eastern manufacturers are investigating this field because the word is current in the East that Los Angeles is going ahead fast. It is a significant fact that several nationally known concerns which make a specialty of designing and building industrial plants are coming to Los Angeles to establish offices. Representatives of two of these concerns were here a short time ago making preparations for opening local offices, and when these men were here they stated that the great amount of interest displayed by eastern manufacturers over the possibilities of the city was the reason why they were establishing offices here.

"We estimate that if the manufacturers who have made inquiries from us during the past week establish here they will purchase not less than fifty acres of industrial lands, and that they will offer employment to about 10,000 people. One of these plants alone would employ nearly 3000 workmen."

Mr. Wiggins said that interest in the manufacturing possibilities of Los Angeles had been aroused not only by the living conditions for workmen, and the cheap power facilities afforded, but also by the recent increase in freight rates, which has eliminated many eastern manufacturers from the Pacific Coast markets. Since freight rates were advanced, Pacific Coast concerns have been in a position to market their products more cheaply than their bigger eastern competitors, and the loss of this business has aroused eastern manufacturers to the necessity of establishing factories on the Pacific Coast. It was also pointed out by Mr. Wiggins as significant of the attitude of the eastern manufacturer that several eastern commercial and industrial publications have recently sent men to Los Angeles to study conditions here.

"But we can't bring industries to Los Angeles by the waving of a fairy wand," asserted Mr. Wiggins. "If we are to successfully compete with other Pacific Coast cities, Los Angeles and its facilities for manufacturing purposes must be just as efficient as possible. It can't be done until the banks, the city administration, civic organizations, and realtors all put their shoulders to the wheel, not for personal purposes, but for the good of the city."

TO REBUILD IMMEDIATELY.

Quarter-of-Milion-Dollar Plant to Rise on Site of Burned Factory.

Within a fortnight after the fire of October 17, which destroyed one of their large warehouses and a vast quantity of raw materials, the Schumacher Wall Board Company has set aside a $500,000 appropriation for enlargements and improvements, and has completed detailed plans for a new four-unit factory plant, which will be built immediately at a cost of $250,000.

The new plant, which will be at the present factory site at San Pedro and Fifty-eighth streets and Slauson avenue, will be built on the English plan, with railroad trackage down each driveway between the different units and electric conveying systems linking the four units.

In two of the units the patented Schumacher machinery for manufacturing wall board will be installed. The third unit will contain six large drying kilns, which will be heated with fuel oil and electrically controlled, and the fourth unit will be equipped with new mechanical devices recently patented by J. Schumacher, Sr., and J. E. Schumacher. The nature of the patents has not yet been made public.

While these improvements are under way, neither the new construction work nor the recent warehouse fire will delay or reduce the company's output, much of which is contracted for by different dealers as long as two years ahead.

DECORATED BY ARTIST.

The administration building at the factory, recently completed at a large cost, is a structure which combines modern ideas of utility and efficiency with exceptional architectural beauty. The ceiling of the main part of the building, forty feet long and twenty feet in width, has been decorated by the famous Italian artist, F. Tasca. The ceiling decoration alone cost $4200.

All new units will be constructed with lighting systems which will make it possible to operate the factory twenty-four hours a day, and the company pays particular attention to safety devices for the protection of employees.

During the World War the entire output of the Schumacher Wall Board Company's plant was contracted for by the United States government, and this wall board was used in the construction of practically every cantonment on the Pacific Coast. The government awarded the company a diploma for the quality of its product, and for its energy in expanding the factory's output to meet war-time needs.

A notable addition to the new business district which is developing along Western avenue will be the new Film Temple, to be erected at Western avenue and Santa Monica Boulevard. This structure, a four-story and basement class A building, will be erected by a group of Hollywood business men, and will be devoted entirely to motion-picture service. The building will be L-shaped, with a frontage of 100 feet on Western avenue, running back to a depth of 140 feet, and having a frontage of fifty feet on Santa Monica Boulevard. It is estimated that the cost of the structure will be in the neighborhood of $400,000.

The new Film Temple is planned to fill the need of a central clearing-house for the Hollywood motion-picture studios. Accessory shops of all kinds, carrying in stock supplies needed in the industry, will be housed in the building. The basement will contain ninety-three fireproof vaults for the storage of film, these vaults to be protected in the same manner as the safety deposit boxes of banking institutions.

ACCESSORY SHOPS.

A feature of the first floor will be a wide rotunda running through the entire length of the building, upon which will front nineteen shops which will carry in stock supplies needed in the industry, such as cameras and camera parts, costumes, lighting devices, barber shops, hairdressers, etc. The second floor will contain a large cafe and a large central office room, containing thirty-six desks, where representatives of downtown business firms, which supply materials to the picture studios, can maintain a representative. On the third floor there will be six cutting rooms containing modern equipment, including short-throw screens, where picture producers can cut and prepare the pictures for exhibition.

Plans also include two pre-view auditoriums with a seating capacity of 150 people each, where the films can be shown when they are completed. The fourth floor will be given over to nineteen studios for architects, artists, sculptors, photographers, and others associated with the motion-picture studios. Other features of the building will include a telegraph and railroad office, community shiping room, motion-picture library, and a research department.

The property for the structure has been purchased, and the plans have been prepared by Frank Rasche and H. D. Frankfurt. Edward A. Bibv, formerly associated with the Mack Sennett and Metro studios, and more recently with the Charley Chaplin studios as casting director and assistant to the manager, is representing the Hollywood studios in the project, while the syndicate which is to erect the building is represented by the Taft Realty Company, which will act as agent for the structure upon its completion.

SAN PEDRO BANK.

Plans have been finished by Architects Edelman and Barnett for a new home for the First National Bank of San Pedro, to be erected at the southwest corner of Sixth and Palos Verdes streets. The building, two stories in height, will be of

PRICE OF BRICK MAY COME DOWN.

Condition of Industry is Shown in the Report Issued by Association.

A digest recently prepared by the Common Brick Manufacturers' Association of America reveals some interesting data concerning conditions in this industry. A questionnaire was sent out to the members of the association in all parts of the country, and from ninety-one members, representing about one-fourth of the total membership of the association, answers were received. According to these replies, there are on hand about 204,000,000 burned brick in the yards of the companies responding, indicating a total supply of burned brick throughout the United States of probably 405,000,000. Orders on hand represent about 250,000,000 brick, leaving a surplus of 200,000,000. The average price at these yards is $20.38 per thousand for the month of October, as compared with $20.57 per thousand for the preceding month.

The report shows that in the Pacific Coast States, including California, Oregon, Washington and Arizona, there are 4,251,300 burned brick on hand, against which there are orders for 3,637,000, leaving a surplus of 614,300. The present price per thousand is quoted at $18.40, as compared with $18.20 a month ago.

COAL MAY DECLINE.

Coal is costing the manufacturers of burned brick from $7 to $14 per ton. Fourteen plants, it is reported, are closed from lack of coal, thirty-three report an inadequate supply and twenty-nine are obtaining enough for their needs. The labor supply is improving, being adequate at thirty-four plants, fair at thirty-one and inadequate at twenty-four plants. Forty-eight manufacturers report a slight improvement in the efficiency of labor, while others say that they can see no improvement.

Thirty-six firms state that the cost of production is increasing on account of the coal situation and to irregularity of production. Three manufacturers report lower costs, and forty-seven state that costs are stationary. The fact that there may be decline in the price of coal, however, is held by the association as an indication that cheaper brick may be available next year. Brick prices, it is stated, are regulated by the price and supply of coal, plus transportation charges.

Fact and Comment.

der the rents act, this commission being composed of men who were in no wise interested in real estate or the rental of properties. According to the law, either the tenant or the landlord could start action before the commission to determine whether or not the rental demanded was a fair one; and in addition, the commission could on its own initiative start such action.

The right of appeal was allowed to either party, who could carry the case into the Court of Appeals when he considered the decision an unjust one. The real power of the commission lay in the fact that any person who sought to evade the rents act was subject to a fine of $1000 or twelve months' imprisonment, or to both. The commission was empowered to fix fair and reasonable rentals, and the decision of the commission was binding. Upon the termination of a lease or contract made by the tenant, he continued in possession of the property at the price fixed by the commission, regardless of any additional demands made by the landlord.

Severe penalties were given—and here is the whole crux of the situation to anyone who attempted to evade the law by paying additional rental in the form of a bonus for the purpose of continuing in possession of the property. Suits against landlords were conducted by the commission without cost to the tenant, and the subletting of dwelling places, a practice generally indulged in here, at a higher rental than was paid by the original tenant, was strictly forbidden, except with the consent of the commission, which, at the time the consent was given, determined a fair rental.

The Public is Watching.

This is severe legislation, and there is no one who desires to see it made necessary. The problem is now being tackled by local business men and they should be allowed sufficient time to work out their solution.

Meanwhile the public will watch with a great deal of interest the actions of the Realty Board committee. Many cases have already been brought to the attention of this body, which has been in session during the past week, and it is not unreasonable to anticipate some decisive action on the part of the committee within the near future. Plenty of time should be allowed for the study and investigation of the cases which are brought to the attention of the committee, and the proper investigation of these claims will, in many cases, involve a good deal of work. However, under the plan upon which the Realty Board is operating, the services of all members of the organization will be required and brought into use, so that the task can be pretty generally divided among the realty brokers of the city. According to reports, hundreds of cases have already been submitted to the Realty Board committee, and interesting developments can be expected in the near future.

NEW BUILDING RECORD MADE BY ALHAMBRA.

[SPECIAL CORRESPONDENCE.]

ALHAMBRA, Nov. 6.—Building permits amounting to $291,145 were issued here during October. This is the largest number of permits ever issued in Alhambra for one month, and from present indications, building will continue at this rate for some time.

Negotiations have just been completed whereby the High School bonds, voted last spring, have been sold to the Bank of Italy of Los Angeles for $112,000. City Superintendent of Schools C. E. Barber states that the Board of Education was highly pleased with the sale of these bonds.

LONG LEASE TAKEN ON NEW PASADENA GARAGE.

[SPECIAL CORRESPONDENCE.]

PASADENA, Nov. 6.—The Pasadena Garage and Service Station has obtained a ten-year lease on the new garage building which has been erected at the southeast corner of East Colorado street and Catalina avenue by N. T. Horton. The rental paid for the property for the full period of the lease amounted to $30,000. Both a day and night force of mechanics will be kept on duty so that service can be rendered at all times. The building is 68 by 120 feet, and is constructed of red brick, with tile trimmings. The supply and accessories room is situated on the Colorado-street side, while the repair and workshop faces on Catalina avenue, with two entrances from this street. This garage will be the new home of the Elgin six.

BIG PERMITS TO BE ISSUED SOON.

According to J. J. Backus, Chief Inspector of Buildings, building permits issued by his department for the first week in November are running about even with the first week of the preceding month. Practically the same number of permits have been issued, but the valuation is slightly lower.

Drawings and plans for three structures are now in the hands of the building inspector for approval, however, and when permits for these buildings are issued, the total will be greatly increased. Application has been made for a $1,500,000 permit for Loew's State Theater, to be erected at the corner of Seventh and Broadway, and the permit will probably be taken out within a few days. Other applications which have been submitted include also a new apartment-house at 341 South New Hampshire, $115,000, and the new building for the Citizens' Trust and Savings Bank at 338 South Hill street, $146,000.

Now that election is over and prosperity is assured, wise buyers will take advantage of the opportunities being offered in Los Angeles real estate.

Architect Edwin Bergstrom, the noted authority on building conditions, assures us that there will be no decline in building costs for the next ten years, so don't put off buying with the idea that prices will be lower later on. The ever-increasing demand is bound to make them go higher.

You cannot invest your money where it will bring better returns, consistent with safety and stability, than in Los Angeles real estate. The most attractive property that has ever been offered is now on the market, and you will never have a better opportunity to buy than right now.

Put your money into Los Angeles real estate and watch your investment grow.

OWL DRUG TO OPEN STORE IN PASADENA.

[SPECIAL CORRESPONDENCE.]

PASADENA, Nov. 6.—The Owl Drug Company, a corporation now operating more than forty drug stores throughout the United States, has acquired a long-term lease on the two-story building at the southeast corner of Colorado street and Euclid avenue, Pasadena, at a gross rental of $300,000. The sale was made by W. L. Evans of the W. Ross Campbell Company of Los Angeles, who represented both sides in the transaction.

At the expiration of the present leases on the property, the Owl Drug Company will take possession and remodel the building for use as store No. 42. It is estimated that the alterations will cost more than $30,000. The arrangement and fixtures in the new store will be similar to those of the recently-opened Owl store at Sixth and Broadway, Los Angeles. The leased property is owned by Don C. Porter, well-known attorney. It is 60x125 feet in size, and is located opposite the Maryland Hotel.

NEW HOMES PLANNED.

Construction of several new houses at Verdugo Woodlands will be started in the near future, according to W. L. Twining, sales manager of F. P. Newport & Co. Plans have been prepared by Architect Harry L. Pierce for a six-room house of Italian style for Mr. Twining, to be erected on Opechee Way. Among others who are having plans prepared for houses in this tract are J. E. Smith, F. A. Toone, P. L. Belger, L. A. Joyce and R. E. Burdick.

The F. P. Newport Company has also opened a branch office at 5913 Hollywood Boulevard under the supervision of L. A. Clark, and a new office will be opened tomorrow in Pasadena in the First National Bank Building. The books of the company show that during the month of October forty-one lots, valued at $68,215, were sold in the Verdugo Woodlands subdivision. A new tract, comprising eighty-one lots 75 by 185 feet, has recently been opened.

Windsor Square

Los Angeles is experiencing one of the most remarkable and substantial growths in the history of any American city in the last 50 years.

The eyes of thousands and thousands of people in the United States are upon Los Angeles today as the place they intend to live.

High class residence property here, located in surroundings of the proper character, is selling at the present time, per front foot, FOUR and FIVE TIMES LOWER than is being asked for the same class of home sites in Eastern cities the size of Los Angeles.

Due to this city's tremendous growth and the home requirements of the in-pouring hosts, the value of high grade residence properties in Los Angeles is certain to experience a rapid increase. This will be particularly notable in the case of properties having the character and improvements found in (the new development of) WINDSOR SQUARE. It is the opinion of the city's shrewdest business men that increases in such realty values will be little short of phenomenal during the next few years.

WINDSOR SQUARE (the new development) is designed to attract only people who are prepared to build homes of dignity and refinement—although we do not wish this interpreted to mean only men of wealth. The investment of a moderate amount will enable you to have a home in (the new development of) WINDSOR SQUARE thoroughly in keeping with the character of this beautiful tract.

Location is Everything

When Home Building Is Considered

YOU might as well have the best—a lot on Wilshire's High Crest that commands a glorious view of mountains and sea. It will cost you much less now than you would naturally expect. Wilshire Crest is immediately on Wilshire Boulevard and Country Club Drive. The latter is being opened one hundred feet wide for several miles beyond Wilshire Crest, and is expected to rival Wilshire Boulevard itself as a fashionable residence street.

Wilshire Crest offers by far the best opportunity to the bungalow builder who appreciates surroundings of culture and beauty. He can build on high ground a modest home that will share in the benefits accruing from the erection of elegant and costly homes in the same tract.

Besides location, Wilshire Crest has many other advantages that recommend it to the permanent home builder. It is only a few minutes from several good schools, has excellent car service, and is amply protected as to both cost and tasteful design of residences. There are a few wonderfully located lots where entrancing sunken gardens are being developed.

Prices have purposely been made low in order to sell quickly. Lots 50 feet, 60 feet, 70 feet, 100 feet and larger. Prices range from $2500 for bungalow lots to $3300 and more for larger sites. Selection is going on rapidly; come out and select yours TODAY.

Take West 11th St. car on Broadway to new L. A. High School. It's only three minutes' walk north to our tract office at Wilshire and Rimpau Boulevards. Drive along Wilshire Boulevard. It's the next subdivision on the left when you pass Fremont Place.

Or we will take you, without obligation on your part, from either of our downtown offices.

NEW BUILDINGS TO RISE HERE.

class B construction, and it will be 60 by 100 feet in dimensions.

A large basement is included in the plans, this portion of the structure to be occupied by a cafe. The bank will occupy the entire main floor of the building, while the second floor will be divided into fifteen large offices. The architecture will follow the classic style, with granite columns and entablature. When completed the structure will represent an expenditure of about $95,000, exclusive of the bank fixtures and furnishings.

NEW BRANCH BANK.

The Los Angeles Trust and Savings Bank will open a new branch at the corner of Eighth and Olive streets. Extensive alterations are now being made on the building, and the improvements are being rushed to completion, with the result that the branch will be opened about December 1.

The entrance to the bank will be of classical design, finished in white Italian marble with circular columns at either side of the doorway. The interior will be finished in gray marble. The banking room is designed around a central lobby, with the bank and the safety deposit vaults at the rear. These vaults, which are being made in Los Angeles by the Remington Company, are provided with heavy rectangular doors, and further protection is afforded by an electric alarm system and reinforced steel and concrete walls.

An indirect lighting system and a complete ventilation system will be installed. Accommodations for clients of the bank will include coupon booths, committee rooms and private offices for ladies and customers. The building was designed and the equipment is being furnished by the Remington Company, engineers.

NEW PACKING-HOUSE TO START OPERATION.

A new packing-house, 24 by 90 feet, erected to handle the crop of peas, which is now coming on the market, has recently been completed at Carlsbad-by-the-Sea by the Growers' Association, and will soon be in operation. For the past ten days shipments of peas have been going forward to Los Angeles and San Francisco, prices for the early crop ranging from 14 to 21 cents per pound, according to quality. The association expects to ship out the first straight car about November 10 to New York where, it is reported, it has already sold for an unusually high price. Regular shipments to eastern cities will begin about November 15. According to E. M. Claussen, sales manager of the South Coast Land Company, owners of Carlsbad-by-the-Sea, many sales of irrigated lands and homesites were transacted during October.

NEW SUBDIVISION.

Wilshire Heights to be Opened Soon by Hollingsworth Company.

A new subdivision in the Wilshire district, to be known as Wilshire Heights, will be opened in the near future by the W. I. Hollingsworth Company, according to an announcement made yesterday. The tract is situated on the high ground south and west of the Los Angeles High School with a frontage on Pico Boulevard. In addition to the schooling facilities afforded by the high school, grammar school, primary school and Page's Military Academy, the improvements, incuding graded and oiled streets, cement sidewalks and curbs, gas, electricity and water, have been completed.

Nominal building restrictions have been placed upon the property so as to permit the erection of moderate priced homes. The new subdivision adjoins South Fremont Place, which was recently placed on the market by the Hollingsworth Company. In the sale of the latter tract a record was established, the entire subdivision having been sold out in one week.

JUDGE FEELS WRONG MAN WAS CONVICTED.

CERTAIN JURY MADE ERROR. HE GRANTS PROBATION IN THEFT CASE.

Henry Castanaga was convicted of a theft, but he was not the man who should have been found guilty, according to a statement from the bench yesterday by Judge Willis. Castanaga and Garparia Castellanos were accused of stealing automobile wind deflectors, valued at $300, from the California Glass and Paint Company. Castellanos was tried by a jury and acquitted and Castanaga by another jury and convicted.

The court stated that because of the similarity of the names, as given by the witnesses, and because of the circumstances he did not believe the juries received a proper viewpoint of the case. The court stated that while there was reasonable cause for supposing that Castanaga knew about the theft there was more evidence, if both cases were considered together, to suppose that he was not the man who had committed the crime.

Stating that if one jury had heard the two cases together, they would probably have found Castellanos guilty and have decided the other man merely had knowledge of the asserted crime, the court denied a motion for a new trial for Castanaga and granted him probation of eighteen months.

WORK OF LOCAL MAN IS WARMLY PRAISED.

The work of George W. Parsons, a Los Angeles man, who for many years has been engaged in bringing about an adequate system of marking routes to desert watering places, has been signaly acnowedged by Director George Otis Smith of the United States Geoogica Survey. In 1901, Mr. Parsons made a trip across the desert regions of California with W. L. Watts, State Mineralogist, and on his return urged upon the Los Angeles Chamber of Commerce the necessity of placing guide posts and of developing water holes in the desert. Mr. Parsons's work led to an appropriation by Congress, as a result of which the United States Geological Survey surveyed the Southern California desert, and recently has issued a report upon the subject entitled "Routes to Desert Watering Paces." Director Smith's warm appreciation of the work undertaken by Mr. Parsons is contained in a letter addressed to the latter which states that the sign posts should stand as a monument to his devotion to a self-imposed task which was finally accomplished for the cause of humanity.

AQUEDUCT WILL BE COMPLETED IN MARCH.

Work on the new Stone Canyon aqueduct through the Santa Monica Mountains is nearing completion, and the water department announces that city water will be available in the Brentwood Park district some time in March. The tunnel will connect with the reservoir which is now being built west of Beverly Hills, and will supply water to Brentwood Park and the territory beyond. With the water supply for this district assured, several large tracts, whose development has been retarded by lack of adequate water supply, are being prepared for subdivision, and will be placed on the market in the near future.

NEW REALTY FIRM.

Carl F. Schader and T. A. Johnson, who were formerly associated in the realty business in Los Angeles, have reopened offices here in the H. W. Hellman Building under the firm name of Schader-Johnson. Both Mr. Johnson and Mr. Schader are well known in Los Angeles, having operated here for many years. Several Los Angeles subdivisions have been handled by Mr. Schader, who subdivided Seaside Terrace, Vicente Terrace and Kensington Terrace at Santa Monica. Mr. Johnson has been operating for some time at Calipatria and in Arizona. Through Mr. Schader the sale of the Palos Verdes Rancho to Frank A. Vanderlip and associates for $1,500,000 was made several years ago. The new firm will specialize in Imperial Valley and Arizona farm lands.

Supervisors McClellan and Bean and Howard Robertson and W. A. Bowen, of the Museum of History, Science and Arts, will leave for San Francisco today on a tour of investigation of public buildings and museums of that city. It is planned to build a wing to the Natural History Building at Exposition Park, the estimated cost of which is $40,000.

Simultaneously with the establishment here of the first subdistrict of the Naval Reserve to be placed in active service in the United States, the Navy Department at Washington has detailed to Los Angeles Commander Alonzo Henry Woodbine, U.S.N.R.F., who will have charge of the organization, training and administration of a force of more than 8000 men and 225 officers.

Commander Woodbine has established offices in the Union Oil Building, from which he will direct Naval Reserve affairs over the subdistrict which includes Los Angeles, Santa Barbara, San Luis Obispo, Ventura, San Bernardino, San Pedro and all of Orange county.

Early delivery at San Pedro of one or more of the war vessels assigned to this subdistrict for training purposes is expected by Commander Woodbine. He has already been made a member of the Military and Naval Affairs Committee of the Chamber of Commerce here. In chamber circles the appointment of the commander, and the creation of the subdistrict are looked upon as an official recognition from Washington of the strategic importance of Los Angeles Harbor.

Service in the Naval Reserve i voluntary and is open to officers and men who have resigned or been honorably discharged from the Navy, and to men in civil life who wish to take up naval training.

The Naval Reserve force is provided for by the Navy Department as a means of maintaining Navy men in training after they have returned to civil life and of preparing civilians for naval service in times of emergency. To this end, vessels and shore armories will be maintained for training and drill purposes, and every effort made to provide the reservist with comfortable quarters for recreation and social life.

FIND JUDGE GUILTY OF BEING POPULAR.

Judge Frank R. Willis, re-elected to the Superior Court on Tuesday as second on the list, was yesterday found guilty by a jury in his own court of being guilty of being popular.

When the judge took the bench he was informed by the jury that a case had already been tried and a verdict reached. The verdict was presented by B. T. Reed and Mrs. J. F. Davis, and read as follows:

"We, the jury in the above entitled action, find the defendant, Judge Frank R. Willis, guilty of being popular."

A bouquet accompanied the "verdict."

NAVAL BASE BOARD ON WAY

Members of the special joint Senate and House Congressional Commission appointed to investigate the establishment of naval bases on the Pacific Coast, will arrive in Los Angeles on the morning of the 24th inst., and will remain here until noon of the 26th inst., holding hearings and investigating the advantages of the proposed Submarine Base at Los Angeles Harbor.

They then go to San Diego, return here early on the morning of the 28th inst., and leave within a few hours for the East by way of the Grand Canyon.

Congressman Osborne was yesterday advised of the itinerary of the commission, and of the members who will come to Los Angeles. These are Senators Fall of New Mexico, McCormick of Illinois, Keyes of New Hampshire, Pitman of Nevada and Walsh of Montana, and Representatives Kelly of Michigan, Britten of Illinois, Hicks of New York, Padgett of Tennessee and Riordan of New York.

The commission left Chicago last Friday, and will make stops at Seattle Portland and San Francisco on the way to Los Angeles.

JURISDICTION CRUX OF BETRAYAL CASE.

GIRL SAYS SHE YIELDED TO MAN IN AUSTRALIA; CAN COURT HERE ACT?

Because the question of jurisdiction was raised in the $50,000 damage suit of Miss Victoria Johnson against H. E. McQuown, wealthy lumber man, Judge Valentine yesterday took the case under submission. Miss Johnson testified that Mr. McQuown, a married man, after making violent love to her and being repulsed, had betrayed her. These acts were said to have been committed in Australia, and Mr. McQuown's attorney, D. P. Hatch, at once contended that the local court has no jurisdiction in the matter.

Miss Johnson testified that Mr. McQuown held her in his arms and repeatedly declared his great love for her.

"I weakened—that's all there was to it," she said. "I really thought the man meant it in the end."

Mr. McQuown wrote her, according to letters introduced in evidence:

"I am longing and waiting for the time when we can be together again and for good. The world holds absolutely nothing for me without you and it is so hard to be away from you. Child, you don't know how hard it is to be away from you. I hope God is good enough to bring us together soon."

Mrs. McQuown and her daughter reside at Tulare. Attorney Hatch stated he did not know where to find Mr. McQuown.

FREE ENGLISHMAN; NOW HAS AMPLE CASH.

Harold G. Davies, who is said to have stated he is a scion of a noble family of England and son of a wealthy shipbuilder of London, was discharged yesterday by Justice Hanby upon motion of Dep. Dist.-Atty. Hill. Davies was accused of passing numerous fictitious checks, but evidence was introduced to show that he had ample funds but the same had not been credited to his account. Davies was arrested in San Diego, identification having been said to be made by his large feet.

FOUR SUSPECTED OF BURGLARY ARE HELD.

WOMAN WRESTLER'S SON ALSO IN TOILS; SAILORS FACE YOUNG GIRL CHARGE.

Four defendants charged with burglary, and two with committing offenses against a girl 15 years of age, were held to answer yesterday by Justice Summerfield, making a record in this line for Dep. Dist.-Atty. Fitts.

Harold Sampson, Charles Ward, Edward Colman and Pasmo Monjo, were held to answer for burglary. Sampson, the testimony indicated, induced Teddie Ingles, aged 15, a son of Grace Wakefield, champion woman wrestler of the United States, to aid him in the burglary of the residence of J. P. Howard, 2025 West Forty-third street, on October 27.

Ward was held for the asserted burglary of the pawn shop of Harry Towno, 437 East Fifth street, on the 2nd inst. Coleman was held for the asserted burglary of the residence of B. C. Douglas, 2814 Budlong avenue, and Monjo for the burglary of a building occupied by Jose Perez, 212 Alpine street. Teddie Ingles was held for the Juvenile Court in connection with the burglary charged to Sampson.

E. L. Barnes and Fred Tierry, sailors, were held to answer for an asserted offense against Gertrude Skelton, of Ocean Park.

HARDING CANNOT COME.

President-Elect Replies to Wired Invitation to Visit Here.

The invitation to visit Los Angeles, extended to President-elect Harding by the Chamber of Commerce, was declined in a telegram received yesterday. Mr. Harding expresses his appreciation of the chamber's desire to entertain him on his way South, but says that preparations to visit Point Isabel cannot be changed.

The next President intends to take a long vacation, and when the announcement of the trip was made, Frank Wiggins, secretary of the chamber, telegraphed asking that he stop in Los Angeles part of the time.

CITY EMPLOYEES TO GIVE COSTUME BALL.

Prizes will be given to the best costumed and to the most comically dressed man and woman at the masquerade ball and card party to be given on the 16th inst., at Goldberg-Bosley Hall by the members of the Los Angeles County Employees' Association. City and county officials have been invited to attend. The committee in charge includes W. T. Peterholt, Carrie Garrison, Patty Patterson, Opal McClary, Elmer Wiggins, Frances O'Çonner, Mrs. Hitchcock, Jimmie Kenilworth, G. W. Lawton, Rose Rice, Ed Kent, Mr. Timmon, Mrs. Crone, Miss Ferguson, Miss Ahe, Miss Stapleton and Paul Hill.

CROWD FROM OXNARD CAUGHT IN DRY NET.

A delegation of suspected bootleggers from Oxnard, including J. Fernandez, Albert Ellis, Arthur Gonzales and his wife, Louise Gonzales, Lillian Russell, a big, buxom negress, and Romeo Cormelia, were arraigned before U. S. Commissioner Long yesterday, on the charge of violating the Volstead Act. They were held on $500 bail each for their preliminary examination.

It is charged that the defendants are a part of the whisky-running ring, which has been operating in open defiance of the law for some time.

RABBIS HERE TO SEE ABOUT CHURCH WINES.

Rabbi M. S. Margolin of New York City, president of the Union of Orthodox Rabbis, and Rabbi S. Siegel, also of New York, have arrived in Los Angeles to investigate the manufacture of wines in California for sacramental purposes. They will visit a number of near-by wineries this week, after spending the week-end at the home of Rabbi S. Bauman here.

PERJURY CHARGE MADE.

Judge Has Defendant in Suit for Damages Jailed after Story.

Because he denied in court that he was present at the scene of an accident, which resulted in his being made defendant in a damage suit, Dr. J. N. Andrews was yesterday first locked in jail on a perjury charge, was next served with a formal perjury complaint by Dep. Dist.-Atty. Doran, and was later released on his own recognizance in Justice Hanby's court.

Dr. Andrews was defending a $5000 damage suit in Judge Wood's court. B. A. Harding was asking for an award for injuries received when, as he charged, he was struck and hurt by an automobile driven on Pico street by the physician. Mr. Harding and several other witnesses identified Dr. Andrews, but the latter maintained that he was not near Pict street at the time of the accident.

"A flagrant case of perjury," said Judge Wood, and sent for Mr. Doran to prepare the formal complaint, in spite of the angry objections made by the doctor.

NEW TRIAL AVOIDED BY CUT IN VERDICT.

Henry J. Ledebrink, who was arrested after an altercation with Sergt. Lloyd Howell of the police department, and who sued Sergt. Howell and Officers W. D. Porter and J. W. Moulton for damages, consented to a reduction of the verdict of a jury in Judge McCormick's court yesterday. The defendants moved for a new trial. The court said if a reduction in the verdict of $500 was accepted by Mr. Ledebrink, he would deny a new trial as to Howell. The amount fixed on was $200. The court then granted a new trial for Officers Porter and Moulton, the verdict against them being $150.

MANSLAUGHTER JURY FREES AUTO DRIVER.

Albert Mather, charged with manslaughter because of the death of Barbara Gove April 24 last, was found not guilty by a jury in Judge McCormick's court yesterday. The testimony showed that Mr. Mather had trouble starting his automobile. After it was started he backed toward the curb, placing his foot on the accelerator instead of on the brake. The woman was on the pavement and the machine jumping the curb, struck and killed her.

Johnson participating. The address will be delivered by Col. Nelson M. Holderman, now commandant of the Yountville Veterans' Home, and who commanded a company of the famous command. NOW~in all its beauty, with sea and mountains~

BRENTWOOD Park

IN the curve of the mountains, from Los Angeles to the sea, Nature fashioned a choice few of the beautiful mesa lands which have been built up into such handsome residence localities that they have become the envy and admiration of all the Southland.

In a few favored places this bench land—ranging in altitude 300 feet above the sea—dips back into the mountains and forms residential beauty spots of surpassing appeal.

Brentwood Park was founded, platted and improved several years ago. From that time until the present, it has remained a place of ever-increasing attractiveness, until today it resembles a beautiful, skillfully landscaped public park.

Here—at Brentwood Park—on a gently sloping mesa, 300 feet above the sea, is the LAST remaining section of the high-class residential bench land north of San Vicente and Wilshire boulevards.

Location Unequaled

Brentwood Park is bounded on the north by the Santa Monica range; on the east by Lincoln Drive; on the south by San Vicente boulevard; on the west by Twenty-sixth street, Santa Monica.

The magnificent beaches at Santa Monica, Ocean Park and Venice can be reached in a few minutes by automobile or street car (the Santa Monica shore is only two and one-half miles away.) Los Angeles is reached in a half hour's ride. To many persons, Brentwood Park has an added charm in the presence of the Brentwood Country Club, the clubhouse being in the park and the famous golf course just across the street from the park.

All lots in Brentwood Park are of generous dimensions—carefully contoured and arranged to follow the graceful curves of the broad, smooth drives and avenues. Beautiful little "islands" of trees, flowers and lawns are located every few rods along the center of the driveways.

A Delightful Place to Live

Easy accessibility of schools, churches, recreational centers and resorts, together with the never-failing supply of Nature's elixirs—salt air from the sea and pine-scented breezes from the mountains—combine to give Brentwood Park an irresistible appeal to families seeking a permanent residence.

Attractive Prices and Terms

Restrictions are liberal and prices so moderate and convenient as to be easily handled by any responsible person.

Recent acquisition of Brentwood Park by the firm of Shipley-Harrell-Trapp Company makes it possible to put this exceptionally beautiful MATURED tract on the market.

How to Get There

Drive today to Brentwood Park, by way of Wilshire boulevard to the west gate of the Soldiers' Home, turn to the right into San Vicente boulevard and into the park at the Brentwood Country Club. Drive up through Brentwood Park to Lookout Point—to the flag. On a clear day you can see Catalina Island.

You may communicate with us without the slightest obligation; and we especially invite the consideration of Brentwood Park by the man of moderate means. There are beautiful mansions at Brentwood Park that have been counted among Los Angeles' show places for years, and we expect many more beautiful residences—but it is an opportunity to a remarkable degree for the man who wants beautiful surroundings for his home accompanied by practicability in the matter of outlay.

S ABOUT RELIEF WORK.

Cross Has Spent Vast Sum to Aid Russia.

ed Sanitary Trains and Big Hospitals.

s of Esthonia Were Given Needed Help.

[BY A. P. CORRESPONDENCE.]

INGTON, Oct. 31.—Four- dollars, covering the distribution of articles from auto ambulances to have been expended by American Red Cross in its relief in Russia, according to figures from the forthcoming annual of the organization made headquarters here. was extended to millions women and children and ranged from hospital care for the sick to food and clothing for the starving and ill clad. The work was carried on through commissions sent to Siberia, Western Russia, Southern Russia and the Baltic States, a total of 2667 persons, including 503 Americans, were employed and 10,000 different articles were distributed free of cost. The commissions operated sanitary trains with a total of seventy-five cars, and equipped with 830 beds with a capacity of 1550 patients. Antityphus trains operated by the commissions traveled 11,000 miles, furnishing preventive baths to 105,000 persons, disinfection for 1,000,000 and issuing 500,000 clean garments. In Siberia alone Red Cross trains distributed 8800 tons of supplies and eighteen hospitals with a total of 6596 beds were operated.

AID IN ESTHONIA.

One of the most difficult tasks of the organization, according to the report, was in helping the people of Esthonia where there was no ambulance service and very little in the way of hospitals when the Americans arrived. The army was in retreat and disorganized and the combined force of soldiers and civilians to the number of 20,000 were described as a hungry, suffering, panic-stricken mob. In December typhus broke out and for months the Red Cross workers fought the disease amid great difficulties.

At one time the dead were piled in the corners of the rooms with the sick and no effort at decent burial was made. In a hospital at Reval, consisting of a single barrack with 440 beds in one room, there were 600 deaths in one week. Thousands of cases were treated and with only the untrained assistance of the people. The epidemic finally was conquered, but not until two American Red Cross officers, Lieut. George W. Winfield and Lieut. Clifford Blanton, had succumbed to the disease.

HELPED ALLIED SOLDIERS.

Much of the relief work in Western Russia consisted in aid to more than 250,000 Allied soldiers held in prison camps, but many thousands of civilians also were supplied with food and clothing. In the Baltic states, in addition to ordinary relief efforts, the Red Cross commissions aided in the treatment of nearly 20,000 typhus cases and disinfecting stations and hospitals had to be established on a large scale. The work in South Russia consisted largely in caring for refugees and in fighting typhus and cholera in the Crimea.

SHIP ESCAPES BEING FROZEN IN ARCTIC.

[BY A. P. CORRESPONDENCE.]

SEATTLE (Wash.) Oct. 27.—By about twenty-four hours the Seattle trading schooner Kahchatka, recently escaped being sealed in the Arctic Ocean ice for the winter, according to officers of the boat, which has arrived here from the far north.

On September 23 the Kamchatka sailed through Bering Straits, the Ocean and Bering Sea. On September 24, the following day, the ice closed in and sealed the straits until next June or July.

The Kamchatka had been hunting walrus to the east of the straits when a fierce storm began blowing from the northwest, driving the ice toward the straits. The boat stopped hunting and headed for the passage, reaching there in time to find a narrow lane open between ice that extended out from the shores.

Mines Endanger Dutch Coast.

[A. P. FOREIGN CORRESPONDENCE.]

THE HAGUE, Oct. 25.—There is still danger on the Dutch coast from mines laid in the war. Though the German and Dutch navies are working hard to clear away the extensive mine fields which were laid along the north coast of Frisia, a great number of mines are still afloat.

RED CROSS HAS SPENT FORTUNE.

Cost $51,000,000 Last Year to Help Out Europe.

Most Extensive Work is Done in France and Belgium.

Many Hospitals Established in Polish War Zone.

[A. P. FOREIGN CORRESPONDENCE.]

WASHINGTON, Oct. 23. — The American Red Cross furnished relief to war-stricken Europe during the last year to the amount of $51,000,000. The most extensive of overseas activities of the organization, however, ended during the year with the closing of relief work in France and Belgium.

WORK CONFINED.

Red Cross work in Europe, according to a statement issued today from the national headquarters here and based on the forthcoming report for the year that ended last June 30, is now confined to Poland, Serbia, Montenegro, Albania, West Russia and the Baltic states, South Russia, Vienna, Budapest and Constantinople.

In bringing the work in France and Belgium to a close, the Red Cross provided supplies to 3865 villages and directly benefited 30,000,000 persons by gifts or sales at nominal prices. In Italy the need of direct relief practically vanished and the Red Cross confined its work there to home service for American soldiers and their families and the founding of welfare institutions for children.

LEAVES WORKERS.

Local self-help ran hand-in-hand with the Red Cross relief and whenever the American organization withdrew from a territory it left a sufficient body of trained workers among the people to carry on the activities.

In the war zone of Northern Poland, the Red Cross established 258 hospitals of 26,123 beds, aided thirty established dispensaries and helped establish eighty-two others. It distributed clothing to 80,000 children and gave general relief to 2316 towns with a population of more than 700,000. In Southern Poland, more than 1000 hospitals and charitable institutions got assistance from the Red Cross.

FEED MANY.

The work in Rumania consisted of operating hospitals and dispensaries, providing supplies to schools and orphanages, conducting soup kitchens that fed 100,000 people and in distributing dry food to more than 170,000 others.

The society distributed 40,000 garments in Greece proper, 10,000 blankets and twice as many garments in Thrace and Smyrna and 50,000 garments to the colonies in Asia Minor. Relief work in Serbia was not extensive, the statement says, although much disease preventive work was necessary to insure the future health of the nation.

OPEN DISPENSARIES.

In Albania the society opened five medical dispensaries, four dental dispensaries and numerous infant welfare and milk stations. In addition to helping practically the entire population in the villages, it distributed 96,000 garments among the hill tribes. In Montenegro, 30,000 orphans are today being cared for by agencies which draw their supplies largely from the Red Cross. Two child-feeding stations, with a capacity of 300,000 meals a month, also are being operated by the American organization.

In Vienna, aid was given to ninety-eight hospitals, and 40,000 undernourished children were fed by the Red Cross, while in Budapest aid was also given to hospitals and thousands of children. In Constantinople, the work was confined to care, feeding, clothing and medical treatment of Russian and other refugees, who passed through the Bosphorus last winter.

AUSTRIAN SQUATTERS SEIZE PUBLIC PARK.

[A. P. FOREIGN CORRESPONDENCE.]

VIENNA, Oct. 28.—Squatters have taken possession of the famous Lainz-Tiergarten on the outskirts of Vienna and, where once the royal stags and wild boars fattened on rich meadows and under splendid oaks, huts are being erected and ground broken for crops.

The procedure of occupation was symptomatic of present conditions in Austria. Some months ago a group of men, mostly war invalids, formally demanded this park from the government, giving notice that if their demands were not met within a certain period they would take possession. The demand was ignored by the authorities, so a few days ago the period expired and several hundred men marched quietly to the entrance and demanded admission. The keepers swung open the gates, the men entered and staked out their claims, placing a model hut in one of the open spaces as a symbol of possession.

It is said that 1700 families will take up claims.

ARGENTINA PLANS TO IMPROVE PORTS.

[A. P. FOREIGN CORRESPONDENCE.]

BUENOS AIRES, Oct. 25.—Extensive port improvement works are proposed for Argentina. Work has begun on improving the port at Comodoro Rivadavia, the outlet for the oil fields. Wharves and warehouses are to be built at a cost of $1,700,000 for taking care of imports and shipment of petroleum. This work is being done by the government.

At Rosario, the second port of the country, it is proposed to spend $3,000,000 gold, increasing dockage and warehouse facilities. No important additions have been made to this port for ten years and expansion is said to be badly needed. If the plans made are approved by the Minister of Public Works preparations will be made to execute them immediately.

AUSTRALIA SHIPPING EGGS; PRICES GO UP.

[A. P. FOREIGN CORRESPONDENCE.]

SYDNEY (N.S.W.) Oct. 20.—Eggs have jumped in price here, mainly because the shipments to the United States are increasing. The prices have gone up recently despite the fact that production has increased.

All the refrigerating space on steamer Sonoma sailing in October for San Francisco has been taken for egg shipments, it has been reported.

ARREST LEADERS OF SECRET FRATERNITY.

KOREAN CHRISTIAN SOCIETY AIMED TO HELP GOVERNMENT AT SHANGHAI.

[A. P. FOREIGN CORRESPONDENCE.]

SEOUL (Korea) Sept. 27.—A secret fraternity composed exclusively of Korean Christians has been disbanded and the majority of its members have been arrested, according to an official police statement.

Bearing the name "the Great Korea National Association," the organization is described as having its headquarters at Pyongyang with seven district and seventeen village branch societies. It is alleged that the society owed its origin to Pak Seungmyong, a Christian of local fame who held repeated conferences with two Korean teachers of the higher common school of the Northern Methodist Church, dormitories of various mission schools outside the west gate of Pyongyang being used for the meetings.

The communique says that the Koreans decided to form a secret society to aid the self-styled provisional government at Shanghai and that later, taking advantage of a general Presbyterian conference at a mission school, officers were elected and that some 300 copies of a manifesto were printed on a mimeograph belonging to the Pyongyang higher common school of the Northern Methodist Church and were mailed to leading churches in South Pyongyang Province thorugh which they were disseminated among the people.

It was arranged, the police charge, to hold a demonstration to give solace to agitators in custody and to incite the people. It is furthermore stated that the president and eight members of his staff were arrested in December, but that Director Pak ran away to Shanghai and published 3500 copies a month of the "Great Korea People's Journal," of which 3000 copies were sent to Korea while the rest were distributed among Koreans in the United States, China and Russia. The statement concludes:

"Each number of the journal was full of calumnies against the Japanese regime in the peninsula and venomous articles aimed at the inspiration of the most extreme anti-Japanese sentiment among the Koreans, and the spread of the independence movement.

"During the month of June eighty-six members of the district and village branches were arrested, leading to the recent apprehension of Director Pak."

POLAND WILL FIGHT THE TYPHUS PLAGUE.

[A. P. FOREIGN CORRESPONDENCE.]

WARSAW, Oct. 28.—A health dictator has been appointed by the Polish government to fight the typhus plague. He is Dr. Emil Godelewski, known throughout Eastern Europe as an expert in hygiene. His writings on the subject are a textbook in nurses's schools and hospitals. Under the Polish Ministry of Health, he has set up an office in Warsaw where he has been given the widest powers.

The American Red Cross has placed two of its best physicians at his disposal and one of the first results of their co-operation was the decision to send out a series of dispensary trains, staffed by Polish and American personnel.

JAP SCOFFS AT TALK OF WAR.

Viscount Declares No Objective Can be Gained.

Says Issues Must be Settled by Friendly Diplomacy.

Asserts History Shows Relations Are Inseparable.

[A. P. FOREIGN CORRESPONDENCE.]

TOKIO, Oct. 27.—Not by war can Japan accomplish the aims she seeks in connection with American problems, but by friendship and intelligent diplomacy, wrote Viscount Kentaro Kaneko, president of the American-Japan society, in a special contribution dealing with American relations. The article was the leading feature of the special English edition recently published by the Japanese newspaper Yoniuri.

AMERICA PATIENT.

Sixty-four years ago, he continued, Commodore Perry greeted Japan with the message that it would not be good for Japan to be confined forever in their islands and later the United States sent Townsend Harris to this country. He guided and taught the Japanese with the care of a father. When one day a group of reckless Japanese burned his consulate, Harris believed that this and other outrages had been committed only because Japan had not advanced far along the road to modern civilization, and, instead of venting hatred upon Japan, he defended her. "America," went on the Viscount, "was simply patient, waiting for Japan to waken of her own accord.

NO GRUDGE HARBORED.

"Because of her gratitude for what Americans did for her in those days, Japan has harbored no grudge against the United States, although of recent years in the United States there has arisen an anti-Japanese agitation, beginning with the San Francisco school incident, then the taking of the right of land ownership away from the Japanese, the restrictions on the leasehold of land, the restriction of photograph marriages and other incidents. Instead of showing resentment, Japan has of her own accord restricted the immigration of her laborers into the United States by means of the gentleman's agreement. Japan is now taking toward the United States an attitude similar to that taken by America toward Japan sixty-seven years ago, an attitude of patience and forbearance. Japan is now paying the debt of tolerance that she contracted sixty-seven years ago. To be more specific, America is now receiving repayment on the spiritual capital that she invested in Japan in the time of Commodore Perry and Townsend Harris.

RELATIONS INSEPARABLE.

"History shows that Japanese-American relations are inseparable. Yet, today, to my great sorrow, there are some Americans who disregard this history, misunderstand the mind of the Japanese and try to destroy the friendly relations between the two countries."

Viscount Kaneko held that for the peace of Asia, Japanese-American friendship was an absolute necessity, yet in spite of this some people talk of war. He went on: "Even so-called intelligent classes fear a drift toward war in the near future. I am firmly convinced that such talk is indulged in merely to attract the attention of other people. Suppose that the two nations were at war with each other. America will have to base her operations in Hawaii and the Philippines. No matter how great the economic advantages and how great the military and naval strength which she may command, she will not be able to do more than hinder a portion of Japan's shipping from operation, or devastate the shores of Japan temporarily. She will not be able to deal decisive blows to Japan, nor land a single man on the soil of Nippon. The Japanese nation will never permit such a thing to pass. Never has Japan been invaded by foreign hosts since history recorded her birth. Mongolian invasions were twice attempted, but in vain. Since that time, Japan's national strength has increased many fold.

AN IMPOSSIBILITY.

"On the other hand, suppose that Japan should attack America and that she should be able to land marines from her powerful fleet in San Francisco. How will Japan transport the million soldiers needed to make the landing of marines effective? How will she send provisions? It is altogether an impossibility. Moreover, even if Japan's army should occupy a portion of the western coast of the American continent, the body of the United States will not be greatly hurt. Quite possibly, New York and Washington will pay no attention to such a trivial incident.

"Thus it is plain that a war between Japan and America cannot accomplish its final object and because of its very uselessness will never be waged."

NEW TRACT IN WEST END TO BE OPENED.

A new subdivision, Pontaic Square, is being marketed by Oliver & Laswell. The tract is adjacent to the Manual Arts High School and fronts on Denker, La Salle and Western avenues, and on Harvard and Hobart boulevards. The improvements in the tract were made some years ago, but no effort has been made to sell the property, with the result that the surrounding tracts are now well improved with modern homes. The Western-avenue frontage is unrestricted, in order to permit the expansion of the business district which is now growing up around Western and Santa Barbara avenue, but the remainder is reserved for residential purposes.

DOWNTOWN BUSINESS PROPERTIES ARE SOLD.

R. A. Rowan & Co., realtors, report the following sales, having a total value of $756,000, during the month of October: theater and store building at 531 South Main street, $200,000; Victory Theater Building at 836-38 South Broadway, $300,000; southeast corner of Seventh and Bixel streets, $90,000; northeast corner of Union avenue and Shatto street, $30,000; lot on west side of San Pedro street, between Second and Third streets, $50,000; two-story building at 221-23 West First street, $61,000; two-story building at 141-43 South Broadway, $31,000.

REFEREE ON LEAVE.

Dr. Van Waters Quits Juvenile Court to Lecture in East.

Dr. Miriam Van Waters, referee of the Juvenile Court, has been granted a three-month leave of absence. Miss Kathryn Ronan was appointed by the Supervisors yesterday to fill the office temporarily. Miss Ronan was an eligible on the civil service list.

Dr. Van Waters will go to Washington, D. C., to lecture and to study juvenile conditions in the East. As referee at Juvenile Hall she succeeded Miss Orfa Jean Shontz, who was the first referee appointed under the new law. Miss Shontz is now practicing law in this city.

LOCKED OUT; GETS DIVORCE.

Mrs. Mae W. Simon and her husband, William F. Simon, quarreled. She left the house for a few minutes and upon her return, she told Judge Crail yesterday, the door was locked against her. Since she was locked out, said Mrs. Simon, who sought a divorce, her husband has failed to provide for her and has refused a reconciliation. The decree was granted.

How to make a Profit on Stocks

The investor who buys high grade listed securities outright, in well diversified groups, and holds them for permanent gain, is in position to make a liberal profit beyond the dividend yield.

What kind of stocks to buy, also how and when to buy them, is interestingly told in our book, just published, entitled "The Principles of Profitable Investment."

In 64 pages we tell you the vital things about the stock market—how to judge a security—how to make a profit on stocks.

It contains no "tips" on certain issues, and nothing for the man who wants to take a short cut to wealth, but deals with fundamentals. You should read it before investing. Write today. It's free. Dept. I.

This corporation will have no funded debt or preferred stock.

The Golden State Motion Picture Corporation was formed under the laws of Delaware, and with the proceeds of the sale of its Common Stock will proceed immediately to engage the best director obtainable and secure the proper company to produce H. H. Van Loan's latest masterpiece.

His first story has been passed on by several of the best judges of literature in the United States, who pronounce it one of the best and strongest ever presented to them, and there is little question but what it will surpass in earnings Mr. Van Loan's last two successes, namely: "The Great Redeemer" and "The Virgin of Stamboul." These latter will surely net their producers $1,000,000.00.

The sources of income of the corporation are the following:

First, the sale of pictures produced by them to large distributors with whom contracts will have been made previous to starting of picture.

Second, the leasing of pictures produced on a royalty basis.

The holders of the Common Stock will receive Cash Cumulative Dividend up to $10 per share per annum before the Founders Stock receives a dividend. Thereafter the holders of the Founders Stock will receive $10 per share before any additional dividends may be paid on the Common Stock. Thereafter the Common Stock will receive one-half of any further profits. The Common Stock has priority of the Founders Stock as to assets in liquidation up to 110 per cent, or $110 per share.

RENEWED WEAKNESS IN COTTON.

Continued Southern Hedge Selling and Liquidation; Some Covering.

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

NEW YORK, Nov. 6.—The cotton market showed renewed weakness at the opening today owing to continued southern hedge selling and liquidation caused by the talk of an easier spot basis, weakness in foreign exchange as an obstacle to export business and unfavorable reports from the domestic goods trade.

There was a good deal of covering for over the week-end at these figures; also some trade buying and a moderate demand from brokers with Japanese connections causing rallies.

The moderate midmorning rallies were followed by renewed weakness owing to continued southern hedge selling and scattering pressure. Most of the southern selling was said to come from the eastern belt and was supposed to account for the relatively easy ruling of the near months.

The break extended later owing to continued liquidation and southern selling. The latter was accompanied by reports of increased spot offerings on an easier basis and closing prices were within a few points of the lowest.

Liquidation is on in All Grains on Chicago Market.

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

CHICAGO, Nov. 6.—Liquidation was on in all grains. Prices declined to the inside figures of the week and closed around the bottom with net losses of 5⅜@8¼ cents on wheat, 7⅜@8 cents for corn, 1 cent on oats, 4⅞@5⅜ cents on rye and 2¼ cents on barley.

It was a bear week in all grains and the rallying power was poor from the start. At the last wheat showed a decline of 14⅝@19 cents as compared with a week ago, while corn was off 5⅜@6⅜ cents, oats 2⅞@3⅛ cents, rye 6⅝@8⅛ cents and barley 5¼ cents.

At no time was there aggressive buying. March sold at a new low record for the crop and closed the lowest so far. A small rally toward the last was due to buying by holders of bids and week-end evening up. The market has passed the stage where export demand and other normal factors have much effect on values. At the low point December showed 22 cents under the high of Monday. It was understood large amounts of Canadian spring wheat were being bought by domestic interests and in some instances for winter requirements. Export demand was flat and premiums at the gulf were 2 cents lower.

There was nothing in the corn situation to justify any aggressive buying. With wheat the local element became bearish, a sharp decline was attained easily. May sold at a new low on the crop but the December and July spread showed no change. Premiums on yellow corn dropped 2½ cents as compared with the December, despite small arrivals.

The December oats spread widened to ⅝ cent. The cash oats brought the decrease and sold the May persistently while short covering was in evidence in both deliveries.

BARLEY UNCHANGED TO 50 CENTS HIGHER.

The decline of prices in the Chicago and San Francisco markets had no effect on the local grain exchange yesterday, all shipments ruling firm despite the fact that trading was very dull, and no support was offered to any of the deliveries of milo or barley. At the close of the session track barley had registered a gain of about 25 cents per ton, while the fifteen and twenty-day shipments were 50 cents higher. The only weakness was displayed by the ten-day article, which declined 25 cents per ton. November barley ruled firm and unchanged at the close of the call, and the December shipment was 25 cents higher, with a sale of the latter at $2.20. There was no interest taken in milo, and no transactions in this cereal were recorded during the day.

ORANGES.

LOS ANGELES, Nov. 6.—Valencia oranges are now about cleaned up as far as shipments are concerned, but there are about 300 cars out that are unsold. These are mostly destined to the auctions where averages are ranging from $12.50 per box for best grades of well-known brands, down to $4.20 for less desirable fruit.

Interest is now centered principally on new-crop navels. The Randolph Marketing Company lead off the new-crop movement his year with a shipment of navels from the Glendora district in Southern California on October 29. This fruit is exceptionally early, is well colored and possesses good eating quality. The fruit is reported to have tested 9 to 1, thereby passing the State requirements. The crop in Southern California districts is maturing rapidly but is slow in sizing up. Growers are of the opinion that a good rain will hurry the coloring and maturing of the navels, which they claim are several weeks earlier than normal in state of maturity. A number of cars of Thompson Improved navels will be shipped from Southern California districts by November 25. The fruit from the South will run heavy 176s to 216s. There will be very few larger sizes.

To date, Central California districts have not commenced shipping navels with the exception of fruit for export purposes, but picking in the Porterville, Clavicle and Globe districts began this week. The first two cars are expected to leave Porterville on the 9th and 10th. These cars are reported to have been sold on a basis of $7 per box f.o.b.

The fruit in the Central California districts will run about standard sizes. Samples on display by shippers show fairly good color. The fruit is reported to be testing generally about 9 to 1.

Shippers are asking from $6.50 to $7 cash for navels for shipment the first of next week from Tulare county and around $4.15 for shipment commencing the 25th. One large firm reports a sale of ten cars in Minneapolis on a basis of $4.55 cash per box—shipment November 20. Another shipper reports twenty-eight orders on a basis of $6 per box net for shipment next week.

Shippers are still sparring for time when it comes to actual quotations and not until the usual "first" cars have arrived at destination will definite prices be established.

Choice southern navels are being quoted on a basis of $3.25 f.o.b. for choice and $3.85 for fancy.

Orange county navels are beginning to color up, but cannot come up to the required 8 to 1 test as yet. With the exception of Thompsons, not much fruit will move before the 25th.

Reports from Florida show a marked increase in the movement of citrus fruit. Cool, dry weather has prevailed and has aided in maturing and coloring the oranges. The bulk of the fruit shipped, however, has been too green to prove attractive. F.o.b. selling has been quiet. Growers are asking $2 per box for oranges. A number of operators claim to have bought oranges at $1.25 to $1.50 per field box.

Arizona orange sales started off on a basis of $8 per box f.o.b. Shipments are now under way.

LEMONS.

The market on California lemons is steady. F.o.b. quotations are on a basis of $2.50 to $3 per box with but little business reported.

Tulare county lemon shipments have just begun, the season being several weeks later than usual.

There are 14,400 boxes of foreign lemons on hand and available for sale within the next thirty days.

WEEKLY FINANCIAL REVIEW.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

NEW YORK, Nov. 6.—The Presidential election was unique in the history of the local financial markets in the sense that it was neither preceded nor followed by any pronounced change from long prevailing irregular conditions.

Railroad shares were unusually active and variably higher, while industrials, shipping and numerous specialties recorded further declines. These movements, it was generally conceded, however, bore not the remotest relation to the political situation.

The one definite event of the week was the announcement made by the Southern Pacific directors of the company's purpose to separate its oil lands from the main system by means not yet determined but which plainly foreshadow substantial beneficial interest to shareholders. This action contributed to the strength of other transportations, some of which are believed to possess valuable "hidden assets." Several of the western and southern rails of secondary importance were bought in the belief that strategic positions point to mergers or traffic agreements.

Trade conditions and the money market offered little comfort to any but the short account, the industrial situation indicating steady retrogression in virtually all leading lines of manufacture and commerce, with no visible diminution of the strain on credits, particularly at western and southern points.

A History of Profit and Success

Danciger Oil and Refining Company

Capitalization $5,000,000

THE history of petroleum development holds no record of success equal to that of the Danciger Oil & Refining Company. In three years' time this corporation has risen to first place among the independent oil companies of America! Incorporated in March, 1917, for $300,000.00, Danciger Oil & Refining Company proved its capacity for large earnings and substantial dividends. Reorganization in October, 1919, increased the capitalization to $5,000,000.00 and provided additional capital for extended development.

Original stockholders in the Danciger Oil and Refining Company, having received a dividend of 100% in stock, are receiving 48% annually on their investment, and can cash in their holdings at any time for a profit of 600%.

The 18th consecutive quarterly dividend has just been paid.

Holdings in the proven fields of Kansas, Oklahoma, Kentucky, Tennessee, Louisiana and Texas, with over 40 producing wells and 15 now drilling, determine the stability and immense earning power of the Danciger Oil and Refining Company.

Information as to financial rating can be secured through R. G. Dun & Co. or Bradstreet's, in addition to which a comparison of the two financial statements for 1920, demonstrates the Danciger Oil and Refining Company's truly remarkable advancement.

Danciger Development Syndicate

The Danciger Development Syndicate has been organized to drill 25 wells on 25 tracts, averaging 2000 acres, a total of 50,000 acres. Organized and directed by the powerful Danciger Oil and Refining Company, this syndicate is practically assured of equal success. The sale of excess acreage surrounding drilling wells provides funds sufficient to provide against loss, even in the event of a dry hole, and, in addition, the support of the largest independent oil operators in America—an organization which has not one single failure against its record of successes—is behind the syndicate.

Units in the Danciger Development Syndicate convey an undivided interest in the entire 25 wells and 25 tracts. Details of the safeguards which surround this investment and the amazing profits not only possible but practically certain, will be sent upon request. The coupon offers a convenient method of securing such information without delay.

DAILY TRADE TALK.

An Undeveloped Mine; Week in Review; Business Briefs.

BY CHAPIN HALL.

There is an undeveloped mine right here in Los Angeles. The shaft enters pay dirt at Fifth and Broadway, reverses the laws of gravitation and sinks upward to the tenth level from whence the drifts enter pay dirt of high value.

The mine is called Los Angeles Public Library, and it is so little known as a business producer that any amount of common stock may be secured on the curb at a price which insures rich returns.

The Public Library is associated in the minds of a good many people as a place where popular works of fiction may be secured if one is lucky enough to find them "in;" where newspapers and magazines may be perused under the watchful eye of the next in line, and where public school pupils foregather to ascertain what makes the clock of the universe tick.

But how many business men, financiers, exporters and manufacturers realize that the library maintains at large expense a public affairs information service which is nothing less than a co-operative clearinghouse of information gathered and compiled by experts from the centers of the world?

This includes a standard daily trade service reporting currently in condensed form the business news of the country. Originally planned for the exporter it gives markets for commodities, new sources of raw materials, establishment of new industries, United States and foreign government regulations and their changes affecting the exporter and importer, and business conditions in all countries.

The scope of this service has recently been broadened to cover all kinds of business and surveys of individual industries are frequently given in detail together with Federal laws and regulations with their bearing on current business problems. This information is not contained in musty tomes. It is revised daily and is collected by direct representatives in the Far East, in Washington, Europe, Latin-America and even Russia.

In addition to this daily service weekly embracing advertising and views are made of the following industries: Automobiles, banks, shoes, building materials, chemicals, clothing, coal, cotton, foreign trade, iron and steel, jewelry, leather, lumber, machinery, petroleum, paper, rubber, railroads.

A business digest is published weekly embracing advertising and selling, foreign trade, banking and investing, executive management and accounting. This digest is made from 114 business periodicals, and includes the best thought of each.

The Statist, a leading British financial and trade weekly, the New York Times Annalist, a magazine of finance, commerce and economics, and other valuable publications may be obtained from this mine, and unsuspected nuggets are often picked up for a little trouble.

The information service indexes periodicals, pamphlets, reports, government documents, etc., chiefly on business, social and legislative subjects; indexes typewritten material, bibliographies, etc., notes new organizations and gives advance notice of meetings. A research department is maintained.

Trade Talk gives space to this unique mine because it is so rich in possibilities, and because its possibilities appear to be so little understood or taken advantage of. It is not an elementary, pedagogical collection of hit-and-miss information but a service which is a credit to the cityandthe city and the library, and if our business executives in various lines would use an hour a day in this department, Los Angeles would have the best informed and most up-to-date group of forward-looking trade experts in the United States.

WEEK IN REVIEW.

The election, of course, was the outstanding feature of an otherwise rather quiet week. As a result of the returns there was a marked stimulation in every line. Speculative stocks had already discounted the result so that there was no sudden reversal; just a firm undertone of strength and confidence which will probably manifest itself more and more as the weeks go by.

A good example of the optimistic attitude of the public over the election of Senator Harding is found in the bank clearings, which broke all records on the day following the election and established a high mark for the week.

Retail trade was better than during the preceding week, and early holiday shopping has commenced. There is nothing new in the building situation, and although the new permit total for the week is high, it is not a record breaker. The demand for small homes and lower rents continues, and some of the profiteering landlords are taking to the cyclone cellars. Railroads are announcing additional trains to handle the increasing travel from the East.

The bond market is strong with municipals in especial demand. The credit situation is not materially changed although there continues to be evidence of a lessening of the strain. Rates for prime commercial paper in Los Angeles remain at 7 per cent. Collections are good, but not so snappy as they were a few weeks ago.

With the exception of the outlaw strike of the vegetable packers there have been no labor disturbances during the period and while there is a slight increase in unemployment it has cut little figure in general averages for the week.

Food cost remains fairly well stabilized in spite of all the talk about lower prices, and an average comparative table based on the same period a year ago for ten staple articles shows a slight balance in favor of 1919. We are promised cheaper bread, but it has not yet materialized. Some commodities, however, do show signs of breaking, and cotton, silk and woolen goods especially should feel the effects of the decline in raw materials.

Citrus fruits are in prime condition, and a good year may be forecast. The walnut harvest is progressing, and while the price is lower than last year the net return will be quite satisfactory. Cotton picking is going forward satisfactorily in the Imperial and Salt River valleys, and in view of the promised financing on the part of Los Angeles banks, the growers are not worrying. The rice market is depressed and unsettled, marked by wide price fluctuations and reduced demand.

One of the most difficult problems, as well as one of the last to be solved, will be the question of reduction in the wage scale. This, it is agreed by close observers, is already taking place in a moderate degree, but will have to be accelerated to an appreciable extent before permanency of lower commodity costs can be assured. It is certain that manufacturers cannot continue to pay the present scale of wages and meet the price reductions demanded of them. Therefore, the only way out of their dilemma would seem to be either a reduction of working forces with increased efficiency from the balance, or a temporary suspension of business until the new order comes into effect. This practice is being carried out in a great many industrial centers in the East and the number of plants which are either suspending operations altogether, or at least curtailing output, is increasing daily.

FOOD STORAGE.

Following is the storage report for the week ending November 3, showing the volume of commodities held in Los Angeles warehouses as compared with the same date last year:

Commodities—	Last year.	This year.
*Eggs (cases)	64,307	29,475
Butter (pounds)	215,939	763,082
Cheese (pounds)	1,344,096	647,140
Apples (boxes)	542,750	411,440
Potatoes (sacks)	None	13,280
Onions (sacks)	56,080	53,540

SAN JOAQUIN DIVIDEND.

Board of directors of the San Joaquin Light and Power Corporation met yesterday at the company offices in the Garland Building and adopted a resolution declaring that a dividend of $1.50 per share be paid December 15 on its preferred stock to stockholders of record November 30. At the same meeting a dividend of $1.75 per share was authorized on the prior preferred stock, payable on the same date. This dividend will be known as No. 1.

GOOD BOND MARKET.

A Los Angeles representative of the Harris Trust and Savings Bank of Chicago returned yesterday from an eastern trip, enthusiastic over the bond market.

"The cost of basic raw materials," he said, "which are the dominating influence upon finished goods and products, have already declined sufficiently to make it quite certain that the whole cost of living will be lower early in the next year. To bond buyers and bond holders this fall in commodity prices is a point of primary importance, because it tends in two ways to raise bond prices. First, it releases vast amounts of capital which have been tied up in slow-moving stocks of materials, thus bringing down the rates of interest for the use of money and consequently a rise in price of bonds. Second, the lower the cost of commodities goes, the more the bond holder can purchase with the income from his bonds.

"Another potent and interesting fact to the bond holder is the recent decrease in the wasteful flow of capital into speculative enterprises lacking in stability. This is evidenced by a remarkable reduction in new incorporations. This capital is bound to find its way into the safer type of investment, the mortgage bond, and so stimulate the demand for bonds. Owing to these economic tendencies, it seems rea-

SUGAR QUOTATIONS.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

NEW YORK, Nov. 6.—Raw sugar, centrifugal, 7.52. Refined fine granulated, 10.50@11.00.

PRICES HOLD FIRM ON PRODUCE MARKET.

POTATOES ADVANCE 25 CENTS PER HUNDRED BECAUSE OF LIGHT ARRIVALS.

Although trading was very quiet on the local produce market yesterday, and the movement of all lines was limited, prices remained firm and practically unchanged at the level of the preceding day. Country offerings were light, and good stock moved at Friday's level, with the result that the greater part of the offerings were moved despite the slow buying interest. An upward turn was taken by peas, which were selling at an advance of about 2 cents per pound over the prices of the preceding day. Potatoes also moved up, making an advance of 25 cents per hundredweight during the session. Arrivals from the north have been lighter during the past few days, and as a result the stocks on hand have been reduced, creating a firmer tone.

While the market for onions remained unchanged, a weaker tone was apparent for this commodity. Arrivals continue heavy, and dealers report that there is practically no demand. The movement yesterday was very small. In the shipping market lettuce declined, selling at $2.25 to $2.50 per crate, as compared with $2.50 to $2.65 of the preceding day. A stronger tone developed for tomatoes for eastern shipment, good stock moving readily at an advance of 15 to 25 cents per crate. Cauliflower was unchanged, with demand and movement slow.

Modern Motive Power

Miles and minutes give way before the magic power of electricity. It has revolutionized travel, making it safer, quicker, cheaper.

Electric travel is no longer a convenience—it is a necessity. The State now has some 35 electric railways with over 2000 miles of road. The steam roads, too, are preparing for electrification.

Back in the mountains are extensive and costly hydro-electric developments, engineering marvels, which make possible electric travel.

Hydro-electricity is not only essential to California's industries; but the industries thus dependent upon hydro-electricity are essential to California's prosperity.

Your money invested in California hydro-electric securities is assured of soundness of principal and certainty of income because it is backed by the daily needs of thousands of people.

You will find a full discussion of this subject in our book, "CALIFORNIA HYDRO-ELECTRIC SECURITIES." Send for it today.

NEW YORK STOCK EXCHANGE

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

NEW YORK, Nov. 6.—Dealings in stocks today were unusually lively for a week-end session, but the activity was wholly at the expense of quoted values, representative as well as less favored issues recording additional declines.

Absence of any semblance of support enabled the shorts to press their advantage in the steel, equipment, shipping, motors and oil divisons, extreme reactions ranging from two to seven points. The more severe individual losses were sustained by Vanadium, Replogle and Sloss-Sheffield Steels, Baldwin Locomotive, New York Airbrake, Atlantic Gulf, Mexican Petroleum, Houston Oil, Pierce Arrow and Stromberg Carburetor.

Tobacco, textile and food issues embraced the weaker specialties and seasoned rails, including the prominent features of the midweek, lost one to two points, an unsettled tone ruling at the close. Sales amounted to 575,000 shares.

News of the day was not of a character to inspire confidence. British, French and Italian rates of exchange were in a further state of demoralization and domestic advices tended to confirm known conditions in the textile and allied trades with emphasis on the pronounced increase of unemployment.

Another deficit in actual reserves, comparatively light against the loss of a fortnight ago, was the noteworthy feature of the weekly clearing house statement. Other interesting items of that exhibit included a decrease of $54,255,000 in loans and discounts, a decrease of $25,362,000 in members' reserves at the Federal Reserve Bank, and contraction of $78,323 in net demand deposits.

The bond market stood up fairly well in the face of further liquidation, reactions among popular domestic and foreign issues, notably the Liberty group, being little more than nominal. Total sales par value, $6,275,000.

Old U. S. bonds were unchanged on call during the week.

CARSON OIL BOOMS

Standard Oil Co. Enters Redondo Field! Pays $600,000 for 1200 Acre Leases!

The most extensive Oil Drilling Campaign in the history of Southern California is to center just south of Hawthorne.

Part of the Carson Oil Corporation's 1365 acres adjoin the leases purchased by the Standard Oil Company.

News reports say geologists express confidence that the entire 1200 acres of land cover a VAST LAKE OF CRUDE OIL!

Harry R. Johnson, expert geologist, told the Carson Oil Corporation FOUR MONTHS AGO of this great pool which he believed to underlie the whole Redondo Field.

As a result ,the Carson Oil Corporation is already in the field. It has got off to a flying start while the others are just beginning. Two wells, one adjacent to the famous Hawthorne gasser, the other, on the Dominguez leases near Redondo. They will share in the harvest of California's most promising oil field!

STANDARD OIL'S EXPENDITURE OF $600,000 CAN MEAN ONE THING—THE PRACTICAL CERTAINTY OF STRIKING OIL!

Standard Oil's judgment can be taken. This purchase means a belief in the field—that oil is there.

Carson Oil, with its 1365 acres in the heart of this district, believes with the Standard Oil, that every one of its wells sunk will reap profits.

And yet—Carson Oil is selling its stock at 50c initial offering—par value $1.00. Fast drilling allows little time for you to buy Carson Oil stock. The coupon will bring you full information, if you cannot call and visit the field with us. Mail it now.

The newspaper reprint below caused great excitement in the new Redondo Oil Field. It appeared in the Express No. 5. 1920.

STANDARD OIL SECURES BIG HOLDINGS AT HAWTHORNE

Acquisition of 1200 acres of potential oil-bearing land at Hawthorne, six miles southwest of Los Angeles by the Standard Oil Company is announced by officials of the company today.

The El Segundo plant of the Standard is located within two miles of the new tract, which adjoins the property of the Milwaukee-Fountain Syndicate. The Milwaukee people recently brought in a gas well which has since been taken over by Midway Gas Company. Gas-producing capacity of this well is estimated at 400,000 cubic feet daily by Standard Oil geologists.

$600,000 EXPENDITURE.

It is reported that the deal whereby Standard comes into possession of these new holdings involved an expenditure of $600,000.

Seepages of oil were discovered on this tract several months ago. Standard Oil officials have expressed their belief that rich oil sands will be struck at a comparatively shallow depth.

ACTIVE DRILLING PLANNED

Indications are that great quantities of gas underlie this district. It is said there is a possibility that there may be sufficient gas to supply the near-by cities. An active drilling campaign is to start immediately, according to the Standard Oil Company.

TUOLUMNE GIANT

Our magnificent 20 Stamp Mill ready to crush the ore when the tunnel reaches the vein.

Ore for the Next Twenty-five Years

A bonanza centered between bonanzas in the heart of California's great Mother Lode. The district that has produced over 1¾ billions in gold since '49, and the best is yet to come.

Why This is So

(1) Because the TUOLUMNE GIANT has actually developed in the "Jones Vein" ore chambers glistening with coarse gold at both the 60-ft. and 120-ft. levels and as rich as has ever been mined. It is no mere "pocket," because it shows without sides, top or bottom.

(2) Because upwards of $30,000 has been taken already from this shaft.

(3) Because this particular vein is 50 ft. to 100 ft. wide on the surface, AND there are 4 other good veins proven with satisfactory values.

(4) Because we have lots of this magnificent ore to show here in Los Angeles; and we cordially invite inspection of the mine.

(5) Because TUOLUMNE GIANT ore bodies are developed and proved on adjoining ground right up to our lines to the immense depth of 2400 feet.

(6) Because the adjoining properties have produced ore, $50,000,000.

(7) Because the Mother Lode is the longest, strongest, richest, widest and steadiest gold producer in the Americas.

(8) Because the TUOLUMNE GIANT has every natural facility and complete modern equipment for mining, milling, transportation, electric power lines and the easiest methods for mining and treatment.

(9) Because this great mine is in charge of "Bill" Jones, who is without a superior among all the famous Mother Lode miners, with 34 years' continuous and successful experience there.

The TUOLUMNE GIANT Company is organized for $1,000,000, with 645,000 shares in the treasury, in which all stockholders will have a pro rata interest.

65,000 of these shares are now offered at the par value of $1.00 each

The proceeds will be used to complete a 1200-ft. tunnel, to top all 5 veins at great depth and so allow economical and continuous mining for the next 25 years. About 175 feet will put us to the first vein. This is a straight business proposition of almost limitless potentialities for profit.

PLAN SUGGESTED TO AID BUILDING

Housing Commission of State Makes Recommendations.

Problem No Longer One of the Slums Alone.

Several Propositions Are Made in the Report.

[BY A. P. DAY WIRE.]

SAN FRANCISCO, Nov. 6.—The present State housing laws must be made more flexible and community building projects should be encouraged in order to take care of the "gravest house shortage in California's history," according to the annual report of the State Commission on Immigration and Housing, made public here today.

"The housing problem has ceased to be primarily a matter of slum and has become a middle-class problem," the report said.

"For the purpose of modifying the present housing laws and combating the shortage, it is proposed to amalgamate three present measures into one for presentation to the next Legislature. This measure would adjust present restrictions in order to make building easier and more widespread."

OTHER PROPOSITIONS.

Other plans suggested to relieve the shortage were:

Building of homes by municipalities and selling them on terms.

Formation of housing associations to enable the home-seeker to deal through one single corporation.

Building by private contractors on a scale that would permit of quantity buying, quantity transportation and a greater use of labor.

Formation of more building and loan organizations of the usual type, but offering easier terms.

FORMER RULER OF DUCHY TAKES VEIL.

MARIE ADELAIDE OF LUXEMBURG ENTERS CARMELITE CONVENT AT MODENA.

[A. P. FOREIGN CORRESPONDENCE.]

LONDON, Oct. 28.—The former Grand Duchess Marie Adelaide of Luxemburg, who abdicated as ruler of that nation last January and was succeeded by her sister Charlotte, has taken the veil in a Carmelite convent at Modena, says a Milan dispatch to the Times. She quit as head of the Luxemburg government as the result of opposition of her subjects on the ground that she had been too friendly with the Germans during the war.

According to the information received from Modena, she walked to the convent of St. Theresa to enter it as a novice. Her hair had been cut short and she was dressed simply in blue, with a black silk cap on her head. Accompanied by her mother, sister and two friends, she entered the convent and was received in the hall by Father Cherubino and other ecclesiastics. The former Duchess kissed her mother and sister and knelt, holding white flowers in her hands.

Marie Adelaide listened smiling to an address by Father Cherubino and while the Sisters sang a hymn, and then Father Cherubino pointed to the door. The new novice arose, walked slowly to the door, turned on the threshold to nod smilingly to her mother and then entered the convent.

OBREGON IS BUSY STUDYING ENGLISH.

PRESIDENT-ELECT OF MEXICO ANXIOUS TO FAMILIARIZE HIMSELF WITH LANGUAGE.

[BY A. P. CORRESPONDENCE.]

NOGALES (Ariz.) Nov. 2.—Alvaro Obregon, President-elect of Mexico, is studying English, according to his private secretary, E. Torreblanca.

Most of his textbooks are American magazines which Obregon says he reads to familiarize himself with English as it is used and not as it is set down in academic form.

Mr. Obregon has said that his immediate object is not to speak the language, but to understand English when he hears it spoken. He is able, he thinks, to understand about 70 per cent of what is said to him in English, if the speaker is distinct and unhurried.

In reading the magazines for their English, Mr. Obregon says, he finds valuable data and information regarding current events which cannot be found in book form. Secretary Torreblanca states the President-elect keeps him busy filing data gathered from magazines.

FIND POISONED NEEDLE USED BY BOLSHEVIKS.

[A. P. FOREIGN CORRESPONDENCE.]

BUDAPEST, Oct. 25.—One of the mysterious "poisoned needles" with which Bolshevik agents caused a reign of terror here was found in a street car the other day. It is a modern hypodermic syringe but has the appearance of a small fountain pen, probably to escape suspicion. The needle is extremely small and makes a puncture so minute that it is scarcely felt.

The poison found in the pen is yellowish and unknown to chemists, who are trying to analyze it. Inside the syringe is the trademark in red, "Made in Russia."

CREATES NEW POST.

Guaranty Trust and Savings Bank has created the post of outside representative and appointed thereto Mr. Irving J. Mitchell, for five years sales manager for the Times-Mirror Printing and Binding Company, a resident of Los Angeles for thirty-five years, and with wide acquaintance in commercial and fraternal circles.

In creating this new position bank officials state that recognition is being taken of the fact that a close personal relationship must be established with its customers, and that efficient banking service must have for its basis a better mutual understanding, and an appreciation of the problems of each which can only come through personal contact.

BUSINESS BRIEFS.

Woolworth stores will turn over more than $140,000,000 for the year. October sales show an increase of more than $2,000,000 over last year.

Several tire concerns organized on a war basis are liquidating, but the large, standard manufacturers, such as Goodyear, report improving conditions. The November 1 price revision has had a stimulating effect.

Los Angeles investors are being invited to participate in financing under a money-back-in-a-year guarantee if it is asked for. Nothing is said in the printed matter of these philanthropists about returning any interest on the money.

AMERICAN TERMED AS HUMAN SHUTTLECOCK.

MAN DEPORTED FROM LONDON AS UNDESIRABLE CLASSED BY JUDGE.

[A. P. FOREIGN CORRESPONDENCE.]

LONDON, Oct. 25.—Joseph Newsome, an American subject charged at Willesden court with returning to this country after being deported to America as an undesirable, was described by the magistrate as a "human shuttlecock."

Newsome told the magistrate that after arriving in America, he went before a board to whom he admitted that he had well-to-do relatives in England. He said they gave him a ticket and passport for Liverpool and put him aboard a ship. He told them he was an American subject and had only just been deported from England, but they told him to return to his rich relatives.

The magistrate said it was a remarkable story and remanded him for inquiries to be made at the Home Office.

THE SONG BIRDS HATE JAZZ.

The Ohio State Journal discovered at its State Fair this year that the song bird hates jazz. When musical melodies were played, it says, the scores of canaries and other songbirds joined in, or tried to rival the instruments, as you prefer. But when the air was jazz the birds fell silent.

The songbirds' protest won't end jazz. Not even the protests of the outraged worker night strident but do that. But it's that the song bird, ear for music has since long before to harp and lute, feelings of a good of us, who recogn age likes they must but enjoy a few none the less.—[

VALUE OF MOTOR TRUCK DEPENDS ON HIGHWAYS.

Will be Greatest Carrier of All When Other State Roads Equal Those of California.

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

[illegible] (Mich.) Nov. 4.—Testimony to California's excellent highways was paid by F. L. Henk, executive secretary of the Detroit Transportation Association, in his address, "[illegible] and the Route to the Sea," before the international joint commission at its hearing at the Great Lakes-St. Lawrence Deep Water [illegible] in Detroit. Discussing the [illegible] to be played by a network of [illegible] motor freight lines if the [illegible] St. Lawrence waterway is [illegible] Mr. Henk said in part:

GOOD ROADS.

"Within five years, or the time [illegible] for the completion of the [illegible] Lakes-St. Lawrence project, [illegible] will have a continuous system of splendid hard surface highways reaching from Detroit across the State and touching every important industrial center in Michigan.

"When these highways are completed, what will be simpler than [illegible] from and to the ocean liners [illegible] Detroit or west coast cities [illegible] the import and export [illegible] of the small shipper or the [illegible] that now uses L.C.L. freight [illegible] This will not only effect a [illegible] of cartage charges at both [illegible] the line, but will also save [illegible] Then, too, in case of [illegible] the motor truck will [illegible] fill in the gap and make it [illegible] to meet sailing dates. The [illegible] of the motor truck to perform [illegible] service for rail carriers [illegible] demonstrated last spring [illegible] the switchmen's strike. Thousands of tons of merchandise were [illegible] by motor truck between Detroit and other cities within a radius of 250 miles.

USEFUL HERE.

"The motor truck will also prove [illegible] in filling the gap between newly established ocean [illegible] and other ports in the [illegible] stages. This will [illegible] possible through a combination of motor transfer and warehouse service. Through the use of [illegible] warehouses located at a [illegible] from the ocean steamship [illegible] could be utilized until such time [illegible] warehouses could be [illegible] operation.

"[illegible] there are something [illegible] motor trucks in Wayne [illegible] engaged in commercial hauling. [illegible] Michigan there is a total [illegible] 7000 carrying trucks engaged in the hauling industry. [illegible] trucks would have a [illegible] of almost 20,000 tons. At [illegible] are in operation about [illegible] highway transport lines [illegible] between Detroit and other [illegible] Ohio and Indiana cities. [illegible] 1,000,000 pounds of freight [illegible] between Detroit and points [illegible] 200 miles daily. With [illegible] of the better roads the [illegible] for handling a greater [illegible] via motor truck [illegible] increased.

FAST DEVELOPMENT.

"It is a matter of common knowledge that the long-distance highway [illegible] industry is developing 200 [illegible] faster in territory adjacent to ocean ports than between [illegible] cities. The development [illegible] roads and improved highways [illegible] shows a corresponding [illegible] The State of California [illegible] best highways of any State, [illegible] the fact that this State is located on water with numerous ports. In California the economical radius of motor truck operation is estimated at 500 miles. As a result California has developed inland values.

"Fruit ranches in California, at one time practically inaccessible by railroad and consequently far from paying propositions, are today immensely remunerative as a result of efficient and regular motor truck transportation. Another important factor in motor truck transport of perishables, such as fruit, is the conservation of the product through careful and limited handling, to say nothing of the saving through protection against pilferage.

"Probably the greatest service the motor truck would perform in connection with the new waterway would be in creating efficient port facilities for transferring freight from ocean ships to the rail carriers. We are at present watching the experimental work being carried on in Cincinnati, with demountable bodies and St. Louis with detachable trailers for use in transferring freight between rail carriers. Within the next few years it is expected that the facilities will be developed to a high state of efficiency. Similar systems would no doubt be installed on ocean piers and thus a great saving of time and money would be effected.

Newspaper Party Reaches Scene of Railroad Wreck Without Wasting Time.

BY OTIS M. WILES.

Automobiles are one of the vital necessities of modern journalism. Without them the public would often fail in securing the accurate details of a big disaster a few hours after its occurrence. This fact was proven last Sunday morning, a short time after the Pacific Overland train of the Salt Lake Route plunged over a twenty-foot embankment and killed three persons and injured a score more, when a remarkable run was made to the scene of the wreck by Times representatives in an Essex four.

IN THE DESERT.

The Pacific Overland, eastbound, was ditched in the heart of the Mojave Desert, forty miles beyond Barstow and 180 miles from Los Angeles. Though the wreck occurred early Saturday night, meager reports did not reach Los Angeles until several hours later. As in all big disasters in Southern California, The Times sent members of its own staff to the scene—with instructions to get there first.

The Essex Four was furnished by the H. L. Arnold Company. O. K. Parker, Jr., was at the wheel and Geary was the relief driver. In The Times party were Warden Woollard, Otis M. Wiles and F. M. Litchfield, staff photographer.

At 10:30 Saturday night the press car left the Times Building and shot through the Broadway tunnel. The trip, consuming six hours, took the party through Pomona, Ontario, San Bernardino, over the Cajon Pass, Hysperia, Victorville, Barstow, Dagget and Yermo.

BRIEF HALTS.

Aside from being detained in Pomona by speed cops for a short time and a brief halt between Ontario and San Bernardino to put on skid chains, the trip on the paved boulevards was a perfect one. Thirty miles of the first lap was made through a rain storm.

From Summit eastward the remainder of the run was made on desert road. Despite the rutted condition of the serpentine desert highway, an average speed of forty-five miles per hour was maintained. At Victorville the gas tank was refilled and at Barstow a short halt was made for hot coffee and sandwiches. Another stop was necessary at Dagget to change tires, and at Yermo the party was directed onto a wrong road which carried them fifteen miles off the correct route. A courteous desert rancher, who displayed no animosity at being awakened at 3:30 a.m., directed the party back to the Salt Lake right of way and the last fifteen

CLUB SIGNS NOW DEFINE SPEED ZONE.

After Tuesday There Will be No Excuse for "Stepping" in City Limits.

After Tuesday there will be no excuse for motorists to exceed the speed limit in any section of the city.

Pleas of "I didn't know I was in the fifteen-mile-an-hour zone" will be held invalid by the police, for by that time the Auto Club of Southern California will have completely marked the new speed zones of Los Angeles in accordance with the State law.

SPECIAL SECTIONS.

There are special sections of the city set aside, outside of the central business district, which have the same speed laws as those "downtown."

This is true on Western avenue, just north of Wilshire Boulevard, where there is a well-defined business center.

It is also true on Pico street between Vermont and Western avenues.

CROSSINGS MARKED.

Railroad crossings are marked with "ten miles an hour" signs.

Districts where the speed is twenty miles per hour are indicated at their confines by the club signs.

Twenty-mile zones are indicated by triangular red signs with white lettering.

Fifteen-mile zones are indicated by green triangular signs with white lettering.

LOWER TARIFFS ON IMPORTED MOTORS.

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

NEW YORK, Oct. 5.—Lower tariffs on the importation of European automobiles were favored by the export managers' division of the National Automobile Chamber of Commerce at a recent meeting. Belief that the United States should reciprocate with other countries on regulations governing the sale of motor vehicles to the end that there be the freest possible movement of trade, is the reason assigned for this action. It has been found, said a number of the spokesmen at the meeting, that exports cannot be built up to a maximum unless there is similar movements of cars into the United States. Automotive products exported during the last fiscal year amounted to $224,000,000.

FEDERAL RUNNING FULL-TIME RATE.

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

CHICAGO, Nov. 5.—The factory of the Federal Motor Truck Company is operating on a full-time schedule, according to announcement made by M. L. Pulcher, vice-president and general manager. Sufficent orders are on the books to warrant the assumption that there need be no fear of the curtailment of production in the future. Business conditions, according to Mr. Pulcher, are "getting better fast." The result of the election combined with the feeling of optimism and realization of the present importance of the motor truck industry is having a beneficial and strengthening effect on the industry.

STUDEBAKER SALES SHOW NEAT BOOST.

South Bend Plant Jumps Production on New Light Six Model.

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

SOUTH BEND (Ind.) Nov. 5.—The Studebaker corporation reports sales for the quarter ended September 30 were $27,823,608, an increase of $5,574,309 over the June quarter, but the balance available for common stock dividends was $3.51 a share, compared with $4.71 per share in the preceding quarter.

In connection with the earnings statement A. R. Erskine, president, says: "While our sales for the third quarter exceeded those of last year by 30 per cent, our net profits are less because we have absorbed a substantial part of the abnormal expenses of preliminary production of the new plant at South Bend and made other reserves.

"The new plant is now on a profit-making basis, producing 130 cars a day, which find a ready sale. We have made no curtailment of production at South Bend but instead are building up production to 150 light sixes a day and are striving to hold our operating forces intact."

PREXY HASTINGS IS STILL OPTIMISTIC.

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

CHICAGO, Oct. 5.—While admitting that sales have noticeably slackened, President Hastings of the Hupp Motor Car Company refuses to become pessimistic over the future. At present the winter storage proposition constitutes one of the worries of the automobile maker. Cars must be built in winter months and stored for the summer period.

Last winter this was unnecessary owing to the great demand and the freight condition was the most serious problem.

DORT BODY PLANT WORK UNDER WAY.

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

KALAMAZOO (Mich.) Nov. 5.—Under the direction of William Henderson, manager, operation is under way at the Dort Motor Car Company's body plant here and about 100 men are at work. The force will be considerably increased during the present month.

MACK SALES KEEP AN UPWARD SLANT.

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

NEW YORK, Nov. 5.—September sales of the International Motor Truck Company, manufacturer of the Mack truck, showed an increase of 9 per cent over those of August and a gain of 44 per cent over September, 1919. There was a gain of 24 per cent for the quarter ending September 30.

Blistering the Boards on the Big Basin at Beverly Hills.

Eddie O'Donnel last week hung up the fastest practice lap to date when he eased his fast little Duesenberg around the mile-and-a-quarter bowl in 43⅗s. This is considerably better than a hundred miles an hour and is going some for a little engine with only 183 cubic inches capacity—not much bigger than a Ford. Eddie and his mechanic, Lyall Jolls, are among the favorites in the 250-mile event Thanksgiving Day.

SPEED KINGS TO PRACTICE.

Oldfield and Wagner Chosen as Functionaries.

Eddie O'Donnel Much Touted as a Dark Horse.

Next to the announcement that Senator Harding was the popular choice for President of the United States probably the most important news of the week was the selection of Barney Oldfield to pace the field in the Thanksgiving Day race at Beverly Hills and of Fred Wagner to waggle the flags in the faces of the speed kings.

GREAT PITH.

The Oldfield and Wagner selections were more of a surprise than the choice for President and therefore probably of greater pith and moment. Not a hint had gone forth that the management of the Speedway had the slighest idea of nominating these two worthies, while the general impression that Brother Harding was going to be chosen had been abroad for considerable time.

Fred Wagner is the dark visaged gentleman who started waving flags in the faces of the speed kings when an automobile that could run one mile in succession without being completely overhauled was regarded as an additional wonder of the world. He was the first official starter of the A.A.A. and did the honors at all the big races until just a few seasons ago.

A LANDMARK.

Wagner did the starting out here on the Coast not so far back, featuring himself in short pants and leather puttees before the movies and the United States Army deprived these important garments of their subtle eclat. He officiated at several of the early Santa Monica and Corona road races, and is regarded as one of the landmarks of the racing game.

Barney Oldfield scarcely needs any introduction. He formerly quenched thirsts on Spring street and since tire blowouts became more popular and prevalent than the liquid kind, Barney has been making and selling tires. He is one of the most popular characters that ever shoved a throttle through the floor of a racing

GOODRICH CUTS CASING PRICES.

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

DETROIT, Nov. 5.—The B. F. Goodrich Rubber Company reduced prices on tires, effective November 1. Reductions were made on all pneumatic tires, fabrics and cord and also on pneumatic and solid truck tires. The exact amount of the reduction has not been made public. New prices will be in the hands of the dealers within the next few days.

The Fisk company has also reduced prices.

TIRE INDUSTRY IS STABLE.

A whisk of tumbleweed or a "dust devil" whirling along the prairie may easily start a stampede of cattle costing the rancher some of his finest specimens of stock through injury.

And in the present period of nervous apprehension, similarly insignificant causes are perturbing many substantial business men ordinarily undisturbed by sales problems in normal times. The return of the buying public to saner methods of securing its requirements, and along with it the slackening of the demand for automobiles and automobile accessories, are creating much doubt in the minds of dealers as to the proper merchandising course to pursue.

QUITE TIMELY.

In this connection, the remarks of J. K. Hough, manager, automobile tire sales, for the Goodyear Tire & Rubber Company of California, are timely and interesting.

"This is no time," he says, "to throw to the four winds the good business methods that have been tried out in normal times. Every period of intense prosperity is followed by an interval of depression and this is the trade condition that is being experienced right now.

"The late spring of 1920, the large stocks of tires that were purchased in anticipation of higher prices, and the gasoline shortage in various parts of the country have all played a part in bringing about the present readjustment era, but the old rules still apply, and if employed will work out the solution.

"Late registration figures show that more than 7,000,000 cars are in actual use in the United States, all wearing out tires, and the estimates for the coming year call for nearly 2,000,000 more. Making allowance for 420,000 cars, which will be junked during the year, based on the recognized depreciation figure of 6 per cent per year, 8,580,000 cars will require tires during the coming year. Which means a potential market for about 34,000,000 tires.

"For many months, the Goodyear company has been preparing for the condition that is here. Inventories and overhead expense have been reduced, and production placed on a basis permitting a replenishment of requirements monthly.

"This is the course that is being recommended to all our service stations. In fact it is our belief that the four following rules, if carried out conscientiously, will efficiently take care of the tire user's wants and insure the success of the tire merchandiser.

POINTS OF VALUE.

"(1.) Carry sufficient stock of render prompt service over a period of thirty days.

"(2.) Specialize on one rapidly selling brand. Don't stock three or four brands to sell one tire.

"(3.) Keep stock of slow moving sizes at a minimum.

"(4.) Stimulate business on the basis of better service, better advertising, and more intensive sales effort.

The Newest Thing on Auto Row—the Packard "Single Six."

For the past three days the Packard "Single Six" has held the center of the stage at the Earle C. Anthony, Inc., display rooms. The most favorable comment from all quarters proves that the new model lives up to all advance expectations. Here we have Miss Mary Miles Minter, than whom there are very few whomer, and one of the "Single Sixes" which was delivered to the movie favorite immediately on its arrival.

SINGLE SIX IS ON DISPLAY.

Latest Product of the Packard Factory Stacks Up to Advance Notices.

For the past three days the Packard single six model has been on display on the salesroom floor of Earle C. Anthony, Inc., the State distributor of the Packard lines.

Hundreds of interested motorists have called to inspect the baby Packard and to compare it with other present and past models to see if the Packard standards of construction and design had been followed in the little car.

ALL FAVORABLE.

From the favorable comments heard on the floor of the salesrooms and on the street it has come up to their highest expectations.

The cars are displayed in a style rather different from any display formerly seen in the West. Before an immense velour drop curtain the touring model stands on a slightly elevated platform covered with taupe velour. This neutral floor covering and background leaves the car as the predominant part of the display.

At each end of the curtain stands a tall Spanish cypress. These add a severely simple decorative effect.

Beside the touring model is shown a sedan and a chassis. These three exhibits are all that are shown on the immense floor space of the salesroom.

SPRING SURPRISE.

A few days before the arrival of the cars, a surprise was sprung on Packard distributors all over the country by the factory. An announcement was made that a new introductory price would be made of several hundred dollars lower than set by the factory, prior to the first showing of the cars to the eastern public. Early in October the car was announced and shown in a few of the larger eastern cities. According to a factory official now in Los Angeles, the lower price was made possible by the unprecedented demand for the single six. This demand will neccessitate a greatly increased production, and as Packard has always based their selling prices on cost, plus a reasonable profit, they found that the increased production made necessary by the unexpectedly large demand would permit of lowering manufacturing costs appreciably during the first season.

CLEAN-CUT MOTOR.

Some very interesting features are to be noted in the six-cylinder motor. A very clean-cut cylinder block shows nothing on one side other than oil filler spout, while the other side has only the carburetor equipped with the new invention, the Packard fuelizer.

The fan sets high, being centered on a line with the top of the cylinders and the water pump is directly back of the fan hub.

A glimpse into the mirror under the engine shows a seven-bearing crank shaft and an equal number of bearings on the camshaft. This extra number of bearings, together with the light reciprocating parts is the reason ascribed for the lack of engine vibration even at car speeds of sixty-five miles an hour.

ADVANCE STYLES IN OUR CUSTOM BODIES.

INDIVIDUAL EXPRESSIONS OF TASTE POSSIBLE IN THIS TYPE BODY.

"The designing and producing of custom built bodies today may be likened to a tailor-made garment to measure that will meet every demand of the user," says Robert Thompson, of Robert Thompson Company.

"Quantity production of motor cars which necessarily force factories to continue one style of body throughout a year's production, naturally hinders advance styles in body building. This has been one of the reasons for the great demand by individuals for custom built models because of the desire to have the latest and most stylish body.

"A custom built car does not necessarily mean that it is flashy, but they can be built along later conservative lines yet incorporating many niceties and innovations that would be considered useless to many people yet are a necessity to some individuals."

SPEED KINGS TO PRACTICE.

car and his selection to pace the field in their preliminary lap will be most fortunate. Barney did the same thing for the race drivers at Indianapolis this year and it is most fitting that he should do the same thing for the classic of the western coast.

OFFICIAL PRACTICE.

Official practice for the 250-mile gallop on Thanksgiving Day will start on Wednesday when the track is opened to the racers and closed to the public. Quite a few of the drivers have been out to roll around a few times just to try out their machines, but practice does not begin in genuine earnest until the middle of the coming week.

Most of the speed pilots have spent the few weeks since the Fresno race in completely overhauling their little engines and shooting them full of hop for the big windup of the 1920 racing season. Most of the drivers feel that they haven't succeeded in getting the top limit of speed out of their little chariots heretofore and have been doing everything in their power to add a few miles per hour to their buggies.

Eddie O'Donnel, one of the unluckiest guys in the racing game, has sprung a wonderful comeback this season and is now one of the really popular choices for the big race. Eddie is an "outsider" as far as the 1920 championship is concerned, not having had the best of success in the events which counted for the title, but his showing in other races, particularly at Fresno, gives him away as a most dangerous contender.

His little Duesenberg in the Raisin City event not only carried him into second place only by the thickness of a coat of paint behind Jimmy Murphy, but also brought him the second fastest practice lap and the second fastest lap in the race itself. Last week he stopped off a lap at Beverly in 43 3-5s., better than 100 miles an hour, and then complained that his car wasn't hitting so very well. This is the fastest time made by one of the 183-cubic-inch cars on the local bowl to date.

SITTING TIGHT.

The championship candidates are sitting tight and saying not a word, though the general suspicion is that they are putting in some hard work on their cars. Milton, Murphy and Gaston Chevrolet have been much in the background since the Fresno race, but they will all be there when Oldfield gets out to lead the boys around the track on their preliminary lap.

Just what Ralph De Palma, the only other contender, is doing nobody seems to know. Ralph is the "enigma man" of the racing game. Just after the Fresno race he disappeared, bobbed up suddenly in France when it was announced that he had been named to boss the Ballot racing team, and then as suddenly disappeared once more. He is due to show up in these parts before very long and until he does nobody knows what he is going to drive in the big race.

The ticket sale for the big event is simply enormous, according to Secretary A. M. Young of the Speedway Association. The grand stand seats and boxes have been going like hot cakes and there have been thousand of applications for the bleacher seats. These latter are not reserved and are therefore not on sale at the present time but all reserved seats and parking spaces inside the track are available at once, being on sale at the B. H. Dyas Company and the Automobile Club of Southern California.

COMPLETES LONG TRIP.

David L. Day, now 88 years old, of Cheyenne, Wyo., recently visited his old home at Paris, Ky., covering the entire distance by automobile. In 1858, Mr. Day left Paris driving a pair of oxen to a wagon to try his fortune in the Far West.

MANY STICK IT OUT.

Of the thirty-six automobile manufacturers to declare themselves on the price revision move, eight makes have been reduced, three advanced and twenty-five remain the same.

REAL SHORTAGE SURELY COMING.

Spring Months Will See Demand Ahead of Supply.

So Says Prominent Distributor After Eastern Trip.

Believes Saturation Point Will Never be Reached.

J. W. Leavitt of J. W. Leavitt & Co., California Oldsmobile distributors, after spending several months in the automobile manufacturing centers of the East, has returned very enthusiastic as to the outlook of the automobile business for the coming spring for those who have good automobiles to sell. In an interview Leavitt presented his views as follows:

SEES A SHORTAGE.

"For the opening spring I cannot see anything but a shortage of automobiles, more acute than any shortage that has existed in the past, for the reason that, due to the ill-advised flurry brought about recently in the trade, the automobile manufacturers and parts makers will not proceed with as big productions as formerly.

"Many makers deliberately curtail their production to filling actual orders as they receive them and the parts makers will pursue the same course. This will result in very much decreased outputs, resulting in higher cost to the manufacturer, and I would not be surprised to see several price advances, even from some of those who have recently reduced their prices, under the mistaken idea that reduced prices would stimulate greater business, resulting in perhaps a double business at the same net profit. The results have not fulfilled their expectations.

REVERSE EFFECT.

"Among people well posted in the industry some of the recent price reductions have been characterized as unwise, as these reductions have had just the reverse effect from what was expected.

"The automobile business as a whole has been quite free from profiteering, the advance in price being only sufficient to compensate for the increased cost of labor and the increased Federal taxation. The average inrease in automobile prices since 1914 has been only 12½ per cent. After 1914, when the tremenduous production of motor cars started, these big productions brought about a reduction in prices, but of recent years, after the rise in taxes and labor, many automobile manufacturers advanced their prices only 20 per cent, whereas other commodities advanced, such as farm products 144 per cent, furniture 235 per cent and clothing 260 per cent. These advanced prices of automobiles permitted only a fair and proper manufacturing profit, even with factories that had a large output.

WILL BE LESS.

"Where these outputs are reduced, the profits, of course, will be less and until such time as materials and labor are cheaper there is no hope for a proper and businesslike reduction of automobiles. As the rise in labor followed the rise in the cost of necessities of life, the price of labor will have to follow, not lead, the decline in the price of necessities.

"This reconstruction cannot be brought about quickly, and therefore for the coming year a reduction in the price of motor cars cannot be looked for, barring, of course, the exceptions of occasional reduction by manufacturers who have priced their cars too high, or those manufacturers who wish to realize on their inventory.

NO SUCH THING.

"As E. S. Jordan said: 'The point of saturation in the motor car business will be reached when every person has a motor car and none wears out.' There are in the United States close to 10,000,000 vehicles, and assuming that the average life of a motor vehicle is five years, it would seem that merely the renewal of the existing motor vehicles will call for an output of 2,000,000 cars per year, which is greater than American makers have ever produced, to say nothing of taking care of foreign business."

"For the reasons stated I look for the best business that we have ever had for those who can obtain good motor vehicles to sell, but, believe me, it is going to be a case of 'get them first,' more so than it has ever been before.

"Summing it up as stated, the outlook for motor-car business for the coming spring was never so bright for the legitimate manufacturer and dealer."

TRUCK VALUES SET BY ROADS.

the development of the commercial hauling industry must necessarily assist the truck manufacturing industry and in Detroit and territory within seventy-five miles of Detroit are made more than 75 per cent of the trucks manufactured in the United States."

VIRGIN SOIL.

Arthur M. Harvis, speaking for the Buick Motor Car Company said that the foreign field was virgin soil for the motor car business and with the opening of such a highway as the St. Lawrence, increased export trade was certain. For his company alone, he said, it would be fair to expect a 90 per cent increase in foreign business.

William H. Smith of the Ford Motor Car Company declared that Henry Ford was a staunch supporter of the Great Lakes ocean project. Mr. Smith placed before the commission numerous maps showing the location of Ford plants in their relations to waterways, and the development of Ford interests in this State in their relation to future import and export operations.

Eventually he said the Great Lakes region would be the center of steel conversion for the whole world because of the natural resources in this territory, now being tapped by foreign markets. He declared that it cost $12 to ship a ton of ore to Philadelphia and $24 a ton to ship iron there, whereas with a water route the cost of shipping ore or iron to European ports would be less than half the figures charged for domestic transportation.

RE-SIGNPOSTING HIGHWAYS.

Auto Club Has National Old Trails Route Marked from Kansas City.

On November 15 the National Old Trails highway from Kansas City to Los Angeles will be completely re-signposted.

This is one of the greatest activities of the Automobile Club of Southern California—keeping the transcontinental roads so thoroughly marked that motorists will have no difficulty in finding their way direct to Southern California.

ALL OF METAL.

According to word received yesterday at club headquarters from the crew engaged in the re-signposting work on the N.O.T., all new metal signs will be in place by the middle of the month.

On its return to California, this same crew will re-mark the Lincoln highway with signs bearing the insignia of the Southern California organization. The new signs will be shipped from Los Angeles to railroad points along the route, where the crew with the club truck will pick them up and substitute them for signs which have been defaced or show marks of the weather.

In the meantime, the Auto Club is more than busy fixing up the speed signs in all cities of the southern part of the State to conform with the speed zone regulations of the State law, which supersedes local municipal ordinances.

ON EVERY ROAD.

According to Secretary Standish L. Mitchell, the club has erected and is now maintaining 71,039 highway guide signs. All are uniform in construction, of metal enamel and cover every traveled road in the southern counties and every route leading into this part of the State.

While there is not so much "shooting up" of road signs by miscreants as was the case in the early days of the club's efforts, there is still some tendency along this line, say club officials, which makes the work of keeping the system in repair somewhat more difficult. Other targets should be selected by amateur marksmen which would not work a hardship on the traveling public.

Four club trucks are now engaged in extending the signposting system throughout the counties of Southern California. This work is being carried on from Imperial and San Diego counties to a point as far north as San Luis Obispo.

Los Angeles has been receiving special attention in regard to temporary "educational" signs which point out to motorists in the downtown sections that they must watch for the traffic signals, and also indicating the hours during which parking is prohibited on the business streets. This service is likewise extended to all municipalities in the club's territories which adopt special ordinance in regard to parking.

Public celebrations, when taking place at points outside of the city, are road-marked so that motorists will have no difficulty in locating them.

The support accorded the Automobile Club by car owners makes it possible for the Southern California organization to maintain the most complete highway signing system in the world, and further developments along this line will be announced by Secretary Mitchell for next year.

PROVING TRUCK STABILITY.

"It is quite natural that the big readjustment which is making itself felt throughout the automobile industry should exert a profound influence upon motor truck producers," said W. R. Stoner, manager of the Mack International Motor Truck Corporation. "The producers of passenger cars and trucks represent two distinct types of endeavor and merchandising effort. The line of distinction between them is more or less loosely drawn and still further obscured by the fact that many passenger-car makers are also engaged in the production of trucks.

"The next few months will be a decided factor in the motor-truck industry. Undoubtedly that period will go a long way in proving the contention of truck authorities that their industry is essentially a commercial manufacturing business possessing a stability greater than the passenger-car business. Furthermore, it seems probable that such concerns as the Inetrnational Motor Company, manufacturers of Mack trucks, which devotes its entire effort to truck production, will fare better than the average truck company making an assembled product, or those engaged in passenger-car production, according to a statement appearing in a recent issue of the Wall Street Journal.

"The International Motor Company in its September quarter produced in excess of 1800 trucks, or at the rate of 7500 per year. It is very probable that this volume of output will be maintained indefinitely. In nine months, to September 30, the International Motor Company manufactured between 6200 and 6300 trucks. It devotes its entire facilities, including three large and distinct factories, to building Mack trucks exclusively. It has no other interests and consequently its entire effort and resources are directed to the one end.

"The International Motor Company has made no reduction in its selling price and none is contemplated. A recent announcement was made that all prices were guaranteed against reduction for a period of at least six months from October 1. Most recent reports indicate that the period of guarantee may be extended."

DON'T USE A REAMER.

Never use a reamer on the inside of a pipe. The scale inside a pipe caused by the flux used in welding or brazing is as hard as glass and will turn the edge of any reamer that was ever made.

HAVE AN EDGE.

The average working life of a horse is nine years and 15,000 miles of travel. Motor trucks, in many cases are found to be good after fifteen years of service after having covered from 100,000 to 200,000 miles.

Studebaker

October, the month before election, has been the biggest month in local Studebaker history. Los Angeles invested over a quarter of a million dollars in Studebaker motor cars.

Unquestionably this record is due in part to the fair price policy of the Studebaker Corporation. The spirit of sacrificing present profits to help force a general price reduction met with a hearty response from the public.

Fundamentally, however, the wave of Studebaker popularity that is sweeping the country is due to the satisfaction Studebaker owners are expressing to their friends. The ten thousand people in Los Angeles who best know motor car values will tell you why.

GETS THERE FIRST.

The Times party arrived at the wreck scene long before dawn. Survivors were huddled about the fires and rescue work was still in progress. A relief train loaded with the injured had left a short time before, and five of the seven coaches were piled in a heap at the foot of the embankment.

The Essex four had obeyed the orders of the City Editor. It reached the wreck long ahead of all Los Angeles parties headed for the scene. Though a Salt Lake special, carrying the railway officials, left Los Angeles at 11:40 Saturday night, it did not arrive at the scene until an hour and a half after the arrival of The Times party. The remarkable trip was made possible by the excellent driving of Parker, who piloted the car during the entire journey without relief. A second newspaper party still headed toward the scene of the disaster was met at Yermo by The Times party on its return trip.

Since the advent of things on wheels, newspapers have used every means of conveyance, from roller skates to airplanes to cover stories. But in the event of disasters occurring in remote and almost inaccessible places, such as the heart of the Mojave Desert, the automobile always proves itself to be the most dependable servant of the reporters.

New York City Puts in Order for Heavy Duty Whites.

Sets Record for Single Sale in Motor Equipment.

Will be Used for the Severest Sort of Hauling.

When old Father Knickerbocker puts on his tortoise-shell spectacles and starts on a shopping expedition, it is a pretty safe bet that his purchases will run up to quite a total.

New York, being the largest city of the country, naturally purchases in the greatest quantities. When it became necessary to secure new motor equipment for the street department, an expenditure in the neighborhood of $1,000,000 was necessary to secure the proper equipment. In selecting a make of truck the White was accepted as meeting every requirement, and 212 of these machines were purchased.

HEAVY DUTY.

The trucks are all of five-ton capacity, and are equipped with power dump bodies. Seventy-five of the machines have flusher equipment, and all have double reduction gear drive. The purchase of this number of trucks marks the largest single municipal purchase ever made in motor equipment, and the largest city in America selected the product of the largest truck manufacturer in the country.

These machines will be called upon to meet one of the most severe hauling tests ever undertaken. During the winter months thousands of tons of snow must be moved from the streets to keep traffic open. In adition to this task there is also the matter of keeping up an efficient system of ash and garbage removal. From Brooklyn Bridge to High Bridge these White trucks will daily haul away the great amount of refuse which collects in a city the size of New York.

A NEAT BOOST.

On account of the tremendous expenditure involved, it stands to reason that the purchaser would proceed with extreme caution in making a selection. The past performance of the White truck is its greatest recommendation, and the purchase of 212 trucks by the city of New York is a distinct tribute to its inherent worth.

SMALL COMMERCIAL TIRE FILLS BILL.

SEVERE MILEAGE TESTS PROVE WORTH OF LATEST MILLER PRODUCT.

Answering the insistent demand of operators of light delivery trucks for oversize tire equipment on small rims, the Miller Rubber Company has brought forth a 30x3½ commercial type tire.

The new tire has already proved its worth in severe mileage tests, and, judging from the orders that are pouring into the local branch of the Miller Rubber Company, light truck owners have evidently found what they have been looking for.

"About a hundred of these tires were scattered over Southern California about sixty days ago and submitted to tests on trucks carrying unusually heavy loads and running up excessive daily mileages," said J. O. Ward, manager of the branch. "The results surprised even us and brought such a heavy request from our dealers that several large express shipments have been necessitated from the factory at Akron, O., to hold the fort until a heavy freight consignment, now en route to this city, arrives."

"The commercial type tire has met the crying need for oversize equipment on 30x3½ rims and still avoids the necessity of going as far as 31x4s. However," concluded Ward, "a regular 30x3½ tube is not large enough to be used with this tire. A 31x4 regular tube or a Miller cord tube, size 30x3½, have been found to render the best service."

BANNER MONTH FOR MASTER CARBURETOR.

CONCERTED EFFORT TO CUT OPERATING EXPENSES PROVES A REAL BOOST.

October was the most successful month the Master Carburetor Company has had since it has been in business, according to C. G. Harness, president and general manager of this prosperous Los Angeles concern. "It is very evident that there is a concerted effort on the part of motorists and truck operators to reduce the high cost of living for the Master carburetor is a great fuel saver as has been convincingly demonstrated in this country and abroad," he asserted.

That there is already renewed business activity in evidence in the East, is the opinion of Lyman P. Clark, the company's salesmanager, who has been there for several weeks visiting Master distributors in the large business centers. "Distributors in renewing contracts are stipulating in almost every instance that they be supplied with more carburetors than ever before, which is evidence that they are looking forward to a greater volume of business than was the case when the prosperity wave was at its highest," he writes.

ROESCH RETURNS TO LUBRICATE RACERS.

ALEMITE SYSTEMS TO GIVE BEVERLY HILLS DEMONS EXTRA PEP.

Rushing back from Chicago so that he might supervise the installation of the Alemite system on several of the racing cars that will appear in the big 250-mile race at Beverly Hills on Thanksgiving Day, C. A. Roesch of the Alemite Lubricator Company of California is expected to arrive in Los Angeles during the coming week.

Roesch left for Chicago over a fortnight ago to confer with executives of the Alemite factory there and see if he couldn't increase the size and number of shipments of the system to California. That he has been successful in his mission is evidenced by a letter received at the local establishment in which Roesch states that allotments have been practically doubled. This encouraging informaton will no doubt be pleasant news to dealers in the outlying communities who have had difficulty in meeting the remarkable demand that has sprung up for the Alemite system.

MOTOR CAR ESSENTIAL IN FAMILY LIFE.

Buys His Third Auburn and Gives Reasons Why He Believes Car is Essential.

That the automobile has come to be an essential thing in the daily life of the average family and business man is a generally recognized fact today, but perhaps comparatively few realize the diversity and the value and usefulness of the uses to which it is put.

Dr. G. W. Forrester of Pomona in talking with W. J. Burt of the W. J. Burt Motor Car Company, Auburn distributor for Southern California and Arizona, stated the case after the following fashion:

"This is my third Auburn automobile. I consider an automobile to be just as essential in my line of work as is food or clothing. I use my Auburn beauty six to call on my patients; we also use it as a pleasure car, and upon occasion hitch a trailer to it and haul our walnuts from the ranch to market.

"It is a general means of transportation for both myself and my family, for other products of the ranch than those I have mentioned; likewise for the hundred errands for which transportation is required.

"Besides this, we do four times the traveling than we would do had we no automobile. My other two Auburn cars were wonderfully satisfactory, or I would not have purchased my present car; but the Auburn beauty six is far superior to the preceding models."

CONVERSE RUBBER CO. CUTS TIRE PRICES.

FIGURING AS CLOSELY AS POSSIBLE TO MEET THE POPULAR DEMAND.

One of the first tire companies to announce a revision of their prices downward is the Converse Rubber Shoe Company of Malden, Mass., where skilled rubber craftsmen have been making rubber products for three or four generations.

This manufacturer is making announcement of reduction in price to the motoring public this week, and although they feel that the present manufacturing costs have not changed there is a disposition on their part to figure as closely as possible to comply with the general demand for lower prices.

Mr. Mark W. Shaw, distributor for California and Arizona, states that in his twenty-five years' experience in the rubber business he has never come in contact with a more progressive manufacturer than Mr. Mark Converse, head of the Converse Rubber Shoe Company. Tires made by them, he believes to be the most attractive in appearance of any tire made; he is sure that they cannot be excelled in non-skid qualities, and for tread wear they are wonderful.

Mr. Shaw has established in the past all the agencies he could get goods to supply. He has succeeded, however, in getting an increased allotment for the coming year and is therefore open for a few more agencies in this territory.

SPRING SUSPENSION GETTING ATTENTION.

OVERLAND ENGINEERS SOLVE SOMETHING ENTIRELY NEW IN THIS LINE.

When the first motor cars were built, the thing that was thought about least was the spring suspension system. The earliest cars were equipped with buggy springs because the inventors knew no other means of hanging a body onto a chassis. But, year after year has seen a steady improvement on the spring suspension of motor cars.

"Then last year the Willys-Overland Company engineers evolved a brand new spring suspension system that is unique," says H. B. Hatch of the service department of the local branch of the Willys-Overland Pacific Company. "The wheelbase of the car is short, but the springbase is long, and that tells the story.

"For many years engineers have been experimenting with various types of spring suspension systems and they finally solved the problem by bringing the springs to a point at both ends of the frame. This is the triple system now used on the Overland four which makes it ride so easily.

"The parts department is the best place to find out how springs stand up in point of service, and our records here show that the new Overland spring suspension has phenomenally few records of breakage or trouble of any sort. It is a fact that we have not replaced a single spring on any Overland cars in use in Southern California except because of collision damage.

"The San Fernando branch reports a similar state of affairs, having sold only five springs since the first of January, and all of these were to replace springs broken in collisions."

LAST TWO MONTHS HIT A HIGH MARK.

RECORD NUMBER OF DELIVERIES MADE BOTH HERE AND IN SAN FRANCISCO.

As an indication of the trend of the high-class automobile business it is interesting to note that the months of September and October were the biggest months, in the amount of business done, that the Don Lee-Cadillac organization in California has ever experienced. September was a record month, and October instead of showing a let-up was a still bigger month. In September the San Francisco branch delivered 122 cars and in October Los Angeles delivered 123 late model Cadillacs. For October the Northern California territory took 105 Cadillacs, making 227 deliveries for twenty-six working days, or an average of over eight and three-quarter cars a day.

"We are especially pleased to have been able to deliver so many Cadillacs during the past few months," said Don Lee, "not only for the business itself, but it has enabled us to catch up materially on back orders and placed us in a position to make very early deliveries on many of the popular models."

APPARENTLY THEY ALL WANT TO CAMP.

Production itself has already been established on a basis of thirty cars per day.

Reports from all sections of the country indicate that 1920 will be the greatest touring year since the automobile was made a practical road vehicle.

People have found there is quite as much to be seen in domestic as in foreign travel, and are learning their own country through the automobile.

As a result of this desire to travel, and to camp by the roadside on occasion, automobile makers have found it necessary to build cars to carry baggage safely and at the same time not crowd the passengers.

FRED RYAN PLUCKS A HANDSOME PLUM.

Ten shares of General Motors Company stock were annexed by Fred W. Ryan of J. W. Leavitt & Co., as a reward for leading the local Oldsmobile sales force in the total of sales at the end of a three months' contest. Though Ryan got away to a bad start in the contest, he made a whirlwind finish, and came under the wire with a margin of several deals to spare. His victory was not a reversal of form, either, for he was high man on the local Oldsmobile sales force for the year of 1919.

GENIUS LEAVES TO NOVICES THE FANTASTIC AND OSTENTATIOUS, AND ITSELF PIERCES DIRECTLY TO THE SIMPLE AND THE TRUE

Those of us who lay no claim to genius may take guidance from genius.

Here at the Peerless factory we have bent our best efforts to the attainment of simplicity, in our organization as in our product.

Red tape and the trappings of industrial oligarchy find no place here in our relations with one another. The trappings of show are barred from the Peerless Motor Car.

Though we may not hope to build the mythical "Perfect car," we may approach it, and we believe that the Peerless Two-power range Eight stands today very far out on the road to what may be called the perfection of human attainment in motor car building.

It has been five years since we reached, in the development of the Two-power range Eight, what we had striven for as our ideal and completely rounded out performance of efficient simplicity in a motor car.

Since then we have refined this car —but we have never found it necessary to change it fundamentally.

The present Peerless Two-power range Eight expresses, more eloquently than we can do in words, the real spirit of our organization—to "pierce directly to the simple and the true."

This Isn't Just an Automobile, It's a Creation.

It's the fourth one of the same make—Chalmers—to be owned by P. C. Holland, a prominent Los Angeles paper broker, since 1911. He fixed this one up according to his own ideas and it certainly attracts attention wherever it goes.

H. J. C. MILLER NEW WINTON MANAGER.

General Manager Churchill announces that H. J. C. Miller of New York has been appointed sales manager of the Winton company, with headquarters at Cleveland, and will take complete charge of the sales department on November 1.

Mr. Miller attended the Winton school for salesmen in 1906, and immediately thereafter became a salesman at the Winton New York branch, then under the management of Mr. Churchill. In 1915 Mr. Miller was appointed New York sales manager, and in 1919, he succeeded Charles M. Brown as New York branch manager, in which capacity he also handled Winton export interests.

Gets His Fourth Chalmers; Tells Why He Buys 'Em

With the recent purchase of a Chalmers touring car, P. C. Holland, broker of this city, brings the total number of cars of this make that he has consistently owned and driven since 1911 to four. A special paint job of light tan, a Burbank top and disc wheels has made this particular Chalmers exceptionally attractive, according to R. O. Gould, Chalmers retail sales manager for the Greer-Robbins Company, Chalmers distributors for Southern California.

Holland, a paper broker and also the representative of several paper mills, said: "When I say that I have consistently owned and driven a Chalmers for about the last ten years, it is satisfactory evidence of what I think of Hugh Chalmers's engineering. I don't know how many thousands of miles I have driven in that period, but I do know it is a whole lot and enough for me to know the car thoroughly.

"I have found my operating expense to be low while my bills for repair work have only been such as one would expect to have through keeping a car in first-class condition. I don't believe neglecting a car in any way for in the long run it is more expensive while it destroys considerable of its trade-in value. Have a car gone over just so often and you have nothing to be concerned over when you start on an extended trip."

GETTING IN SHAPE FOR WET WEATHER.

MOTORISTS DOING ODD JOBS ON CARS THAT WILL BENEFIT LATER ON.

"With the approach of winter, the season is here when we expect the occasional shower, and there is always a movement among motorists to have their cars put in condition for wet weather. There are, perhaps, many small repair jobs, which the motorists can do themselves, which require no degree of real skill, but which garage men charge dearly for doing.

- business is naturally a barometer of activity on the part of car owners," says Hal Baker, sales manager of the Western Auto Service Agency, "for it is here that motorists purchase their tools, supplies and equipment, and we can quite easily foretell what kind of work they are doing. There is no question, but that more Los Angeles car owners are caring for the mechanical condition of their cars, than ever before in the history of local motoring.

"Two things have contributed largely to the great increase in the number of motorists who adjust and repair their own cars. The higher cost of labor in automobile shops is the first incentive to 'do it yourself,' and secondly, a great deal of pleasure is derived from keeping your car in the finest possible condition."

WHY BRAKES REQUIRE CAREFUL ATTENTION.

NOT ONLY DANGEROUS BUT CUT TIRE MILEAGE INTO SEVERAL PARTS.

"Quick stops to avoid collisions at street corners are quite frequent occurances with most motorists," says A. A. Derry, manager of the Los Angeles Motor Supply House, Inc., agents for the Samson tire.

"Next time that you have to jam on the foot brake and reach for the emergency, it may pay you to stop just for a moment and see what sort of a track was left by your sudden stop.

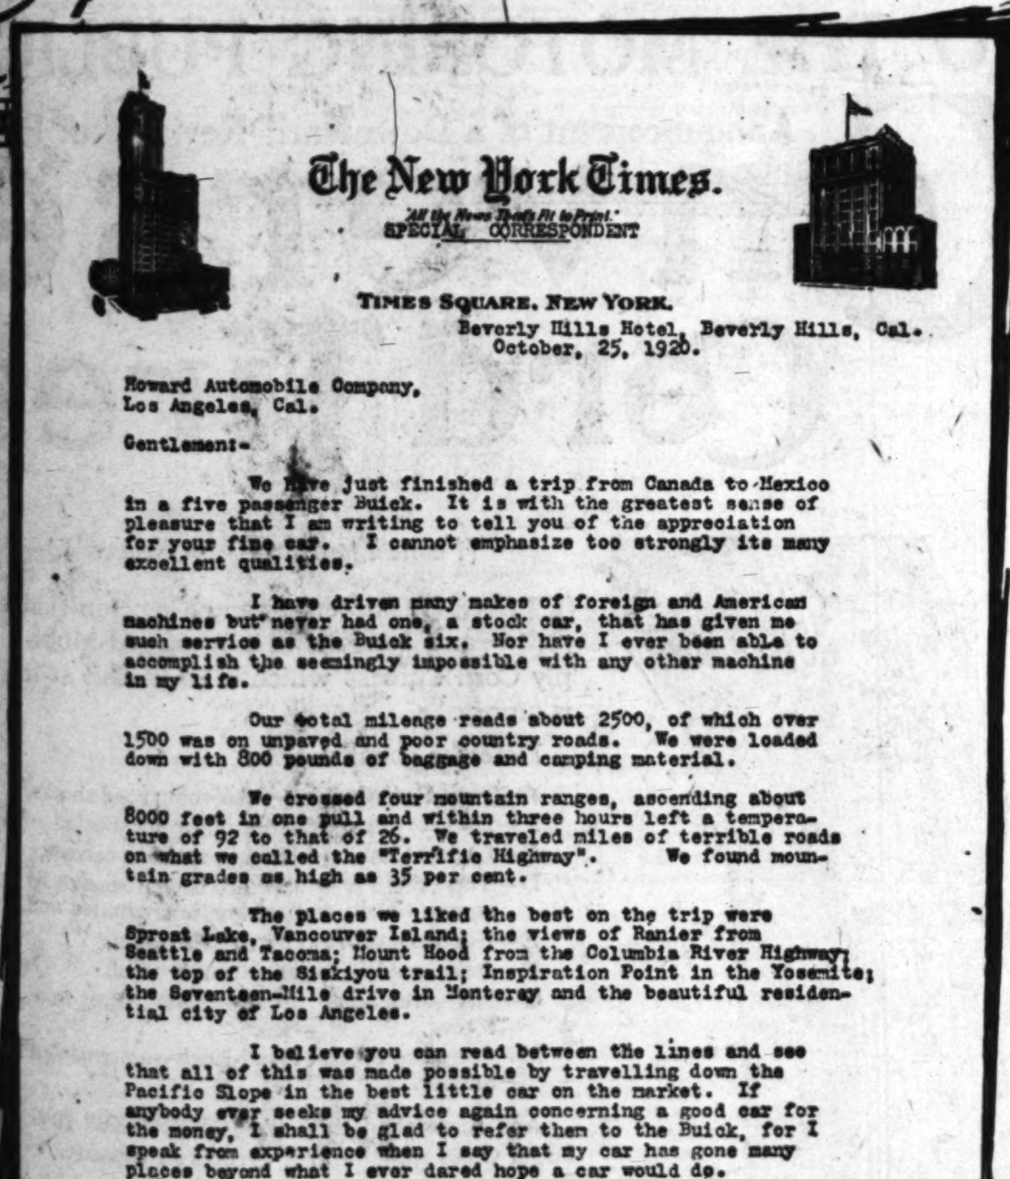
"In more than half of such cases, there is a black streak of burned rubber on the asphalt. That should be instant and constant warning to you to have your brakes adjusted. Not only are you wearing out one tire with unnecessary rapidity, but you are endangering your safety and that of others. On a wet street brakes that take hold unevenly are a sure source of skidding. Moreover, some occasion may arise when you will need the utmost grip of both tires on the pavement to stop your car before it does any damage. It is also well to have non-skid tires on your car, especially during the rainy season at least on your rear wheels."

CELEBRATE MARNE BATTLE.

In Paris, taxicab drivers recently celebrated the sixth anniversary of the Battle of the Marne. Many remain of the thousand drivers requisitioned with their machines to transport 5000 troops for a counter-attack on the German army and made possible the victory of the greatest battle in his-

Buick the choice of a Vanderbilt

THIS letter tells a particularly significant story. Cornelius Vanderbilt, Jr., could have purchased, just as easily, a car costing twice or three times as much. He already owned three high-priced American cars and one of foreign make. But it was a hard trip in a strange land ahead of himself and Mrs. Vanderbilt. He had to be certain that the car in which he placed so much dependence would never fail him. His choice was the Buick!



The New York Times.
"All the News That's Fit to Print."
SPECIAL CORRESPONDENT

TIMES SQUARE, NEW YORK.

Beverly Hills Hotel, Beverly Hills, Cal.
October, 25, 1920.

Howard Automobile Company,
Los Angeles, Cal.

Gentlemen:-

We have just finished a trip from Canada to Mexico in a five passenger Buick. It is with the greatest sense of pleasure that I am writing to tell you of the appreciation for your fine car. I cannot emphasize too strongly its many excellent qualities.

I have driven many makes of foreign and American machines but never had one, a stock car, that has given me such service as the Buick six. Nor have I ever been able to accomplish the seemingly impossible with any other machine in my life.

Our total milenge reads about 2500, of which over 1500 was on unpaved and poor country roads. We were loaded down with 800 pounds of baggage and camping material.

We crossed four mountain ranges, ascending about 8000 feet in one pull and within three hours left a temperature of 92 to that of 26. We traveled miles of terrible roads on what we called the "Terrific Highway". We found mountain grades as high as 35 per cent.

The places we liked the best on the trip were Sproat Lake, Vancouver Island; the views of Ranier from Seattle and Tacoma; Mount Hood from the Columbia River Highway; the top of the Siskiyou trail; Inspiration Point in the Yosemite; the Seventeen-Mile drive in Monterey and the beautiful residential city of Los Angeles.

I believe you can read between the lines and see that all of this was made possible by travelling down the Pacific Slope in the best little car on the market. If anybody ever seeks my advice again concerning a good car for the money, I shall be glad to refer them to the Buick, for I speak from experience when I say that my car has gone many places beyond what I ever dared hope a car would do.

Very truly yours,

Cornelius Vanderbilt Jr

CAMP GROUNDS IN MILL CREEK.

Increase in Motor Travel Makes It a Necessity.

Will Have Every Convenience for Automobile Parties.

Eliminates Possibility of Many Forest Fires.

[SPECIAL CORRESPONDENCE.]

REDLANDS, Nov. 6.—Big auto camping grounds in the Mill Creek Canyon for the campers going into the San Bernardino Mountains are now planned by the Chamber of Commerce as a result of a suggestion made by R. H. Charlton, the forest supervisor. He has written the following letter to the Chamber of Commerce here:

RECREATION TRAVEL.

"The service realizes that within the past few years there has been an enormous increase in recreation travel, and particularly is this true of automobile travel on our Southern California mountains. Within the same period, cities, towns and various organizations have awakened to the necessity of providing for this travel and public camps are now found within, or adjacent to, most of our wide-awake communities.

"Last season we estimate that over 1,000,000 pleasure seekers visited the national forests of California and that fully 85 per cent of the automobile tourists were prepared to camp. This enormous camping problem renders it necessary, both from the fire protection and the sanitation standpoint, that public camps be established and maintained on our forests, and as Congress appropriates no money to our service for recreation or development work we find it impossible to adequately serve the camping public except through financial co-operation on the part of national, civic and public organizations.

"To date, various organizations, such as motor-car dealers' associations, Southern California Auto Club and chambers of commerce are co-operating with us in this work, and the purpose of this letter is to ascertain whether or not your organization would assist in the development of a public camp located in Mill Creek, very near the lower control. As you know over 50,000 people entered Bear Valley by way of the Mill Creek road last year and we find that many of these people enter Mill Creek in the evening, camp there overnight in order that they may make the early-morning control and the grades in the cool of the day.

"In addition to meeting the demands of this class of tourists there are many campers who want to go into the mountains for a week or two and who now camp scattered here and there along the creek bottoms with no provision made for their comfort.

"Looking at it from a selfish standpoint, campers scattered here and there are a far more serious fire menace than if they were congregated in one spot, where the ground could be cleared, fireplaces could be erected and they could be more closely watched by the rangers. From a sanitation standpoint, it is obvious that conditions are far better on a site provided with latrines, garbage pits and incinerators.

NATURAL ADVANTAGES.

"The site we had in mind is about two acres in extent, covered with trees, adjacent to an auto road and with water close by. Our development work would consist of clearing the ground of brush, the construction of tables and benches, two latrines, the digging of garbage pits, and the installation of incinerators. To do this work I estimate will cost $400, in addition to the labor, which will be done by the forest rangers.

"The Motor Car Dealers' Association have already developed one camp site on Bear Lake. I anticipate the Bear Valley Chamber of Commerce will develop another one on the south side of the lake, and with this one provided at the foot of the control. I feel that our Bear Valley traffic will be fairly well taken care of "A committee of those interested will inspect the site soon and make plans for the camp.

"When the committee comes up to look over the site, I shall be glad to make the necessary arrangements for some representative of the forest service to accompany you, if you will but let me know on what day you want to go.

"I might add that should you develop this site, it might be known as the Redlands C. of C. public camp site, if you so desire.

"Very truly,

[Signed] "R. H. CHARLTON."

DECIDED ADVANCE IN STUTZ PRICES.

INCREASING MATERIAL AND LABOR COSTS MAKE MOVE A NECESSITY.

Never before or during the war, have things seemingly been upset in the automotive world as during the past sixty days. While a good many of the motor car makers announced decided drops in the prices of their products about an equal number announced that there would be no drop in price while others even intimated an increase in price. Since the flurry in the motor car market, two cars have advanced in price, and now comes the Stutz Motor Car Company of Indianapolis with an announcement of an advance in Stutz prices to take effect November 20. This news adds the third to the list.

For some time, Stutz dealers all over the country have been warned of an increase in Stutz prices and a letter received by Walter M. Brown, local distributor last week made things very definite. On and after November 20, Stutz prices will advance $400 on each model, the letter stated. According to officials of the Stutz Motor Car Company, this action has become imperative in the face of continued advances in labor and materials.

It is a known fact the Stutz cars advanced less in price during the war period than any other car in the Stutz class, the factory realizing the unsettled conditions and inevitable readjustment period to come. Sutz price was held down with a view of a decrease in production costs, immediately after the war. As such a condition has not come about, and as there are no indications of such a decrease in manufacturing costs, the Stutz company has been forced to increase their prices.

Ralf P. Dignowity.

Who last week took over the retail selling franchise for Briscoe cars in the city of Los Angeles.

Dignowity Takes Briscoe Agency for Los Angeles.

One of the outstanding features of this week's motor trade news, is the fact that Ralf P. Dignowity, proprietor of a large and well-known automotive repair establishment, has extended his activities to the selling of automobiles and has secured the retail selling franchise for Briscoe cars in the city of Los Angeles.

Looking at the deal from the service viewpoint, few men have entered the automobile business in this city better equipped than Dignowity. Beginning with a comparatively small automotive repair shop some seven years ago, his business has grown to a point where it now necessitates a huge building at 1021-23 South Grand avenue. The establishment, it may be added, enjoys the reputation of being one of the finest and cleanest repair shops in the city.

While service is undoubtedly a vital factor in the success of automobile merchandising, Dignowity realizes that a strong sales organization is something not to be overlooked and is combing the field carefully for live-wire salesmen. The aggressive sales force he is getting together, combined with the splendid service facilities already mentioned should send the Briscoe off to a flying start under its new local management.

Dignowity was awarded the Los Angeles Briscoe franchise by Frank O. Renstrom, distributor of the car in California, Arizona and Nevada, who made the change in order to devote the efforts of his organization to the wholesale end of the business.

"Many times before this we had made the trip from Denver around to Steamboat Springs and back again, and they are now building a five-mile link, which will make a loop from Denver to Steamboat Springs and return by way of Grand Lake. When completed this will make a 210-mile drive and will open up one of the grandest of nature's wonderlands.

"It was with some regret that Mrs. Miller and myself left the scene of our usual vacations, and headed westward to the Pacific Coast.

"Climbing the Rocky Mountains from the Denver side at Berthoud Pass, there is an eighteen-mile climb with an average gradients in excess of 12 per cent. Anyone who is at all familiar with mountain driving knows that this is some task to impose upon a motor car. The Oakland that I was driving caused me no difficulty whatever, due I think to the manner in which the car was handled, as my long experience in mountain driving has taught me many tricks that save the motor car from the usual knocks and stresses.

"After leaving the Rocky Mountains, the highway takes you over the high plateaus of Utah and Nevada, and gradually you wind up over the Sierra Nevada Mountains, then down into the broad San Joaquin Valley, where concrete highways greet you, and you will forget all about the hardships that you have put up with over the deplorable roads of Utah and Nevada, where for miles and miles, all you see is sagebrush and an occasional coyote, or a hungry-looking rabbit."

A. R. Miller, president of the Los Angeles Oakland Motor Company, who recently made the trip from Denver to Los Angeles in an Oakland Six. He reported some wonderful scenery on the way here and is enthusiastic over the possibilities for wonderful highways through the mountains. The Oakland hit every grade on the route without a murmur.

CONTROL UNITS IN THE CAR'S MAKEUP.

CONSEQUENTLY COSTS ARE HELD DOWN AND REAL QUALITY IS A CERTAINTY.

A new gigantic amalgamation of the United States Automotive Corporation assures the Lexington leadership in the automotive industry, according to word received by W. F. Seel of the Charles H. Kaar Company, distributor of the Lexington here.

This amalgamation is the natural result in the working of the economic laws of operating. The better a manufacturer controls the units that enter into his product the better he can figure cost, determine quality and serve the public. With this in sight the Lexington have prepared for tomorrow, for without that control cost could not be kept at a minimum.

The United States Automotive Corporation allies various companies contributing to the Lexington under one management so that they all work as a unit for the same purpose. It co-ordinates all plans, materials, brains and labor; it eliminates lost motion, waste and inefficiency and it makes the Lexington even greater in size, facilities, engineering skill and resources. Above all, it controls its sources of supplies, and makes it possible for vast manufacturing economies.

DEPRECIATION IS AN ITEM TO WATCH.

NO MATTER WHAT THE UNIT USED THIS FACTOR MUST BE CONSIDERED.

"Depreciation is a very important item and must be taken into consideration when buying hauling units," says J. Jerome Canavan, a transportation specialist who was sent out to the Coast as a direct representative for the manufacturers of the famous Walker electric truck.

"Whether they are buying large gasoline trucks, or electric trucks, sufficient consideration should be given to the rate of depreciation that must be required to charge against the unit," says Mr. Canavan. "If the buyer of transportation would give this one item, depreciation, more thought, they would save themselves thousands of dollars yearly.

"I just received a letter from the Jenney Manufacturing Company, petroleum refiners. They state that their electric trucks show on their records that the rate of depreciation should be on a basis of fifteen years, or 6 2-3 per cent per year, and this statement comes from a concern whose business is primarily the manufacturing of fuel for gasoline vehicles."

P. A. LORD TAKES TRIP TO ISLANDS.

PLANS TO TACKLE EVERY ROAD IN SIGHT WITH HIS OWN VELIE SIX.

Mr. P. A. Lord of the Lord Motor Car Company, Velie distributors here, has left with Mrs. Lord and a party of friends, for a tour of the Hawaiian Islands. They expect to be gone for several months, and have had a new Velie shipped to the islands for use in touring over the famed roads of Hawaii.

Mr. Lord expects to cover every made road in the islands before returning, and will combine business with pleasure in a careful study of motor car merchandising conditions. There are already a number of Velie cars in use in Honolulu, and recently the Lord Motor Car Company has had a number of requests for information, prices and dates of possible delivery from various points in the Pacific, which has led Mr. Lord to believe that there is a great and almost untouched market for American-made motor cars in the islands of the Pacific and in the Orient.

It is possible that Lord will visit the Orient before returning home, but this has not been definitely decided upon.

FLEXIBILITY NOW THE REAL THING.

GETTING IN AND OUT OF TRAFFIC REQUIRES A CAR WITH LOTS OF PEP.

Flexibility, probably the most important factor to be considered in city driving, is a problem which now, more than ever before, is engaging an unusual amount of attention from motor car manufacturers.

The tremendous increase of automobile traffic in city thoroughfares demands a car whose responsiveness and length will permit it to dart in and out of the traffic as openings present themselves, and one that can maintain constant headway where every foot gained is as good as a mile, according to House & Meyer, Inc., Maibohm six distributors.

"Cars of moderate wheelbase that permits turning within a short radius and that handle easily are especially in demand for city driving," a member of the distributing concern commented, adding, "and many business men find it expedient to own a car of this nature for their trips about the city, while retaining a heavy car of long wheelbase for extended tours.

"The short wheelbase and facility of operation is particularly appreciated in crowded quarters, and in the process of 'warping' into the parking place. This particular maneuver requires a car that quickly answers to every wish of its driver, and the consequent twisting, turning and backing-up demonstrate the mettle of both car and driver."

APPERSON VIEWS ON PRICE CUT.

The Apperson Brothers' Automobile Company of Kokomo, Ind., through its president, Edgar Apperson, made an announcement stating their views on the price situation.

"Apperson prices will not be reduced," states Mr. Apperson. "The present prices are guaranteed until July 1, 1921, and there is little likelihood of there being any change then unless it is to increase them."

ESSEX beats wreck special

Thrilling Night Ride

THE night of the wreck (October 30) The Times phoned me, "Can I have a dependable, fast car for a rush trip to a big railroad wreck?" "Yes," I replied, "and it will be an Essex, which has just come back from a fifteen-hundred-mile desert trip."

In spite of the terrific grind it had just been through that Essex was fit to go. At 10:40 that night a special fast train left with railroad officials. The Essex left at the same moment with two reporters, two photographers and a driver. The destination was the wreck on the Salt Lake, far out on the desert, northeast of Barstow.

Through the night the railroad special rushed on. "A cleear track," was the order—40, 50, 60 M. P. H. it sped.

And the Essex? From Los Angeles to San Bernardino was even with the locomotive. Then came the climb over the Cajon Pass. On sped the train and Essex, with Essex ever gaining. At San Bernardino it began to rain. The storm continued throughout the mountain run. Soon the train reached the real grade and the Essex, too, but the mountain trail was many times steeper than the railroad grade. At the summit, 4150 feet above sea level, the train was not in sight.

The Essex reached the wreck, was there two hours for photographs and was nearly back to Barstow before it met the outgoing special.

The Essex time to Barstow, 145 miles was three hours and a half, including stops; (1) by speed cop at Pomona; (2) to put on chains at San Bernardino, and (3) for gas at Victorville.

This is another demonstration of the dependability in Essex cars. They are noted for maintaining schedules, for power and speed to meet every emergency and for wonderful comfort over rough roads at high speed.

These are the qualities which carried Essex four times from ocean to ocean faster than ever driven by motor car, averaging 4 days, 21 hours, 32 minutes for each trip. Essex also holds the World's Endurance Record of 50 hours continuously over 60 miles an hour, a total of 3037 miles, never equalled by any other car, an incident only in Essex performance.

Some Have Cut Prices—
Others Have Guaranteed Prices

Velie

HAS DONE BOTH!

ON SEPTEMBER 29, 1920, the prices of the Velie car were reduced nearly $300 per car. Cord Tire Equipment was added to the Velie 34, making it the lowest priced Six with cord tire equipment on the market.

Then came the step that clearly demonstrated VELIE LEADERSHIP!

The NEW LOWERED PRICES were GUARANTEED AGAINST DECLINE prior to the first of next July. A Velie Bond is now given to each purchaser of a new Velie car, positively guaranteeing him a rebate IN CASH of the full amount of the decline should it be found possible further to reduce prices on present Velie Models prior to July 1, 1921.

Thus far no other maker has taken this important step of GUARANTEEING the NEW, LOWER price against decline. As many times heretofore, VELIE LEADS THE WAY!

The model 34 is the Velie that broke into Yosemite early this year and captured the famous Dyas cup, blazing the difficult Wawona trail for the cars of the Camp Curry Run. Later a Velie 34 put big, powerful cars to shame in the famous climb up Pike's Peak. Both of these Velie feats have been heralded the country over as among the greatest motor car feats of this year.

Then came the sharp price drop on this Velie 34, lowering the price from $1875 to $1660—delivered, war tax paid. Then CORD TIRE EQUIPMENT was added, and the NEW LOW PRICE OF $1660 GUARANTEED AGAINST FURTHER DECLINE prior to July 1, 1921.

Is it any wonder this Velie is selling practically as fast as we can get them from the Velie factories.

The Model 48 is the handsome Velie touring car of standard size, larger, more luxurious, more powerful than the model 34, and easily comparable with the highest priced sixes on the present market. It is the Pattern Car, that has set motor car styles for years to come. Before the reduction its price was $2325. Now it is only $2165, delivered, war tax paid—and this NEW LOW PRICE IS GUARANTEED against further decline prior to the first of next July. The Velie Bond goes to each purchaser.

MANAGES TO GET WHAT IT'S AFTER.

DISTRIBUTORS HAVING CASINGS BUILT ON THEIR OWN SPECIFICATIONS

To "want what you want when you want it" has always been a strong point with Los Angeles business institutions dealing in various articles necessary to efficient operation of motor cars.

It has not always been the case, however, of being able to "get it," though in so far as the tire trade is concerned a Los Angeles concern, Guasti, House & Giulii, Inc., has "gotten what it went after."

All of which is to say that as a tire distributing concern it is now supplying the trade in Southern California and Arizona, the territory controlled by the company, with Perfection tires built on specifications supplied by the distributors.

Upon the arrival of J. Ralph Campbell, Guasti, House & Giulii sales manager, recently at Fort Madison, Iowa, the Perfection factory had just completed work on a set of tires built in strict conformance with specifications the distributors supplied. And in the two weeks which have elapsed since that visit the factory had gotten into production on the tire and shipments are being rushed forward daily to the distributors.

"As distributors we are concerned first of all with our reputation for handling nothing but dependable merchandise," Campbell asserted, adding, "and this was why we determined that tires we are to handle must meet in every way our idea of what a tire should be."

TWENTY-ONE CARLOAD SHIPMENT IS MADE.

Popularity of the Cole Aero-Eight models in Rhode Island is attested by the fact that it is demanding its Coles in carload lots.

Rhode Island, despite the fact that it is the smallest State in the union, boasts 44,000 motor-car owners, or at the rate of one car to every 14.7 residents of the State. And in this large number of cars the Cole is listed as among the most popular.

One of the largest single shipments of motor cars ever sent out by the Cole Company left the big Indianapolis factory recently for Rhode Island. It consisted of twenty-one railroad cars destined for the Cole Motor Car Company of Rhode Island with headquarters at Urovidence R. I.

Salient Six is There as a Time Saver.

It is a paying proposition for every business man to analyze his organization and determine if the the automobile could not be used to "speed up" work. The motor truck has proved itself invaluable in commercial lines, and the pleasure type of car is rapidly gaining favor as a force for developing outside fields.

The value of covering territory in an efficient manner is a very important element in any business, and the pleasure car lends itself admirably to this phase of work. As an example of the modern application of this type of machine to field work, the General Petroleum Company has a fleet of fourteen Stephens salient six machines in operation in the territory surrounding Los Angeles.

Saving of time is the great outstanding benefit to be derived from the use of this type of machine. It has been said that time is money, for the more time that is saved the greater is the effort which may be concentrated in developing the business. The application of this principle works in a number of ways, such for instance, as enabling the outside representatives to cover a given territory in a very much shorter time than would be possible by any other means of transportation. This enables a more comprehensive covering of territory and not only may the regular established line of trade be furnished with the utmost service, but the time which is saved by moving rapidly from place to place means that additional prospects may be called upon, and the law of averages makes certain that a number of these prospects will become customers.

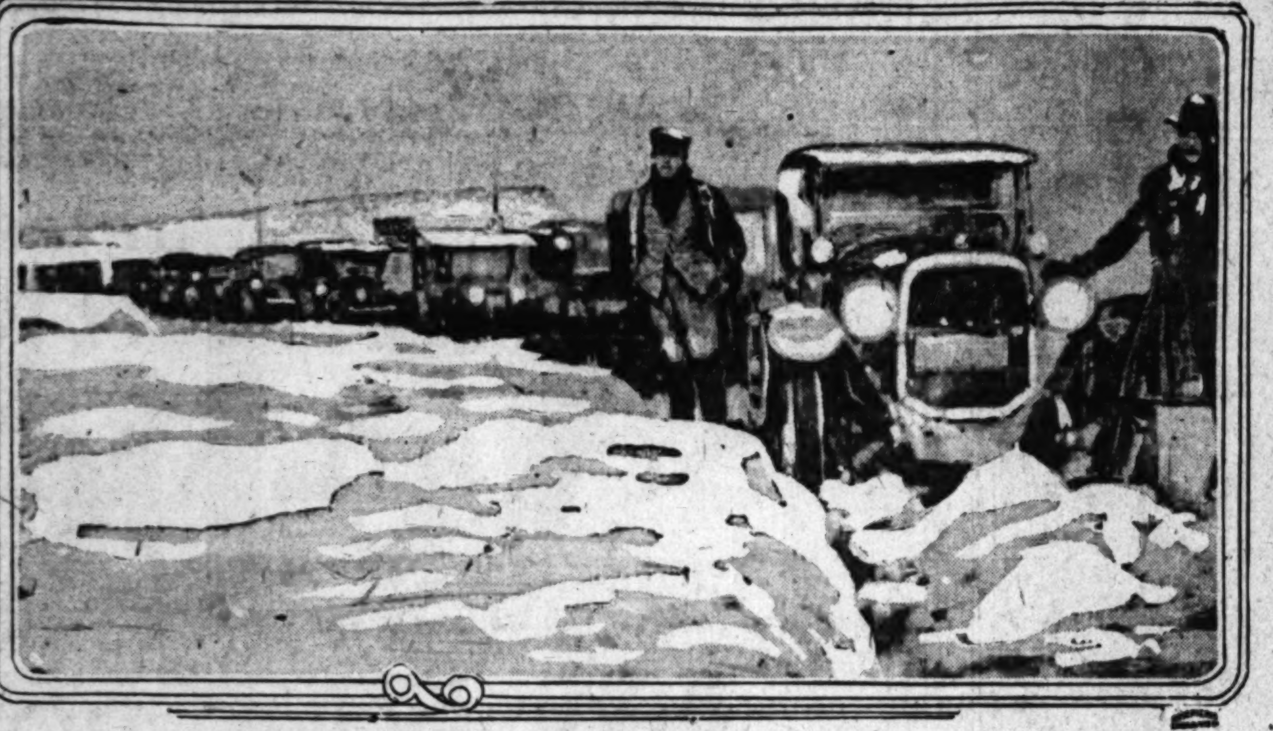
It is noteworthy that in selecting a type of car which would meet every requirement demanded of it, the General Petroleum Company selected the Stephens salient six. The requirements of an organization of the size of the General Petroleum Company, demand the utmost efficiency and quick, effective service. The Stephens car enables not only the cutting down of the expense in the transportation of field men, but enhanced development of business assures that the investment made in the cars is well placed. Economy and endurance are vital factors in the issue and the Stephens salient six meets every requirement which many be placed upon it.

UNDERGROUND PARKING.

Municipal underground parking stations for motor vehicles have been in operation in Europe for more than ten years. They are found in Berlin, Paris and Rome. The average capacity of the subway stations is 200 cars.

TEN THOUSAND VISITORS.

Despite the steep and crooked roads through the Yellowstone National Park over which no less than 10,000 privately owned motor cars toured this year, ten accidents have been reported, only two of which were of a serious nature.



Some of the Things They're Willing to Buck to Get to Southern California.

Headin' West—and why. Here is a picture taken by M. J. Cox of Davenport, Iowa, of a portion of one of the mighty motor caravans that are traveling west to escape winter weather. Old Man Winter reached out an icy paw for a last slap at them at Trinidad, Colo., and the Chandler Six, in the foreground, is breaking a trail through snow that in some places was drifted three feet deep.

NEED LARGER CAMP GROUNDS.

BY FRED S. ALBERTSON,
Albertson Motor Co., Dodge Distributors.

In the fall the tourist's fancy lightly turns to thoughts of Los Angeles. And it is particularly true this season. From reports of traveling representatives of the different automobile clubs in this vicinity, and the records of the Auto Club of Southern California, there is a veritable stream of automobiles, all kinds, and makes, and in various conditions of servitude en route to Los Angeles. They are coming in over the Arrowhead and National Old Trails route; fathers and mothers with their children and household effects hung on every corner of their car, newlyweds on a scouting expedition to find the Garden of Eden, cousins and nephews, and even great-grandmothers, all seem to be seeking the balmy, heart-warming atmosphere of Sunny California.

It is estimated, and this is a conservative estimate, that there are thirty-five automobiles entering California and headed towards Los Angeles via Needles and San Bernardino each day. And this is over two roads alone. Thirty-five cars bearing an average of four people per car. During the first six months of this year, 62,000 automobiles bearing the license plates of other States entered California and this is considered to be the light tourist season.

But there is a serious fly in the ointment. The city of Los Angeles is not doing one-half of its duty by these visitors.

It is safe to estimate that seventy-five per cent of all overland vehicular traffic is headed for, or will arrive at some stage of its journey, in Los Angeles. But our free camping ground at Elysian Park has a capacity of only fifty cars. While the city of Denver, a sort of half way house, off of the main channel has a free camping ground with a capacity of 1000 cars.

In view of the serious house shortage and generally overcrowded condition of the city, it is no laughing matter for the travel worn tourist to find himself confronted with the necessity of camping on somebody's lot and carrying his own wood and water, not to mention the inconvenience along sanitary lines. It is up to the merchants of this city, and the city itself to provide better accommodations for tourists and their families, if the reputation of Los Angeles as a tourist center, is to be maintained.

Mr. W. F. Clump, a rancher of Ringold, Nebraska, who is now at the free camping grounds at Elysian Park, and who has driven since June 15, over 4800 miles in his Dodge Brothers touring car, voiced the opinion that "the Los Angeles grounds for motoring tourists is the neatest, cleanest, and most theft proof camp of any other that I have struck so far, but there is one great drawback. It is not anywhere near large enough either in ground space, or cooking facilities.

JEWELED PIPES FOR WOMEN.

Yet another stronghold sacred to men has fallen before the advance of modern woman—the briar pipe.

For some time past the Continent has accepted the coming of the pipe for women. The new fashion has now reached England, and pipes of dainty appearance, graceful in outline and elegant in proportion, are now being made by experts in the West End of London.

These pipes have tiny bowls, some of which are shaped like an egg or bell, and which hold about the amount of tobacco contained in a couple of cigarettes. Some of the women smokers like them with a plain gold band for mounting, while others favor a dainty circlet of jewels around the stem.

"We have on the average five new customers a week," said a member of a firm which is specializing in the work. "There are many hundreds of women pipe smokers in England. They find it costs less than cigarette smoking. Some of our customers are only 20, while others are 50 and older."—[London Mail.

Expect Record Year in Motor Vehicle Sales.

Coincident with the completion of a large addition to the body works of the Daniels Motor Car Company at Reading, Pa., a considerable enlargement in the personnel of the factory organizations has taken place, according to advices received last week by Hall-Hebbard, Southern California distributors of the Daniels, in a letter from George E. Daniels, president of the company.

"The former superintendent of the Continental Motor Company has taken charge of our motor-building department," wrote President Daniels. "We have secured the best paint expert we could find in Detroit to take charge of our paint shops, while a body builder who for years was connected with the Pierce-Arrow plant in an executive position has joined our body works.

"Far from contemplating any reduction in our output, which is a policy that has been adopted in recent weeks by many motor car manufacturers, we plan to steadily increase our output of the Daniels eight through the winter and spring. Demand for the Daniels from our dealers all over the United States was never as good as it is today, and we are looking forward to the biggest year in the history of the company's business."

Old in Service, but Youngest of Goodrich Chiefs.

W. O. Rutherford, vice-president in charge of sales of the B. F. Goodrich Rubber Company, is one of the youngest officials in the automotive industry and at the same time one of the oldest in point of service.

As proof of his extended work in the industry, Mr. Rutherford now proudly wears a Goodrich twenty-year service pin. He completed his twentieth year this fall and was initiated into the Goodrich twenty-year-service-order with thirty-nine other "new" twenty-year veterans.

Mr. Rutherford worked up to his present position from the ranks, winning each promotion through sheer ability. He entered the employ of the Goodrich Company in 1900 in a minor position in the sales department. Later he was sent to Detroit to look after the company's interest in that city, and a year later was promoted to the position of manager of the company's Denver branch.

From the West Mr. Rutherford was called back to the Central States and sent to Buffalo where he had charge of the company's affairs for eight years. In 1920 he was transferred to the home office at Akron where he was made assistant to Vice-President H. E. Raymond. By successive steps he advanced from that position to vice-president in charge of sales.

OWNING MATERIALS ASSURES QUALITY.

MOTOR CAR BUILDERS ARE CERTAIN THAT EVERY PART OF CAR IS RIGHT.

One of the distinct tendencies of the great manufacturing concerns of America is toward the control of their sources of raw material. It is a tendency that is evident in the cotton and rubber plantations owned by the great tire companies, and in the forest lands and the steel mills owned by such corporations as the International Harvester Company.

"While such control eliminates the payment of one profit in their manufacturing processes, there is an even more important factor than that which has influenced these great companies in their entrance into these activities," declares Glenn R. Keith of the Standard Steel Automotive Corporation, distributors of the Standard eight. "There is an ancient proverb to the effect that if you want something well done, the best way is to do it yourself. By control of the production of the raw materials, which enter into their product, these great companies assure themselves of a quality in their raw materials, which they could get in no other way.

"Probably no other automobile company in America enjoys quite the degree of advantage in this regard as does the Standard Steel Car Company in their manufacture of the Standard eight. Their automobile plant is only one of fifteen huge initial plants owned by the company for steel making and railway rolling stock construction. In their research laboratories they have developed special steels for every vital part of the Standard eight, and in their own converters, they make this steel in exact accordance with their formulas."

Gentlemen:-

In answering yours of recent date in reference to our sales of CHANDLER cars, will say,

We believe the CHANDLER CAR has been one of the most consistant makes with which to create sales we have ever handled.

Chandler registrations (that are shown every month) prove that they outsell every make of car selling for an equal or greater amount; This proves to us that the public is learning fast that the CHANDLER gives the most for the money.

Our own experience proves to us that the Chandler commands a higher resale price than other cars of equal age which sold new for two to eight hundred dollars more.

SUTHERLAND & RILEY are proud to turn out guaranteed CHANDLER's and the demand is always greater than the supply.

Yours very truly,

Speaking of Radiator Emblems—How's This Aggregation.

One of the latest Liberty Six models was taken by storm up in Beverly Glen the other day and put into strenuous service as the background for some snapshots. Anyone who can manage to get his eyes past this bevy of luscious-looking young ladies onto such a mere trifle as an automobile will have to admit that the Liberty is some car.

SPEEDY ACCELERATION.

Too much stress cannot be laid upon the importance of speedy acceleration in the motor car of today. In many cases, serious accidents can be averted if a car is able to spurt ahead. The motorist who is about to cross a railroad track and suddenly sees a train coming is at least one of those who need not be told how important powerful acceleration really is—providing he lived to remember his experience.

Motor car manufacturers are more and more realizing this fact and lately their have been numerous tests by various makers to determine just how fast their cars can "pick up." One of the unusual records hung up during these tests is that made by a Liberty six touring car, driven by an engineer of the Liberty Motor Car Company, in Detroit. It was made with the standard chassis, mounted with the new Liberty engine, and equipped with regular body.

The car jumped ahead from a five-mile-an-hour rate into a twenty-five-mile speed, in high gear, and accomplished the change in slightly over eight seconds. This accomplishment is considered especially remarkable in view of the fact that it has taken about thirteen seconds or more for a number of other cars to do the same trick, according to tests made by Liberty engineers.

"Among the reasons for this unusual record," said C. W. McKelvey of the McKelvey Motor Sales Company, Liberty distributors, "is the thorough carburetion of the Liberty engine. The intake manifold is equipped with the special Liberty 'hot chamber' system, which thoroughly vaporizes the fuel."

H.C.S. ROADSTERS DUE HERE.

Barring blizzards or wrecks, a car of the new H.C.S. roadsters, which heretofore have never been seen outside of a printed catalogue in Los Angeles, will roll into the local freight yards within a few days.

To Hank Mann, well-known film fun maker, will go the distinction of receiving delivery on the first two-passenger job to arrive here. Mann has had his order placed with Harry E. Herndon, H.C.S. distributor, ever since the latter acquired distribution of the line in Southern California, and the comedian evidently feels that the roadster is worth waiting for. His promises to be an unusually passionate creation, for he has ordered a color scheme that calls for a vivid green with white ivory wheels, to be especially finished at the factory. The lines of the H.C.S. are not inconsistent with these youthful colors.

The roadster is really awaited for expectantly by a large number of persons who have inspected the four-passenger phaeton and found its mechanism to their liking, but prefer a car of the two-passenger type. It had been aunnounced for earlier delivery, but shipments were delayed. When Herndon visited the H.C.S. factory at Indianapolis recently he persuaded Harry C. Stutz, maker of the car that bears his initials, to speed up delivery toward Los Angeles, and advices from the factory indicate that the roadster is now actually en route.

PRAISES CALIFORNIA ROADS

Driving a Velie six from Hibbing, Minn., Mr. Martin J. Welch has arrived in Los Angeles and registered the results of his Velie trip across the country in the big cross-country register kept in the salesroom of the Lord Motor Car Company.

It is no wonder Welch is somewhat enthusiastic about his Velie, for not only did he bring four passengers all the way from Minnesota with him, but he piled a complete camping outfit, including everything the most fastidious camper could desire, and several pieces of personal luggage, all onto the Velie, making such a ponderous load that the car itself, as it rolled down Broadway here, was scarcely discernible under its burden.

More than 3000 miles were logged over roads of all kinds, the majority of which, according to Welch, were anything but good. In fact, Welch states that California roads were the first real roads he encountered, and has signified his willingness to sign any sort of a petition or other paper that might help to get the California type of highway construction spread over more of the roads between here and Minnesota.

In Iowa, Missouri and other States he found many cars stuck, and once or twice used the Velie in helping to extricate a bemired brother motorist. On only one hill was it necessary to resort to the use of the tow line for the heavily laden Velie, that instance being a hillside where the road had been washed out and cars preceding him up the hillside had plowed up the mud to such an extent that traction was out of the question.

PIPE JOINT CEMENT.

A mixture of ten parts of iron filings with three parts of chloride of lime mixed to a paste with water makes an admirable pipe cement. The mixture is applied to the joint and the clamp and becomes solid in twelve hours.

BRAKES A COMMON ACCIDENT SOURCE.

Next to excessive speed, the greatest source of accidents is the condition of automobile brakes, according to police authorities in this city.

This is a most serious question, and in some States has been given legal consideration. In New Hampshire, for instance, owners of machines are compelled by law to appear at police headquarters once a month to have their brakes tested. An expert mechanic is employed by the city and as the automobile owner appears, he notes the condition of the car's brakes on a card index. Then, should said owner encounter an accident during the month, the cards show whether or not the accident could have its origin in faulty brakes.

This system in New Hampshire, where the winter season is so long that cars are stored for a considerable period of each year, works out nicely, but it seems, in California, where there is one automobile to every six persons, a rather tedious process.

One Los Angeles police officer made a suggestion that "If people would buy cars whose brakes were reputed and proven to be A-1 in construction, there would be fewer accidents by far.

"I have a Maxwell," he added, "which I bought particularly because of its splendid brakes. When I was on duty and had occasion to call cars to a halt for one reason or other, the Maxwells always stopped right on the spot, because of instantaneous brake action."

ELGIN SALES HIT A RECORD NOTCH.

In the face of the slowing up of the demand for motor cars last month the deMond Motor Car Company made a new record in the sale of Elgin Sixes in Los Angeles. With other dealers also showing increases it is the consensus of opinion that the lull was more or less imaginary.

"We have been sailing along at a very normal pace," says Maurice deMond, "making a consistent number of deliveries every week, so we have no reason to kick. The only thing that sticks in my side is the fact that back in Chicago the Elgin dealer outsold every other light six in the Elgin class and in Kansas city the dealer there nearly equalled the sales record of the car that has held the popularity laurels in the light six class for years.

"These two instances go to show that the public is becoming broader in its selection of motor cars. It goes deeper into the mechanical fitness of a car before it buys. And anyone who takes the time to test and inspect the Elgin and compare it with other cars in its class will readily appreciate what is offered them."

TO START WORK ON TIRE PLANT.

A. J. Pennington Plans to Break Ground This Week.

Burbank Factory to Cost Almost a Million.

Hope to be Turning Out Casings in Three Months.

With plans for the immediate ground breaking and construction of a million-dollar factory on a large tract purchased some time ago in Burbank, A. J. Pennington, general factory manager of the United States Compression Inner Tube Company of Tulsa, Okla., arrived in this city Friday night.

Following his arrival here, Mr. Pennington discussed the local situation with C. R. Privett, Pacific Coast distributor for the inner tube company, and J. F. Scanlon, advertising manager, who has been in Los Angeles for some time. Following the conference, announcement was made that ground will be broken for the new factory tomorrow morning.

The new factory, according to Mr. Pennington, will be erected at the cost of $1,000,000, and will be completed in about three months. Over 1000 workmen will be employed at the plant, which will supply all tubes for the Pacific Coast.

The United States Compression Inner Tube Company now has a factory operating in Kittanning, Pa., and the home factory in Tulsa, Okla.

Tells Drivers How to Handle Cars in Skids.

"It is about time for motorists to beware of slippery streets, and it behooves them to learn every trick in handling a car on wet skiddy pavements," says Fred Rutledge of the Rutledge Motor Company, distributor for the National.

"Because of the danger connected with this condition every driver ought to learn the means by which it may be prevented or reduced in magnitude and also the best methods to use to do the least damage once the car starts to skid. During a skid the rear wheels of a car slide instead of turn and usually the front wheels do not direct the car as indicated by movement of the steering wheel.

"Such a performance often results in a curb smash, perhaps a broken wheel or two, or, if you are less fortunate, collision with another car. In driving on wet road or pavement otherwise made slippery one should always remember the fundamental rules to prevent skidding—drive slowly. But assuming that the car is driven fast, that the brakes are not evenly adjusted, or that the brake is applied harshly with the clutch disengaged, a skid is almost sure to result, and once started the object should be to bring the car to a stop without hitting any other car or the curb or a tree or other objects you don't usually see.

"Steer with a skid, which is to say, if the rear of a car slides to the right, steer to the right in the hope that the car will straighten out and roll forward in the right direction. If the rear skids to the left, steer to the left, not abruptly so as to lock the front wheels, but sufficiently to head the car in a straight line. If you are traveling at speed, or even slowly, use the brake alone, do not disengage the clutch and do not shift into neutral."

HASTE WILL CAUSE TROUBLE IN TIRES.

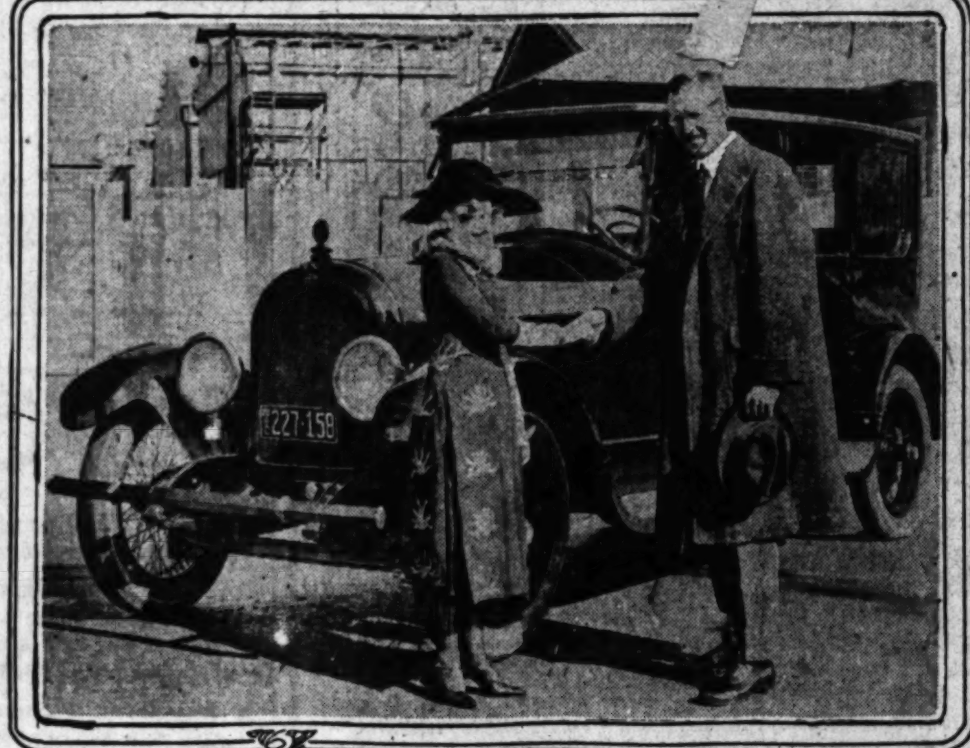
CARE IN MENDING PUNCTURES MAY CUT DOWN DRIVERS' DIFFICULTIES.

"Unexpected outbursts from inner tubes usually originate from sins of omission and commission. By emphasizing the more glaring ones," says F. H. Osler of the Osler-Racine Rubber Company, "it is our belief we can save motorists many dollars that would otherwise be wasted.

"Haste in replacing punctured or blown-out tubes is responsible for troubles aplenty. The right way to place a tube in a casing is first to partly inflate it; then it should be inserted carefully, the side bearing the stem always kept in sight. The casing should be talced slightly and the fingers forced all around the tire to make sure the talc has been evenly distributed. A tube should never be inserted unless partially inflated.

"In pumping a tube before insertion into the casing, most motorists allow it to rest on the ground or floor of the garage. This practice is wrong. It allows the tube to pick up particles of sand, cinders and oil, which create friction and eventually tiny holes.

"The right way is to place the tube over the left shoulder and pump with the right hand. Thus no portion of the tube will be allowed to touch the ground. When the tube is well rounded with air and free from wrinkles, it is ready for insertion. After it is properly inserted, it may then be pumped to the prescribed pressure."



Boss of "Lost Battalion" Looks Over the Movie Studios.

Two years ago or so, the gentleman on the left told the entire German army where to go, and as commander of the "Lost Battalion" his remark will go ringing down in profane history if not sacred. Here Col. Charles W. Whittlesey is being greeted by Clara Horton on the occasion of a recent excursion he made via the Marmon route around the local picture studios.

RUST PREVENTERS.

Full of life and action the Stephens is ready for anything—up to the mountains—down to the sea—roaring over the highways.

It leaps with the spirit of the red-blooded man or woman—there is a fascination in its power; its graceful lines, long, narrow and sweeping—it is built to conquer.

Two people are carried in the Stephens to the good things of the open road that make life a joy.

Nothing has been overlooked to make it the car you will love.

We revel in heralding the Stephens because it is truly a wonderful car.

SCORE CARD MAKES A HIT.

Reports received by the Marmon factory from all over the United States, indicate that no recent introduction in automobile selling methods has measurably approached in popularity the score-card idea in demonstrating which the Marmon factory has just put across in a country-wide campaign.

"Comparison of automobile performance is not such a difficult matter, but to keep a clear comparison in your mind as to the relative performance ability of several cars, after riding in them all, is by no means an easy matter, even for an expert," declares Al G. Faulkner, Marmon distributor for California.

"Throughout our entire territory we have found buyers everywhere keenly interested in the Marmon score card idea, because it makes comparison so easy and accurate. The division of car comparison into twelve different main factors that is followed in the Marmon score card, is virtually that followed by automotive engineers for years, in their work of making comparison of car performance. These men, who are the keenest sort of judges of car performance, do not trust to their memories when they try out a chassis, for example, powered with two different motor types. They put down in black and white an exact record of what the two cars did under certain conditions.

"If you, for example, have been accustomed to driving over a certain hill, you have a pretty good conception of what a good motor car should be able to do on that hill. When you use the Marmon score card on a demonstration, you perhaps ask to see the car driven over this hill on high gear. At the bottom you note the speed of the car, and likewise at the top. Then, if you want to compare another car's performance it is the easiest matter in the world. For acceleration, the use of a stop-watch will give you an exact record of the number of seconds required to attain a certain speed from a certain starting gait.

"The fact that the Marmon people were the first to originate this score-card idea, for general demonstration use, is the best sort of evidence of their confidence in every feature of their car's performance."

Unsprung Weight Has a Big Effect on Tire Mileage.

Most people realize that "unsprung weight" in a car is a decided factor if affecting tire mileage, but not so many know that it is equally important in its relation to the riding qualities of a car. The weight below the springs, because it is not cushioned by spring action, strikes a heavy blow upon the tires at each unevenness of the road. A little reflection will easily show what happens when a bump of sufficient magnitude is encountered to cause a wheel to leave the ground.

"It is very evident that the less that the body of the car is affected by the movement of the axle up and down, the easier the car will ride," says Ralph Hamlin, Franklin distributor.

"A bump in the road sharp enough to cause the wheel to leave the ground is the equivalent of striking the body of the car a violent blow from below. The heavier the unsprung weight, the heavier, of course, will be the blow delivered. The lighter the weight, the lighter the blow and the less the body of the car will be affected.

"So for years Franklin engineers have worked steadily to lighten the weight of the Franklin chassis below the springs to the lowest possible point consistent with completely adequate strength. They have succeeded in doing this to such a degree that the weight of the unsprung portions is far less in proportion to the weight of the body than in conventional construction."

REMOVE CARBON FROM CYLINDER.

C. E. Godfroy has secured the California representation for the Rainier Gas Crystal Company, an organization marketing a crystallized product for the elimination of carbon and the efficient overhead lubrication of cylinders. According to Mr. Godfroy one teaspoon of the crystals in five gallons of gasoline, will add 25 to 40 per cent to the mileage and keep the cylinders free from carbon.

The new local distributor, who has opened offices at 322 Lissner Building, asserts that his product is the result of a research investigation extending over a number of years, and that the crystals are not in any way injurious to metals. He says that business so far has been exceptionally good, and that the popularity of this new and valuable devices seems to be on the increase.

KNIGHT MOTORS ARE THERE WITH SPEED.

"Because Knight motored cars have never figured in American speed events, prospects not infrequently ask if the sleeve-valve motor is capable of continued high speed. Perhaps the results of the Isle of Man Race, the last great European speed contest before the outbreak of the great war, furnished the best answer to that question," says W. B. Conditt, Southern California distributor for the R. V. Knight six.

"The event in question was a 600-mile race over a thirty-seven mile course of narrow and tortuous roads, that included climbing sixteen times a 1500-foot mountain, over whose summit the course led. One of the conditions was that the cars must be capable of at least ninety miles an hour on a straightaway.

"The builders of the Minerva-Knight of Belgium entered a team of three cars, the only three Knight motored cars out of a field of twenty-two starters. They were the first high-speed Knight motors Minerva had ever built, and they were designed to operate as high as 3000 revolutions per minute.

"So severe was the course, that the end of the race saw just six cars of the original twenty-two cross the finish line. Of these, three were Minerva-Knights and they finished second, third and fifth, capturing the team prize. It was a phenomenal performance which was perhaps never given due prominence, because of the tremendous events in world history which followed so closely. Within two months the Minerva factory was in possession of the German invaders, and for years racing was completely forgotten in Europe."

MAKE DELIVERIES SOON ON CHASSIS.

W. D. Wright of the Wright Motor Car Company, exclusive distributors of the Roamer in Southern California, has just received a notice from the Barley Motor Car Company, builders of the Roamer at Kalamazoo, Mich., that beginning with the first of this month they will be able to meet the constantly increasing demand of the trade for Roamer chassis.

In the past it has been the policy of the Barley Motor Car Company to market a finished product only, due to the fact that each car always expressed that exclusiveness of motor car design so much desired by the motor public in passenger cars, but recently they have received so many requests for both Dusenberg and Continental motor equipped chassis for pleasure and commercial purposes that they decided it was best to supply this demand.

That California leads in specially constructed motor car bodies is a foregone conclusion, said Mr. Wright when speaking of the many requests recently from prospective Roamer buyers who desired just the chassis for the purpose of having a typical California body built after their own specifications, which enables them to satisfy their whims in every detail.

The Roamer chassis readily adapts itself to any custom-built body, due to its sturdy construction throughout and its double cantilever spring suspension which Roamer engineers have perfected with a view to more comfort in riding and insuring a longer life to the car.

BATTERY SPIRIT TELLS A STORY.

NOISELESS DEVICE IS THERE WHEN IT COMES TO FURNISHING REAL POWER.

Some people do not entertain with credence, the tales of today, relative to the "spirits of the dear departed," but according to certain very sensible automobile owners, there is a "spirit" in their motor cars crying out to have its story told.

These motorists state that the "spirit" expounds to them thus: "Talk about spirits! Those people who daily with a ouija board would be more prosperous if they listened to my story; for I am the 'Spirit of the Storage Battery.' In short I am as noiseless and silent a spirit as ever breathed energy into a motor car. But any one who knows anything about spirits knows that silence only makes their work more effective. And so it is with me. I supply power and energy to more than a quarter million automobiles."

Hupmobil

THE average family naturally gives its confidence to that which is right, and which stays right.

A month—or six month —or a year from the day it is new, the Hupmobile is just as easy to care for, performs just as well, costs just as little to keep up, and is just as faithful.

That may explain, in part, the great good will which the American people hold toward the Hupmobile.

Massachusetts was tenth in registrations, but twenty-fourth in fatality matters. Connecticut was twenty-third in registration, but thirty-fourth in grade-crossing tabulation.

STATISTICS.

More people were killed in Delaware in proportion to the number of machines registered than in any other State. Florida occupies second place on this unenviable list:

1. Delaware.
2. Florida.
3. Arkansas.
4. Mississippi.
5. Indiana.
6. New Mexico.
7. South Carolina.
8. New Jersey.
9. Oklahoma.
10. West Virginia.
11. Louisiana.
12. Virginia.
13. North Carolina.
14. Utah.
15. Vermont.
16. Kentucky.
17. Illinois.
18. Michigan.
19. Montana.
20. Georgia.
21. Nevada.
22. Ohio.
23. California.

In South Dakota there were fewer motorists killed in proportion to the number of machines registered than in any other State. Massachusetts occupies the second place on this list, with Maryland third:

1. South Dakota.
2. Massachusetts.
3. Maryland.
4. Texas.
5. North Dakota.
6. Connecticut.
7. Colorado.
8. Rhode Island.
9. Iowa.

12. Utah.
13. Kansas.
14. Tennessee.
15. Idaho.
16. Pennsylvania.
17. Minnesota.
18. Missouri.
19. Wisconsin.
20. Wyoming.
21. Alabama.
22. Maine.
23. District of Columbia.
24. New Hampshire.

It is practically impossible to eliminate all grade crossings on account of the expense involved.

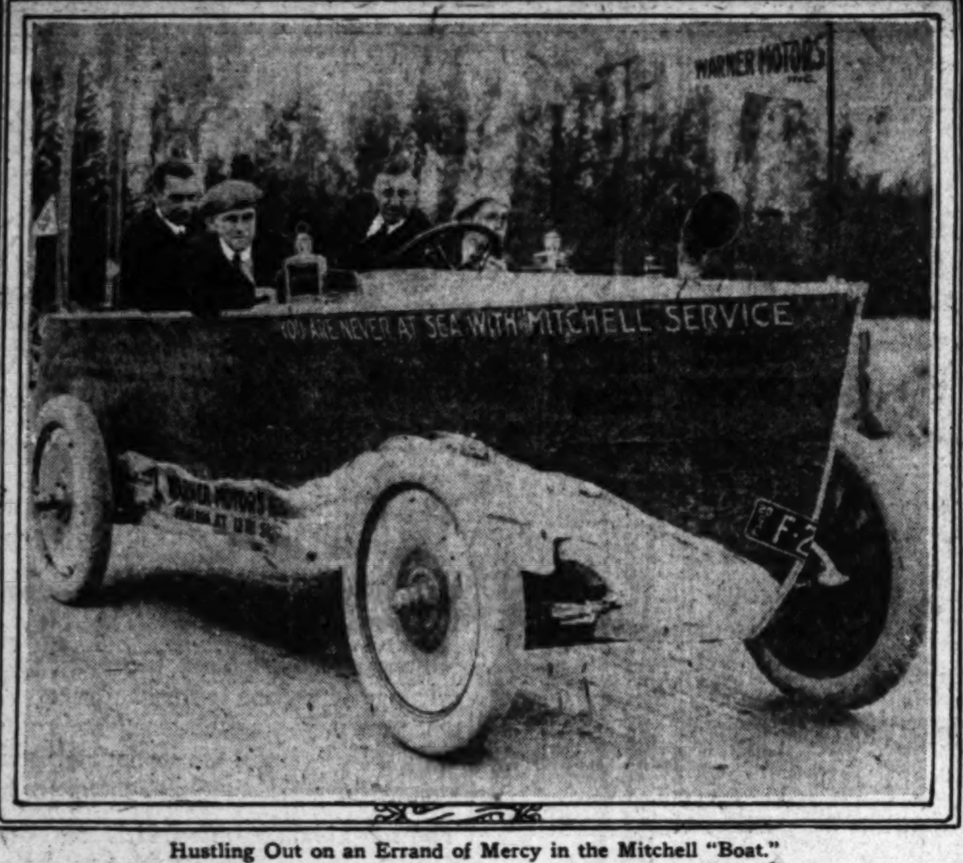
The Pennsylvania railroad has already spent $66,000,000 in grade-crossing elimination, but it is estimated that it would cost $600,000,000 to wipe out the remaining 13,000 crossing.

"There are thousands of grade crossing, however, which could be eliminated by relocating the main highways and by confining the bulk of highway traffic to one side of the railroad," comments Mr. Eldridge. "Very frequently the highway will wind back and forth across the railroad tracks and this without apparent reason.

UNPROTECTED POINTS.

"The great majority of accidents occur at unprotected crossings over double track railroads where one train may prevent motorists from observing the approach of another train, or where the railroad tracks are obscured by embankments, buildings, trees, or shrubbery. On the other hand, many accidents occur where the tracks are clearly visible in both directions. Such accidents may be attributed to plain carelessness or foolhardiness on the part of the drivers.

"It would seem that since the elimination of grade crossings is the only sure method of preventing accidents, this work should be continued as rapidly as funds can be secured," concludes the A.A.A. official, who urges that "every possible effort should also be made to protect the public from accidents on existing crossings and to impress upon the drivers of all motor vehicles the necessity for extreme caution."



WARNER MOTORS
YOU ARE NEVER AT SEA WITH MITCHELL SERVICE

Hustling Out on an Errand of Mercy in the Mitchell "Boat."

The extraordinary speed of Mitchell service was demonstrated recently when the Mitchell "service boat" hurried out in response to an emergency call sent from a remote portion of Los Angeles county. According to Lou Warner, Southern California distributor for the Mitchell, the boat was there in record time and the stranded party was soon on its way.

HAS RIDING QUALITIES.

"Have You Ridden in the New Mitchell?" is a slogan becoming popular in Los Angeles.

"Many prospective car buyers are today faced by this question: 'Have you ridden in the new Mitchell?' And it is a query they must comply with in justice to themselves before they can choose the right car for their money," said "Lou" Warner, Mitchell distributor for Southern California, recently. "And really how can you judge a car unless you ride in it," he continued.

"It is true the Mitchell car has 'talking points' equal to any other car, and more than many. It is true that our new showrooms are as finely appointed and conveniently located as any in town. It is true that the Mitchell spare parts service in Southern California is perfect and our own factory repair equipment with our competent staff of factory mechanics insures undoubted satisfaction to every present and future Mitchell owner. But these reasons alone are not urged for buying the Mitchell car.

"We simply ask the car buyer to ride in the new Mitchell — to eat the pudding and then decide for himself. For in the last analysis, the showroom, advertising and 'institutional talk' are entirely forgotten when a man or woman has bought the car. It's the riding comfort, low upkeep cost and general satisfaction that count."

MAGNETIC CHASSIS TO BE AVAILABLE.

LOCAL PURCHASERS WHO WISH TO BUILD OWN BODIES MAY NOW DO IT.

Word that a number of Owen Magnetic chasses would be available for early delivery from the factory was received last week by the Gaffney Motor Sales Company. "Though all the Owen bodies as well as each Owen chassis receive an amount of individual care, that renders them really custom built, we have had many inquiries regarding the possibility of procuring chassis upon which local purchasers could build bodies to suit their own tastes," said J. W. Gaffney last week.

"More and more purchasers of high-grade cars, each year prefer to work out their own ideas of body design. It is perhaps only natural that the buyer of a car of such unusual performance ability as that of the Owen, should likewise want a body of unusual design to match it. At any rate we have many inquiries concerning the possibility of securing Owen chasses and our wire of last week promises the early delivery of several from the factory.

"In preparation for their arrival we have had a number of special designs drawn up for bodies suitable for the Owen chassis. One of them is for an unusual roadster type with a top that can be easily lowered but with permanent glass in frames above the doors, and at either side of the windshield. The combination gives a roadster of beautiful design, and which combines the advantages of an ideal fair-weather car, with the perfect protection of a coupe, in stormy weather."

PLATE MAKING IS TASK FOR EXPERT.

DEVELOPMENT OF GRIDS TAKES A MAN WHO HAS HAD REAL EXPERIENCE.

"The most important single feature in storage battery construction," states Harry W. Harrison, Southern California and Arizona distributor for the famous new Westinghouse battery, "is the making of the plates, including the designing of the grids, casting the grids, paste used, method of pasting and the development of the plate into its final chemical condition.

"Not only must the personnel have expert knowledge of the formula and methods, but they must also have acquired wisdom which comes only from the application of their knowledge in long and continuous experience.

"The Westinghouse Union Battery Company is fortunate in having the best of experienced talent in their production personnel. All of their men have had from ten to twenty years battery experience and have held executive and engineering positions with some of the oldest and largest battery concerns in the country. This invaluable experience combined with the new principles of construction embodied in the new battery have helped to gain its remarkable reputation in such a comparatively short space of time."

Chevrolet Cars Prove Popular in Philippines.

Philippine Island natives are strong boosters for the automobile and each year the native plans on buying a car to replace the caribou as a means of transportation.

C. S. Brown of the sales department of the Chevrolet Motor Company of California with headquarters in Los Angeles, is in receipt of a letter from Hon. Silvestre Pabiliano, one of the prominent citizens of Zayabas, Fay, P. I., requesting the latest literature on the Chevrolet models. The young Philippino is loud in his praises of the Chevrolet products, and states that many natives are proud Chevrolet owners. The ease with which the Chevrolet gets over the poor roads, in the islands is one of the main reasons for its popularity.

Not only in the Philippines is the Chevrolet making a big hit but in China, Japan, Cook Islands, New Zealand and Australia where a small car is far more adapted to the conditions existing in these far away lands.

HEAVY SALES DUE IN TRUCK FIELD.

L. P. POYER BELIEVES WINTER DEMAND WILL BE STRONGER THAN EVER BEFORE.

As a result of a recent trip which he made over a large part of the State, Lester P. Poyer of D. F. Poyer & Son, distributors of the Transport truck, is of the opinion that there will be a heavy demand for trucks this winter. Poyer drove to San Francisco over the inland route and returned by way of the Coast, making numerous stops going and returning.

"While there seemed to be a slump in business in general in San Francisco, I did not find this condition elsewhere," he said, in discussing his trip. "In the smaller cities and towns there seemed to be considerable activity in all lines. Truck dealers told me that there were many inquiries for trucks from business concerns and ranchers.

"As between the northern and southern parts of the State as far as the automotive industry is concerned, we have it all over our brothers in the Bay Cities from all that I could learn. Not only do car and truck registrations show this condition to be true, but it also applies to other lines of the industry apparently."

Dear Sir:-

The Stearns-Knight Car which your firm sold me about April 25th, 1919, has just recently turned the 10,000 mile mark. The performance of the car up to date is all that I could wish for in every respect of the word.

The Motor is far more quiet and has developed more power during the last 5000 miles.

The Riding qualities are only met with in the $6000.00 and $8000.00 car class.

The finish is excellent and all who see my car are astonished when told of the mileage the car had covered.

The service that you have given me and mine is first class and I have no complaint to offer.

I wish to recommend the Stearns-Knight Four to all of my friends as I have stated above.

Respectfully,

LELAND-BUILT
LINCOLN

Leland-built Lincoln Motor Cars comprise eight body styles

It is not strange that motordom can scarce conceive it possible to excel the fine creations that you enjoy.

It has been so since the making of motor cars began.

Hark back some twenty years.

The motor cars of even then were marvels—for their day.

As passing time brought forth its new achievements, each thrilled you with its fresh sensations—then you wondered how you endured the car before.

Each new achievement seemed unsurpassable—until by genius it was surpassed.

Each seemed the great finality—yet will not each see its glory wane?

As the splendid mechanisms you have known roll on, it is only natural that they seem the ultimate in luxurious travel.

And yet, the seeming of the ultimate today is but an echo of the seeming in yesteryears.

For in the Lincoln car are revelations, new ease, new comforts, charms and fascinations which motordom has never known before.

DOINGS OF THE AUTOMOBILE DEALERS ALONG BAY CITY'S GASOLINE THOROUGHFARES.

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

SAN FRANCISCO, Nov. 6.—Robert W. Martland, State secretary of the California Automobile Association, has returned from his tour of the State. The veteran trade association executive is more enthusiastic than ever over the work of the organization and the prospects for a great year.

Edward S. Jordan completed his business in San Francisco last week and is now on the last leg of his tour of the United States. The president of the Jordan Motor Car Company of Cleveland made a profound impression on the trade and motorists generally while in San Francisco. No speaker has ever received the reception accorded Jordan by the Motor Car Dealers' Association, according to C. D. Rand, Jordan distributor for the Northern California territory.

Hupmobile distributors from all over Northern California gathered in San Francisco last week at a call from E. W. Milburn, San Francisco manager of the Greer-Robbins Company. Business conditions and plans for the coming winter were discussed by the "Hup" executives. They were addressed by Bert Roberts, Coast factory representative of the Hupp Motor Company, who has just returned from a visit to the company's Detroit factory. Roberts is very optimistic and predicts a strong buying movement during the winter and spring months.

William J. Benson, head of the company of the same name, distributing the Stephens six for Northern California, announces that he plans to make San Francisco his sales headquarters from now on. For several years past Benson has been heavily interested in business in San Jose, Cal., but he has arranged his affairs so that he can now spend practically his entire time in San Francisco. He will devote most of his attention to working with his dealers throughout the northern part of the State, with San Francisco as a base. M. P. Brasch will continue in charge of the Stephens retail sales department in this city.

Al G. Faulkner, Marmon distributor for the State, is enthusiastic over the results of the recent Marmon demonstration week. With the aid of Sales Manager Roger Marran Faulkner added several noteworthy features to the demonstration plan as announced by the Marmon factory. One of these ideas was to prepare a chart showing San Francisco demonstration courses which provided opportunities for all the various tests specified in the demonstration "score cards." These were mapped and routed so that at each successive stage of the trip a new feature would be demonstrated.

Capital stock of the Frank O. Renstrom Company was increased by $400,000, according to announcement from the San Francisco headquarters of that company last week. This increase will make the Renstrom organization one of the most powerful, financially, in the State, and will make it possible for this firm to handle all their own paper. The Renstrom firm now handles the Briscoe, Grant, Premier, Atterbury and Grant truck, and Twin City tractor lines here.

George Moscovics, newly appointed sales promotion manager for the Al G. Faulkner Company, spent last week in Sacramento and Stockton outlining plans for the carrying on of Marmon demonstration weeks in those cities. So effective was the demonstration week idea in San Francisco, that Faulkner decided to extend its use to the country territory as well.

"Bill" Frawley, distributor for the Mitchell six, returned to San Francisco Wednesday from a trip throughout Northern California. Frawley was much impressed by the prosperity of the farmers and ranchers throughout the interior of the State, and declared that the wholesale outlook was excellent for both winter and spring.

Phillip S. Cole, Haynes distributor for the State, is back from Los Angeles, and a visit to the newly appointed Haynes dealer in the southern territory. Cole is quite enthusiastic over the Haynes prospects in the south.

Opinion generally seems to be that price conditions are again on a stable basis. Business seems to have returned pretty much to normal for late fall. G. A. Boyer, president of the Franklin Motor Car Company, Franklin distributors for the northern half of the State, reports one of the best months in the history of the local concerns.

C. A. Roesch of the Alemite Lubricating Company passed through San Francisco on the way East to visit the Chicago plant of his company. His Chicago visit will be of very short duration, he reports.

Talking of Something with a Kick in It.

Which in this case happens to be a Titan battery. Teddy Tetzlaff, former speed king, who now dispenses batteries and other things, is telling Miss Margaret Loomis, Paramount leading lady, the fine points of the battery.

TEDDY TETZLAFF IS NOT SO SLOW.

REPAIRS BATTERY AND THEN GIVES LESSONS ON THE COMPLICATED THING.

Teddy Tetzlaff is still showing considerable "speed" although he has quit the racing game.

Tetzlaff is now hanging up records for "service" around and about Los Angeles, one of them being twenty-four hour service, his garage and service station being open night and day.

Margaret Loomis, the dainty little Paramount leading woman, found this night service a life-saver the other evening when something went wrong with her electrical system beg pardon, her automobile's electrical system.

She sent for the Tetzlaff man and the trouble was located in the storage battery. That was duck soup for the Tetzlaff outfit for they have a battery service department handling Titan batteries.

The next morning Teddy was out at the Lasky studio bright and early, giving Miss Loomis a lesson in storage battery construction and demonstrating why she should have a Titan in her car.

We'll say he works fast.

CHARACTER IN CASINGS.

Tires, like men, are good only for the character that is really in them. You cannot expect wonderful deeds from a man without character, nor can you expect a tire that is devoid of built-in quality to render full value service.

"Hartford cord tires are built to a principle," says C. J. Reynold of Nelson & Price, "and that principle is the giving of 100 cents worth of service for every dollar invested in the tire.

"These tires are not built in quantities just to meet a demand. Right now we cannot supply Hartfords in all sizes and we have orders piled up waiting the arrival of hurried shipments. With this condition existing when the public is given to understand that the tire market is overcrowded, we feel that a tribute to Hartford tires is being sincerely paid.

"Mileage in excess of the fondest hopes is not all that the Hartford cord gives. It renders every mile of this service with less care and greater freedom from punctures than is the usual experience of tire users.

"We have equipped a majority of the taxicabs of Los Angeles with these tires and here is a real test of a tire. Just ask any taxicab driver that you chance to meet what he thinks of Hartfords. He will tell you that they cannot be beat."

BRIGHT FUTURE FOR MOTOR CAR INDUSTRY.

BELIEVES THAT TENDENCY TO STABILIZE PRICES IS HAVING TELLING EFFECT.

Business is looking up, and, now that the Presidential controversy has been decided officially according to the wishes of the great majority, things should be popping right along, according to Francis C. Davidson, distributor for the King, who reports that, following a falling off of sales for the past few weeks, the interest in motor cars has been revived again and several sales have been made.

"The whole attitude of the public is changed. They talk in a different tone. All are now looking forward to prosperity and there is a general loosening up of money in the pockets of everybody. With the approach of the holidays a greater looseness will prevail and motor-car sales are bound to increase," says Davidson.

"True enough, it is going to make all of us hustle to keep up our quotas, but with the advent of next spring and the predicted shortage of cars which will prevail at that time, the motor-car interests should experience a return to good business and healthy profits.

"People are buying now with less concern over the price situation than before. The tendency to stabilize prices and the action of several of the foremost concerns in announcing increases serve to convince the buyer that he is getting full value for his dollar today."

THE LONDON TONGUE.

Vernacular of the Metropolis Is Constantly Changing.

English idioms and form of speech are attractive to American ears, as are the modulated voices and clear intonation of cultivated English people. From the English actors who visit our shores we get that perfect enunciation which leads us to think it a racial characteristic, but there are probably as many shrill and unpleasant voices in England as there are loud and nasal ones in this country.

A stranger traveling in England never gets quite accustomed to the nonchalant "I'm sorry," delivered in blithe, carefree tones when one's feet have been walked over, or one's elbows knocked. It does not take the place, in our aggrieved consciousness, of a heartfelt "I beg your pardon," but it seems to be the accepted form of apology. In England, a man not quite a gentleman is a bounder or a cad; the weather is wet or fine, instead of rainy or fair; a darned fool becomes a silly ass, a trunk is a box, and baggage, luggage. The good New England surprise expression, "Well, did you ever!" becomes a drawled out "Fawncy now!" and "My word!" is equivalent of "Ye gods!"

A landlady in Liverpool once said to me in dulcet tones "Do you go in for potatoes?" I was bewildered for a moment, wondering if she meant to ask me if I cultivated them myself—but finally I realized that she was merely asking me if I liked them.

English slang is of course most perplexing to the uninitiated, and like our own, constantly changing.—[Esther G. Babson in Boston Transcript.

Unprepared.

At a political meeting in a country town a large audience had assembled to support a Parliamentary candidate.

During the speech of the candidate a man put his head in at the door and shouted in a loud voice:

"Can anyone here sell me sixpenny-worth of sense?"

The speaker halted, evidently quite dumfounded, but the chairman of the meeting immediately silenced the intruder by remarking:

"Yes, but you have nothing to put it in."—[London Answers.

—Trial marriage— do you believe in it?

WE believe in it—when it comes to "marrying" a used car.

Here's our "trial marriage" plan for buying a Baldwin Used Car.

When you buy a Used Car from us you have the privilege of driving it for five days. At the end of that time if you are not completely satisfied with it, bring it back, and if we cannot make the car suit you, you are privileged to select another car from our stock.

The sole condition attached is that during the five days you are responsible for any damage to the car from collision, from fire, or from loss from theft.

We have complete confidence in our used cars because we KNOW them to be satisfactory merchandise. We are perfectly willing to give you five days of usage to convince yourself of that fact.

Come in and look our Used Car stock over. If you find a car that suits you, remember you have five days to try it out.

Now the distributor and dealer must look upon a new era of merchandising with the following fundamentals in mind:

"Your banker will no longer loan you money without certain measures of safety other than a mere promise to pay. No other merchandising business ever dared ask it, so why should you? Capitalize your business. Put money in it. If you put capital plus 'push' and energy in your business, your banker will invariably look with favor upon credit extension equal to it—if not more than your capital investment."

The chief gasoline expert of the Bureau of Mines is of the opinion that before long every automobile will be provided two two tanks—a small one to contain high-grade gas for starting the engine, and a good-sized one for fluid fuel volatile enough to keep the machine going.

CONTINENTAL FORCE RIGHT ON THE JOB.

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

DETROIT, Oct. 5.—Although the working force of the Continental Motors Corporation, Muskegon, has been reduced owing to prevailing business conditions, the plant has not shut down, contrary to some reports. The smaller organization has been producing orders as they come in, rather than allow them to accumulate to be a hindrance when rush production is desired, according to President Ross W. Judson. The entire force will return to work within sixty days, Mr. Judson believes.

REUSCHAW RETURNS TO REO FACTORY.

RACINE (Wis.) Oct. 5.—R. C. Reuschaw, general factory manager of the Mitchell Motor Car Company, has returned to the Reo Motor Car Company to become general sales manager, a position he held for thirteen years.

His reappointment keeps intact the seven original directors of the Reo organization. Mr. Reuschaw is one of the best-known executives in the automobile industry, having held a general salesmanship longer than any other man in the field.

VARDON, RAY END TOUR.

Famous English Golfers Never Expect to Visit United States Again.

BY HARRY VARDON.

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

NEW YORK, Nov. 6.—As far as our playing the game of golf in this country is concerned, the Vardon-Ray American tour of 1920 has come to an end.

We are not displeased that it has been completed, for the tour has been arduous and nerve-racking, but Ted Ray and I are rather proud of his last American trip. I call it the the last American trip. I call it the last American trip because we shall never take another together.

Ted Ray may, within the next few years, come back to America. He has not definitely decided whether he will return next year to defend the title that he won at Toledo last July, but I have definitely decided that I am going back to England to stay there. Although my years have not borne as heavily upon me as I should have reckoned beforehand, had I known the extent and intensity of this recently completed tour, I am able to realize that I am no longer young, and am beginning to anticipate a long rest with a few light and agreeable duties.

AT SIWANOY.

Our first match in this country this year was at Siwanoy Country Club, Mount Vernon, N. Y., on the 18th of last July. Our last match was yesterday over the course of the Nassau Country Club, Glen Cove, L. I. The days between these two matches have seen us in many cities, on many courses.

We have played more than seventy matches and have won more than fifty of them, as I approximate freely, having not figured the record with accuracy just yet. We have walked upward of a thousand miles over the golf links. We have ridden many thousand miles on trains and have done a considerable distance in automobiles.

Summing all things relative, we must reach the conclusion that Ted Ray and I have played more golf on this one trip of less than four months duration than we have over any stretch of four years in the lifetime of either of us. And, they say, we are still alive and walking about.

PLAY ALL OVER.

We have played over the hilly courses of New England clubs, the parched links of the Middle West, the Bermuda grass greens of the Southern States and the well-groomed courses of the Eastern coast. We agree that the eastern courses generally are the best of the lot, but there are many good ones in other sections.

The Middle West boasts such fine courses as the Inverness links and the links around Chicago, St. Paul and Minneapolis. Neither of us particularly was appealed to by the springy greens in Birmingham, Atlanta, Knoxville, Nashville, Chattanooga and the other Southern cities, but it is not unlikely that we might have become accustomed to them.

The most perfect of these greens we found on the Bellemeade course at Nashville, and in the face of the prejudice that we formed because we committed ourselves as against greens of the sort after we had played on the first we saw, I am ready to confess that the Nashville course is above the average for the country.

THE BEST COURSE.

We have said several times that the best course, to our minds, that we have played over since we came here is the Hollywood course at Deal, N. J. This compares most favorably with the best of our courses on the other side. The apparent aversion to seaside courses in this country is somewhat more than I can understand. There are a few, such as the Hollywood course, the Shenecosset course and a few others, that are almost seaside ones. They have a part advantage in that they get some of the sea breezes, but the shore sand is not used.

The standard of course construction, however, has made rapid and marked advance since 1913. Perhaps I am a bit more patriotic than generous, but at any rate I think I am saying in all honesty that there is still a mite of difference between the courses of my country and of yours. American links have a slight gain to make, before they can claim whole equality with those of Britain, but with such comparative gain as they have made in seven years continued, the positions will be reversed

Although courses have gained rapidly they appear to have been almost standing still when one considers at the same time the progress of golf from the standpoint of play improvement in the country.

I had realized before the four began that America had made remarkable progress in the game, but I had never thought there were such numbers of first-class players being brought up on American courses. It is truly amazing.

From the things we saw in all parts of the country it is evident to us that your game is truly in the ascendancy, and that Britain must take a bracer or be overtaken and outdone.

CHIEF PROMISE.

Amateur golf is America's chief promise. We cannot, although I confess we should like to, claim superiority for British amateur golf. There is a magnificent scattering of young amateurs over the country who have not yet found themselves. Names are not necessary. They have appeared many times and will appear many times more.

Leading professional golfers are in many cases from other countries than the United States, and little can be said about them except that they are having a great part in the development of the game in America, although they cannot be considered a part of that development. But there are such young American professionals as Diegel, Loos, Burke and about a dozen others who are portentious of future home-bred strength.

Hagen is the leader of the home-breds, and Hagen is yet away from his possible high ability.

MUCH ENTHUSIASM.

The enthusiasm for the game has been as great a surprise to me as has the progress in other directions. This is a sign that takes equal rank with other visible improvements. We have played before a greater number of people on this trip, taking the spectators collectively, than we had played before in all time previous to our arrival in this country. They were enthusiastic galleries, and it must be said that enthusiastic galleries surely run along with or ahead of good golf. "Where there is smoke there is fire."

All things considered, it cannot be denied that America is a great golfing nation. Little summing up is necessary, for I have summed up as I came to the particular details of my discussion of golf in America. I should like to be able to return to America after another seven years have gone to see how well my prophecies and hopes will have become realizations. But I am afraid my knowledge on these matters will have to be derived from hearsay, for I am afraid that the steamship Celtic, which will sail next Saturday, will carry me across the Atlantic for the last time.

Manages to Get Through Traffic Without Effort.

"That cars with ability to quickly clear the way in face of every obstruction would greatly relieve congested traffic, was forcibly demonstrated to me recently," said one of Los Angeles' hustling citizens. "I was in a hurry, and as luck would have it the time was during the rush hour. I was in my car just leaving The Times office at First and Broadway and wondered how I was ever to reach Ninth and Broadway within ten minutes, with Broadway jammed.

Just as I started down the street, an Essex roadster turned the corner and maneuvered skillfully across the street, through a veritable maze of cars. Following in the clearing the Essex had made, I just managed to cross the street behind it. I realized as the Essex preceded me to Second street that the car was making a path easy for me to follow, and decided to keep right behind it. The roadster went on and on, and in the most crowded parts of Broadway cleared the way through the tangled traffic making it possible for me to follow.

"At Seventh street where the crowd was largest, I could not but admire the grace and ease with which that car squeezed its way between and around cars. It was almost more than I could do to keep behind in its track.

"At Eighth I simply had to give up the chase and when I reached Ninth it was nowhere to be seen. It had performed an unwritting service though, for I reached Blackstone's before the store closed—for that had been my object. The agility of that Essex roadster was amazing and I am convinced that for the 'car about town' it is the real thing."

REFUND CHECK IDEA BEARS REAL RESULTS.

PLAN TO SECURE ONE THOUSAND NEW OWNERS MEETS WITH INSTANT RESPONSE.

The unique plan of the Kissel Motor Car Company to stimulate sales throughout the United States, by offering a refund check of $600 to every purchaser of a Kissel car or truck during the month of November, is bearing excellent results, and, judging from the success the idea has met with in this city, it looks as if the company will have little difficulty in securing the 1000 new owners they seek within that period. The first purchaser to pocket a check for $600 was George P. Schneider of Los Angeles, who chose one of the speedster models.

"We have had numerous requests from visitors for more details as to whether we actually give a $600 check with each new purchase, and why," said Gilbert Woodill, manager of the Western Motors Company, Kissel distributors here. "The plan, which was drawn up and adopted at the regular meeting of the Kissel zone distributors, held in Chicago last month, is for the purpose of not only maintaining a fair production by creating a quick demand, but also to prevent an increase in prices."

"Every Kissel owner being a satisfied user, is bound to inform twenty-five or more of his acquaintances of his satisfaction. Therefore, we hold that 1000 new owners would create a potential market of 25,000 additional people. To accomplish this within thirty days, we realized that something new and unusual must be made a part of the plan to make it worth the purchaser's time to purchase immediately during the month of November, thereby creating a quick demand. Inasmuch as it was impossible to reduce Kissel prices without reducing the quality of the car, the factory and the distributors agreed to sacrifice $600 per car to secure a quick demand at this time. In other words, each purchaser of a Kissel car or truck during the month of November not only receives a new car or truck, but also a check for $600."

TOWED MANY CARS ON JOURNEY HERE.

CARBURETOR EXPERT STRONG IN PRAISE FOR TEMPLAR PERFORMANCE.

Concluding a trip of 3299 miles since they left Cleveland two months ago, W. S. Juston and his mother arrived in Los Angeles last week in his Templar touring car. The car, a 1917 model, has been driven over 52,000 miles, and save for grinding the valves and a few minor repairs, has had no work of any kind done upon it. Justin, a carburetor expert, and who was with one of the largest companies for four years, intends, with his mother, to make his home in this city.

They carried their camping equipment with them and excepting a few nights when it was too cold, slept in the open. Crossing the Raton Pass, even with chains on all four wheels, was a ticklish job, according to Justin, as a light snow made the road very slippery. About twenty miles from Gallup with another transcontinental touring party bound for Los Angeles, they stayed two nights in a box car fitted up for the use of section hands. Its use was tendered them by the station agent, and as it was clean, warm and comfortably equipped with plenty of coal near by, they enjoyed the experience. Bad roads made it necessary for them to lay up until they became passable.

Justin was very strong in his praise of Templar dependability and performance. "On more than one occasion I towed cars heavier than my own and the way the Templar got over the ground on these towing jobs offered food for thought for those who were up against it."

Medium Weight Car Answer to Demand of Times

"The day of the big, cumbersome car has gone. Automobile dealers everywhere are finding a constantly lessening demand for this type of motor car. In its place is developing an insistent demand for medium-weight and light cars," says Lou Aston, distributor of Pilot cars in Southern California.

"That condition is especially true in Los Angeles. The medium-weight and light car not only answers the problems presented by the teeming traffic of the city, but it solves a problem that is important with every person using a motor car — that of economy of operation and maintenance.

"This desire for economy is not a matter of how much money a man may have. In fact, the man of wealth usually watches wasteful, unnecessary expenditures as closely as the automobile owner not so fortunate from a financial standpoint.

"Pilot cars, because of their almost perfect balance, deliver the maximum of mileage on tires. It is in no sense a quantity production car. This enables the company to devote time to details overlooked in many cars.

"The result is Pilot cars are really built to withstand the road strains and jolts. Liberal, scientifically-built spring suspension gives a riding comfort unusual in a car of its weight and wheelbase."

FRANKLIN SALES KEEPING UP WELL.

Sales of the Franklin car the country over have kept up to a high level following the price reductions announced on September 22. For the thirty-day period following this date, daily orders reported by dealers were 140 per cent greater than the sales rate maintained immediately prior to the reduction. Sales during the last twelve days have averaged forty per day, which record is almost on a par with the average production of the factory during the peak season this spring.

IN DRILLING.

Kerosene should be used in drilling, reaming or turning malleable iron or aluminum. On the other hand turpentine should be used instead of oil for drilling hard steel as it will enable rapid drilling of the metal.

SMASHES RECORDS IN FORD OUTPUT.

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

DETROIT, Oct. 5.—The Ford Motor Company broke all existing production records in October. There were 99,967 cars turned out, or just thirty-three less than an even 100,000 for the month.

October 26 was the "banner day." On this day 4688 cars were built at a rate of one every eighteen and one-half seconds.

The company's official estimate for the fiscal year ending July 31, 1921, is 1,250,000 cars and trucks.

AIR CUSHION PROVES BEST.

It is said to be a matter of record that the files of the Patent Office at Washington hold more patents for different types of "spring wheels" than for any other single mechanical device whose perfection has been sought by hopeful inventors. Yet of all the multitude of their designs, not one has ever attained any degree of popularity whatsoever.

"The reason is simple—nothing a cushion of air as a shock absorber," declares Elmer Wilson of the firm of Wilson, Brothers, local representatives for the Westinghouse air spring. "The automobile of today has nine-tenths of its usefulness conferred upon it by virtue of the imprisoned air in the four tires it rides upon. Certainly automobiles would never have been called "pleasure cars" if it had not been for pneumatic tires.

"Because he realized this fact, has ever been discovered that equals George Westinghouse, the world-famous inventor of the air brake and of many other important devices, took especial interest in the perfection of one of the last inventions he made, the Westinghouse air spring for automobiles. The advantages to be obtained by interposing another cushion of air between the body of the car and the road were so obvious that he was not content until he perfected the air spring in its present form.

"The suspension of the body of the car on air cushions at each of the four corners of the car not only adds immeasurably to the comfort of the passengers, but decidedly prolongs the life of the car and the tires. If you ever ride behind a car equipped with Westinghouse air springs, just notice the constant action of the air springs and figure for yourself the amount of 'grief' their elastic action saves the car. Many of our owners declare that their tires give double the mileage after installing a set of air springs than they were accustomed to get before."

VACUUM FEED NOW HAS 'EM ALL BEAT.

OLD WORRIES OF GRAVITY AND PRESSURE ARE ENTIRELY ELIMINATED.

"Motorists who did not own cars back in the days when gravity or compression were the universal ways of feeding gasoline to the carburetor have not a proper appreciation of the vacuum system of the present day," claims Harry Unger, general manager of the Stewart products service station on Figueroa street.

"The vacuum feed system is so sure and so seldom gets out of order that the present day motorist never has thought of trouble. He has to take a ride in a car not vacuum equipped to get a real idea of what a great convenience his own Stewart system is.

"The fellow with the gravity feed not only has to be sure that he has gasoline enough to take him there and back, but he has to worry about having enough to run into the carburetor when he is going uphill.

"Have you ever seen a fellow backing up a hill? Perhaps you wondered. Well, the answer is he didn't have the Stewart vacuum system."

TO HELP CANDIDATES.

The formation of Republican Women's National Motor Corps was recently announced. The organization of women offered their passenger cars and personal service during the remainder of the Presidential campaign to transport speakers, for parades and for other services in the 4000 counties of the United States.

A knock difficult to locate is sometimes caused by one of the pistons touching a shoulder in the top of the cylinder because the packing between cylinder and crank case has been worn thin. Obviously a thicker packing will cure the trouble.

Wood Insulation

Because most storage batteries have wood insulation do not think that all wood insulation is alike any more than all batteries are alike.

Titan separators have to come up to the same high standard that governs every other material that goes into this battery. They are high grade selected cedar specially treated by a Titan process that gives them exceptionally long life.

The ideal insulation!

TRAP GUN AND ROD

BY TOM MARSHALL

(This is the fifty-sixth of a series of articles dealing with trapshooting, [illegible] and fishing by Capt. Tom Marshall, a noted authority on the [illegible] out-of-doors.)

[illegible] closely pursued with a bear be[illegible]. Why seek scenic beauties and [illegible] of interest abroad when America offers you much greater [illegible] enchantments?

[illegible] Columbia River and adjacent territory offer every inducement the [illegible] exacting tourist, sportsman or angler could desire. This river has [illegible] unlimited ages, by continuous effort, finally carved its course down through the rock spine of the Cascade Mountains, almost to sea level, [illegible] an impressive and mighty [illegible], magnificent in its grandeur.

The Lewis and Clark expedition in 1805, traversed and mapped the Columbia. The United States finally established its claim to ownership [illegible] their maps. Country contiguous to this mighty river was then teeming with game. Those innumerable domes, peaks and pillars, [illegible] from basaltic rock by erosion, in conjunction with the mountains and [illegible] yet covered with virgin timber, will ever provide a home for [illegible] bird and animal life.

On a recent hunting excursion, we [illegible] in the little city of Heffner, [illegible]. From that point I visited the [illegible] fields in quest of ducks, which were reported as destroying crops. Farmers in every instance made us most welcome. Lands adjoining Heffner were headquarters for a vast army of jack rabbits, who branded this [illegible] "Home." During a general [illegible] rabbit exodus, they were [illegible] to cross Columbia River. They immediately preempted Heffner as their permanent abode, colonizing, propagating and multiplying so rapidly their name became legion. The ramifications and ancestors of the rabbit family in that locality can be traced back to the Pilgrim fathers, yet many prefer the distinction of being known as "Native Sons of Oregon."

A few miles east of The Dalles, I visited a section occupied in prehistoric days by an unknown race of people. Their hieroglyphics are chiseled in the face of miniature palisades. Pottery and household effects are found with strange and undeciphered markings. The populace were unquestionably sun worshipers, believing in the incarnation of birds and animals, as indicated by their crude drawings.

Below the Dalles is Mimeloose Island, burying ground for the Lewis and Clark expedition, a locality safe from Indian attack, based upon superstitions surrounding their burying ground located at this point. Victor Trevitt, Indian trader, trapper and white man's friend, is buried on this island. He was ever distrustful of men of his own color, requesting that he be buried among honest men, selecting his Indian followers as grave mates. A monument has been erected to his memory by Oregon pioneers.

At White Salmon Creek, Wash., I stopped, inspecting adjacent scoop-fish wheels, a Columbia River idea and production. They are turned and operated by the swift current, the baskets scoop up traveling salmon as they ascend the river, while hugging the shores to avoid current, on their last journey to their spawning grounds. This "Cascaret-Wheel" works day and night, ever slowly turning. It picks up those scaled beauties to be carried above and dumped into a convenient receptacle, to be later gathered in by fishermen. Oregon's State Game Warden, Carl Shoemaker, advised me that one wheel, operating twenty-four hours had automatically captured seventeen tons of salmon. Some improvement on the noble red man's old-time bone gig.

Question: Understand there are shooting schools established in the East where they teach the art of wing shooting. Is there any school of this character in the West? If so, where would one go to be taught and what is the expense? We enjoy the trap, gun and rod column, you understand the shooting game.

Dayton, O.

DENNIS McMURTY.

Answer: Several schools have been established in the East. They are usually located at some summer or winter resort, are used as an attraction for guests. Annie Oakley is at Pinehurst, N. C. At Atlantic City, N. J., Prof. Hank Stevens has a school on Young's Million Dollar Pier. There is no charge made for instruction, ammunition consumed is the only expense. You will find schools both East and West. Every reputable club is a school, with competent instructors in charge. Shooting information will be freely imparted, by those who know, without money and without price. Many of the major gun clubs keep paid instructors who devote their time free of charge to beginners.

Thanks, am glad you enjoy the trap, gun and rod column.

Q.: Is it possible to propagate and raise Mallard ducks? When they are propagated, do they become domesticated?

Louisville, Ky.

RALPH EDDINGTON.

A.: It is possible, practical and profitable to propagate Mallard ducks. There is a crying demand for wild birds since it has become impossible to purchase wild ducks in the market. Ducks, like game in Yellowstone Park, will become accustomed to the presence of man, imbuing them with confidence in their security from harm. They adapt themselves to surrounding environments, breeding very rapidly if protected from crows, rats and other "varmints" which evince a fondness for young ducks or nested eggs.

OCTOBER BANNER MONTH FOR MOON.

THIRTY DAYS SHOWS LARGEST BUSINESS SINCE THE FIRM'S FOUNDATION.

October was the banner month for the California Motor Company, Southern California distributor of the Moon, according to its manager, F. S. Paden. "We are selling Moon cars almost as fast as we unload them, both retail and through our dealers' organization. Our volume of sales was greater during October than any other month since we have been in business in Los Angeles," he said.

"Unquestionably the big price reduction made by the Moon factory had a great deal to do with this excellent record which promises to be as good if not better this month judging by the start we have made. We are receiving inquiries in person, by telephone and by letter and our demonstrators are on the go early and late. Judging by our own experience, there is more interest displayed right now in quality cars than there has been for several months."

Paden declared that one may have the best motor in his car, or the best transmission, or the best axle, or the best any other one feature, but unless every unit is one of proved reliability one's car is like a chain with a weak link. He said that the unprecedented success of the new series Moon is due to the fact that every feature of both engineering and coach work is of demonstrated quality. While the company is in its new home at 1020 South Figueroa street, due to delay in receiving certain materials, it will be another week or so before the contractors have completed their work.

EASING STRAIN ON AXLE CONSTRUCTION.

When the torque of turning effort of an automobile engine is applied through drive shaft and pinion to turn the rear wheels, or when the brakes are applied, there is a tendency for the whole axle to rotate. Some designers make use of a third arm, or "torque member" to neutralize this turning force, while others employ the "Hotchkiss drive," which consists of the use of the front half of the rear springs to absorb this tendency for the axle to rotate.

"Properly worked out, the Hotchkiss drive has many distinct advantages," declares "Bob" Evans, Southern California distributor for the Paige. "A cleaner, simpler design is made possible, and extra joints and extra weight are eliminated.

"When a car is standing at the curb, for example, and power is suddenly applied by throwing in the clutch, a sudden and severe strain is thrown on the rear axle pinion and ring gear. In the Hotchkiss type of construction this shock is in part neutralized by the flexible action of the rear springs. A saving of wear and tear on these important gears and their bearings adds greatly to the life and quietness of a rear axle."

DEMAND ROUGH ROAD TEST.

"We have been much interested in watching the various kinds of demonstrations, and how carefully some drivers avoid bad roads," says C. R. Morton, Pacific Coast manager for Hare's Motors. "A true demonstration should show the car's performance on bad roads as well as on good ones, and its ability to reach its destination the same day it starts.

"The true test of speed is not the ability to speed up to seventy or eighty miles per hour on a level stretch, but to consistently maintain a speed that will cover the most miles in a day, over all sorts and conditions of roads, with comfort for both driver and passengers.

"Automobile racing has illustrated this nicely. Some imported cars have been capable of tremendous speed until they 'ran out of machinery,' while the prizes have generally gone to cars which maintained a steady speed, mile after mile, and did not have to stop at the pits for anything but gas and tires.

"If the prospective buyer really wants to get an idea of what a car can do, he should insist that a demonstration over rough roads be given as much attention as a drive over the boulevard, where 'stunt driving' is easy for almost any car with a clever driver.

"In Europe, there are two accepted classes of cars—those designed for city use and those designed for long tours. The city car is generally of low horsepower and great flexibility. The 'touring' car is much more powerful, but is geared too high for congested traffic. In America, we expect our motor cars to do equally well in the city or in the country. Consequently the prospective motor owner should insist upon a complete demonstration that will show him what the car will do over bad roads as well as good ones, in the long pull through the country, as well as in congested city traffic."

PREDICTS CAR SHORTAGE.

What will be the condition of the motor car market this winter and next spring?

This question, as it relates to available merchandise, is one which a number of distributors and dealers are concerning themselves with right now, and at least one concern has gone a long way to seek an answer.

With everything pointing now to a shortage of cars even more pronounced within a few months than it was last winter and spring, House and Meyer, Inc., undertook a personal canvass in the leading motor car manufacturing centers of the East.

R. A. Meyer, member of the firm, and G. L. House, service manager of House and Meyer, Inc., Cole distributors, have just returned to Los Angeles from a month's tour which included in their itinerary St. Louis, Chicago, Indianapolis, Sandusky and Cleveland.

"From what we saw and heard," Mr. Meyer declared. "It is our advice to those contemplating the purchase of motor cars to get their orders in now, even if delivery is not wanted until later, because we are convinced that high-grade motor cars will be at a premium before long.

"It is no secret that production has been curtailed, and this curtailment can not be held against the motor car manufacturers, but rather against the parts makers who have laid off thousands of men. This condition slowed up the motor car factories and the lull has been taken advantage of to reshape organizations in a manner that will insure an even higher grade product than heretofore."

A NEW KICK.

Speaking of the bumper corn crop, a Clinton county farmer complains, "The ears of corn are too large—a 1600-pound steer can't eat 'em unless they are chopped up and we have no suitable machinery to chop this year's crop."—[Clinton County Democrat.

NO ESCAPE FOR LIARS.

The Epidiascope Detects Falsehoods in the Making.

Science is not unsympathetic. Newspapers are slightly more so. They have duties to perform that are sometimes irksome. And although the latest unsympathetic instrument of science has not as yet been made applicable to newspapers, but only to spoken words, it does not require much imagination to foresee situations that will be at least pathetic.

For an English physician has discovered a contrivance that will detect, through the accent of the person speaking, whether or not he is telling the truth. It is called the "epidiascope." Its discoverer tells the Royal Society of Medicine that the epidiascope records speech inflection on a blackened revolving drum in such a way that abnormalities are seen long before they can be distinguished by the trained ear of the most experienced doctor.

The instrument is one of the medical achievements of war time, devised to ascertain whether or not the men who asked exemption because they had fits, or some such uncertain and invisible disqualification, were telling the truth or not. After its introduction it was the word of the epidiascope that was finally taken.

The doctor has satisfied himself that there are speech peculiarities for various maladies and also resulting from varying emotions—fear, excitement, enthusiasm, doubt—all of which are distinguishable and can be recorded by the epidiascope.

In the future, it is evident, the epidiascope will be as necessary to the household equipment as the meat chopper. Mounted in silver, it will be a fine present for the bride's mother to choose. Or, what a fine compliment to their son it would be if it were to be given by the groom's parents.

And, outside of the household, they would be wonderful. Equipped with an amplifier, for the courtroom, for instance, jury trial, now becoming so often difficult and extremely costly, might be done away with. All that would be needed is one large-sized epidiascope, equipped to throw its record on a screen, and one normally observing judge.

And then again, during Presidential or gubernatorial campaigns, they would quickly classify fund-raising witnesses, and with them out of jobs the campaigns themselves would be much more economical affairs.—[Sioux City Tribune.

SHARK FISHING IN LOWER CALIFORNIA.

The shark fishing industry is becoming increasingly important in the Ensenada Consular district, writes United States Consul William C. Burdett, stationed in Lower California. The Lower California shark, known locally as the dogfish shark, is from four to five feet long and weighs from 90 to 125 pounds. The fishing is usually done by individual fishermen working out from camps on land. The fish are caught on long set lines, on which are fifty to 100 hooks baited with small fish or lumps of shark meat.

The fins are sold for consumption by Chinese in shark-fin soup. The liver is boiled down and shark oil rendered out. Each liver gives an average of one gallon of oil. The oil is used in paints and as a leather preservative. The skins are not utilized except for fertilizer. Frequently shark steaks are sold by Chinese in the district under the name of grayfish.

The large canneries operating fish fertilizer plants in San Diego, are eager to buy shark, and the newly finished plant at Sauzal, Lower California, expects to specialize on converting shark into fish meal fertilizer. Whereas, formerly sharks caught in nets were separated out from the more valuable fish and returned to the water, they are now brought ashore, although the demand is not yet sufficient to warrant using nets for shark exclusively.

AMONG THE FANS.

[illegible] C. [illegible], the Arizona champion, who claims Phoenix as his place of habitation, was a visitor at the clubrooms last week.

Dr. J. A. [illegible], who has been sojourning in San Francisco the past two or three months, returned a few days ago. Mrs. [illegible] will follow in a few days. Joe is acting as "advance man" for the family, and is in quest of suitable apartments for the winter.

The barred openings will probably not be played in the Banks-Stewart match next spring, as Mr. Stewart has expressed himself as not being in favor of them being included.

James Allen has returned from a week's visit to San Diego.

EARLY TOURIST INFLUX.

"Although the winter tourist season is young, there is already an influx of Peerless owners from the Middle West and from eastern cities as far as Boston and New York," said Stanley W. Smith of Smith Bros., Peerless distributors for Southern California.

"The fact that nearly all the Peerless owners from the Middle West who we are in touch with have driven to Los Angeles and that those from the Atlantic seaboard have shipped their cars, leads us to believe that those from the midwest section are more accustomed to long distance touring than their more eastern brothers. Those from Middle West have driven from Toledo, Chicago, Cincinnati, Cleveland, St. Louis, Kansas City and smaller cities. They generally report the roads in very fair shape and also say that many cars are to be seen daily bound for the land the Golden West.

"I found last year when touring in the East that motorists in the more eastern States are not accustomed to long distance tours. What they classify as a 'long' trip, we would put down as a mere jaunt. In New York State and in the New England States, we had youngsters crowd around our Peerless limousine when we pulled up to the curb and after seeing our license plate cry out: 'It's a California car.' That would attract their elders and frequently we would sit for some time exchanging courtesies and answering questions. Peerless owners now here, predict there will be more tourists here this winter than ever before.

PROPER TIRE INFLATION.

One of the costliest errors made by motor truck drivers is the careless loading of trucks on tires that are not properly inflated. This reckless practice, like the overloading of tires, causes rapid deterioration of equipment. Eventually it means actual cash out of the pocket of the truck owner or operator.

Engineers have made a study of the damage resulting from these common acts of negligence and the reports of their findings are aiding tire companies and truck manufacturers to fight the evil.

The average truck operator or fleet operator will go the limit in devising means of reducing his operating costs to a minimum. He will purchase good tires for his trucks to obtain the most service and mileage for his money, but it doesn't occur to him to give orders against the mistreatment of his tire equipment.

One of the leading tire manufacturing concerns of the country, the Firestone Company of Akron, is cooperating with truck operators to aid them in holding down maintenance costs by distributing to truck manufacturers who equip their output with Firestone tires stocks of handsome zinc etched warning plates to be attached to the cowl of each truck as it leaves the factory.

The plate contains a table showing the carrying capacity of the various-sized tires and giving figures for the proper inflation of each.

CELLS NOT COMPLICATED.

"According to experts, a storage battery does not store electricity at all," says A. J. Tobey, president of the Western Auto Electric Company, "but the term describes that part of automobile equipment well enough so that everybody knows what you mean.

"What really happens inside the battery is a chemical change involving the lead, lead compounds and the acid of the solution. The chemical change is forced along by the charging generator. As soon as the battery is called on to light the lights, spin the starter or do any other work, chemical energy is released and produces the required electric current.

"Though the processes are quite complicated, the battery is remarkably simple and needs little attention. The motorist should see to it that the charge is kept around the 1.250 mark, but it should vary up and down around that point, for if it stays above 1.250 it is a sign that the battery is overcharging and overcharging will ruin a battery in short notice. The battery solution should be kept three-eighths of an inch above the top of the insulation. If car owners will watch these two things, they can be reasonably sure that they are giving the proper amount of attention to this vital part of their car."

ALWAYS WATCHING FOR PIRATE PARTS.

FORD DEALERS HAVE TO DISTINGUISH BETWEEN FAKES AND GENUINE ARTICLE.

An interesting feature of the Ford Service Bulletin, the magazine issued by the Ford Motor Company, to help Ford dealers in their service work, is the department which helps dealers to distinguish between genuine Ford parts and the vast number of spurious Ford parts that have made their appearance on the market in recent years.

In the matter of such parts as Ford connecting rods, for example, it is very important for the dealer to be able to detect "pirate" products. It is a feature of Ford service that if a customer comes in with a connecting rod to be rebabbitted he does not have to wait to have the rod he brings in repaired. Every Ford dealer keeps a stock of rebabbitted connecting rods on hand, and the customer simply exchanges his worn rod for one the dealer has in stock, and pays the cost of rebabbitting.

It is of the utmost importance for the dealer to be certain in making such an exchange as this, that he gets a genuine Ford rod from the customer, according to Mr. Graves. The average spurious connecting rod is usually made of low grade open hearth steel, and is of a quality entirely inadequate to stand the heavy work demanded of a connecting rod. The Ford rods are made of chrome vanadium steel of the highest quality.

The Ford Service Bulletin, consequently, published a list of the counterfeit forging trade-marks used on the spurious Ford parts. Like the cattleman of the early days of the West, who had to be able to recognize every cattle brand within a radius of many miles, the Ford dealer has to be able to recognize at sight of dozen or more of the spurious brands, which makers of Ford "pirate" parts employ.

MEASURE GASOLINE FLOW.

Equipped with a brand new invention that originated in Los Angeles, the Saxon demonstrating cars of the J. V. Baldwin Motor Company have during the past week been the center of the keenest interest on the local automobile row. A small gauge on the dash measures the flow of gasoline through the carburetor as the motor operates and shows exactly the amount of gasoline which the motor is consuming. The gauge must be read in conjunction with the speedometer, and if, for example, the marker on the gauge shows one gallon and the speedometer registers twenty miles per hour, the car is consuming gasoline at the rate of twenty miles per gallon.

ABSOLUTE PROOF.

Not only does the new device give absolute and visible proof of the unusual fuel economy of the new Saxon, but it affords an answer to an endless variety of questions which the motorist hitherto has merely had to guess at. Its use enables the man who rides in the Saxon to see exactly the most economical driving speed at which the car operates.

Just how much added fuel is required to increase the speed of the car from twenty-five to thirty-five miles an hour is instantly recorded by the instrument on the dash, which has passed innumerable and rigid tests as to accuracy. It reminds the motorist unfailingly as to how much gasoline the car is consuming when the motor is idling at the curb. As an aid in adjusting the carburetor at the most economical setting the new device is invaluable.

ENDLESS INTEREST.

"Saxon prospects in the past week have found the device a source of endless interest," said Andrew Baldwin yesterday. "The old method of being compelled to ride while the contents of an auxiliary tank of gasoline were entirely consumed to see the gasoline consumption of a car were tedious and unsatisfactory. The new method is absolutely accurate, as we have proved by test after test, and we frankly believe that it will be only a question of months before every demonstrating car in America carries one of these devices."

SHOWS LITTLE SLUMP IN TRUCK INDUSTRY.

One striking evidence that truck buying will soon be back to normal conditions is evidenced in the action of George Goodrum, general manager of the Commercial Motor Company, Republic truck distributors who is today advertising for four additional experienced truck salesmen.

In commenting on the subject Mr. Goodrum said, "While we cannot complain about trade conditions on the sale of Republic trucks, we have such a large list of truck prospects to look after that our present sales force cannot cover the territory, so for this reason we expect to increase our sales force to take care of the increased demand for Republic trucks."

PISTON RING IS IMPORTANT FACTOR.

CAN GREATLY INCREASE OR DECREASE THE POWER OF YOUR MOTOR.

"When the sales of a piston ring climb from a few thousand to millions per annum, that piston ring must have some emphatic advantage," is the opinion expressed by C. C. Colyear, of the Colyear Motor Sales Company, distributors of the Inland one-piece piston ring.

"A piston ring is simply a metal washer fitted into a groove around a piston head. Its purpose is to maintain a gas tight, oil tight seal between the piston head and cylinder walls.

"A piston ring that admits leakage allows from 15 to 50 per cent of power to escape. It allows gas to get into the crank case, oil in the combustion chamber and causes sooted plugs, carbonized cylinders and pitted valves.

"The proper functioning of any engine depends absolutely upon the piston rings being gas tight. The spiral cut eliminates the gap, and the uncoiling action of the Inland takes up the wear on the cylinder, so that perfect, even gas-tight pressure is continually maintained."

RIGHT TEMPERATURE IN INCLOSED CARS.

AUTOMATIC RADIATOR SHUTTERS GIVE MOTOR SIMILAR DEGREE OF COMFORT.

The inclosed car owes its rapid and tremendous growth in popularity to the single fact that its construction permits the occupants to get just the right temperature to suit their comfort, regardless of weather conditions. Year by year more and more motorists begin to appreciate what a big factor this is in getting real enjoyment from a motor car and a maximum usefulness from it.

"The closed car enthusiast should therefore more quickly appreciate what the automatic radiator shutters of the Columbia six mean to the Columbia motor," declares Andrew Baldwin of the J. V. Baldwin Motor Company. "They mean that the motor as well as the occupants of the car is comfortable, regardless of weather conditions, for they automatically regulate the passage of air through the radiator, and thus positively control the motor temperature, no matter what the temperature of the air may be.

"No other system of controlling the motor temperature approaches this for positive results. The adoption of shutters on the radiators of airplanes intended for high-altitude work is good proof of this fact.

"Hand-controlled shutters have never achieved great popularity, for they demand too much attention from the driver to secure anything like good results. The average motorist rightly demands that his attention in operating his car should be left as much as possible to watching the road and traffic, and the matter of the regulation of the motor temperature should be made automatic, as has been done in the Columbia six."

GOOD CLUTCH A NECESSITY.

While a good clutch will not make a good automobile out of a poor one, nothing is more certain than that a poor clutch will inevitably make a poor automobile out of a good one. The duties of a clutch as a sort of "shock absorber" in the transmission are decidedly strenuous, and the good clutch must possess several different qualities, all of them equally important.

"The clutch which 'grabs' not only makes a car unpleasant to drive, but short-lived and full of troubles as well," declares Harris M. Hanshue, manager of the Los Angeles factory branch of the Apperson Motor Car Company. "When a clutch 'takes hold' too quickly the power impulse of the spinning motor and fly-wheel is transmitted like a tremendous hammer blow through the entire driving mechanism. Drive shaft, gears, axle, wheel and tire all feel the effect of the blow, and the life of each is impaired by the unnecessary strain.

"On the other hand, nothing is more aggravating than a car with a clutch that slips when you get into hard going of any sort. No matter how good your motor is, you are distinctly out of luck if the clutch will not engage firmly enough to transmit its last ounce of power to the driving wheels. If you can spin your rear wheels, there is hope for you to get out of sand or mud by getting better traction under your rear wheels. But if your clutch does the spinning, you had better hunt a team.

"No single part of the Apperson car came in for more careful attention from the Apperson engineers than did the Apperson clutch."

PACKARD "SINGLE SIX"

The Ten Year Car

The long expected Packard lightweight car is here—a tribute to the Packard name.

It is Packard in quality and in appearance—without compromise—a radically new standard in the medium price field.

A letter from the Packard Company says: "Our determination to serve a larger class without sacrificing Packard principles has, after five years of intensive work, resulted in the Single Six—a car worthy of Packard traditions."

We say candidly that, aside from the Twin Six, the Single Six is the most highly perfected mechanical unit the automotive industry has ever seen. Its records of efficiency would be almost unbelievable if they were not signed by Packard.

The figures below, furnished to us by the Packard factory, are, to our certain knowledge, an understatement of the case.

You are cordially invited to view the Single Six in our show room.

• • • • •

"Extensive road tests amounting to more than three years normal driving (25,000 miles) show the Single Six capable of 17 miles per gallon of gasoline; 2,000 miles per gallon of oil; 25,000 miles on front tires; 17,000 miles on rear tires."

the last objection is removed! It holds the union securely closed, and you never find it on any union but the Vanity Fair.

This is only one of the Vanity Fair creations that is unusual! The vest is longer and the straps stay on the shoulder where they belong. The Knickers have a double back. The Pettibocker combines frilly petticoat with comfortable knicker, while the Step-In Envelope has neither snaps nor buttons. The Vanties have the coolness of open drawers and very much more attractive!

The Vanity Fair label in your silk underwear means that you have something really advanced! You will find them at all the better shops.

Three little arts that develop attractiveness

HERE are three simple little arts employed by many beautiful women, which will promptly make your skin more attractive!

First, you can increase its beauty by just powdering the right way. For this a special cream is needed as a base for powder, a cream which disappears instantly. Pond's Vanishing Cream does just this. It is made entirely without oil. The moment you apply it, it vanishes, never to reappear in an unpleasant shine. Before you powder soften the skin and smooth down the roughnesses by lightly rubbing a bit of Pond's Vanishing Cream on your face. Now apply the powder. This gives a smooth, velvety look. It makes the powder stay on two or three times longer.

YOU can protect the texture and color of your skin from exposure by applying the right protective cream. For this, as for the powder base, of course you must have a cream that will disappear. Pond's Vanishing Cream disappears instantly and will not crop out again in a hateful shine. Before you go out apply a bit of Pond's Vanishing Cream. In this way your complexion will be finer in texture, purer in color instead of being coarsened, chapped and yellowed.

SMALL particles of dust and grime are constantly being ground into the pores of your skin. It is they that give your face a dull, muddy look. To remove them and make your skin fresh and clear, you need a very different cream, a cream with an oil base, to dissolve the dust. Not Vanishing Cream, for this has no oil, but a pure cream with an oil base. Pond's Cold Cream has just the right amount of oil to remove all the dust that lodges deep in the pores. At night give your pores a deep, thorough cleansing with Pond's Cold Cream.

Every normal skin needs these two creams. Neither cream fosters the growth of hair.

Get a jar or tube of both creams today at any drug or department store. Then follow these little rules and you will be amazed at the new beauty your skin will gain. Bit by bit you will become more and more attractive.

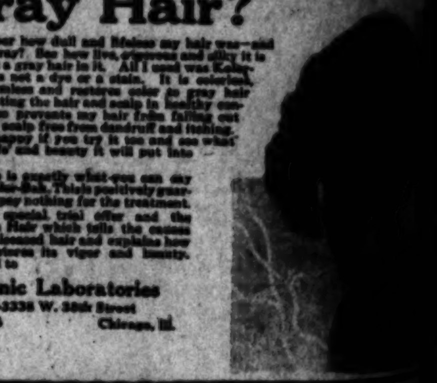
Why Should YOU Have Gray Hair?



"Remember how dull and lifeless my hair was—and mixed with gray? See how live, vigorous and silky it is now—and not a gray hair in it. All I used was Kolor-Bak. No, it's not a dye or a stain. It is colorless, stainless, harmless and restores color to gray hair simply by putting the hair and scalp in healthy condition. It also prevents my hair from falling out and keeps my scalp free from dandruff and itching. You will be happy if you try it too and see what wonderful life and beauty it will put into your hair."

The above is exactly what you can say after using Kolor-Bak. This is positively guaranteed or you pay nothing for the treatment.

CALIFORNIA RIPE OLIVES.

THE FUTURE OF THE RIPE OLIVE

The Garden Beautiful in Southern California.

INFORMATION BOTH PRACTICAL AND SCIENTIFIC. BY ERNEST BRAUNTON.

A Giant Amazon Lily plant (Victoria Cruziana,) showing all the leaves and one flower—place of E. D. Sturetevant, Hollywood.

DURING September water gardens are at their best. The last week in August with the first week of September is usually the best time for Victoria regia, the giant lily of the Amazon River, and its hardier congener, V. Cruziana, which grows farther south. Both plants are annuals, and each year make enormous growth in four months from a seed the size of a pea.

The plant was discovered by Haenke in Bolivia in 1801, next by B. Onpland in Argentina, in 1819. In 1832 Poeppig found it on the Amazon and described it as Euryale Amazonica. Others had seen it at odd times, but none had described it until R. H. Schomburgk found it on the Berbic River in 1836, and sent specimens to England, which were described in 1837 by the botanist Lindley and published in 1838 as Victoria regia, that being the species sent to him. The more southerly and hardier species seen was named V. Cruziana in 1840, in honor of Gen. Santa Cruz of Bolivia.

A close-up of the Giant Amazon Lily flower, somewhat wilted in the sunshine.

The first flower to blossom "in captivity" was the species P. regia, at Chatsworth, Eng., Nov. 8, 1849, and was presented to Queen Victoria. From this beginning seeds were sent to Europe and America. The first flower in this country was obtained on Aug. 21, 1851, by the late Thomas Mechan, then gardener to Caleb Cope of Philadelphia. The first importation of the seed with subsequent successful growth was made by E. D. Sturtevant, then of Bordentown, N. J., now a resident of Hollywood and owner of the pond so often pictured in this department. The species grown here is not V. Regia, but V. Cruziana.

Street Planting.

With variety decided on for a given frontage, street, or neighborhood, how may the trees be best planted and cared for? In the East, with their slow-growing, hardwood varieties, to secure effects as quickly as possible, large trees are chosen for city streets and country roadsides. With our quick-growing varieties we much prefer small trees, grown in cans, for best results as well as economy. We can get more satisfactory trees at a fraction of the cost in eastern cities. Join together and do the work cheaply and uniformly for each street or district.

Civic Improvement.

Every city has one or more organizations looking toward its civic welfare. Los Angeles has perhaps a score. Some of our more progressive smaller cities and towns are also well cared for. But many towns and rural districts are unorganized and, furthermore, have no one to preach the gospel of civic improvement. These centers should be reached by some organization having the means to cover the territory. Did we have a Southern California central organization composed of all civic bodies, we should then have the opportunity as well as the means to send our missionaries to those who hunger for better surroundings. The problem has been solved in some States and the work carried on until improvement is noted everywhere, while in others little has been done except to preach how to get another dollar out of real estate, and adornment of the homes, roadsides, parks, etc., has been left off the program. In our State, which should lead all others in this class of work, little has been done to better home conditions, and over large areas or districts no county improvement associations exist.

Choosing Street Trees.

Trees are like humans in that they vary in character. Some species must have a pure, dry, dustless atmosphere or they are rapidly consumed by a sort of vegetable tuberculosis. Others are seemingly of such strength and endurance that they bear up under the stifling influence of dust, smoke, gases, mechanical injuries and an insufficiency of air, food and water. From the latter class we must choose our street trees. And in the choosing, we must consider their characters and habits. We want trees of handsome appearance, noble bearing, and above all, cleanly; trees which are dressed in their "Sunday best" every day in the year. Some trees are naturally unkempt, ragged, crooked, dirty in the constant dropping of litter, and lacking in beauty. Avoid these for streets.

Australian Glory Pea.

One of the showiest of plants, perhaps the most showy of the great family of legumes (the bean and pea family,) is the Australian glory pea, Clianthus Dampieri. In Southern California it has been very sparingly grown for years, and it is well worth a trip on the part of any flower lover, to the garden where it may be found. Doubtless some are growing it locally, but it is rarely seen. The plant is a perennial, but is so impatient of disturbance, overwatering, etc., that it generally proves an annual with most growers. Its brilliant scarlet, black-blotched flowers will certainly attract the attention of everyone, as it has the brightest color in its family, and in contrast with its silvery foliage is probably the most striking in appearance when grown to perfection. It is decidedly a matter of regret that a plant possessing such distinct beauty should be so rarely seen in local gardens, for it is well adapted to our clime.

An Attractive Street.

The street through Chester Place, a private extension of Estrella avenue from Twenty-third street to Adams, is one of the most attractive in Los Angeles, yet not better than all residence streets may be if the people so will. Chester Place presents the most attractive piece of complex street planting in the city. Many kinds of trees and plants are used, and while the planting could be much improved by using fewer sorts, there exists a rather harmonious effect for the reason that all the subjects are of a tropical nature. Were this true of our streets, the general effect would be much more pleasing. In connection with palms, which are decidedly tropical in appearance, large-leafed trees, like the rubber, should be used. The pepper tree, while from the tropics, is out of place in this scheme. There are a few fine-leafed trees in Chester Place that do not harmonize with the majority of subjects used; nevertheless, the whole effect is much admired and the purpose of this article is not to criticise but to commend.

The Silver Tree from South Africa (Leucadendron argentifolia,) rarest tree in California.

The genus calamus, to which the rattan palms belong, embraces several species containing the strongest and most durable of all fibers. Hats, shoes, clothing, carpets, rugs and many other useful articles are made from this tough material. Unfortunately for us, these palms require a tropical clime and could not be encouraged to grow in ours, however seductive. In the far eastern tropics, India and thereabouts, they are the most useful plants in a land that fairly teems with vegetation of high economic value.

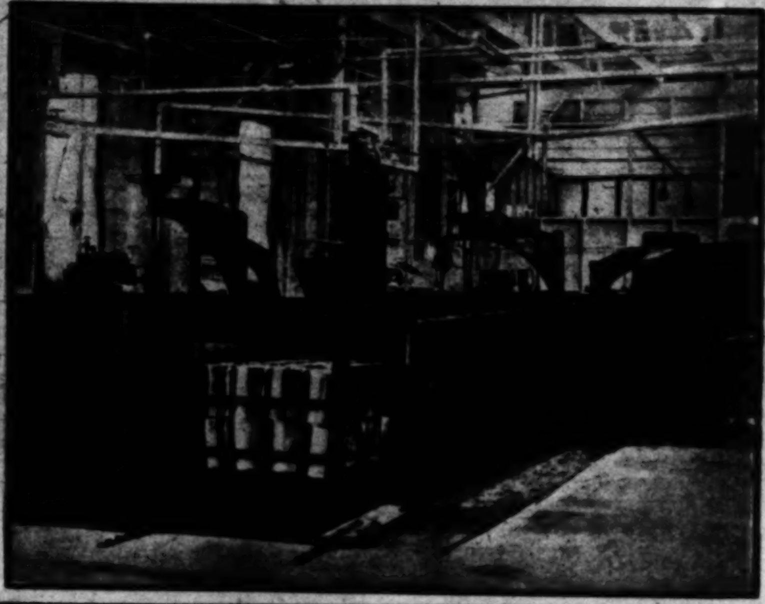
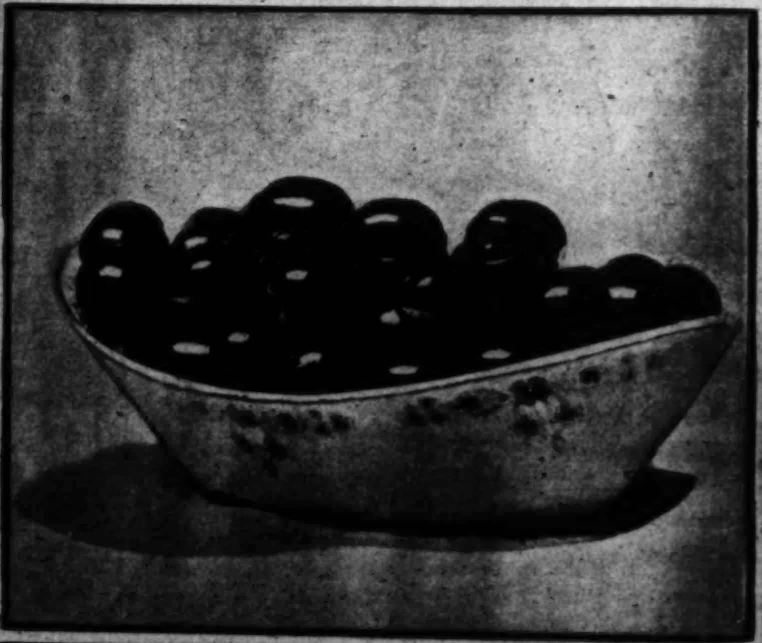
The California Ripe Olive from Tree to Table.

Picking olives in the quarter century-old Sylmar grove near San Fernando.

Scrupulous care is taken in sorting olives at the factory after they are processed, so as to allow only sound fruit of the proper color to go into the pack.



In every olive packing plant in California, in accordance with the recent ruling of the State Board of Health, are to be found retorts similar to those in which the canned ripe olives are kept at a temperature of 240 deg. Fahr. for forty minutes. The precaution, which is in line with the rigid "safety first" methods being adopted on a national scale by canners of all food products, makes the ripe olive almost literally "safer than safe."



The delicious and nutritious ripe olive of California is gradually winning an important place on the American bill of fare.

How to Restrain the Hens From Aviating.

OFF COLOR IN PLUMAGE. BY HENRY W. KRUCKEBERG.

Ducks Dressed for Market.

MISS ALICE HARPER, an occasional contributor to the poultry lore of the Farm and Tractor Section of The Times, gives some personal experiences and suggestions that appeal more strongly to the novice and the fancier than to the commercial poultry farmer. We cheerfully give place to her ideas, which follow:

"With the advent of cold weather it will be judicious to watch the fowls go to bed, and see that none roost in trees. If any resist precautions (and insist upon roosting in the trees) their wings must be cut. One gets hints of the wild and of freedom at seeing beautiful birds roosting in trees, and during the summer may indulge them, but as the rainy season approaches, a fancier's birds must be made to like captivity. Clipping the wings adapts them to this condition. The show birds must be put into a pen by themselves, and where there are no trees, or be carried to the house roost each night and confined. Their wings must not be clipped, of course. When all the day is rainy, hens will voluntarily roost in the house, but if a rain comes on after they have taken flight into a tree, and it is dark, they will sit and take the rain all night. Many a fowl has not minded a night out in the rain, but many have taken colds. If one part of the body is not well covered, the rain will get into the skin and course all around, as it will do on a roof where a small leak exists in the shingles.

"It is interesting to ask advice of experienced breeders concerning the cutting of wings. As a novice, I asked a man who must have had the best of sense, but must have had a different breed of chickens from mine. He told me to cut the flight feathers of only one wing, and explained in a matter-of-fact way that if one wing were cut the bird could not fly because of lack of balance. His birds did not fly, but mine did. I had a six-foot wire run about my birds and he a four-foot. Another breeder told me I had freak birds and must cut both wings. My bantams flew like pigeons with only one wing cut, and heavy Dorkings would roost ten feet high in a tree with only one wing cut. I thought it must be I did not know how to cut the wing scientifically, but after noting the advice of many, took the word of a veteran whose birds did not fly that specimens of the same breed do not accept the cutting of one wing alike. One who has been flying, he says, finding one wing disabled, may give up trying to fly; the light birds give up more easily, being more nervous and more susceptible and suspicious of change. The cutting of one wing, he declares, really does not change the balance perceptibly; robust specimens can fly, if they wish to, with one wing, and quite probably will not give up flying. The more petted one's birds are the more faith they have in themselves, in everything and everybody; birds, from whom fear has been guarded, who eat out of one's hand, and can be happily handled, are almost sure to fly with one full-feathered wing.

"A fellow breeder who cuts the wings most artistically advises: Take the hen carefully into the lap and holding her firmly with the left arm, with the left hand spread the wing out flat and cut carefully with the right hand and a pair of sharp shears, every other feather of the wing, being careful not to cut them too short, but short enough to prevent them from making a flight wing. A little experience will tell one the best length. When the wings are folded the cut feathers will not show. There are a few birds who will fly with those feathers off; with such cut-off a few more feathers in each wing, so the wing cannot ride the air at all. This latter kind of bird is extremely interesting; generally lays eggs with persistence, defies skunks and dogs and cats in the rearing of young, and molts with decision, being in business nearly the entire year."

Laying Eggs a Deliberate Process.

Did you ever stop to think that the laying of an egg was a deliberate function of the hen? That the "urge" that makes the performance natural represents the working out of natural law, and that really it has to be? Heredity is partly responsible, and in a measure accounts for high fecundity; but in the main nature proposes to perpetuate her kind. Now a deliberate function requires the proper environment and contented conditions—nothing can operate properly while the bird is under stress, worry and fret. When productions count for so much, why is it that many poultry breeders allow their flocks to be wanting in physical comforts? And why do they tolerate those in the flock that are non-profitable producers? For sure it is that for non-laying hens to be provided with "all the comforts of home" and then fail to pay their board is anything but pleasant.

In most things a deliberate process signifies time in its accomplishment. An egg is a finished product and hence requires time in the making, even in the finishing department. According to observations made by Prof. Turpin, the average time spent on the nest is 1 hour and 25 minutes for each of two tests made with White Leghorns, and 1 hour and 45 minutes and 1 hour and 49 minutes respectively, in two tests with Rhode Island Red hens, and 2 hours, 16 minutes in one test with a flock of White Plymouth Rocks. When the total time spent by the hens on nests when not laying was added to the total time spent when laying, an average of about two hours for each egg produced was found in each case. The proportion of the total time spent on the nest before and after the egg was actually delivered varied greatly. At least one nest for each four or five hens seems to be required to fully meet the needs of the average flock.

If the observations of Prof. Turpin are true, the failure to provide sufficient nests explains why hens seek nests on the floor, and thus by putting eggs in the way to be broken engender the habit of egg eating.

Off Color in Plumage.

Mrs. G. W. G., writes for an explanation for abnormal changes in color of plumage in certain of her fowl. Here is her story:

"Four years ago I bought a year-old Black Minorca hen with perhaps a slight strain of Ancona. The first time she molted, she came out white with exception of four or five black feathers; next time was all white; and she's now molting again, and bids fair to turn back to a black hen or at least an Ancona. I'm not up in henology, and the physiology of this responsibility is too much for me. Please tell me what's the meaning of it? Said hen came of selected stock."

When we allow for the fact that the original colors of the jungle fowl, from which all our domesticated breeds have been bred through the ages, were red and black, it is not surprising that there should be variations in color of plumage; quite to the contrary, it would be strange if there were no variations at all. In breeding black-breasted Red Game Bantams we have now and then had pure whites "come" in the flock. Now what produced white pigmentation, or the absence of pigmentation, in these so-called "sports?" But this may be beside our correspondent's specific query, which we turned over to J. V. McConnell, a black Minorca breeder of years of experience, who replied as follows:

"Any black or heavy colored fowl loses pigment power during the molt if not in the best of condition. Lice sometimes will cause a few white feathers or an injured pin feather will often come in white; but when a bird molts in solid white the loss of pigment power is the reason. What causes this is not definitely known, but at molting time a fowl is at its lowest vitality, hence heart action is weak. It is reasonable to suppose that general excessive torn-down condition of tissue would greatly affect the pigment in the feathers; it does in the amount of luster on a bird, and part of the secret of really phenomenal color in a bird is to have it in the proper condition to feather; you then get the utmost of your breeding. So far as I know, no one has been able to tell why a black bird will at times molt in white. I have had several birds do this at one time or another, but never one of my own strain, so I am inclined to believe there has been other blood in many of the birds that have molted in off colors. While I believe the White Minorca originated as sports from the blacks, I have never had anything to do with one of these birds that molted in white that would not breed black chicks mated to a black male. Wherever this stock, however, was used, white in plumage will crop out from season to season."

Permanganate of Potash and Bluestone.

T. L. B., Los Angeles, writes as follows for information touching on the use of bluestone in poultry culture:

"I have been informed that a very successful poultry farmer, a woman, by the way, has no fear of the "roupy" season, so often a source of worry among us "backyarders." In spite of cleanly conditions, clean fresh water and balanced food, etc., our flock occasionally shows symptoms of roup. This lady poultry farmer, I am told, uses nothing but "bluestone" as a preventative as well as a treatment, and of this I wish to make inquiry: (1.) Is the "bluestone" referred to, what we know as blue vitrol or sulphate of copper? (2.) Using it in the drinking water, what quantity is used? In lump or powdered? (3.) How prepared; and in what quantity if used in dry or wet mash? (4.) How often or what length of time should it be used as a remedy? As a preventative? (5.) What is your personal opinion regarding its use?"

The use of poor fillers, especially second-hand ones, is responsible for much breakage of eggs in boxes.

Keep After the Lice.

The books say that bluestone is in the phraseology of the chemist blue vitrol. The chief value of bluestone in poultry operations is mainly as a disinfectant. The usual way in which it is used is with permanganate of potash. Make a saturated solution of potash and add a piece of bluestone the size of a hazelnut to a pint of solution. Use in the drinking water and give it only in earthen jars, as it will corrode metal vessels. For a preventive use only enough to give the water a good wine color; for bad colds the quantity can be reasonably increased. Some breeders recommend dipping the heads of ailing birds in this solution, first made lukewarm. If bluestone is used alone it should be in solution, say a piece about the size of a pea to a quart of water. The combination of potash and bluestone is practically the base of many germicide preparations. As a preventive many use it during the fall and spring, when climatic changes are apt to engender colds much as we find such ailments in human beings. As to length of time, that is purely conditional. When the birds become normal and are apparently robust and vigorous its use can be withdrawn. Its application in the mash foods does not appeal.

What About Cross-eyed Hens?

So keen a student of fowls as Prof. W. R. Graham, of Guelph, Canada, in a recent lecture said that "There are some hens that are cross-eyed; the eyes are focused on the end of the nose. As near as we can tell, you want to discount such hens in the neighborhood of twenty eggs a year for looking at the end of their noses. When we learned the history of the birds, we discovered that there was an inclination for those that were closely related to be cross-eyed; whether that is true in all cases or not, we cannot tell you, but in the birds we have had around the plant here there is that trouble [illegible] them, and there is a considerable number of chickens in the laying competition whose ancestry we know were cross-eyed; also, of the chickens shown at the winter shows, as far as we looked over them, 40 per cent were cross-eyed." Can it be that eggs and eyes are interrelated? How many high layers in recent egg-laying contests were cross-eyed? Are we to understand that character of eye is to assume the importance of pelvic bones in the selection of good layers? What next?

DEHYDRATING CONVENTION.

In connection with the California Fruit Growers and Farmers Convention at Fresno, November 9 to 12, a dehydration convention will be held, under the auspices of the University of California and the State Department of Agriculture. Among the men who will address the convention will be F. F. Nichols, W. V. Cruess, and A. W. Christy, of the State University, and F. T. Swett of the California Pear Growers' Association.

FARM AND TRACTOR SECTION.

Devoted to the multiform agricultural interests of the great Southwest and issued every week with the world's biggest Sunday newspaper.

EDITED BY HAROLD M. FINLEY.

Communications from practical farmers, ranchers, stock raisers, poultrymen, gardeners and others engaged either in a large or small way in the vital work of food production are gladly received.

Good clear photographs of interesting farm and garden activities are always welcomed. The Los Angeles Times Farm and Tractor Section is the only farm journal in the west printing illustrations in the incomparable rotogravure process.

A Worthy Precedent.

TO THE California Olive Association is due the credit for setting a precedent in the manufacture of food products that, if generally heeded, as it should be, will eliminate for all time the cases of ptomaine that continue to furnish excuses for horror stories in yellow, sensational newspapers.

This bogie to the food-consuming public has apparently been met and overcome.

Until recently most camers have been satisfied with frequently repeated warnings, both in the press and on the labels of all varieties of canned goods, to "boil contents before using." But human nature has always suffered from its own carelessness or ignorance, and will continue so to suffer unless it is protected.

The California Olive Association has gone directly to the bottom of the matter.

Last winter the association helped to raise a fund of one hundred thousand dollars to investigate the cause of spoiled foods and find means to overcome it. The ablest scientists in the country were employed to carry on extensive investigations, with instructions to continue their work until they had found an effective remedy.

What these scientists discovered sounds very simple, but it is very important to the consumers of prepared foods. One of the causes of food spoilage is a germ known as Bacillus botulinus. This germ can be killed by a temperature of 240 deg. Fahrenheit maintained for forty minutes.

The Olive Association has secured the co-operation of the California State Board of Health to have a ruling written into the laws of the State that no olives may be packed for sale in California that have not been sterilized at this temperature for the time specified. The olive men suffered heavily through unfavorable publicity given their product as the result of a few poisonings attributed to ripe olives, but they did not lose heart because of their misfortune. They have gone after the problems in a two-fisted, he-man fashion and they deserve the thanks and appreciation of the entire country for it. When the public really understands how small was the foundation upon which the olive scare was based the action of the olive men will seem all the bigger.

The guarantee of their product now secured is bound to give the public a confidence in ripe olives that will soon repay the association for its great expenditure of money and effort. It will be reassuring indeed to know that the ripe olive, the last product ever to be charged with causing poisoning, will henceforth be "safer than safe."

It is to be hoped that the manufacturers of all other food products will not be long in profiting by the precedent set by the California Olive Association and that the public mind will be freed for all time from the old-time bogie of ptomaine.

How About It?

THE votes have been counted, and many new faces will soon appear in the halls of Congress. Another man will occupy the President's chair. Will the new Congress, the new President, lend a more willing ear to the urgent needs of American agriculture? Will the new Secretary of Agriculture have a more sympathetic understanding of farming, of marketing, and of laws needed to protect the farmer from the difficulties which now beset him?

More important than the extension of agricultural education and experimentation to the farmstead, or even the bettering of transportation facilities from the farm to the city, is an investigation, and the publication broadcast of the results of that investigation, into the mysterious processes of marketing by which the farmer is deprived of a large portion of his earnings, and the consumer is forced to pay a price all out of proportion to the price received by the grower. The general public is entitled to know what happens in the interim between the time the farmer is paid for his produce at the market and the time that produce appears in the retailer's stalls. The farmer wants the consumer to know just what margin of profit he actually receives for his crops. The United States Department of Agriculture can place this knowledge before the people, but despite urgent demands for the data it persists in publishing produce prices which represent, not what the farmer receives for his wares, but what the retailer and consumer are forced to pay at their respective markets.

The Times Farm and Tractor Section, some weeks ago, called attention to the fact that the market prices for farm produce as published by the Bureau of Markets represented, not what the farmer obtained for his year's work, but what the middleman, and the wholesaler received. At the same time a concrete example was cited to show that someone was receiving in a day more than a grower was getting for an entire year's effort and expense. The article brought a response from the bureau, a representative of which stated that it was impracticable to quote prices received by the producer; that the farmer did not want the figures published, and that it would not help agriculture to publish them. It may be that the bureau is doing all it can do with its existing facilities, but the defense made obviously does not cover the protest.

The farmer and the public are entitled to have the strong light of publicity turned on the question, "Where does the consumers' dollar go to?

Farm Machine Costs.

ALTHOUGH farm implement and machine lines have advanced, on the average, about 100 per cent over pre-war prices, this advance has not been in proportion to the increase in the price of the raw material that goes to make tractors and farm tools, according to those who ought to know. House builders know that such items as steel, woods, paint and machined metal have advanced from 125 to 300 per cent, an average of about 140 per cent for all materials going into the make-up of these lines. Some lines of merchandise are unquestionably due for a fall in price—those which show too great a contrast between the cost of production and the wholesale price, but implement manufacturers say this does not mean farm machines and tools, for these, they declare, have not advanced in proportion to the average cost of other necessities.

OIL STOPS SAND DUNES.

Oiling highways between sand dunes in the Columbia River country has stopped traveling sand dunes, it is reported from The Dalles, Or., and this method will probably be tried on the road between Holtville, Cal., and Yuma, Ariz., where it is almost impossible to maintain a passable road at certain times of the year.

RIPE OLIVES A HORTICULTURAL MONOPLY OF BRIGHT PROMISE.

BY FRANK SIMONDS,

President, California Olive Association.

Pruning Olive Trees in a Big Southern California Orchard.

THIS year marks the beginning of a new epoch in the ripe olive industry. To be sure, for the 1500 California growers and the 8000 persons employed in supplying the world with ripe olives, this is a year for despondency. According to Secretary Meredith's statement, owing to the wide-spread unfavorable publicity of last winter, the season's demand for olives has fallen off materially, occasioning a loss to the industry of something over $4,500,000.

To the few far-sighted men who are the moving factors of the indsutry, however, this is but the darkness before the dawn, presaging a more universal demand for ripe olives in the future.

The reasons for this confidence are easily analyzed. In 1919 California itself, with only a little over 3 per cent of the country's population, consumed 40 per cent of the year's crop of ripe olives. In previous years the percentage consumed in California was much higher.

Why was this? California was acquainted with ripe olives and the East was not. Millions of people in the East had never heard of them. Those who had heard of them thought of them as something exotic and unusual.

As a result of the "left-handed" publicity given the ripe olive several months ago, it is doubtful if there is any one in America who has not heard of ripe olives, in unpleasant connections, to be sure, but heard of it nevertheless. The name of the product is certainly well fixed now in the people's mind.

When constructive publicity issuing from the California Olive Association has followed in the wake of the adverse newspaper stories, the unpleasant mental associations with ripe olives will gradually disappear, as indeed they are now disappearing, and the demand throughout the country will gradually approach the per capita proportions existing in California.

As a result of these conditions two things are likely to happen. First, many of the smaller growers who see no farther than the present year's market and who will become discouraged by their inability to market their crop profitably, will try to sell their groves or at least fail to give them the proper cultural attention. Second, men whose vision enables them to see the future profit to be derived from this product that is a monopoly of the State, will buy up groves at a low figure and continue to plant out young trees to meet the future demand.

THE OLIVE'S PRODUCTS.

For the benefit of both of these classes a few notes upon the planting and culture of the olive may not be out of place at the present time.

The growing of olives is not unlike the establishment of other industries in that before the final success is accomplished, a great many failures are experienced, these very failures teaching us the proper methods of making a success with the crop.

A large part of the original acreage that was planted to olives was started at a time when the California ripe olive as commercially prepared for the market today, was unknown. As a result, when this product established a foothold, some of the varieties that were planted for the making of olive oil were not suited for the new purpose. The product from our olive trees is commercially convertible into both the ripe olive and olive oil. In marketing the latter we are obliged to compete in price with the cheap labor of the Mediterranean countries; consequently the outlook for the grower of oil olives under present handling of the tariff program does not encourage him greatly to extend his investments. We therefore find our solution in the growing of the fruit for conversion into ripe olives, a product especially adapted to California and not in competition with a similar product in any other part of the world.

The ripe olive being a new product, the education of the consuming public to create a demand for it is an important item in marketing. This educational process has been going on for a number of years and now it seems to have reached a stage where its progress will be more and more rapid.

STANDARD VARIETIES.

Now that the ripe olive is getting to be well known, it is important that there be no lost motion in the industry The proper selection of the variety of fruit to be planted is one of the things to be considered with care. There are two varieties that are considered as acceptable, with others that are admissable with more or less reserve.

The Mission seems to have escaped criticism and stands at the head of the list with all packers. The shape of the Mission is preferable to that of all other varieties and it will stand adverse weather conditions better than any other. The Manzanillo has an advantage in that it ripens a few weeks earlier than the Mission, consequently in those locations in the State where frost in the early winter months occurs the Manzanillo is usually harvested and out of the way of danger before the weather which is cold enough to destroy the fruit arrives.

The prospective grower of olives should acquaint himself thoroughly with the characteristics relative to the different varieties of fruit and then check the information so gained with reliable data for the different locations in the State used for the growing of olives. Each grower should study carefully the soil and weather conditions of his particular section and apply care to his trees in accordance with the demands of nature in his individual location.

While the olive may be considered the most exclusive California product we have, it requires much care in order to realize the best and most profitable results, but even with the giving of such care, it is not so expensive to raise as many other products. The olives require irrigation at critical periods, but its demand for water is not so great as to make this factor unreasonable as to cost.

The olive has the longest life of any fruit tree grown and unless caution is exercised, the grower is liable to drift into an idea that on account of the extreme age the olive tree attains, it does not require the care that other fruit trees of shorter life demand. This conclusion is wrong and is one that has cost the growers of olives in California many thousands of dollars.

While a tree will live without care, it does not produce fruit of the proper quality or in sufficient quantities to prevent the investment from showing a loss. On the other hand, if the tree is given a reasonable amount of care, it will respond as regularly with fruit of a good quality as will any tree grown.

PLANTING ORCHARDS.

To give adequate instructions for olive culture that would have universal application would be difficult. The purpose may be served by a description of the writer's practice in the Sylmar grove near San Fernando.

In this grove extreme care is exercised in handling all nursery stock, which first of all must have a good root system. The great secret of successful planting is never to allow the roots even to begin to dry. The moment the roots of an olive tree are exposed to the air we puddle them, which

SEVENTY CENTS FOR TURKS PREDICTED.

EL CENTRO.—Retail prices for Imperial Valley turkey this year will not exceed 70 cents a pound, in the opinion of Arthur C. Rath of Rath & and Marshall, and the indications are that the price to growers will be around 42 cents, or approximately the same as it was last year.

Mr. Rath bases his prediction on the somewhat demoralized conditions of the egg and poultry market at the present time, which have resulted in prices for chickens dropping between 6 and 7 cents a pound during the past week. This is due to immense stocks of poultry being thrown on the market in Missouri and Eastern States. This condition has just reached the Pacific Coast.

Definite prices for turkeys will not be known for a week or ten days, according to Mr. Rath, who states that the Texas turkey will then be thrown on the market. Prices there will be reflected by prices on the Pacific Coast. The Pacific Coast turkey will not be sufficient to supply Coast trade this year and it will be necessary to import Texas birds.

As for the Imperial Valley turks, Mr. Rath states that there is not much over half a crop this year. This is due to lack of fertility in turkey eggs and the poor hatching season last spring. Normally the valley ships out between 40,000 and 60,000 birds.

He believes that growers will make a mistake if they hold their birds until after the holidays this year in the hope of higher prices and advises all to market them before the Thanksgiving and Christmas holidays. The cold-storage market is in a chaotic condition and he believes that few birds will be placed in storage this winter.

Referring to prices of $1 a pound in some Coast cities, he says that these are visionary. The reports work more harm than good, he says, for they lead the farmer to hold his product in the expectation of higher prices and scare the public from buying, thus creating an artificial shortage which can only end in a crash.

METHOD OF DRESSING DUCKS ON THE RANCH.

Ducks may be dressed by dry picking, by scalding or by steaming. Their condition is best judged by the amount of flesh on their backs. The methods used in dry picking poultry are also used with ducks, although the latter are harder to pick. The ducks are generally killed by sticking in the mouth or through the throat with a knife which has a narrow blade about four inches long, and then stunned by a blow on the back of the head with a short club; or the knife may be inserted just back of the eye. To facilitate handling in scalding and picking a hook is run into the duck's mouth, coming out through the nostril. The long tail feathers are left on the ducks, the wings are picked to the first joint and the neck halfway to the head. Long pinfeathers usually are removed with a dull knife.

Ducks may be steamed and picked, thus saving the feathers without artificial drying; and as duck feathers are of considerable value, their sale is quite an important item. The wing and tail feathers are pulled and thrown to one side before steaming the ducks. Six or eight ducks, which have been stuck and hung up to bleed, are placed on hooks in the top of a steam box or barrel which can be made airtight and steamed until the soft feathers on the breast come off easily.

The length of time to leave them in the box depends on the temperature of the steam, varying from one-half to two minutes.

Two sets of pickers usually pluck the ducks on large duck farms; one set, called the roughers, removing the bulk of the feathers, while the other set of pickers, called the pinners, removes the down and some of the smaller feathers. A good method for removing the down is to sprinkle powdered rosin over the duck's body and dip the bird into hot water, which melts the rosin so that the down and rosin can be rubbed off easily with the hand, leaving the body clean. When carefully steamed the birds rarely show any signs of scalded flesh. In some cases the ducks are hung in the steam box with the heads outside, thus preventing the head from being steamed; but when the birds are steamed as suggested the heads are not discolored.

Farm News of the Great Southwest

DOWN-TO-DATE REPORTS FROM TIMES CORRESPONDENTS

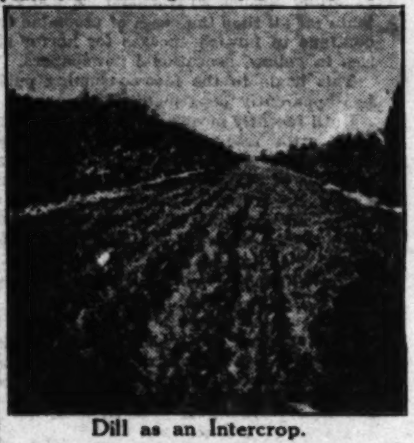
REDLANDS.—The eastern farmer who comes to California is very often heard to remark that California oranges and deciduous fruits are all right, but that dear "so and so" place back East is the place to raise wheat and corn. But several of the farmers of this section have been proving for several years that wheat and corn can be raised here to good advantage; that thirty bushels of wheat to the acre is what California land will produce. "The thing that the eastern farmer often forgets," said a Redlands farmer, "is that California soil is a two-crop soil, and that the farmer here can get more money out of fruits and such things than from wheat and corn." A. Gregory, who has a dairy farm west of Redlands, has been growing wheat and corn with his alfalfa for several years. A large part of his 600 acres of land are planted to alfalfa, but Mr. Gregory has found that it pays to plow up the alfalfa in one of the fields and plant it to wheat. The next year it is planted to corn and perhaps he will rotate these crops for three or four years, and then put them back into alfalfa. George J. Stephenson is another man who raises wheat and corn. When he bought the first binder in this section, his neighbors were inclined to laugh at him, but they laugh no more. He put in twenty acres the first year, and had such good success that he decided to continue. Last year he got about forty-two bushels of wheat to the acre, a fair yield. He planted his seed in drills, six inches apart, and used plenty of barnyard fertilizer. Now there are a number of binders in his neighborhood.

SUMMER SPUDS PAY BEST.

LOMA LINDA.—James Nelson, who is one of the big potato growers of the San Bernardino Valley, having potato patches here and at Moreno where he has recently bought a fine ranch, has just checked up returns on his spring and fall crop of potatoes, and finds that this was one of the most successful seasons he has ever had. Mr. Nelson dug and sacked more than a thousand sacks of fine quality potatoes, and he sold them for an average of about [illegible] a sack. He thought at first that the crop might not be as good as usual, but when it came to taking the tubers out of the ground, he was surprised at the size of the crop. His very best return was on a car of potatoes, in which he had placed 285 sacks. He just had it loaded, when along came a representative of a commission house who gave him almost $2400 for the car as it stood. Mr. Nelson has a big crop in the ground now, but does not expect such prices for it. "We figure to make our best returns on the early summer crop, because it comes at a time when the supply in cold storage is at low ebb, and prices are good," he said. "The fall crop is raised largely for seed, and there is every indication that the seed crop this year will be good. I am just about ready to begin to harvest that crop, and we have tested out several fields and find they are in fine shape." Mr. Nelson says that he irrigates his summer crop twice and that even with water at 70 cents an inch, it pays to do this.

DILL AS AN INTERCROP.

ANAHEIM.—Ten acres of dill for pickles! An Orange county farmer is preparing to supply the flavoring for a million pickles, having planted dill as an intercrop between rows of peach trees which are now three years old. Dill is generally grown by Japanese as a truck crop, but this orchardist sees no reason why Americans cannot grow the flavoring herb. His crop is already contracted for by a large eastern pickle packer, and he will raise more dill next year, in all probability. Dill thrives in almost any soil, can be grown as a winter crop and yields a good income.



Dill as an Intercrop.

A peach orchardist finds that this flavoring herb pays cultural expenses and a further profit.

LIKES PEANUT CULTURE.

YUCAIPA.—E. T. Daniels of this section has been experimenting with peanut growing and he finds the legumes an excellent crop. He had one vine this year that had about fifty nuts on it, a good yield. Mr. Daniels tried it out this year with just two acres, and he harvested better than a ton to the acre. They are the Virginia peanuts, the large double jointed ones that are so well liked. Mr. Daniels grew them with one irrigation, and he plans next year to plant more of them.

TO IMPROVE WALNUT.

TUCSON (Ariz.)—For years attempts have been made to graft walnuts of commercial value on the wild walnuts that cover hundreds of square miles on the foothill sections of Central and Southeastern Arizona. Rex King, of the Albuquerque office of the Forestry Service, now is in Southern Arizona studying conditions under which grafting may be done on the native trees of scions of the Persian walnut, which has been found very adaptable to this climate. Wide variance is known in the quality of the native walnut. Only a small proportion of the trees bear edible nuts. Often such trees are claimed by ranchers or cowboys, who proceed to blaze a part of the tree trunk and to affix their own brand. The same sort of branding has been known in Arizona in claiming bee trees, usually large junipers.

TO KEEP SEED PURE.

MORE WINTER EGGS FROM FARM FLOCK.

BY JAMES ALDEN ROGERS.

Plenty of feed in a well-balanced ration is necessary if the farm poultry owner, or the back-yard poultry keeper, desires to obtain a satisfactory production of eggs during the "winter" season. Just what kind of feeds are better during the coming cooler season is a problem with most Southern California poultrymen.

It is necessary to give the fowls plenty to eat, but they should always be eager for each meal. If one-third the scratch grain ration is given them in the morning, and the other two-thirds at night, they will take more exercise than if they received all the grain they want in the morning. Good scratch mixtures may be made of equal parts, by weight, of cracked corn, wheat and oats, or of two parts of cracked corn and one part each of wheat and oats, or barley may be substituted for the latter grain.

Many back-yard or farm poultry keepers overlook the fact that beef scrap, fish scrap or similar feed is very essential to good egg production during the winter months. A convenient method of feeding beef scrap is [illegible] bran, wheat middlings and beef scrap. Buttermilk or skimmed milk may be used in place of the beef or fish scraps, if fed in sufficient quantities. If the supply is limited, some scrap also should be fed.

In the effort to produce the maximum quantity of eggs during the winter, it will pay the poultry owner to take pains to provide his birds with the most favorable surroundings for the winter. The poultry house should be cleaned thoroughly, and disinfected, and made rain-tight before the heavy rains set in. It is not necessary in this climate to make the house absolutely tight; as long as there are no chinks or holes in three sides of a house, the poultry will get along well in Southern California. But cleanliness and pure air is essential for best production. It the house has a dirt floor, which is ordinarily the case with the back-yard flock, it would be well to remove three or four inches of soil from the top and replace this material with dry gravel or sand. On cement or wooden floors four to five inches of fresh straw or litter may be thrown around, after the floor has been well cleaned.

Much attention is being given in Southern California to a wheatless ration, where fowls are fed a grain ration, which is a saving over the scratch feeds, especially in the case of back-yard flocks, or farm poultry, where table scraps are available. This wheatless ration, it has been found, produces as many eggs as the scratch feed which contains wheat. While other grains are falling, wheat has not decreased in price correspondingly, and any saving of this grain means a saving in egg production.

If the back-yard poultryman has not yet weeded out his old hens and unprofitable layers, it is time he did, for it will not pay to carry them over the winter. Feed only the workers, and cull out the boarders by the usual methods used—handling to determine the wide pelvis, the properly-colored vent, and the late moulters as favorable indications. Seldom is the hen of the heavy breed profitable after her second laying season, or the Leghorns and Anconas after their third season. It is necessary for the poultryman to keep good stock, and there are breeders of Leghorns, Anconas, Minorcas, Reds, White and Barred Rocks and Brahmas within easy distance of Loc Angeles who can supply as good breeding stock as can be found anywhere in the State. It does not pay to keep a mongrel breed over the winter, and the surplus males should also be eliminated before the rainy season starts.

A Wonderful Layer.

White Leghorn said by her owner. George C. England of Inglewood, to have laid 308 eggs from Aug. 1, 1919, to Aug. 1, 1920; daughter of a 296-egg bird and sired by a son of a 278-egg hen.

BUSY CHICKEN LOUSE MULTIPLIES RAPIDLY.

The rapidity with which chicken lice multiply is marvelous. For instance, so prolific is one pair of lice that in less than two months' time they are the ancestors of over 100,000 descendants.

The greater part of the life of the louse is spent on the body of the fowl The barbs of the downy feathers are the favorite places of abode for the eggs or "nits."

Since dipping of lousy fowls has been impractical due to resulting colds and disease, dusting has been resorted to with excellent results. For this purpose home-made powders are very efficient and a most effective one is made by mixing one part of stock dip or crude carbolic acid with three parts of gasoline, to which is added as much cement or plaster of Paris as it will take up. When the final mixture has become dry and powdery, apply a liberal dusting to the fowl. To apply it most effectively hold the fowl up by the legs, so that the feathers will be well separated and the powder, when applied, will more readily reach the favorite location of the lice.

450 Eggs from 17 Hens in 30 Days — In Alaska

This would be a good record in New Jersey, Ohio or California—THINK OF IT IN COLD, BLEAK, WET SOUTHEASTERN ALASKA.

PCA MOULT MASH DRY MASH

A FALLING off in egg production is a natural consequence of moulting and the problem confronting the poultryman during this season is how to shorten the period and thus promote laying.

This is best accomplished by proper feeding of the two celebrated feeds—

P. C. A. Dry Mash AND
P. C. A. Moult Mash

Fed in correct proportion, this combination will help your hens to resume laying and will lend strength during the natural strain of moulting. No serious results of moulting will occur if P. C. A. Dry Mash and Moult Mash are fed.

P. C. A. Moult Mash is an extremely valuable specialty feed, but is not in any sense a substitute for P. C. A. Dry Mash, which should form the basis of poultry ration throughout the year. Moult Mash and Dry Mash are intended to be fed in combination.

DIRECTIONS FOR FEEDING: Keep both P. C. A. Moult Mash and P. C. A. Dry Mash before your hens continuously, or feed each hen one-half ounce of dampened P. C. A. Moult Mash per day in addition to the regular diet of P. C. A. Dry Mash.

NEED OF WATER CONSERVATION EMPHASIZED IN DROUTH YEARS.

BY MARVIN H. LOOMIS.

ALTHOUGH the drought of the last three years has been disastrous to hundreds of California farmers, the deficient moisture conditions will, in reality, be a benefit, and a lasting one, to the farmers who practice irrigation in this State, for it has taught them the real value of water and the necessity for conservation of every drop of moisture.

Students of irrigation are warning farmers that subnormal rainfall during the past three seasons has left their soils with less moisture than they have had in many years, and this lack of moisture must be supplied by irrigation this winter, unless there is an unusually heavy and consistent rainfall. Field crops in Southern California have not suffered as much as orchards, particularly walnut groves, but all crops which reach below the first foot of soil for their nourishment have shown some effect of the moisture deficiency. In Central and Northern California last season crops suffered more from the subnormal rainfall than in the south.

In order to overcome the deplorable moisture conditions below the first foot of soil waste of irrigation water must be put at a minimum by inaugurating the following reforms:

(1.) Deep wells must replace shallow wells in the pumping districts.

(2.) Cement-lined canals must replace open ditches.

(3.) Where possible, water should be conducted in concrete or galvanized iron pipe in field laterals.

Many farmers who have gravity systems of irrigation have installed pumps in well pits and shafts this year in order to reinforce their water supplies, and have found that their pumping systems can be relied upon for a sufficient irrigation supply when the demands of other water users prevent them from getting a surface supply when needed. When a pump is installed water is immediately available at all hours of the day or night, and in the quantity desired. Then the farmer is not subject to enforced limitations in the quantity of water used and in the time of irrigations, which are frequently made necessary in justice to other water users. The farmer who has a pumping plant is completely independent of his neighbor's irrigation needs and is also not bothered with the problem of prior water rights.

In pumping there is far less loss through evaporation and percolation than there is in gravity irrigation. Federal investigators and engineers of irrigation districts have determined that the loss of water between the source and the user in California districts is between 40 and 62 per cent, most of this being due to evaporation en route from the source to the fields. The earth ditch allows a great percentage of water diverted into the irrigation system to percolate through the soil. Even in the cement-lined canal there is a great loss through evaporation. But when the open ditch is lined with cement great losses of water through percolation are checked. Many open ditches have been lined with cement in Central and Southern California this year, and farmers have been rejoicing in a greater duty of water in those districts.

DEEPER WELLS PAY.

Where there is a water strata within 250 feet of the surface, of sufficient capacity to remunerate the farmer for the expense, wells should be sunk, whether the farmer has a surface supply or an inadequate pumping supply. Many an orchard or field of alfalfa has been saved this year by the sinking of deeper wells where shallow wells were depended upon for an irrigation supply.

Wells may be divided into two general classes, the open, or dug well, and the deep, drilled well, which is usually but a few inches in diameter. Then, as in the Pomona-Chino-Corona district, there are combinations of both. Improvements in well drilling machinery make it practicable to drill wells of greater diameter than heretofore, and it is now feasible to drill wells of thirty inches in diameter.

Driven or deep wells are sunk where the water stratum is at a considerable depth, but tilting strata may so cap the water zone with an impervious rock that the water level will be near the surface when the well is completed, or it may form an artesian or flowing well. Persons accustomed to open wells are often surprised at the quantity of water delivered by a deep well of only a few inches in diameter. This type of well depends largely upon the depth to which it is sunk in the water zone for the quantity of water delivered at the surface. Bored wells are usually cased to bedrock with iron pipe, but frequently are cased to the entire depth. When the casing extends to the bottom of the well the lower part that extends into the stratum of water is usually perforated to form a strainer. In large wells, which draw water from a wide horizon, the strainer or perforated portion of the pipe is sometimes as great as 100 feet in length, but is usually, in Southern California at least, from ten to eighteen feet in length. This perforated part of the casing allows the water to come through the gravel strata into the pipe.

The combination large and small-bore well is used where it is desired to install a type of pump near the water level which is too large to be inserted in a well of small diameter and for conditions where a water-bearing strata near the surface is to be supplemented by one of greater depth. Where it is desired to place a pump of large size at or near the water level the upper portion of the well is either dug to form an open pit or it may be made with a large rotary well-drilling outfit, so common in the Far Southwest, or a churn-drilling machine using a reaming bit. When the pump is installed at or near the water level the suction pipe is nearly always inserted into the smaller drill hole, so that a water supply can still be obtained should the water level be lowered several feet below normal level.

In putting down a well the principal considerations should be the quantity of water required, the depth from which it must be raised and the kind of pump that will deliver the required amount of water at the greatest economy. Wells are often sunk with little thought of pumping economy, many farmers believing that the important thing is to reach a sufficient quantity of water, and that if this is done the pump can be obtained later. This is an erroneous belief, since the sinking of the well means only an initial cost, while the pumping expense is constant and lasting. An economical installation of a pumping apparatus, therefore, will only be obtained when the most efficient type of pump for the conditions is considered at the time the well is made.

The cost of sinking a deep well may be so great in certain localities that it is generally impracticable to put down a hole larger than six to twelve inches in diameter, and in this case a pump which will operate economically in this size should be selected. If a large quantity of water is re-

WORK PROGRESSING ON HUGE POULTRY PLANT.

RIVERSIDE.—The California Hotel Farm Company is going right ahead with its plans for establishing a big poultry plant on the Box Springs Mountain road, near Riverside. The farm is to produce vegetables and hogs as well, but poultry is to be the prime consideration. The California Hotel Farm Company is a subsidiary of the California Hotel Company, which controls the Huntington, Maryland, Green, Carmelita and other hotels, and the Altadena Country Club.

The company has about 6000 guests to feed in the rush season, and the best that can be raised in the poultry and egg lines is none too good. The investment in the poultry plant will, it is said, run up to a million dollars within the next year or so, the limit to be controlled entirely by the growth of the hotels.

Harry Sinclair, poultry expert, is to have charge of the poultry project and the work now being done is under his direction. There is a big force of men at work excavating and doing other necessary work for the buildings to be used for the poultry and the dairy farms of the company. George Cousiton of Pasadena is the general manager.

The plans of the company now call for a poultry farm of 100,000 fowls within two years. It is designed that 70,000 of the total number of fowls shall be chickens, about 10,000 ducks, and the rest geese, turkeys, pheasants and guinea hens.

The egg production is to be immense, and it is planned to purchase speedy trucks that will do nothing but carry fresh eggs back and forth from the farm to the hotels in Pasadena. It is expected that the average daily egg production will be close to 1500 to 2000 dozen.

The plans for the poultry farm have been carefully worked out, after inspection of the big plant which is being put up at Fontana, and those at Petaluma. The houses for the hens are to be 200 feet long, and there will be eight of these. Every device known for checking up on the hens to tell whether they are laying or "boarding" will be installed.

There will be four brooder houses, each 200 feet long. There will be five duck houses, each 250 feet long. The turkey runs will be immense, the roosts will be the longest known, and will be constructed so that they can be let down.

One chick brooder house is now finished, and there are now over 10,000 little chicks on the farm. The brooder houses have been carefully designed by experts, so as to give air without draughts.

SIMPLE MIXTURE MAKES HENS LAY

By W. S. Burgess

Any poultry raiser can greatly increase his profits, easily and quickly by taking advantage of the 35 years' experience of a successful poultryman.

A lifelong study of egg production has resulted in a secret formula of buttermilk and other valuable ingredients that puts pep into lazy hens. Users report increases of two to seven times as many eggs.

This secret formula is now put up in tablet form and is called Comb's Buttermilk Compound Tablets. Simply feed in water or mix with feed.

I am so convinced that this wonderful formula is always successful that I say kill the hen that won't lay after using it.

One million new users are wanted, so for a limited time any reader of this paper can get a big double size box (enough for a season) on free trial by simply writing for it. Send no money. Use the tablets 30 days; if at the end of that time your hens are not laying 2 or 3 times as many eggs; if you are not more than satisfied in every way, the tablets are to cost you nothing. If completely satisfied this big double size box costs you only $1.00 on this introductory offer. Simply send name—post card will do—to Milk Products Co., 107 Creamery Bldg., Kansas City, Mo., and the big box of tablets will be mailed immediately, post paid.

FRUIT GROWERS' MEETING.

At the fifty-third convention of fruit growers and farmers of California, to be held at Fresno November 9 to 11, special attention will be given to a new and undetermined disease of the grape vine by speakers on vineyard subjects. R. L. Nougaret, State viticulturist, says that the new disease must be checked at once to prevent widespread damage.

A cotton picking machine that does the work of twelve men is reported to have been successfully tested at Dallas, Tex.

Significant features of a good dairy barn are a smooth, washable interior, and well insulated walls and ceiling.

ments, thus being given a share in the water storage at Roosevelt Dam, and in the power generated by the association's hydro-electric system. The farmers of the Lehi section are the latest to petition for admission. Their canal heads just below the association's Granite Reef diversion dam. The largest system still outside the association is the Tempe system, where electric power is needed badly for the drainage of low-lying lands. Tempe has maintained independence heretofore, as it has old water rights and delivery of water under an old power contract, thus avoiding necessity for upkeep of a dam. It also has its own pumping plant for periods of very slack river supply.

EXPECT BIG ATTENDANCE.

FRESNO.—The Fifty-third State Fruit Growers' and Farmers' convention, to be held here November 9 to 12, inclusive, is expected to draw a large attendance of growers from all over California. G. H. Hecke, director of the State Department of Agriculture, who will preside, reports great interest in the meeting. The program will include addresses by representatives of the leading agricultural organizations in the State and by prominent growers.

NO FEAR OF RAIN.

VISALIA.—According to Charles F. Collins, county horticultural commissioner, practically all prunes, raisins and other fruits in Tulare county have been dried and harvested, and are out of the way of possible bad weather. About the only damage possible to crops of the country at this season from precipitation would be to a few remaining table grapes and to Egyptian corn.

DISCUSS DRAINAGE.

HOLTVILLE.—Water standing in "dead-end" canals, seepage through canal banks and too much water applied to the land has created a condition on many farms in the Eastern Imperial Valley that calls for immediate drainage, said speakers at a recent meeting at the Sunset schoolhouse, among them Farm Adviser Garthwaite, F. N. Cronholm, J. S. Nickerson and Mark Rose. It was suggested by Mr. Rose that the city of Los Angeles might grab the Boulder Canyon dam site and power before the Imperial Valley people got through their plans for the great dam at the rate things are going in this project.

GRAPES RETARDED.

EXETER.—Cloudy weather and showers have materially retarded the Emperor grape picking in Tulare county. The Emperor grapes are testing very high, in fact, much higher than the required test, but the color is not so good. Grapes began coloring later than usual this year, and came to a standstill without any apparent reason. The crop for the season is unusually large. The orange season in this district is now beginning. The fruit is not ripening fast, but is beginning to show some good color, and the prospects are better this year for orange growers than at any time since the freeze several years past.

SCRAMBLE FOR GRAPES.

LODI.—Eastern buyers have lately developed an undignified scramble for wine grapes in this section, paying as high as $162 per ton for Black Prince and Missions. A local newspaper says, "The Black Prince is on the charger; what our friends back East want is not grapes to eat, but wine to drink."

SHORT STAPLE GIN.

SAFFORD (Ariz.)—A new short-staple gin is in ojeration in Safford, established by the T. A. Baker Gin Company, with a forty-bale daily capacity.

"SENATOR" PEAS TRIED.

CARLSBAD.—The peas heretofore planted at Carlsbad have been practically all of the variety known as "Admiral," which have proven to be prolific and steady producers and of good shipping quality, but have not always been satisfactory from the first planting standpoint. As an experiment this season a small acreage of "Senator" peas has been put in and this variety has made a better stand and is now being shipped, while the "Admiral" shows prospects of being some three weeks late. The quality of the "Senator" in making a quicker start and being ready for market sooner, however, may also lead to an earlier ending of its productive period and thus, in the final test, make it less desirable and profitable than the "Admiral." Small shipments are now being made to local markets, and the new packing-house is being rushed to completion for handling carload lots, which Secretary L. C. Alles of the Carlsbad Vegetable Growers' Association says will begin moving about November 15th to 20th, and will continue for a period of about ninety days.

ALFALFA WEEVIL IS KILLED WITH SPRAY.

Control of the alfalfa weevil is sure through spraying with arsenate of lead and arsenate of zinc, according to Federal specialists who have tried the spray in Nevada, Utah, and other regions where the alfalfa weevil abounds. There is practically no danger of burning the foliage, it is said, and it sticks to the leaves readily.

The poison consists of two pounds of powder or four pounds of commercial paste to 100 gallons of water. Two pounds of laundry soap for each gallon should be added, in order to make the liquid stick to the leaves. There is no danger of stock being poisoned in fields where the poison is applied at a rate not greater than 100 gallons of spray mixture per acre.

Maintaining the soil moisture content as uniform as possible is necessary in growing sweet potatoes.

THE RIPE OLIVE.

consists in having a pit of thick wet mud handy, into which the tree is dipped to the bud. The young trees are loaded into planting wagons where they are packed in wet straw and protected from the sun by a canvas cover. A tub of "puddle" is carried along and before the tree is handed to the planter it is again puddled.

We plant four rows at a time from one wagon, collecting the tree and outrigger stakes at the same time in order to save going over the land twice. About one minute is required for three men to plant a tree. The roots of the young tree are exposed to the air less than a minute and herein lies our greatest success, in securing a high percent of stand.

Considerable preparatory work is necessary before this kind of planting can be done, but we do this work while the nursery stock is still heeled in and not while it is exposed to the elements on the planting wagon.

BLASTING ALWAYS PAYS.

First, our land is graded and leveled for proper irrigation. Trees are then staked out and holes are drilled for blasting, two men being able to drill about 400 holes a day.

The powder man follows the planters and loads the holes across the entire piece, and then returns and lights each fuse. After blasting, a single irrigation furrow is made for each row and water is turned into the blasted holes. Thus the earth is thoroughly settled and much moisture is stored up for future use.

The blasting is not done on account of hard pan as some might believe, but to assist in drainage and to loosen up the soil by pulverizing, as it does for an area of fifteen square feet in the center of which the tree is planted.

We never plant a tree of any variety without blasting and we are absolutely satisfied the results from this method are invariably the best. The plan, too, is actually cheaper than planting by any other method.

After the water in the blasted hole has entirely disappeared and while the soil is still moist, we plant. As a fair sized hole is left after the above described operations, hole digging is eliminated.

One man brings the tree from the planting wagon, judges the proper depth of its roots with his hands, straightens out each root and works the loose soil carefully around the small fibrous rootlets, while the other two carefully shovel in the soil, firming it with their feet when the hole is filled.

Irrigation water is again applied to settle the soil around the roots. Then a man with a hoe and pruning shears trims all side branches, tops the trees with a guage, paints the stub and carefully hoes around the trunk.

Careful inspection for pests and disease, in addition to the inspection required by the State and county horticultural laws, is constantly practiced.

ORCHARD WORKED OVER.

Planted twenty-five years ago, the trees in the Sylmar grove are now in full bearing, but, as in the case of so many olive orchards set out in the earlier days of olive planting in California, the original plantings were of the oil varieties. To work these over to the profitable varieties suited to procesing has been a work of considerable magnitude as the grove comprises in the neighborhood of 1800 acres. The grafting has now been going on for a number of years.

The process of grafting, while not difficult, demands strict adherence to well defined rules. Usually a tree possesses two or three main branches. The safe method to pursue in this case is to cut off two of the branches and bark-graft them, leaving the third branch to draw the sap and prevent the souring under the bark, thus creating a damaged stump. The tree is allowed to remain in this condition for one year, at the end of which time the grafts are well established and have started to grow, when the third branch is cut off entirely. Then it is only necessary to remove the sucker growth which will accumulate from time to time for the first two or three years, giving the grafts an opportunity to have the full benefit of the vigor of the tree.

Immediately after the tree is grafted care should be exercised that very little time elapses between that operation and the process of applying whitewash to the stump. This acts to prevent the sun from damaging the stump, which invariably will occur if this precaution is not taken. A grafted tree may be expected to bear some fruit the third year after grafting; then gradually it increases the size of its crops.

PRUNING METHODS.

Pruning, cultivation and fertilizing are carried on in the Sylmar grove with the same careful attention to detail that is considered necessary to produce the maximum quantity and quality of fruit. The work is done largely by Italian and Mexican labor. The supervision of all work is in the hands of men who are thoroughly competent and trained in their various departments.

There are a great many ideas about pruning among recognized authorities. Most of them agree, however, that the tree should be so pruned during the early part of its life as to cause it to head out low, instead of being permitted to extend up into the air to a considerable height and head out at an elevation that makes it inconvenient and expensive to harvest the fruit. Keep the tree from going into the air; also a proper thinning of the branches from time to time is desirable to admit the sunlight. Also prune to remove the dead wood.

The cultivation of the olive is scarcely any different from that given to any other tree. Plowing and pulverizing of the soil from time to time produces beneficial results. To what extent this should be done depends upon the soil and the climatic conditions. The same is true about irrigation. The tree should be kept moist in order to secure the best results, and in order to preserve this moisture cultivation after each application of the water, the same as in citrus fruits, is both profitable and beneficial.

FROM TREE TO FACTORY.

When the olives are ready to harvest, the factory, located in the grove, is ready to receive them, and the fruit thus reaches its packing point in the shortest possible time and in the best possible condition.

Perhaps there is nothing more essential in the conducting of an olive business than to use prompt and skilled knowledge in the harvesting. As olives, if allowed to remain on the tree a short time beyond the period suitable for harvesting, are ruined for canning purposes. This makes it essential that a large crew of pickers be available, so that when the fruit reaches the exact stage at which harvesting is desired it may be removed from the tree quickly and put into storage to prevent over-ripeness. Inasmuch as the fruit on the tree does not all ripen at the same time, it is necessary that the trees be gone over two or three times, the fruit that has reached the proper degree of ripeness for canning being removed at each operation.

This usually results in fruit accumulating at the factory much more rapidly than it can be processed under the most desirable methods, and in case such a condition arises the fruit can be stored in either wooden or galvanized containers, by keeping it covered with a solution of salt water. The more often this solution is changed on the fruit the better it will keep, and the better the results, as these changes prevent fermentation. The storing of olives under these conditions for a month or six weeks is pracical.

Forty thousand acres of olive trees are now under cultivation in California and the experience that is being gained is rapidly standardizing the culture of the olive until the element of risk is practically eliminated.

It is sincerely to be hoped that for every grower who finds himself pinched by the present unfortunate condition of the market there will be two with greater vision who will be willing to carry on his work.

There are half a million acres suitable for olive groves in California and should the per capita demand throughout the country ever approximate that existing at present in California this acreage would fall short of supplying the demand.

The FRUIT GROWER says-
"for tree planting genuine GIANT is most satisfactory"

The Giant Farm Powders—Eureka Stumping and Giant Stumping—loosen and pulverize the soil instead of packing it and throwing it high in the air.

Western fruit growers have used hundreds of tons of these Giant Powders for blasting beds for trees. They have proved that blasting with genuine Giant Powders provides free drainage, increases moisture-storage capacity and insures vigorous growth and early bearing.

"My trees planted three years ago in beds blasted with Giant Powder are 75 to 100 per cent bigger and better than the trees that I planted in dug holes," writes H. H. Smith, Oregon City.

You will enjoy reading "Better Farming with Giant Farm Powders." It describes all the new and money-saving methods of blasting beds for trees, subsoiling established groves and orchards, clearing land, ditching, etc. Write for it now.

LIVESTOCK BULLETIN.

BY R. T. LYANS.

On Wednesday, October 27, Dr. E. Avery Newton, proprietor of the Arenal Ranch of Lankershim, and H. Christiansen of Riverside, held a joint sale of pure-bred Poland China hogs at Pomona. The lot consisted of about thirty-five head of young boars, gilts, and mature sows with good type and quality. While the crowd in attendance was not large, the offering was taken at conservative prices and quite general satisfaction was expressed, due to the fact that most of the stock sold passed into the hands of farmers and stock-raisers who are starting into the pure-bred stock business. The purchasers were men who appreciate the value of pure-bred sires and dams, and were willing to pay a premium over pork prices to get good foundation stock. Offerings from Dr. Newton's ranch included Major's Model Lady, a good brood sow with a litter of pigs, purchased by E. H. Byran of Chino for $165; Major's Girl X and Major's Choice, sold to B. S. Bayer of Arlington at $50 and $65, respectively; Miss Blue Model, perhaps the biggest bargain of the sale, a 2-year-old brood sow with correct type and conformation, sold to E. H. Bryan for $125; Arenal Blossom and Arenal Girl, both with litters, going to Mrs. B. D. Mayden of Upland for $80 and $102.50, respectively; Arenal Lady, sold to B. S. Bayer at $57.50; a young boar, bought by J. E. Hollingsworth of Hemet for $35; a young boar, sold to R., C. Foote of Artesia at $30; several animals bought by Mrs. Anna Kining of Glendora; a young boar and three young sows bought by G. A. Calkins of Chino, and three young gilts sold to Mrs. Kifling for $100. Among the offerings consigned by Mr. Christiansen were Liberty Girl, a typey brood sow, which went to W. C. Gilman of Chino for $80; E. D. Barber of Santa Barbara took Miss Merit at $60, and Miss Prudence went to A. H. Witman of Pomona for $65. W. B. Gemmill of Ontario bought the show sow, Model Dandy, for $75, and W. L. Duvall of Pomona took Dandy the 2nd at the same price. Another sow, Queen's Perfection, sold to O. I. Albera of Chino for $57.50, while B. S. Bayer bought Lady B. for $60. The W. R. Rowland Ranch of Puente took the April boar, Grand Master, at $60, while Big Daisy went for $40, Mary Jane for $40, and Miss Dandy for $67.50. Three young sows brought $37.50 each.

In the closing months of a busy year the California Cattlemen's Association is preparing for two important meetings. One will be the so-called Salt Lake conference, to be held December 6, 7 and 8 at Salt Lake City. This conference received the unanimous indorsement of the directors at the recent meeting in San Francisco. Assurances have been received by Secretary David J. Stollery that there will be a large attendance at Salt Lake, including representatives of practically every stockmen's association in the twelve Western States. The two items which appear to be stirring up most interest in the Salt Lake meeting are the questions of marketing and Federal aid in financing. From the Salt Lake gathering Secretary Stollery hopes to bring back for the annual meeting of the California Cattlemen's Association at San Francisco on December 11 a concrete plan for solving California's cattle marketing and finance problems, in co-operation with other States.

Announcement is made by Dr. C. A. Noggle, manager, that the Lilac Ranch, in the Valley Center country, sixteen miles north of Escondido, owned by George V. Kirkwood of Pasadena, will make the rounds of the fairs and cattle shows during 1921 with a herd of Aberdeen-Angus cattle, of which Mr. Kirkwood makes a specialty. Exhibiting only a few head of the black cattle during 1920, Mr. Kirkwood is pleased with the showing made at the County Farm Bureau Fair in San Diego, the Los Angeles Live Stock Show and the Southern California Fair in Riverside, from which he netted twenty ribbons, nine blues and eleven reds. By the opening of the next season, he will have built up his herd to important proportions. At the Riverside fair he added two heifers to his holdings, the purchase having been made from Congdon & Battles, the North Yakima (Wash.) breeders, and he has practically closed a deal for a high-class bull, bred by the same firm. The Escondido country was also represented at the Riverside fair by eight head of Guernsey cattle from the Sycamore ranch of R. S. Cox at San Marcos, eight miles north of Escondido. In spite of the strenuous competition, Cox brought back two third prizes, on two bulls—Reliance of Edgmoor and Marcos of Elmdale. The father of Mr. Cox, years ago, came across the continent from Pennsylvania, bringing to San Diego county a number of Guernseys. Mr. Cox is now the owner of about thirty-five Guernseys.

Sold for Record Price.

Chieftan 2112, Toggenburg buck, purchased from F. T. Heintz of Baldwin Park by J. W. Teagarden of Inglewood for reported consideration of $2500.

What is believed to be a record price for a goat of the milk breeds was received recently by F. T. Heintz of Baldwin Park, for his Toggenburg buck, Chieftan 2112. The buck was purchased by J. W. Teagarden of Inglewood for a reported consideration of $2500 and will be used to head the buyer's fine herd of Toggenburgs. Mr. Heintz, who is the publisher of the "Goat World," has in the last month sold out his entire herd of 300 goats, including Toggenburgs, Saanens and Anglo-Nubians in order to be able to devote his entire time to his publication. The animals went to buyers in all parts of California as well as to other States and countries. Three have been shipped to China, two to Hawaii and five to Mexico.

MUDDY BARNYARD A MENACE TO HEALTH.

The muddy barnyard season will soon be at hand. During the rainy period it will be next to impossible to improve the condition, and the California Department of Agriculture suggests the farmers give the problem serious thought and consideration, and have the yards in good trim before the rains appear. Farmers are urged to study the course of natural drainage and if there is a reasonable amount of this, to deepen the ditches, or put in a system of underground tiling.

If, on the other hand, no natural drainage exists, and the barnyards are extremely level, it will be necessary to pave a portion of the yard.

Not much profit is made by allowing hogs and cattle to wade belly-deep in mud during the rainy reason, it is pointed out. Furthermore, filthy yards about the barns are one of the most common causes for the dissemination of diseases among domestic animals.

TELLS WHY BIG TYPE HOGS PAY THE BEST.

That the internal capacity of the hog in comparison to the size of his body is only 18 per cent that of a cow and that the hog cannot handle a great deal of rough feed was the declaration made by Professor Downing of the animal husbandry department of the University of California during his hog-judging demonstration talk at the recent annual live-stock day event at the George Junior Republic at Chino. Professor Downing declared that the big type hog is not so easy to get ready for market as are the small type on account of their tendency to grow instead of to put on fat. This, he said, is natural, as a hog that is to weigh 1000 pounds when matured must have a big frame to hold up under that immense weight. Alfalfa he characterized as a ration that would maintain a hog but would not fatten him. At the same time, he declared, about 30 per cent of the expense can be saved by keeping the hogs on pasture and feeding them grain and other things at the same time.

"People who fatten large type hogs at an early age feed them all they will eat of skim milk or tankage and grain," he said "When they're properly fed they will weigh from 50 to 70 pounds more at the same age than other hogs.

"All breeders of pure-bred hogs are working toward the large type. A big type hog must have big bones to support the great weight of his body. He must have great length and breadth and a great arch to his back to furnish muscle to support the underline of his body [illegible] muscles. He must have a good [illegible] and be full of vitality and pep."

Another point made by the specialist was that big type hogs are more desirable in that if the market is unfavorable when they are "finished," they can be held without loss because their heavy frames will take on greater weight to advantage while waiting for a better market.

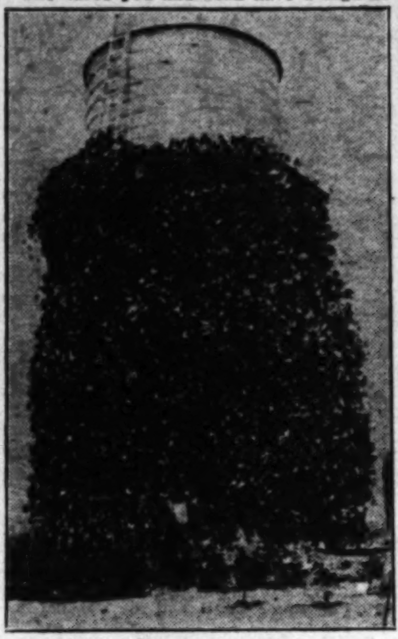
BIG PLANTING OF CAROBS PROJECTED.

RIVERSIDE.—Much interest is being taken in the announcement of the plans of the owners of the El Sobrante Rancho, near Elsinore, to plant from 1000 to 2000 carob trees within the next twelve months, and to extend the planting to 20,000 acres within the next three years.

R. C. Cash, one of the owners of the property, is enthusiastic over the possibilities of the successful culture here of the carob, commonly called St. John's bread. He refers to the trees in White Park, this city, as the finest specimens of the variety to be found in the world. The fact that it will grow within irrigation, he says, makes the carob tree ideal for thousands of acres in this county where it is not possible to develop water. It is planned to set out the trees seventy to the acre.

H. N. Dunbar, now City Treasurer of Riverside, was for a number of years in charge of White Park, where the carob has proved to be a wonderful producer. He long ago became convinced that the future for the development of a new industry from the propagation of carob trees was bright, and he has established on Prospect avenue an extensive nursery for producing planting stock.

The carob pod and bean have a high sugar content and are prized in Europe as a stock feed. A variety of other uses can be found for the product, it is believed.



Amazing Kudzu Vine.

Killed down by frost each year, this vine, planted around a water tank on the Valley Boulevard near Los Angeles, covers the entire structure to a height of nearly thirty feet in one season.

NURSERYMEN MEET.

The tenth annual convention of the California Association of Nurserymen at Fresno, November 11 to 13, promises to make history in the development of better things in the onward trend of economic and ornamental horticulture. Appreciating the urge for the production of better bearing trees and better quality fruit, this convention will devote its best energies to the discussion of bud selection. An entire section will be devoted to a survey of ornamental horticulture. Speakers who will address the convention include A. L. Wisker, Wylie M. Griffin, Kay Bellew, Charles E. Virden, George C. Roeding, J. W. Barnicott, James Mills, Jr., J. F. Niswander, Harry Stabler, Prof. E. J. Wickson, Frank T. Swett, Fred H. Howard, Ernest Braunton, Roy F. Wilcox, R. H. Taylor, G. H. Hecke, Max J. Crow, Prof. J. C. Whitten and Fred Roullard.

BETTER PINTO MARKET.

Almost all the farmers near Mointainair, N. M., raise pinto beans, used largely by Mexicans. The growers have recently organized, brought growers of other localities into their association, and have bettered their market considerably through intelligent handling of the crop.

KUDZU VINE COVERS LOFTY WATER TANK.

Employees of an oil company on the Los Angeles-Pomona highway take great pride in keeping the oil station grounds attractive, planting roses, shrubs and trees with harmonious colors. For years the water tank, with its unsightly understructure, was a sore spot, but E. F. Okey, sales manager for the company, planted a few seeds of the Kudzu vine around the tank. The vines now cover the entire water tank each year. The foliage is killed each winter, and only the main trunks remain. The vines are now five years old. The Kudzu is not used for any other than ornamental purposes. Mr. Okey reports that its beautiful purple flowers attract many passing motorists in the spring.

Kudzu, or pueraria, is used as cattle feed in many Southern States, being planted in the field, or between corn rows. Dairy cattle seem to enjoy it, and the leaves, though tough, are also relished by hogs, and make a favorite entree for goats.

The acreage of hemp in this country, during the present year was 14,000, with a crop worth $1,470,000. This is an increase of 230 per cent in one year. Flax was grown on 6000 acres, an increase of 20 per cent, the yield being about 356 pounds per acre, worth 75 cents per pound

DAIRY COW CONTEST IS WELL UNDER WAY.

BY G. E. GORDON.

Some of the best dairy cows in the State are to be found in Los Angeles county, and the California dairy cow competition offers Los Angeles county dairymen an opportunity to show how progressive they are. The competition is under the supervision of the University of California, which will decide where the honor goes in each of the classes. The records will be taken for a period of ten months. Over $6000 in cash prizes, together with special premiums, will be available for the winning dairymen. Entries for cows in the competition opened Sept. 1, 1920, and will close April 1, 1921. Cows may be entered any month during this time.

Already there have been a large number of entries, not as many, however, as there should be from Southern California, and particularly from Los Angeles county. There are prizes for grade cows as well as for pure breds. There is no entry fee. Pure-bred herds on test for register of merit, or advanced registry, require no additional tests. Herds entered in the Los Angeles County Farm Bureau cow-testing association will require no other tests, except in cases where the animals competing are making exceptional records, in which case the university reserves the right to send a tester to check up on the association's work in the same way it is done in official testing. It has been possible to make such arrangements, due to the fact that Los Angeles county has three testers, and they change routes every four months, checking up on each other.

All cows other than pure-breds entered in the competition will automatically be registered in the California grade register of production, provided they qualify for this registry. This system of State-wide registration will follow to a greater degree the system of registration which is now in use in the Los Angeles county association for exceptionally good cows. The first prize in the competition will be awarded in October, 1920. This will be for the highest average production of butter fat, by five grade cows, in a herd headed by a pure-bred sire, made during the month of September, 1920.

Information and entry blanks concerning the competition may be had at the farm adviser's office, or by writing to the animal husbandry division, University Farm, Davis, California.

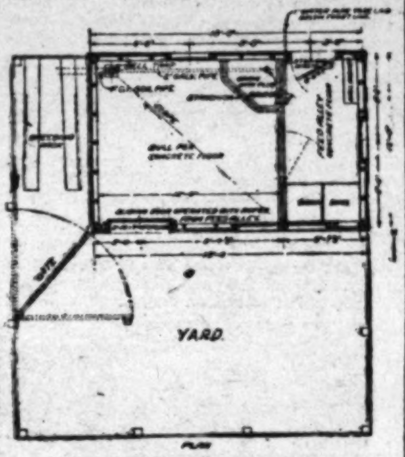
BUILDING A PEN FOR THE DANGEROUS BULL.

Far too many valuable bulls are being lost to the dairy world because they become ugly or dangerous to handle, a live-stock authority declares.

All bulls, he says, are dangerous, especially the older ones, and none of them should be trusted; but it is not until a bull has reached full maturity, with the resulting size and temperament which make him hard to handle, that his worth as a sire can be proved. Selling bulls as soon as they begin to lose the gentleness of immaturity, this expert points out, simply means that breeders must forever rely on untried sires, and that it is merely a matter of luck whether the resulting offspring is good or not.

"Dangerous as a mad bull," he says, is a proverb. Yet it must be remembered that such madness is a characteristic quality of bulls. Not only some bulls but all bulls are subject to outbursts of violence from time to time. These do not necessarily signify either craziness or anger on the part of the bulls, but often simply the aggressiveness which indicates vigor and good health. What is called ugliness, therefore, may be mere playfulness.



For Handling the Bull.

This pen, designed by Federal experts, makes it unnecessary for an owner or herdsman to risk contact with a fractions animal.

On the other hand, sometimes a bull may become really ugly, showing a desire to fight and destroy. But whether the animal's behavior is due to playfulness or bad temper makes no difference. In either case the bull should not be trusted, but a proper pen will make it unnecessary to lose a valuable bull by selling him for beef simply because of his refractory conduct. This character merely means that the bull should be kept and handled in such a way that the owner or herdsman is not exposed to attack. This object can be attained by keeping the animal in the right sort of house and pen.

Such a pen has recently been devised and described by specialists of the Federal Dairy Division. It has been recognized in the plan that it is needful to have a pen which will make it easy and reasonably safe for the breeder to keep and care for the fiercest bull by avoiding the necessity of coming into contact with the animal without the protection of a fence, as no bull is to be trusted.

The essential features of the plan are (1) to feed and water the bull without entering his stall; (2) to have a large yard for him to exercise in, built so that he cannot break out, but of easy exit for anyone going into the yard; and (3) to have an adjustable gate, by means of which the bull can be turned into his exercise yard, into the breeding stall or into the stable and held there at the keeper's will, without the keeper having to enter the inclosure. Then, when the bull is let out into the yard, he can be shut out there while his stable is cleaned. When a cow is placed in the breeding stall the handling of the bull can all be done from the outside, where the keeper is entirely safe.

LOS ANGELES BUYERS INVADING NEVADA.

TONOPAH (Nev.)—Los Angeles buyers are invading Southern Nevada in search of feeding stock and have succeeded in picking up several big bunches of stock in competition with eastern and San Francisco buyers. The first shipment, filling twenty-five cars, was sent out September 30, consigned to the Globe Mills of Los Angeles by W. B. Stewart and M. C. Moss, buyers from Southern California, who have been around this end of the State for the past five weeks. The shipment was billed direct to Los Angeles over the Tonopah and Tidewater Railroad to be handled on a special schedule so that the train would arrive at its destination in the shortest possible time. The purchases include over 700 head of range stock in fairly good condition and mark the beginning of new trade developments in the live-stock industry.

Most of the cattle come from Hot Creek, Reese River, Monitor Valley, Smoky Valley, Stone Cabin and the Ralston valley. Ranchers in these districts have heretofore trailed their cattle either to Eureka or Austin, Nev., where they were loaded on narrow-gauge trains to connect with the main line of the Southern Pacific, necessitating reloading and feeding. Several of the herds were driven eighty miles to Tonopah, where special provision had to be made for watering them on arrival. Over 300 feet of pipe line connecting with the West End Consolidated Mining Company's main extending from the Halifax mine to the mill were utilized. Loading was done at some distance from the regular station of the railroad; owing to the presence of cyanide tailings ponds which would have proved a fatal attraction for thirsty stock driven across the desert for several days. The stock shipments from Southern Nevada have heretofore been monopolized by San Francisco and Salt Lake buyers and this is the first time any stock has been sent out through the southern gateway.

IMPERIAL MAN HAS UNIQUE MILK SHED.

Dr. M. E. McDonald, inspector for the State Department of Agriculture for Imperial Valley, reports that William Paine of El Centro has a novel type of milking shed that is arousing the interest of various inspectors and others who have seen it.

Mr. Paine has a herd of some sixty or seventy cows. His milking shed, however, is equipped with a milking machine, and consists of only six stalls. The cows enter the stalls, and after being milked, pass on through doors in the front of the stalls, which are released by means of a lever from the rear. Other cows awaiting their turn take their places, so that there is no loss of time. They are milked by machine directly into pipes, which transfer the milk to the receiver in the milkhouse. Mr. Paine has been using this system for some six months, and reports that the cows are readily trained to follow each other into the stalls, and that he is well pleased with the plan.

While this system is a novelty in this State, it appears that it is by no means a novelty in other countries. Information is that a man in New Zealand devised it some twenty years ago, and that now it is in very common use in both Australia and New Zealand. In fact, it is reported that practically all the milking sheds of New Zealand are of this type, and that they are adapted both for machine and hand milking. Because of the similarity of conditions there and here, it is thought by those who have imported the idea that the plan is suitable for all of California.

SMALL WHEEL IMPLEMENTS FOR THE GARDEN AND LITTLE FARM.

BY MARVIN H. LOOMIS.

WHEN the first crude wheel hoe was made by a gardener on the outskirts of Philadelphia more than thirty years ago his neighbors scoffed and said S. L. Allen, the inventor, was lazy. But Mr. Allen smilingly continued to push his wheeled hoe along his garden row and the end of the gardening season found the ingenious Philadelphian ahead of his neighbors financially, while his garden had attracted more than ordinary attention because of its orderliness.

The descendants of this first wheeled hoe are now scattered over the United States by the millions and several large factories are turning out hand-pushed tools for the home gardener and the farmer who has a small acreage. The little wheel implements have become a common sight on city lots and in the suburbs and have won for themselves a niche in the scheme of home gardening the country over.

By means of the hand gardening tools the man who earns a wage or has a business in the city can raise a pretentious garden at home. The little hand tools save from 40 to 70 per cent of the work of plowing, cultivating, seeding, etc., and a better stand of vegetables can be secured with these tools, for the gardener can plant his rows with more accuracy through their use, and the cultivation is more even. Thousands of home gardeners were first introduced to these tools during the war, when patriotic citizens generally were urged to get out and plant gardens to help produce their own food. And once they began using the small tools they have been unwilling to part with them and have recommended them to their neighbors.

By the use of these diminutive implements thousands of persons are making a large saving in their living expenses in California and are finding out, perhaps for the first time in their lives, what fresh peas, beans and corn taste like right out of the garden. The work of cultivating the gardens is made much easier by the use of modern wheel hoes and small seed drills. [illegible] women love to do gardening, but the work of spading and hoeing is too hard for them without the aid of the wheeled implements which can be pushed by hand. Therefore, a large number of women are great friends of these junior outfits of implements and they have become an important factor in the production of food in the home garden.

Planting by means of these small implements is regular and accurate and more seeds are sown at the proper depth than when the hoe and the hand are used in seeding the garden. When the little seeder is pushed along on a marked line the garden row is much straighter and cultivation is made easier.

FOR SOWING SEED.

The following are some of the seeds which can be sown with the small hand-wheeled seeders: Asparagus, beans, beets, cabbage, cantaloupes, carrots, cauliflower, celery, chickory, cucumber, endive, field peas, flower seeds, kale, leek, lettuce, melon, okra, onions, parsley, parsnip, peas, peppers, radish, rice, rutabaga, sage, salsify, savory, spinach, sugar beet, tobacco, tomato and turnip.

Some of these implements combine the uses of the seeder with the wheeled hoe and cultivator. Thus it is that one of the small tools is at the same time a good seeder, a wheel hoe, a good cultivator, an excellent furrower and a rapid and efficient wheel plow for the garden.

The sowing devices of these implements are largely similar. There is a feed wheel with four wings arranged on a spindle and driven by beveled gears from the main wheel. The feed wheel revolves in a brass cylinder, which opens into the hopper above and agitates the seeds so that they drop into a diamond-shaped opening at the bottom in a regular stream. The feed on one popular make is automatically stopped by raising the handles and is started by lowering them.

When the seeder is used as a wheel hoe the seeding parts are removed and the wheel hoe frame substituted by changing a single bolt. If the gardener's plot is small he may break it up with the turning plow, running twice in a furrow and as deep as possible. The hand plow opens drills for fertilizer, potatoes, large seed, etc., and the furrow is covered from each side with this admirable little tool. Three steel cultivator teeth are used for all deep and thorough work [illegible] the garden and are also adapted to shallow cultivation and marking out for onion sets and plants and for working six-inch rows. The leaf lifter, which goes with most of these small outfits, is invaluable for late cultivation, making it easy to work crops like peas, carrots, beets and strawberries close to the plant without additional labor or injury to the plants, when otherwise it would be next to impossible to cultivate them at all when near maturity.

Easier with the Wheel Hoe.

Home gardening minus drudgery is possible through the use of midget implements.

PULVERIZES THE SOIL.

A pulverizer similar in make-up to the large implements used behind tractors and horses is sold to fit these machines. This new tool—for it is of recent invention—is especially adapted for preparing the seed bed of the home and farm garden. After the ground has been plowed with the wheel plow the pulverizer is attached to the hand frame and is found of great value in breaking up the clods, smoothing and fining the surface of the soil, putting it in the best possible condition for the seed planter. It is much more thorough in its work than the ordinary garden rake and is used like a carpet sweeper or vacuum cleaner. The rear blade, cutting fourteen inches, levels the ground perfectly. After the crops are started it may be used between the rows as a weeder or as a crust breaker, leaving a fine mulch. It is a great tool for the irrigation farmer, as he is enabled to use it between his laterals.

Louis Kempf of Lamanda Park, Cal., is a strong advocate of the wheel hoe and the wheel seeder combined. He has a two-acre truck garden near his home, which is one of the sights of that section. It is orderly and always productive, no difference what the season. Mr. Kempf says that he has used one of these outfits for the past six years and is enabled to take care of his large garden and his five-acre orange grove, where otherwise he would be forced to give up either one or the other. Last summer, Mr. Kempf tells me, he sold $540 worth of vegetables from his truck plot, besides furnishing his table with fresh products of the garden. He spent, on an average, three hours a day in his garden and the remainder in his orange grove. Mr. Kempf says that without his small hand implements he would be obliged to put double the time in the garden patch. His experience is similar to that of scores of other gardeners of lots and small acreage throughout Southern California.

MORE BEANS RAISED.

ONTARIO.—W. A. Fremire, local bean shipper, states that the acreage of all kinds of beans excepting blackeyes have been larger during the past year than ever before in the Ontario-Chino district. The kidney-bean growers are in better shape than the raisers of the blackeyes because of a better market.

WATER CONSERVATION.

quired and a sufficient supply can be obtained only from a comparatively deep well, a pump that will require a twelve to thirty-inch drill hole, but which will give a higher efficiency and deliver a larger quantity of water than one that can be inserted in the smaller drill hole, may make the drilling of the larger well the more economical in[illegible]ion, through the greater economy in the operation of the pump. If an abundant water supply is found at a depth of from forty to seventy-five feet, and a larger quantity is desired, a type of pump which will require a well three to six feet in diameter, but which will maintain a higher efficiency than that which can be inserted in a thirty-inch drill hole, may prove the more practicable installation.

At any rate, it is wise to consider the type and size of pump with the size and depth the hole is to be drilled. In sinking a well the quantity of water to be supplied the farm must be first taken into account, as it is frequently the case that a small water-bearing strata near the surface will prove adequate for a small pumping plant, but insufficient for one of larger capacity. The source of supply, too, should be ascertained, if possible, to determine whether it is percolation from local rainfall or an underflow which supplies the strata. Many localities in California have been charted by the United States Geological Survey to show the extent and source of the underground flow and these plats are on file in many of the libraries in cities throughout the State. Many farmers test out their drill holes by installing a temporary pump and pump for several days to determine how much the water level will be lowered and thus obtain the permanent working head before the final pump installation is made.

BEAN GROWERS HOLD CROP AND FARM POOL.

SANTA ANA.—Growers of lima beans on the San Joaquin Ranch, the Irvine holdings, and on lands in the vicinity of these tracts have formed a pool for the selling of their 1920 crop, which is now in warehouses at Irvine and Wintersburg. The growers are determined not to sell for less than 8 cents, f. o. b., Irvine Station. There is an effort to crowd down the price of limas to 6 cents, but the growers on the Irvine Ranch say that, with the light crop this year, and with the expense of threshing and hauling as high as it ever was, the grower will barely come out even at 8 cents.

It is believed that the crop from the 4500 acres in the Irvine district will run less than twelve sacks to the acre this year. In some localities the yield will not be eight sacks to the acre. There is a better demand for bean straw, but the baling and hauling cost is still very high.

The warehouse at Winterburg still contains beans of last year's crop, but Dunning & Hazeltine, the warehouse owners, state that they have orders for the 800 sacks remaining. This firm threshed a large portion of the beans on the San Joaquin Ranch. Most of the limas are recleaned at the Wintersburg plant.

On the Thomas Plant ranch at Harperville, the beans suffered greatly from lack of fog this summer, and the crop on this large ranch will be less than 60 per cent of normal, it is reported.

Many of the bean growers in the northern part of the country are in the pool of the Lima Bean Growers' Association of California, which closed on August 28, and feel confident that, with the crop financed as far as the association is concerned, they will get back the cost of growing the legumes, and a small margin of profit per acre.

MEXICAN GROWERS HIT BY LOW BEAN PRICE.

W. W. Rainey, head of the Avery Tractor Company forces in Southern California, recently returned from a tour of the agricultural districts of Sinaloa and Culiacan, Mex., where he visited the Yaqui and Navajo valleys and penetrated as far south as Culiacan. He found the Mexican planters dismayed at the low price of garbanzo beans, the principal crop in that country, and the dropping price of sugar cane and rice. In general, however, the planters were going ahead with extensive plans for the coming crops and believe that power farming machines and modern implements will help them extend their operations.

"The sugar-cane growers made a big clean-up during the last two years," said Mr. Rainey, "and the rice growers are in good condition, but the garbanzo bean men are in bad shape, as the price of their product has dwindled from $22 to $9 per sack. They say they cannot make anything at this price and look for a rise. There is no disorder in that country; the Yaquis are pacified and are working, and there is full confidence in Gen. Obregon."

COAST DEALERS WIN.

H. W. Nerney, Southern California manager for the W. L. Hughson Company, writes to the Times Farm and Tractor Section from Atlantic City, sending the good news that Pacific Coast tractor and implement dealers have won in their contention that they should be allowed to hold their own shows and demonstrations independent of the National Implement and Vehicle Association. Mr. Nerney attended the annual convention of the association as delegate from the Southern California dealers' association.

SAMSON BUILDING FINISHED.

The Samson Tractor Company division of the General Motors Corporation has demonstrated its faith in Los Angeles in a most practical way in the erection of its large show and display room building, completed last week on its property on Figueroa street, between Twenty-seventh and Twenty-eighth streets. The buildings extend along the entire block on Figueroa street and are half a block deep, the stately court and beautiful gardens making a setting that is a decided innovation for such industrial establishments. Hundreds of visitors daily have been inspecting the plant and its great display of Samson products. Samson model M tractors, Samson three-fourths and one and one-fourth-ton trucks, Samson tractor plows, harrows, and other tools are exhibited to advantage in the various departments of the new Samson building.

PUMP MEN MEET.

The American Pump Company recently held an interesting session for its twenty-five salesmen at its salesroom, No. 420 East Third street, Los Angeles. Present as special guests were C. A. Kuebler, general sales manager, and Willard Lantz of the sales promotion department of the Burnett-Larsh Manufacturing Company, Dayton, O., manufacturers of the Duro Electric Automatic Water Systems. Those in attendance had a pleasant social hour and luncheon at the Bull Pen Inn, after which they adjourned to the tea rooms of the Stowell Hotel, where an interesting talk was given by Mr. Kuebler, with the aid of lantern slides.

GAS MADE FROM STRAW MAY RUN THE TRACTOR.

A gas obtained by the destructive distillation of wheat, oat and rye straw is now being produced upon a small scale at the experimental farm of the United States Department of Agriculture at Arlington, Va. Although an automobile has been operated with the new combustible, and it has been used for illuminating purposes as well as for cooking, the possibilities of straw gas are not yet fully determined.

The work can be carried on but slowly owing to the limited funds available at present, but it is planned to do much that will determine the quantity and nature of the gas that may be obtained from wheat, oat, barley, rye and rice straws, and from cornstalks, corncobs and other vegetable matter usually burned as waste. If the results of these tests warrant further investigation the exepriments will be extended to the problem of plant equipment for producing the gas on a scale sufficient to allow the farmer to supply light and heat for his house, power for stationary engines, and, possibly, for his tractor from a small individual outfit. If a suitable unit can be constructed so that the farmer's initial cost will be small, it seems likely, that the straw gas may have a certain economic value in the sections of the country where the raw material from which the gas is made is now considered as waste and burned or left to rot on the fields. In some sections of the country the straw is used as fertilizer, but in the West and Northwest there is an unlimited supply of the material available for conversion into light and fuel for the farm home.

While it has been possible to operate an automobile with straw gas, and it is known that fifty pounds of straw will produce about 300 cubic feet of gas an amount sufficient to drive a light roadster fifteen miles—the problem of reducing the gas to liquid form or condensing it sufficiently to allow it to be carried conveniently is an essential one that must be solved before straw gas can be considered as a possible motor fuel.

WALNUTS ALL SACKED.

ANAHEIM.—Walnuts in this vicinity are all picked and growers estimate that, in Orange county, the largest walnut-producing county in America, there will be about 85 per cent of a normal crop. The growers are far from being satisfied with the prices being received, but a ready sale is found for the nuts at 22 cents for No. 1's and 19 cents for No. 2's on the ranch. It is felt that there should be a lower price for labor and sacks if this price is to continue. There has been no shortage of pickers this year, and the damage by the codling moth has been less than last year.

SANTA ANA.—That Coachella Valley farmers are planning a large acreage of onions for next season is seen by orders received at the local box shook factory, where 570,000 onion crates are being made, enough to take care of 4000 acres. The factory is working an extra shift in order to get out all the crates required before the first onions come off in February. A large order is also expected from the Imperial Valley growers.

Two Interesting Southern California Orchards.

BY DELPHINA PHILLIPS.

IS IT not strange that some of the best things of life may lie right under our noses, and be entirely overlooked?

I was from the "Show-me" State when the question of whether good apples could be grown in California came up. "They raise good ones in the mountains," some one said, and there it rested until some fat, juicy Arkansas Beauties were found on the market. When my teeth went into that first yellow-coated, juicy, and exquisitely flavored apple, I was converted on the spot. "They do raise some good apples in California," I said. Of course I wanted to know where they came from, and I was surprised to learn that they had been grown at Newport Heights, right near the sea.

That winter was spent at one of the little beach towns, and all during the season firm and solid Pearmains from the same locality were brought to our doors. I was interested, but thought they must be a sort of accident. I never supposed they were raised in any quantity. That was before I heard of Donald J. Dodge and his apple orchard.

Mr. Dodge's fifteen acre orchard is probably just coming into prime, for most of the trees are eight years old. It is about two miles back from the ocean, and ninety feet above sea-level. The whole community of Costa Mesa, which is the new name given to the localities of Harper, Fairview Farms and Newport Heights, is interested in raising apples, but I take the orchard of Donald Dodge as representative of the community. They are a progressive people all around down that way, and are proud of the fact that they took the prize over all competitors at last year's Orange county fair, for fruits and vegetables.

Large apple on 4-year-old winter banana tree on Donald J. Dodge place at Newport Heights.

The most remarkable thing about Mr. Dodge's apple raising, at which he has been most successful, is the fact that he knew absolutely nothing about agriculture or horticulture when he bought his ranch. He intended, he says, to plant something, he did not know what. This was in 1912, and up to that time apple raising on a commercial scale was hardly known in California outside of the mountain districts. But Prof. Wickson, then of the agricultural department of the State University, believed that conditions were right for the growth of apples on the west tablelands and with nothing but the instructions and experiments of Prof. Wickson, and the department to guide him, Mr. Dodge started to grow apples.

The methods followed were probably those of most apple-growers in a country where irrigation is needed. From the time the little trees first began to bear they were sprayed, and taken good care of. Irrigation is given about four times in the year, according to the season, and spraying is done about five times. The tree trunks are whitewashed in December to prevent sunburn.

Mr. Dodge does not really have to market his apples; his market comes to him. By raising apples of good quality, and by honest methods, he has gradually built up a reputation for his fruit that brings people from far and near for the product of the Dodge orchard. People from as far away as Riverside, Redlands and San Bernardino, are his customers, at times.

These cherry trees on the Hunter place came from Belgium and are trained tall as the Belgians train them when they wish to allow cattle to graze beneath them.

Branches of an Arkansaw Beauty in Mr. Dodge's orchard.

The varieties grown by Mr. Dodge are the Winter Pearmains, the Arkansas Beauties, the Bellfleurs and the Banana apples. Perhaps the most popular general purpose apple he grows is the Pearmain. The markeeping season opens in September and lasts until December.

One other of Mr. Dodge's methods is worthy of note. For those who wish to order apples for later use at harvest-time prices, he will place as many boxes as desired in cold storage, to be called for when the customer desires. The apples are placed in storage twenty-four hours after being picked. The writer was privileged to taste some Pearmains which had been in storage ten months. They were pretty, of excellent flavor and quite solid.

Mr. Dodge believes that most shipped apples are picked too green. His apples are tested for sugar content, the same as beet growers test their beets. Mr. Dodge sold 250 tons of apples last year. He expects to double the quantity marketed this year.

INTERESTING TREES IN VALLEY ORCHARD.

VAN NUYS.—Two hundred varieties of fruit and nuts in full bearing are included in the five-acre orchard on the place of C. R. Hunter, a little over two miles southeast of Van Nuys. Practically all the planting on this interesting property is around eight years old and in the best bearing condition, the little ranch being known for the quality of its products. A large nursery near Los Angeles depends on the the place for much of its budding stock for choice and rare fruits.

A young banana apple tree in Mr. Dodge's orchard.

The owner, who is associated with the Universal Film Company at Universal City, acquired the property already developed from Leon Mazy, a Belgian, the latter having laid it out in 1911 when the modern progress of the San Fernando Valley, following its subdivision from great barley ranches, was just beginning.

The former owner retained his love for the old country to such an extent that he imported much of his nursery stock from across the Atlantic. Included among those old country plantings that interest the visitor to the place are Cure pears from France, trained from time immemorial by the priests to grow flat against the church walls. There are also cherries and apples from Belgium, trained tall after the manner employed in their native country where many trees are purposely so treated so that cattle may graze beneath them. A tree from Hungary, called by Mr. Hunter the "cherry-plum," has foliage of a color matching its red fruit.

The older trees on the place include apples, apricots, cherries, figs, grapes, nectarines, olives, pears, persimmons, peaches, prunes, plums, quinces, almonds, chestnuts, pecans and walnuts and there are also young trees of many kinds not yet in bearing with which Mr. Hunter is experimenting.

A Growing Duroc Establishment in Antelope Valley.

BY R. T. EVANS.

THE Rancho Del Sur, owned and operated by Donald Graham and Emmons Henshaw, is one of the notable hog raising establishments of Antelope Valley. This 200-acre ranch, eight miles west of Lancaster, is growing fine alfalfa for the production of high quality pure-bred hogs of the Duroc-Jersey breed. Mr. Graham and Mr. Henshaw would not be satisfied with raising ordinary hogs, for in their estimation there is no use in raising any but the early, maturing, growing animals which can be marketed at a time when the profit is surest. Their plan, briefly stated, is summed up in the feeding of alfalfa with a little concentrate to finish off. Fifty acres of alfalfa, forty acres of rye pasture, and seventy acres of barley constitute the crops raised on this up-to-date ranch.

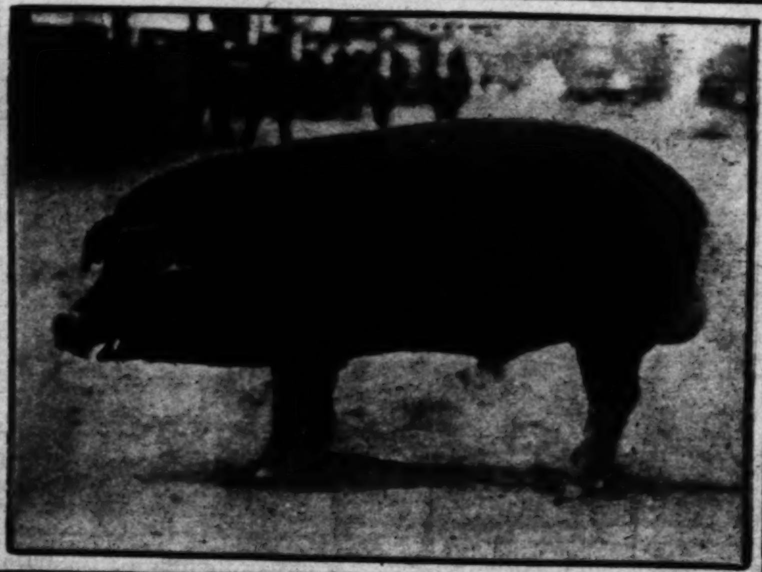
A good bunch of brood sows.

The ranch is also starting out to raise sheep.



Royal I am, Rancho Del Sur boar. He was junior champion and reserve grand champion Duroc-Jersey boar at this year's Los Angeles Live Stock show.

The herd comprises some two hundred head of Durocs at the present time; about twenty or twenty-five registered brood sows being used for fall and spring litters. Mr. Graham says they are "trying to breed size with quality, with plenty of bone, yet with no coarseness, in short the type which quickly matures up to 250 or 300 pounds for marketing. Prof. J. I. Thompson selected the boar which stands at the head of the herd, a two-year-old, obtained from the herd of William Hoag of Rose Hill, Iowa. This animal, Orion's King Game, is a type of boar which, according to Mr. Thompson, is being sought by prominent Duroc breeders to win in the big shows. While not of the extreme big type, he possesses the scale necessary to no use in raising any but the easily-matur- free from coarseness, and yet maintain high prolificacy in the herd. Another boar used in this herd is A. B. Pathfinder, a son of pathfinder's Likeness, and a very good individual. A young boar of promise which the ranchers take great pride in Royal I Am, which took junior champion and reserve grand champion boar at this year's Los Angeles Live Stock Show.

Among the fine sows which have been selected to maintain the high standard of the herd are Big Cherry Lady, Cherry Lady Del Sur, Miss Magnate, Sensational Pet, Amanda Rose, Fount's Lady Orion, Betsy of Belgium, O. U. Model, Rose Gano, Special Critic, May Rose and Del Sur's Lady Orion. These sows are all good types of the breed with plenty of quality, and are very prolific.

In addition to raising hogs, these Antelope Valley ranchers are going in for the raising of high grade sheep. They are aware of the fact that they will have to compete with the sheep from the range, but believe they can produce a better quality of mutton by giving the business close-up attention, and are confident that the lamb and wool crop will give them a handsome profit in a flock of only a few hundred head. They also figure on the value of the fertilizer to be had in their sheep raising operations.

Ample facilities are provided for handling the livestock on the Rancho Del Sur. Large, modern farrowing houses are built along scientific lines to insure against loss in the pig crop, yet by no means is the overhead expense represented by costly buildings and equipment calculated to keep down the profits on the undertaking. Comfortable, but not fancy quarters are provided, and this commonsense idea, coupled with enthusiasm and optimism, is the big factor for success on this ranch. These energetic young breeders, by breeding the best, by rigid selection and by careful management are doing their bit towards making and advancing the livestock industry in their section of the country.

ONLY HEALTHY SWINE SHOULD BE IMMUNIZED.

When losses are experienced after healthy hogs are injected with serum and virus for hog cholera, the veterinarian who administered the products is sometimes blamed, when either the serum or the virus is responsible for the fatalities. Again, the reverse is sometimes true. The serum and virus may be of the most excellent quality and be handled and administered by a veterinarian unfamiliar with the important steps of the the procedure. When this is the case disastrous results may be the reward of the best intentions.

When the owner of hogs is obliged to have them immunized he should thoroughly inform himself on all the factors involved in the procedure that may produce unfavorable results before anyone, directly or indirectly concerned, is charged with being responsible for any ill effects that follow the operations.

It is not advisable to attempt to save hogs noticeably sick with cholera, for the reason that only a few recover and they, as a rule, henceforth remain unthrifty. The healthy hogs in the exposed droves are the ones that should be given care and attention.

Loosening up the Soil for a Large Citrus Planting

To insure a good start and sturdy growth for sixty acres of lemons and ten acres of avocadoes which he is setting out on his large Beverly Hills estate, J. M. Danziger is having a hole blasted out for each tree. Frank Butler, the explosives expert who has the big contract, is using nearly two tons of 20 per cent. stumping dynamite for the job. The photograph shows a crew of men in charge of L. J. Kelley, boring holes for the blasting. Two hundred charges are fired each day.

The borings average three feet in depth, depending upon the character of the soil, the harder strata which require loosening being encountered at varying levels.

While the men bore holes for the charges, Mr. Butler cuts the fuse into suitable lengths, crimps on the fulminating caps (as shown in inset) and inserts the latter into the sticks of dynamite.

The dynamite, with fuse attached, is put into the hole, dirt being gently tamped in over it.

Lighting the fuse. The operator plans to keep about three holes ahead of the explosions as he goes along the rows.

Result of an extra heavy charge put in hard soil. The average explosion throws up practically no dirt.

BY J. FARROLL SIMMONS.

"AND some day that will be the popular mode of travel."

"But, Spud," I ejaculated, "it is impossible, unthinkable! How on earth—"

"I repeat that it is the coming thing. To circle entirely the globe in twenty-four hours is not impossible! You sit there and declaro that a thing is impossible; you, with ordinary intelligence, tell me that a thing is impossible. Nothing is impossible in this enlightened age.

"Yes, men said the automobile was impossible; people hooted and jeered Fulton; it was said that an airplane wouldn't fly; that a submarine would go to the bottom and wouldn't come up. Yet all those things are here. They gain no more than a passing glance these days."

"Some men, who were way ahead of their time, saw these things coming. Take, as an example, Jules Verne—"

"I know, I know, but this—"

"There you go. 'But this!' That expression is worn out."

"Well, I, for one, will have to be shown."

"Very well, I will show you. Get on your hiking clothes; you are due for a hike in the mountains."

I started for my clothes. "Spud" Aron was a peculiar fellow. I had known him for years, but for the last two years I had not seen him. He was a millionaire idler, a great dreamer, and something of a scientist. He had a roving disposition, and the spirit of the wanderer ran strong in his veins.

This latest undertaking of his gave me the impression that his idleness was beginning to affect his mind. It seems that in the last year he had picked up a tramp, who, it seems, had at one time possessed an education, but like some other men with educations, had sunk to the gutter with the aid of alcohol.

Spud, always ready to help a fellow man get on his feet, had cared for him, and at the same time took a great liking for the man's company. The tramp, to show his appreciation, had unfolded a plan whereby a machine could be built that would circle the earth in twenty-four hours.

The two went to work on it, built a shop on Pine Mountain, so called because of the absence of pine trees within twenty miles, and had materials hauled up on pack burros. Spud came to town to get materials, and dropped in to tell me about it. Hence the argument.

I donned my hiking clothes, and accompanied Spud in the machine to the foot of the trail, where we left the machine, and started afoot.

"This shop is not known around here. Only six people know of it; Prof. Williams, myself, and four helpers. We don't want any visitors or newspaper men around. They'll hear of it soon enough. This place is rather hard to find, so we haven't been bothered."

Up a winding, rough trail we went, until we had attained, I judged, a height of 1000 feet. Then we reached the top, and started along a trail overgrown with holly trees. About a quarter of a mile ahead was a clump of trees.

"How much farther?" I asked.

"To the trees," answered Spud briefly.

We passed through a barrier of trees, and into an open space, which one could see had been cleared. The sight that met my eyes nearly took my breath. I stopped, aghast, astonished.

There, in the center of the clearing was the strangest craft I had ever seen. It was shaped like a submarine, only it was cylindrical, and more inclined to a point. It was on end, and was, I gathered all of 500 feet in height. It was supported by a framework similar to that of an oil derrick. Men were on the derrick riveting on plates.

"I—is that it?"

"Yep. Come on; I'll show you through it, and explain more fully."

I followed, wonderingly. The craft was about ten feet in diameter at its widest part. I could see that it was constructed of aluminum.

"What do you call this—er—"

"It's a Defigrav. Come on in."

He opened a small door at the base and we entered. I then saw that the bottom was not pointed, but was more like a balloon. A couple of port lights admitted some light. There were four berths built in, and a table, with a couple of chairs beside it. There was a section of aluminum about ten feet up, through which a ladder ran.

"This room," explained Spud, "is for passengers. Come up the ladder."

We ascended the ladder. When we had passed through the opening, I found myself in a maze of machinery.

"This is the motor, and gas producing machinery. The engine was designed by Prof. Williams, the man I picked up from the gutter. This is a centrifugal motor, and when started, will not only manufacture three kinds of gas, but will turn six propellers, which will be on the stern, at a rate of 6000 revolutions a minute.

"The gas which we will use for lifting is very powerful, more powerful than any gas known. Its compound is an absolute secret. Another gas we make is pure oxygen, the third is hydrogen. Now follow me."

Up we went past the engine, which occupied about thirty feet. We passed through another aluminum section, which had pipes running through it from the engine. The other side was just space.

"We have here a space 470 feet long, which will be devoted to a heavy pressure of gas. A tremendous lifting power, with our new gas, I can assure you. We shall be able to travel 300 miles an hour.

"Now, at that speed the heat caused by the air is very great. Aluminum doesn't heat rapidly, but as a precaution the inside of the entire shell is covered with asbestos.

"As I told you before, say we left the earth at 10 a.m. In an hour we should be away from the force of gravity; away from the earth's sphere, altogether. When we reach that state, we shall stop, remain suspended, and being away from all influence of the earth we shan't turn as it does. After remaining up twenty-four hours we shall fill the tank with oxygen, which as you know, is heavier than air, start the motor, and descend in the precise spot from which we started."

"Yes, all very simple," I said, sarcastically. "I suppose if you wanted to go to China, you would rise, sit around for twelve hours then descend and you'd be there."

"Exactly. You have grasped it."

"Then there's another little detail which you have perhaps overlooked. When you start down, you're apt to come to grief when you land."

"That is accounted for. When we reach the strata where gravity begins to assert itself, we shall let out the oxygen and fill with hydrogen. Then we shall land just as a balloon."

"Well, I have to go back. Got an important engagement. When do you expect to go?"

"Let's see; this is July 20. August, Sepber—about the 24th of September."

"All right. If I don't see you again, I wish you luck."

"Thanks. Try to come around about the twenty-fourth"

"I will. So long."

I left him and proceeded to my home. That Spud Aron was trying something idiotic, I was sure. Away from the force of the earth, indeed! At that it sounded plausible. Perhaps it could be done. Well, time alone would tell.

By the time I reached home other things of more importance began to fill my mind, and in a few days I forgot all about Spud and the Defigrav.

Two months passed, and I heard nothing of Spud, so I decided to go to Pine Mountain and see how he was getting along. This was September 24 the day they were to make their initial flight. I made speed to the top of the mountain and rushed through the border of trees. Then I stopped and gasped, The Defigrav was gone!

There was the derrick with a few ropes hanging from it. A man came out of the shop.

"Say" I yelled, going toward him. "Where is the Defigrav?"

"She's gone; went this morning at 6 o'clock."

"How—was it a success?"

"Was it? I should say! Got out of sight before I knowed they was ready to go."

"Who went?"

"Prof. Williams and Mr. Aron. They will be back in the mornin' at 6, they said."

"I hope so, I'll come back tomorrow."

The next day I went back. They hadn't returned. Every day for a week I went to Pine Mountain, but nothing was to be seen. I scanned every inch of the papers, but learned nothing that way.

What had happened? Had they gone so high that the gravity of another planet had attracted them? Or had they perhaps descended into the ocean?

Either could be possible, only the ocean theory seemed more probable. I finally decided that the latter was the truth, so mourned Spud for dead.

The next year business called me to Asia. I hired a guide to show my wife and me around. We were at the time in the town of Nan-Patu, a small but densely populated town in Northern China.

We saw the sights of the town, then the guide ventured to suggest that we go into the mountains and see the new temple.

In a valley between two mountains we came upon the temple.

"This temple, he was built last year," volunteered the guide. "Come."

We followed him through a door, on each side of which was an image of Buddha. The guide knelt down and mumbled, evidently to himself.

The inside was a large room, and in the center of it, protruding out of the ground, was about twenty-five feet of the stern of the Defigrav! It was smashed, but remnants of propellers could be seen.

[illegible] "Me [illegible] Buddha. He come evenin' time last September 24. We build nice temple all around. That gift, he stick way, way down in ground. Sharp at end, but we no go in. Bad smell, kill heap men."

September 24 My God, they did it! But where were they?

"Was anybody in it?" I asked fearfully.

"No. Gift from Buddha," said the China man, confidently.

Maybe they circled half the globe in one day, but what a sacrifice they made! To this day the mystery of Spud Aron and Prof. Williams remains unsolved.

ROSES ON THE BORDER OF MY BEDROOM PAPER.

Roses on the border of my bedroom paper,
Damask, rose-red roses
Pressed against my bedroom wall,
I believe you're more than paper
You must be immortal shadows
Of my living, glowing roses
That clambered up my garden wall,

You are spirits, sweet and dainty,
That because I loved you well
Hand in hand come circling round me
Lest I should feel too lonely
Shut within these four, cold, gray walls,
When I sleep, lift me gently,
Take me to my long-loved garden
Where you glowed upon the wall.
In my dream I'll sense your fragrance,
Feel the warm, soft, sunlit air.
There I'll hear the birds sing blithely,
And the music of a voice
That waking I can hear no more.

Roses on the border of my bedroom paper,
Damask, rose-red roses
Pressed against my bedroom wall,
Soon we'll leave these dull, dread places.
We'll go yonder to my garden,
To my richly perfumed garden,
Where there's light and warmth and beauty
And roses in profusion—
There with my Beloved we'll tarry evermore.

"IT'S AN ILL WIND—"

"HE WHO has a house to put his head in has a good head-piece." The philosophy underlying this sententious utterance of King Lear is evident today in Los Angeles, where the homeless seek shelter and seek in vain. With tourists coming into the city at the rate of 2000 a day, the housing condition has become acute. This is not due so much to the lack of accommodations as to the exorbitant rentals asked. There are still, it is said, many unoccupied houses in the city, held out of use either because the owner desires to sell them, either at an inflated price, or because the rent asked is so outrageously high as to prevent their being leased. To be sure, the rapid growth of the city together with the great influx of tourists has created a comparative shortage of houses here, but it is the rent profiteer who has aggravated the situation and rendered it acute.

Houses, flats and apartments that rented less than two years ago for $30 or $40 per month are now being held at from $60 to $150. In most cases the former tenants have moved on, either to smaller or cheaper quarters, or to houses of their own. The result is that there is no dearth of accommodations at high prices, but the low or medium priced shelter is no longer to be had. Houses renting from $25 to $30 per month, once so plentiful in Los Angeles, are now an unknown quantity—there is no such animal.

The fortunate members of society who own their own homes are not troubled by all this, neither are the equally fortunate renters who still live placidly in houses or apartments which they have long occupied at a fair rental. It is a fact that there are still many such cases, the satisfactory tenant being left unmolested at only a 10 or 15 per cent increase on the old rentals.

But the rule is far otherwise. Landlords for the most part have become obsessed with the one idea of exacting their pound of flesh while the exacting is good. Profiteering, bald and bold, is rampant. Regardless of the cost of property and its upkeep, many owners have doubled and trebled and quadrupled the rents, exacting all the traffic will bear and then some. Instances in which landlords are realizing from 20 to 30 and even as high as 40 per cent net on the cost of the property are becoming common, while even larger returns are being exacted by some of these human vultures.

Those that cannot afford to pay the rents asked are ousted, to make way for those who have the price. If this condition is permitted to continue long there will be a "new poor" class here just as there is in England, made up of those members of society who have been compelled to lower their standard of living and to take refuge in any tent, hut or garage obtainable, deprived of the comforts and conveniences they have always known.

The effect such a pressure downward will have upon society is easy to see. Workers will be obliged to clamor for more pay, and will find any reasonable increase which their employers are able to make insufficient to permit them to maintain their former standard of living. Discontent, bitterness, a settled conviction that the present system is wrong will possess them. They will become the easy prey of the rabid agitator and will be misled into the support of all manner of faddist legislation, thus threatening the stability of the whole social fabric.

But if the lot of the man or woman of limited earning capacity is hard, because of rent extortion, that of those who are dependent upon a fixed income is far more difficult. For them the decline of their standards of living is inevitable and the results truly tragic.

The one class of society that flourishes like the green bay tree is the owner of rental property. He rides on the crest of the wave of prosperity just now, secure, as he thinks, against all disaster. That he may be riding to a fall, and a serious one, never enters his head. He and his fellows have succeeded in creating a "boom," not one in real estate values but in the return secured for the use of real estate, for realty prices in Los Angeles are still remarkably low. That this may drive the victims of the boom to buying their own homes does not worry him, for he banks on the tourists and on the improvident and unfortunate who are in no position to make even a first payment on a home. But there is in every boom the seed of disaster. When the thing has become topheavy it falls, and those who were at the top hit the ground the hardest.

There are still in Los Angeles many old-timers who recall the boom of the eighties, and who are glad that the realty values are still normal and that it is only rentals that have been inflated. For they know the evil effects of a boom and only hope to escape another experience such as the city suffered in 1885 and a year or two following.

It was with the extension of the Southern Pacific railroad in 1883, followed by the opening of the Santa Fe in 1885, that there began a great influx of tourists, adventurers, speculators and settlers, who came, attracted by the climate, the scenery, the promise of riches from the development of agriculture and trade, or by the love of adventure which has played such a tremendous part in the development of the West.

In six years the population jumped from twelve to sixty thousand, with thousands of tourists coming and going. To accommodate these and the trainloads of others expected, buildings began to arise everywhere. Hotels appeared on all sides, business blocks sprang up almost overnight, and the settled residence districts found themselves crowded by the rapidly advancing business section. Land values soared to unheard of figures, dirt roads gave way to paved streets, commerce marched by the Plaza and advanced south on Main and Spring streets, even invading Fort street, as Broadway was then called. Hotels coined money, stores doubled and trebled their trade in a single month, banks increased and multiplied, all sorts of business ventures found ready investors, and enterprising real estate promoters gathered in the southern city from the four quarters of the globe, bent upon "making a killing."

The price of lots doubled overnight, so that the fortunate purchaser of frontage on one of the going streets frequently "cleaned up" a fortune by selling a purchase before the ink on the deed was dried.

Speculation grew wilder and more rampant. At first, many had sought land for homes, lots upon which to build, investment for permanent returns, but now a wild fever of speculation seemed to possess all, everybody buying with the sole idea of selling again for profit. Thus the fair lanes of California became pawns for a great game of chance, tickets in a huge lottery, chances in a fascinating gamble that grew more and more exciting day by day.

A few conservative men saw where such speculation must inevitably lead and tried to check the mad rush, but few listened, while many scoffed.

And then the lull came. Gradual at first, difficult to realize, but a lull nevertheless. Something intangible in the air sapped the enthusiasm that had been at such fever heat. There were plenty of tourists that fall, the weather was all that could be asked, the hotels were still crowded, business was good, but the long lines of buyers that had attended every sale faded away not to reappear.

The promoters themselves did not understand, and kept on with their bands and free lunches and their auctions, until two or three advertised sales had fallen flat, with few attending and no one buying. Then they called off the sales for the season, reassuring themselves that business would revive in the spring.

That business did not revive was due to a combination of causes, chief of which is that inflation and boom prices are always destructive of prosperity. Reaction must and does follow.

So it is that those who are forcing up rents in Los Angeles, thinking that they will gain wealth, may be the cause of depression and even disaster. If tourists are discouraged from coming, every business will feel the effect, but none so keenly as those whose stock in trade consists of rental property. If workers, who come here because of the expanding industries that promise steady employment, become disgusted and leave, because they can find no place to live within their means, the new industrial activity of the city will be checked or stopped. If those who have retired from business and come to live here on their incomes find living conditions bad because of the exactions of the landlords, they too will fold up their tents like the Arab and silently steal away.

And then the profiteering landlord may sit on the front porch of his empty houses and croak like the Raven—"Nevermore."

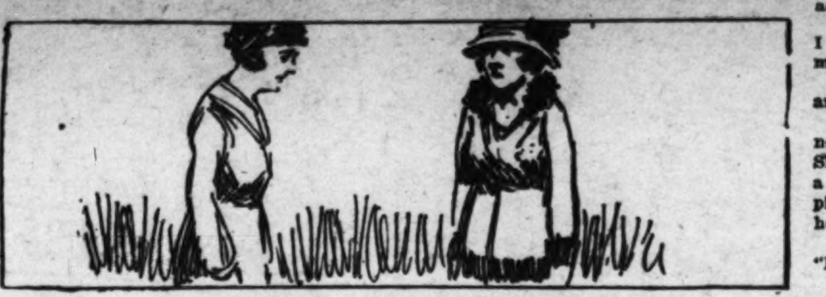
The old saying, "It's an ill wind that blows nobody good," seems to the writer to be particularly apropos of the present situation. The abnormal rental conditions have forced many families who have jogged along many years, satisfied to pay rent instead of making the necessary effort to buy a home of their own, to become their own landlords. Many of these have started in a very modest way, by buying a lot and erecting, first a garage or tent. After a few weeks, either beside this tent or in front of it, depending upon its location on the plot of ground purchased, a small house appears. As the weeks pass this grows apace and in the course of a few months what was originally a one-roomed structure blossomed into a neat home place with all the modern conveniences, a well kept lawn, some flowers, and a climbing vine or two. We have in mind one particular little place of this kind which has intrigued us mightily. Some two months ago as we passed by on the road to Pasadena, we saw a one-roomed house with walls made of packing box boards. A few weeks later a side wing was added and the whole was shingled, both wall and roof. In the course of a month an additional room was built in front, the outside shingled effect being adhered to. Now we note that a fourth room in the form of a wing is in course of construction as is also an upper story room thrown out in the form of a gable. This is simply one instance, but it can be duplicated in a thousand cases. Go out in the suburbs in any direction where land is cheap and what will you find? In sheltered valleys, on the sloping hillsides, tents, one-room shacks, a few homes of two, three, four and even five rooms are rising against the landscape like mushrooms. Many of the builders have employed extraordinary materials. Packing cases have been knocked down often to be used as sheathing, some have even resorted to ordinary tar building paper as a temporary expedient. Tin cans laboriously flattened and cut into squares are used in many cases to inclose a room or two. But be this as it may, the movement reveals the determination on the part of so many people to own their own homes, be they ever so humble, be the materials used in construction ever so varied. They have at least "a good head piece," and in this movement is the seed that is destined to bring about the undoing of the voracious rent profiteer.

But there is also a large element of "good" for the community in this outcropping of the sturdy pioneering spirit on the part of so many of our people. The builder of a home, be it ever so modest, becomes a better citizen, giving him a stake in the community which makes for a higher degree of civic pride—his home may be modest, but 'tis his own, and the sense of ownership carries with it a corresponding sense of responsibility and pride. He eschews for the nonce the movies and takes his pleasure in his garden or in adding to his dwelling. He may build an additional room, he may paint it himself. He learns to use tools and takes an ever increasing pride in the product of his own handiwork. He in fact becomes a better citizen and his surplus income, if he has any, and if there is a home of his own to put it in he will make sacrifices to have a surplus—goes into the home and is thus saved. It is the sum of all these small savings that ultimately makes for the wealth and enrichment, not only of the individual, but of the city, the State and the nation.

So while we deplore the exactions of the rent profiteer, we nevertheless see in his exactions an element of good that will ultimately benefit the community as a whole, for after all is said, the backbone of a city, State or nation is its home owners, for it is on the supplying of foodstuffs, furnishings and materials that go into the home that the agricultural, industrial, commercial and transportation systems of the world largely rest. There will be more agricultural products, more foodstuffs, more furniture and more building materials, to mention only a few of the great staples that enter into the life of a home owning people. consumed by a city of a thousand homes and five thousand population, than in a city of twice that size if all the population lived in apartments, flats and hotels.

The Married Life of Helen and Warren.

BY MABEL HERBERT URNER.



Helen Incites a Revolt Against the Tyranny of a Self-Centered Invalid.

"IF I only could get away for a few weeks! But of course that's impossible," bitterly.

"Why can't you tell her frankly you must have a change? Surely she can see you're not well," protested Helen. "You've never looked so thin."

"Mother doesn't notice that. She's too absorbed in her own ailments. I shouldn't talk like this—but it's reached a point where it's unbearable."

"Frances, Frances!" a querulous voice from an adjoining room.

"Yes, mother, right away."

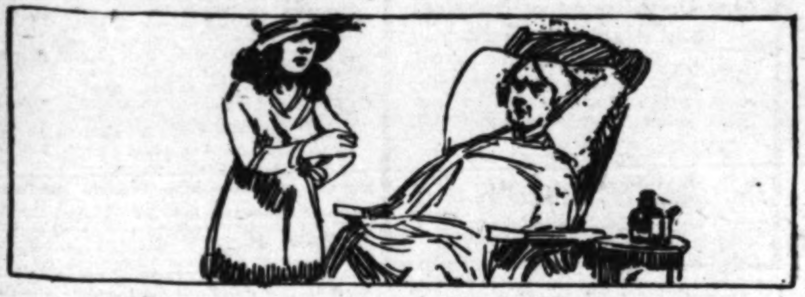
Through the open door Helen caught the fretful complaints.

"Pull down that shade—it shines right in my eyes. Hand me that magazine—and those smelling-salts. Isn't it time for my medicine?"

"Why, no, mother, it's only twenty minutes after four."

"Well, make me a lemonade—put some grape juice in it. That's the way when any one comes—you never think of me. I told you this morning I felt worse—just like one of my attacks."

That Mrs. Radley's ills were largely imaginary, Helen had long suspected. A chronic invalid, her selfish incessant demands kept her daughter enslaved.



"It's always like this when any one calls," wearily Frances dropped upon the couch beside Helen. "She wants me right with her every second."

"Your health won't stand it. Why don't you get her an attendant—and go somewhere for a few weeks' rest?"

"An attendant? She has one of her 'attacks' if I even suggest an attendant. She won't have any one around her but me. I've had eight years of it now! The best years of my life—tied to that wheel-chair. And she can walk as well as I. That night we had the fire she ran downstairs!"

"Frances! Frances!"

This time she closed the door, and Helen could hear only the mother's complaining murmur.

"Perhaps I'd better go," when Frances finally appeared. "I'm only making it harder for you."

"No, don't go yet—please don't. If I can't see a few of my friends occasionally—I'll go mad."

"I wish you'd come to dinner with us. Why can't you? The maid can look after your mother. You needn't stay long."

"I'd love to," wistfully, "but I can't leave her. She won't let Mary bring her a glass of water—I have to do everything. Oh, it isn't the waiting on her that I mind. It's that I'm growing to—to almost hate her!"

"Oh, don't hold that thought!" dismayed Helen. "That'll wear you out quicker than anything."

"I know. I've tried to fight against it. But in the last year I've felt—oh, I can't tell you! And I think she knows. That's why she takes a sort of fiendish pleasure in tormenting me."

"But, Frances, this can't go on. It's unnatural!"

"Oh, it's all so ghastly!" Then suddenly. "You never knew my father? I worshipped him—we were inseparable. I think mother's always resented that."

"Was she an invalid then?"

"She's been an invalid for twenty years. She prides herself on that. She's ruled the family with her 'attacks.' No one ever dared to cross her. She'd keep father home from his office for days—wrecked his business."

"And she's wrecking your life!" flamed Helen. "It's time for you to break away. You're on the verge of nervous prostration now. Get her an attendant or a trained nurse and you go down to Atlantic City for awhile."

"If you'd ask me to move this house across the street it wouldn't seem more impossible. Her medicine!" as the clock struck five. "It's only a bread pill, but if she doesn't get it on the second she'll have one of her attacks."

While she waited, Helen gazed broodingly out the window. For some time she had sensed that the situation between Frances and her mother was becoming impossible. But until now Frances had never confided in her.

"Frances," when she entered, "why don't you have a talk with the doctor?"

"What's the use? He wouldn't do anything. He gets his fee for coming twice a week and prescribing bread tablets. What can I expect from him?"

"I wish you'd let me talk to her before I go."

"It wouldn't do any good. You can't reason with mother. She'd only go off into one of her spells—and I'd have to be up all night."

"But how is this going to end? I'm really frightened for you."

"I'll pull myself together somehow and go on. I wouldn't have broken down today—but it's the twenty-fifth. Just a year since I've seen Willard. Oh, I could forgive mother anything but that!"

"Then she broke off your engagement? I always suspected that. But why? How could she object to him?"

"She doesn't want me to marry any one. She thinks it's my duty to devote my life to her. Duty!" bitterly. "I've come to loathe that word."

"Oh, how can she be so selfish?"

"And yet in some ways she's most generous. Just last Thursday, my birthday, she gave me three thousand dollars in bonds. It's all her money—my father left almost nothing. And she's always giving me extravagant presents. In that way she's very generous," with a pathetic effort to be fair.

"That's not generosity. How can that make up for keeping you enslaved? You're going to dinner with me tonight!" determinedly. "I'll ask her myself!"

Ignoring her protests, Helen threw open the door to Mrs. Radley's room.

It was a luxurious room, attractive with books, magazines and flowers. The French windows looked out on a balcony gay with pink geraniums.

"Mrs. Radley, Frances isn't at all well," Helen began with startling abruptness. "I think she's staying in too close. I want to take her home to dinner—just for a little change."

"How about me?" sharply. "I don't get any change. I'm tied to this wheel-chair year in and year out. Frances goes for a walk every morning."

"But that isn't enough," persisted Helen. "She's breaking down under this confinement. Can't you see she's getting thinner?"

"She needs a good tonic. I had Dr. Doser prescribe for her, but she won't take any medicine. She's full of these 'new thought' ideas. Lot of good they're doing her."

"But just tonight—I'm sure she'd enjoy it. Warren will take us to the theater afterwards—she really does need a little outing."

"Oh! Oh! clutching her heart. "It's coming on! Frances! Frances!"

Rushing in, Frances lowered the back of the wheel-chair until her mother lay flat. Then she hastily poured out a spoonful of medicine evidently kept for the "attacks."

Mrs. Radley lay moaning, her eyes closed, her hands still clutched over her heart. Motioning Helen to leave the room, Frances followed with a whispered,

"You'd better go. She'll only act up worse if you stay. She can throw herself into convulsions when she wants to. I'll phone you in the morning."

Helen, hurrying homeward through the chill autumn-dusk, was unhappily conscious that she had only made matters worse.

Mrs. Radley's selfishness seemed almost criminal. For Frances to waste her youth, her chance for marriage, catering to her mother's querulous whims!

The more Helen thought of it the more hideous it seemed. By the time she reached home she had worked herself up to a feverish indignation.

Warren was already there, ill-humored as always when she was late.

"Dear, I'm sorry—but I was with Frances. I wanted her to come to dinner but her mother wouldn't let her."

"Huh, that old Tartar never lets her go anywhere."

"I felt things were pretty bad, but I never knew how unhappy Frances was. She's always been so loyal, she'd never say a word—but this afternoon she went to pieces. It was her mother who broke off her engagement with Willard Kent."

"I could've told you that," with a shrug. "He's crazy about her yet."

"He is?" excitedly. "How do you know?"

"Been glum ever since. See him at the club—always has a grouch on."

"Oh, if we could only bring them together again! Dear, couldn't we? Why don't you have him lunch with you—and tell him just how things are?"

"That's their affair. I couldn't butt in. Where's that ash tray?"

"Yes, you could!" vehemently, handing him the tray. "Tell him she's breaking down—that he ought to marry her and take her away."

"I'd like to tell him he's a blooming fool for letting that old termagant break things off."

"Do!" eagerly. "And tell him he can meet her any morning at ten—when she goes for her walk." Then rapturously as her plan developed, "Oh, if he'd only meet her with the license! Just carry her off and make her marry him!"

"That's what he ought to do," grunted Warren.

"Then tell him that! When will you ask him to lunch? Tomorrow?'

"I'll see," non-committally.

"And after lunch you can go with him to get the license!"

"Hold on, not so fast! What d'you take me for? I don't mind telling Kent he's a fool—but I'm not going to butt in on any—"

"Yes, you are!" giving him an exuberant disheveling hug. "You're going to make him marry her—they can tell her mother afterward."

"Don't be so darn sure. We're not running any matrimonial bureau. Here, stop rumpling me up—you hustle along the chow."

Glowingly elated, Helen ran out to note the progress of dinner. That Warren would not mince matters, she knew. She had unbounded faith in his vigorous ability to "put things through."

Frances married! And at least partly free from her mother's selfish corroding domination!

It would mean a wedding present. The third this year. But even that obligation did not dampen the ardor of Helen's feminine match-making enthusiasm.

SCRUB OAKS AND SUMACS.

IF WE were critical about the order in which we take up the shrubs of the chaparral we should begin with the scrub oaks, for it is from them that we get the name. There is an erroneous opinion with some persons that "chaparral" comes from "chaps," those ornate leg protectors which form such a distinctive feature of Wild West movies, and which are also worn by genuine cowboys in parts of our country where they are needed. But of course most persons know it is the other way about. Chaparral comes from chaparrol, the Spanish name for live oak; and from chaparral, or perhaps direct from chaparro, comes chaps—those hide appendages which the vaqueros were to protect their legs from the hostile scrub oaks.

Scrub oaks of the chaparral are either true live oaks, or those which hold their leaves until the new foliage begins to appear. To the ordinary observer they are all evergreen. For this reason, one does not at first pick them out from the common mass of the chaparral. A newcomer is almost never able to single them out; even many old residents do not distinguish them from the other shrubs with which they mingle. A newcomer may be pardoned for not readily recognizing them, for they do not correspond to his lifelong idea of what oaks should be. Many persons have not yet learned when they come to California that they must reconstruct about all the opinions they have ever formed concerning how things should grow, and that they must reorganize their entire stock of nature knowledge.

Well, about those scrub oaks: If you are a recent comer to the region you are still embarrassingly ignorant of what the chaparral is composed, when one day you are out on the trail and something hits you a sharp dab in the face. You stop to investigate, and you find that the sharp thing is an acorn! And growing on one of the bushes, too! You are surprised, for to you acorns mean oaks, and oaks are trees. Yet here are full-grown acorns an inch long, yes two inches sometimes, growing on a bush. When you investigate you find that the bushes are undeniably oaks, and you are happy in the acquisition of one more fact to add to your stock of chaparral knowledge. But later on you are in dismay, when you learn that there are several of these scrub oaks, and that you are not able to tell them apart. If you are a happy-go-lucky sort of disposition, you will just class them all as scrub oaks and let them go at that. But if you are painfully discriminative, the worry of uncertainty will probably be with you for many a day, for these various scrub oaks are widely distributed in the Elfin Forest, and you will be continually running across them. They form about 15 per cent of the cover.

Scrub Oak branch, showing leaves and acorns. (Quercus dumosa.)

If we were to single out any particular one of the oaks which are found in the chaparral zone to be called the scrub oak, it would be quercus dumosa, as that is not on the one which is most widely distributed, and most plentiful wherever it is found, but is also the one which is most frequently shrub-like in form and appearance. The dumosa varies a great deal in size, and also in shape of leaf and acorn—in fact, so much so that the botanists have tried to make several species out of it, but not with very much success. This oak is a worthy subject of the kingdom of the chaparral, for its range is strictly confined to the limits of the Elfin Forest. It is not a live oak, although the old leaves persist until the new ones begin to appear. For this reason many persons, without investigating closely, are led to think of it as an evergreen.

Scrub Oaks Very Hard to at All Times to Identify.

THE quercus dumosa is often exceedingly dwarfed and shrub-like—frequently not more than four or five feet in height. Its shrubby form and small, rounded leaves—so utterly unlike the conventional oak leaf—combine to make a disguise that succeeds in "getting by" the great majority of persons. It has one undisguisable feature, however, the acorn. Time and time again, when on the trail in the late winter or spring, I have been asked:

"What bush is this?" the questioner pointing, or perhaps even having hold of, a specimen of quercus dumosa. And in nearly all instances I have had to hunt up an acorn cup still fast to the shrub, in order to back up my assertion that it was an oak. I am willing to admit—from personal experience long ago—that it is a novel sensation for one who all his life long has walked underneath the oak trees to come here and tramp along a trail bordered with a forest of oaks no taller than his head!

It makes no difference how low in stature the quercus dumosa may be, in good "acorn seasons" it bears a wonderfully generous crop. One season near Saddle Peak in the Santa Monica Mountains, where there is a somewhat extensive area of an almost solid stand of this scrub oak, I made a rough estimate of the acorn yield and found it to be fully ten tons to the acre! Is it any wonder that quercus dumosa's progeny covers many square leagues in the land of the Elfin Forest?

The low, dense thickets in which this scrub oak so frequently occurs are about as nearly impenetrable to man or beast as brush of any kind ordinarily becomes. The wood is tough, the trunks and branches crooked with abrupt, sharp angles, and the twigs, although small, are stiff and almost spiny-like. No wonder the vaqueros had to keep their legs incased in a hide armor, and that they gave the leg protectors a name derived from the hostile scrub oak—the cordially hated chaparro!

Although so thoroughly hated by the cattle men, quercus dumosa is one of the most useful and beneficent of the Elfin-Forest's household. Its roots search out every rock crevice and strike as deeply into the earth as the formation will allow, thus not only holding the soil in place, but hiding its own life away from the fires which so often sweep over the face of the land. Its branches may be consumed and its trunk burned down to the merest stub, yet the roots immediately send up a new crop of sprouts, and within two or three years have furnished the land with a fresh forest cover. Then, too, no shrub of all the chaparral makes a greater yearly foliage contribution to the leaf mold that goes into the making of the soil. So, altogether, we may rank the scrub oak as one of the most useful and desirable of all the elfin trees.

Even the Live Oak at Times Is of Elfin Growth.

TWO or three of the true live oaks, which under ordinarily favorable conditions are trees of fair size, are not infrequently found of elfin growth in situations where living conditions are hard. But none of them makes any great addition to the Elfin-Forest cover. One of these is quercus chrysolepsis, commonly called "canyon live oak." This sometimes forms dense thickets of chaparral, although under favorable conditions it may grow to the height of forty or fifty feet, with a thickness of eighteen or twenty inches. As we might infer from its common name, it grows to its larger stature in the canyons. It seems to be especially fond of narrow canyons, where it not only occupies the floor, but often pre-empts the steep sides, as well. Where it grows on steep slopes and at higher altitudes, it is usually dwarfed. Its acorns are unusually large, with shallow cups. The cups are covered with a light yellowish wool, from which the oak is often called "golden-cup oak."

A person coming from the East must not only reconstruct his old ideas concerning oaks, but he must do likewise with his notions about the sumacs. Indeed, our sumacs are apt to give him a good hard jolt. There are some half-dozen of these interesting shrubs in Southern California, all belonging to the genus rhus, and, therefore, all first cousins of the eastern sumacs. The common eastern shrub has compound leaves of many leaflets, is a glorious mass of color in the fall, and in winter stands a stark skeleton stripped of its brilliant robe, though still bearing aloft its compact bunches of dark red berries. Its wood is a satin-yellow—dear to my memory for burning spiles for tapping sugar maples. The California sumacs are as different as can be, in appearance. They are evergreen—most of them—with rather large, single leaves, while the wood is white with a dark center. Nearly all of the species are noticeable for their profusion of flowers. One of them is called wild mahogany, on account of its dark red heartwood. This one is rhus integrifolia, the specific name coming from the large, leathery leaves. This species is very plentiful near the coast. It blooms very early in the spring and has beautiful bunches of pink and white flowers. R. ovata is a sister species, very much resembling the last, but with smaller leaves, and somewhat less striking flowers. It grows inland and blooms later in the spring. More plentiful than either of these two is R. laurina, with smaller white flowers which come along in June and July. The leaves are smaller, and in many ways the shrub is less attractive than either of the two other species. The shrub, however, is one of the most valuable as a forest cover of all the elfin trees. It is liberally endowed with foliage, and therefore furnishes much shade to the ground and very much lessens evaporation. It also has a strong root system and is not surpassed by any chaparral shrub in its fire-resisting qualities—even excelling the scrub oak in this respect. For which reason its seed is gathered more than that of any other shrub for reforesting purposes. It is also an abundant producer of seed.

These three California sumacs are noteworthy for their berries, which are borne in rather loose bunches. The berries are of a viscid and acid character, and ripen in late summer or early fall. On account of their acidity, Indians and Mexicans have long used them for making a lemonade-like drink. When out on the trail I have used them for that purpose myself, but have not found the drink very palatable without sugar. When sweetened, however, it is quite drinkable. Then, too, I must admit that when the water in the canteen has grown warm and stale, the juice of these berries certainly increases its thirst-assuaging qualities. It is not surprising, is it, that California sumacs are often called "lemonade berries?"

There are some other chaparral shrubs—cercocarus, of two species in the south—which also go under the name of "mahogany," or "mountain mahogany." While tey are widely distributed, and in many places plentiful, tey are not particularly noticeable, except when covered with seeds, each of which is provided with a feathery, spirally-inclined plume. The wood is hard, heavy, and dark colored. In dry seasons when the forage runs short, cattle browse on the leaves and tender twigs of these mountain mahoganies. These shrubs are not sumacs, but belong to the rose family, and they are mentioned here only because of the confusion which often arises from applying the same common name to entirely different classes of shrubs.

"LEMONADE-BERRY" IN BLOOM. (Rhus lauvina,) one of the most valuable of all the chaparrel shrubs as a forest-cover.

There is another one of the sumac family which everybody who frequents the foothills and mountains of the chaparral country should know. This is the poison oak (rhus diversiloba,) which is a near-relative of the poison ivy of the eastern woods. In the moister canyons it bears quite a striking resemblance to its eastern cousin, climbing by aerial rootlets; but on the dry foothills it contents itself by assuming a slender, bush-like form. Its foliage is deciduous, although the old leaves often hang on until the new ones begin to appear. It bears an abundance of greenish-white flowers, which usually come out with the leaves, or a little in advance. In the springtime it has an abundance of light-green foliage, and where it mingles with other shrubs is not particularly noticeable; but during the late summer and fall, wherever it may stand, it challenges the attention of every passer-by with its scarlet-tinted leaves. At that time of the year everyone who frequents the trails knows it, for it is the one shrub of the chaparral which puts on brilliant colors. It is the one shrub, too, which on account of its poisonous qualities, needs to be shunned. It seems to be equally poisonous at all times of the year, although not equally so to all persons. Some persons seem to be perfectly immune to its baneful effects, while others are so susceptible as to be affected by the breeze which has passed over a thicket of the shrub. A person once poisoned is ever after doubly liable to be affected.

Poison oak is widely distributed in the Elfin Forest, although it very seldom forms a cover of any considerable extent by itself.

"Home Brew."

UNDER a recent ruling, householders may make 200 gallons of light wine a year for their own use.

Wine is not fit to drink until it has been aged at least a year. Amateur wines and beer are ruining many stomachs. Why not let people get wholesome claret, of those who know how to make it?

The present prohibition law seems specially designed to make dyspeptics and hypocrites.

A Sure Preventive.

HERE is a dispatch from New York:

"A diet of raw vegetables as a preventive for influenza was recommended today by Dr. Edal Behram of Bombay, India, a Fellow of the Royal Medical Society of London. According to Dr. Behram a menu of shredded cabbage, beets, apples, whole wheat and nuts would not only drive off the flu germs, but reduce the cost of living about 75 cents a day."

Not only would such an alkaline diet preserve a person from influenza, but from all other diseases.

• • •

Stale Bread.

I SAW a notice in front of a bakery: "Day Old Bread for Sale."

No bread should ever be eaten before it is at least twenty-four hours old. Forty-eight hours is better. New bread is doughy and indigestible and contains alcohol, leading to fermentation, in the moist heat of the stomach. Then, when you add to this that white bread is a starvation food, deprived of most of the mineral elements, do you wonder that a sturdy race of men and women cannot be raised on such imitation food?

Blood Poisoning.

KING ALEXANDER of Greece was bitten by a monkey, and made sick. His physicians knew no better than to "operate" on him.

There will be no blood poisoning following a bite, if the blood is pure, not encumbered with waste and toxins of surplus or bad food.

The cure is to fast, cleanse the bowels and sweat. This is equally good in cases of hydrophobia.

The Pasteur treatment—forbidden in England—is a commercial graft. An eminent French physician has said: "Pasteur does not cure hydrophobia; he gives it."

As I write this, it is announced that physicians are about to attempt another operation on Alexander. What supreme folly!

Marshal Joffre.

LIKE many other great men, Marshal Joffre is a vegetarian.

The flesh-eating fad is on the decline.

No man or woman who is a large consumer of flesh foods can be altogether normal, physically, mentally or spiritually.

As to endurance, flesh eaters are not in it, as compared with those who adopt a natural, nonstimulating diet.

Doctors and Diet.

AN M. D. who understands the care of the body had a call from a nurse suffering from neuritis. Within three years she had been to fifteen physicians, who gave her twelve different treatments, not one of them saying a word about the way she ate.

The sensible M. D. outlined for her a rational diet, and in two months she was well.

This is not so surprising as it might appear, because students in medical colleges are not taught about diet. Some of the more intelligent of them are beginning to recognize this grave deficiency, and to seek post-graduate information.

As I said recently, I shall be pleased to point out to any inquiring physician a course of reading on the subject.

Even from the low viewpoint of money, this is desirable, for an ever-increasing number of patients are becoming dissatisfied with such vague and meaningless advice as "Eat what you please" or "Eat what seems to agree with you" and are seeking real help.

• • •

Eating and Happiness.

MADELAINE KEECH writes to me:

"I believe that everything depends on what we eat; that happiness is mostly just a physical reaction, which comes only when the vital organs are working as they should. Of course, the mental attitude has much to do with it, but an unhealthy person is seldom happy or satisfied.

"The way we eat is almost as important as what we eat. Few people half chew their food. How can they ever expect lumps of soggy, fresh bread to be entirely digested and acted upon by the digestive fluids?"

No theory is so sound as that of the practical man who thinks.—[G. L. Bolen.

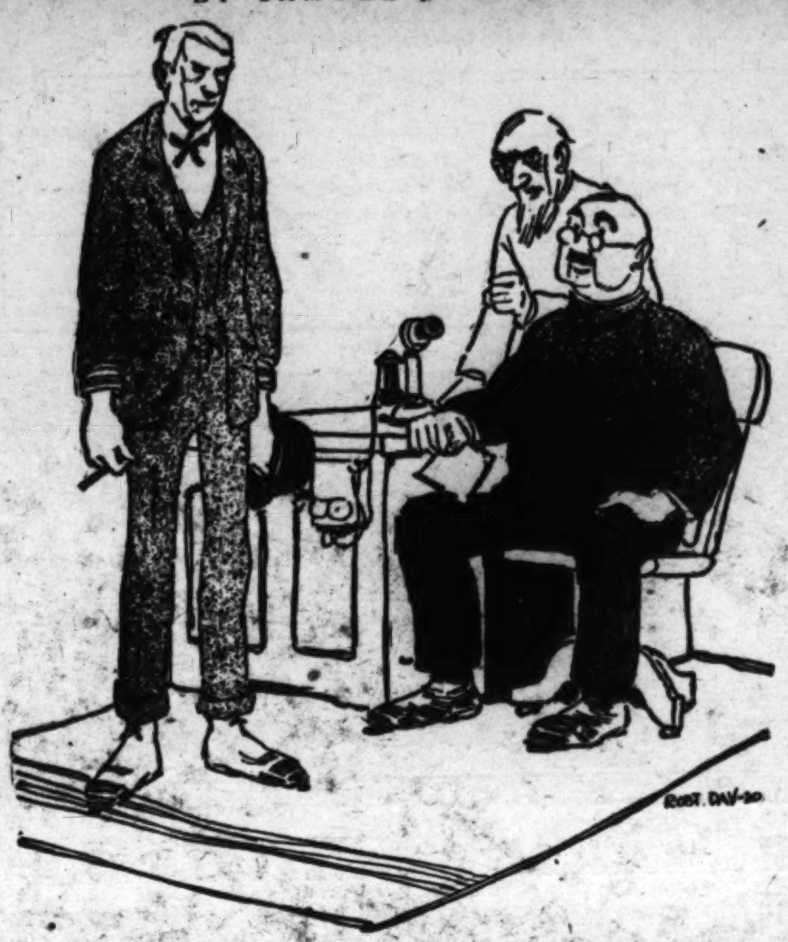
The Bridge of Size—Soapy Sidesteps.

BY SAMUEL J. LEWIS.



"How About It, Soapy? Shall I, Book You! I Simply Behave At It Had Been Nice for ?" Broke in the Chief.

"AND now, gentlemen—and ladies, if there are any of those fair users of soap in this throng! You see here the solid gold ring with its genuine white sapphire setting—and here the soap that would wash the spots off a leopard, clean the police record of any in this crowd, or cleanse the reputation of a Colorado politician or a New York gunman with successful celerity."

Soapy Smith—pink, slick, sleek, sudsy and full 99.44-100 per cent as soapy as the article he hawked on Denver's Seventeenth street corner—held aloft the articles he described, casting a roving eye over the motley group his oratory had gathered, as he continued:

"Around the pair of bargains I wrap a $2 bill—or it may be a five-spot, just as my pocket gives it up. The three, gentlemen and ladies, I place in this plain envelope, and put it in this open grip that all may see. Another package, with the bill—ring, soap, currency of the realm. Into the grip! A third! A fourth! and so on—ad infinitum ad lib, ad damn. Your pardon, ladies; I meant 'bam!' The thing is done. We are ready for the anxious buyer. For twenty-five cents, a quarter of a dollar, you may reach in, select your envelope and go your soaped, washed, bejeweled and prosperous way. But remember, good people, the soap alone is worth the price of admission."

The vendor paused in his peroration, and with a tricolored silk handkerchief wiped a few trickling beads of perspiration from his forehead, while his white, pudgy hand, flashing two diamond rings, tugged at a vest of vociferous hues which persisted in following the line of least resistance by crawling from an ample stomach toward a narrower chest. Then he awaited the quarter-laden hands which he knew his speech would induce to drop their silver on his tray before they attempted to outwit fate and the Soapy Smith brand of legerdemain and pick an envelope containing soap, jewelry—and $2 bill.

Alonzo Smythe Robertson was a personage quite unknown to Denver and other western cities such as Cheyenne, Salt Lake, Albuquerque and El Paso. Soapy Smith—successor to that well-known Soapy Smith who in years previous gave zest and verisimilitude to life in the Western States—was a familiar figure to every street corner habitue of all towns in the Rocky Mountain country. Likewise did Soapy have a passing acquaintance with plain clothes men, police chiefs, and inspectors of the region in which he acted as juggler of currency and seller of soap. For Soapy at times pieced out a dull street corner merchandising with a more exciting and vastly more remunerative dealing on the credulity of chance friends. In fact, his daily trading in soap, cheap jewelry and wholly imaginary $2 bills was but a flimsy mask to conceal transactions which often brought him into a battle of wits with detectives who were urged on by the gullible investors in his schemes.

Now, as Soapy waited for the cupidity of the crowd to bring quarters from reluctant pockets, his hawkish eye, glancing about for bigger prey, alighted with a surprised flicker of recognition on one of a pair standing near.

"Jupe Jordan, or I'm a mountain goat," mumbled Soapy into the now moist handkerchief, as the taller of the two stepped forth, toothpick in mouth, flapping hatbrim dropping around his ears, corduroy pants tucked into mud-stained boots, his whole attire heralding the rustic life.

"I reckon I'll go agin your game onct, stranger, if I lose," ventured the new comer, "an' here's a pal o' mine that I 'low will do th' same."

Soapy, left eyelid still slanting in concealed recognition, shoved the grip nearer the purchaser, his hand accidentally fumbling for an instant among the prize packages within.

"By hoky, I turn th' jack fust time!" A $2 bill, a near-gold sapphire ring and cake of soap were revealed to the crowd, and the rural purchaser flapped his arms and gave a close imitation of a morning rooster arousing his barnyard helpmates.

"An' golly, me too," cackled his companion, digging a new bill from his envelope, hastily assuring himself of its genuineness and then tucking it into a wallet the dimensions of which caused Soapy to iron the folds of his features and gaze full-eyed on the edges of a roll which he afterward declared seemed big enough to dam the Platte.

But though many others, money-mad from the largess they had seen bestowed, came to buy of Soapy's wares, the luck was strangely over for that day. No other bills were drawn. In fact, the very soap seemed to have dwindled in size and the rings, unembellished by currency, took on a tawdry, tarnished aspect. Thus, trade languishing, Soapy folded his tripod, snapped his grip and teetered his rotund body toward the rear and "Strictly Private" room of the Saddle Rock Cafe.

II.

"But, Jupiter, my boy, you should have sat on that bundle of green goods like little Miss Muffet sat on her tuffet."

Soapy gave up counting the proceeds of his morning's sleight-of-hand to gaze sadly through the cafe's rear window into a yard piled with boxes, bottles and barrels. Fixing upon the open top of an ex-whisky barrel, he smiled weakly as though he had at last found something the roll would fill, and repeated his criticism:

"No, you ought to have stayed by him like a brother, Jupe. It's plain to be seen the man is an investor from the way he risked his two bits with me. But, unprotected in this evil town, he's likely to fall into the hands of the Philistines."

"Nothing stirring," lamented Jupiter Jordan over the back of the chair which he straddled, facing Soapy. "The hick is as tight as a new style skirt. I believe he swallows that roll at night for safe keeping, with a string attached, and I've about decided he can't be pried away from it with anything less than a hydraulic winch. There's $14,000 in it, too. Think of that!"

And Jupiter Jordan, true to his name, gave every appearance of being about to rain tears.

"I'm ashamed of you, Jupiter—to repine thus early in any game. The man doesn't live who can't be lured from his cash by the right proposition. A good workman like you, Jupiter, who won his illustrious name trading on the elements and selling lightning rods to farmers, which Jupiter Pluvius contracts afterwards turned up in bank as promissory notes for from $500 to $5000, surely should be able to devise ways and means to part this spinach-chin from his hoard. Who is he, anyway?"

"Fairfield, Nebraska, rancher, as near as I can make out, Soapy. Met up with him on the train while I was looking for prospects. I've sounded him out on half a dozen different leads, but he's either wise as Solomon or cold as a stone. Wire-tapping, foot racing, dollar matching, dead brother in the baggage car and sight draft, green goods—all fail. I'd about decided to get Brick Evans and try the lock trick and let him go for about $50."

"Jupe, Jupe, you shock me," sorrowed Soapy, turning from the barrel and its visions to stare at Jordan's week's growth of beard and bucolic makeup. "To hear you talk like that leads me to think you have lost your pick somewhere. Who was it said—yes, it was Bob Fitzsimmons—'The bigger they are the harder they falls.' Same in our business—the harder they are to push over the duller is the sickening thud.

"Do you know, Jupiter, when I saw that clod alongside you this morning I thought he was one of us, made up for a part. His face looks like evaporated fruit, and outside of 'Shore Acres' or 'Way Down East' I never came on such whiskers. Even his hair is sunburned, and his hands look like they were kiln-dried. And consider his togs, and his name—Phineas X. Hoskins! I suppose the 'X' is for Xenophon. Why, Jupe, he isn't real."

And Soapy returned to his barrel, pondering.

"Oh, he's real enough, old man," admired Jupiter Jordan. "I've been with him three days now. He's real, all right; likewise as close as the first of the month to a bankrupt storekeeper. I pass him up."

"You mean you pass the buck to me," interrupted Soapy. "The buck, of course, being Phineas X. Hoskins, of near Fairfield, Neb. So be it, then; I'm in on it. I intended to trail and help, rather than lead, but the buck having been pushed to me I elect myself Mr. Hoskins' goat-herd henceforth."

"We'll sell him something," ambled on the bally-hoo soap vendor. "Something he'll like! The courthouse, the capitol, the new postoffice—some 4000 per cent investment. Attend, Jupe! Lend me your ear. You know the walls are said to possess them, but when you give up a succulent case like this you prove yours are long enough for all purposes, so lend them."

For ten minutes the pair whispered and argued; then Jupiter Jordan, lightning rod artist, returned to guard the Hoskins person and roll and prevent either being struck by alien hand, while Soapy sat in cafe privacy, mooning at his barrel top and humming a sprightly tune.

III.

"What did th' stranger feller opine t' take f'om you?" queried Phineas X. Hoskins of Jupiter Jordan as the two paused midway of Denver's Fourteenth street viaduct just after being accosted by a somewhat seedy wayfarer who had engaged Jupiter in momentary conversation.

"Oh, just th' usual nightly toll, I s'pose," grumbled Jordan as he looked down into the tracks where trains were shuttling back and forth and beyond toward the Union Station with its throngs hurrying to and from the cars.

Jupiter was fast developing an absorbing grouch. For four days he had maintained his country makeup. His beard prickled; he wanted to shave. His clothing was uncomfortable and unsightly, and at heart he was inclined to be fastidious in his dress. His dried and wrinkled boots felt like bands of corrugated steel on feet that were more used to silk hosiery and patent leather shoes. In living up to his part he had chewed enough toothpicks and eaten enough straw to fill a tick. All to no purpose. The man by his side snuggled to his roll, as Jupe put it, like a sick cat to a hot brick. He had refused to pay carfare, buy a drink or dinner.

But Phineas was at last nibbling an unbaited hook. Where all well-laid nets had failed to enmesh, he was now boldly grabbing at bait, line and sinker.

"Toll, y' say? How comes thet?" cross-examined the master of the exchequer. "Was it toll y' give him? Be this a toll bridge, Mr. Jordan?"

Jupiter gazed afar down the Platte, reflecting the bridge lights. The big idea took haze shape and he answered:

"Certain, it's a toll bridge. I heerd so today when I left y' at th' hotel. I crossed it over t' No'th Denver an had t' pay 10 cents, like I give th' man just now."

"Who owns it—th' man that collects?" quizzed Phineas as he looked down the lighted pathway toward the seedy gatherer of toll who was seeking to assemble the price of a night's bed and board.

"Th' city, as I understand it, put up th' thing, but leased it out for ten years, th' struchoor t' be kept in shape by th' renter, him t' collect th' tolls an' pocket the profits. 'S a good thing, too, I hear tell.'

"How 'bout th' automobeels an' rigs?" inquired Hoskins, taking in the whole situation with fine business sagacity. "Th' feller don't 'pear t' be takin' note o' them."

"All thet uses th' bridge pay by th' month, I'm told," carefully explained Jupiter, one statement dovetailing into the other to make a perfect and easy whole. "They don't wan t' stop each time, so bi-cycle men, automobeels and wagons git monthly permits. Purty soft, seems t' me."

"I opine as much," envied Phineas, following with greedy eye the toll-gatherer as another soft-hearted pedestrian gave up a silver offering on the altar of charity. "I swan, it looks like th' easiest money I've seen since I left hum."

"Yet, an' it can be bought."

"It can? F'm th' leaseholders?"

"You're right—f'm th' leaseholders?"

"You're right—f'm them as holds th' franchise f'm th' city. D' you remember thet soap man we got th' $4 f'm today? Hes th' leaseholder. He knows all th' men at th' city hall yonder." And Jupiter pointed to the tall, towered building three blocks away, where Denver's officials and police had offices, jail and fire headquarters.

"What for does this soap man want t' let go of a good thing?" pursued Phineas, nervously fumbling for a match to light the residue of cigar that had served for hours as smoke and chew.

"Whadyemean, good thing?" sparred Jupiter, casting about for answers in this unexpected dialogue that might lead to the cashing in on the Nebraskan's wallet. "Oh, yes; he wants t' sell 'cause he's doin' well on thet soap game. He's got a city license for that, too, y' know, an' it's a purty good game, they tell me. All daylight werk an' big money, while this is a all day an' night job that he has t' trust others with part o' th 'time. He'll sell for $20,000; I git th' word f'om them as knows."

"Thet soap man is easy," boasted Phineas. "See how we snapped him up today on them there $2 bills 'fore he c'd cover 'em up. I'll jest bet he'll take a sight less than thet when someone flashes th' spot spondulicks in his face!" And the speaker reached for an inside pocket as if he were going to

CARE OF THE BODY.

"This book has been written to show woman how to become an ideal mother to ideal children, how to efface undesirable hereditary traits in her offspring, and how to inculcate nobility of character in the unborn child.

"May the book prompt in woman the desire to become the most important factor in improving the race, and thereby gain for herself a greater dignity, as the mother of a greater generation.

"Last, if not least, it is my desire to teach woman how to become the sole owner of her body, which will assure her greater health and happiness."

Among subjects covered are emancipation of woman, sex, marriage, motherhood, control, pregnancy, prenatal influence, the menopause, divorce and the "social evil."

The author says:

"We have learned that sex desire in the animal is periodical, while in mankind it is almost constant; an indication that the Creator gave mankind his passions for a dual purpose, viz.; for procreation and pleasure."

I venture to suggest that this difference is mainly due to the unnatural eating habits of "civilized" man. Large consumption of phosphate foods over stimulates the nervous system, especially the sex organs.

Here are extracts:

"There is no more reason that a woman should have 'female disease' than there is that man should have 'male disease.'"

"My long medical practice convinces me that the larger part of marital unhappiness—directly or indirectly—is caused by a wrong conception and use of sexual relations. Man is imbued with the belief—a survival from past ages—that marriage gives him special license to give free expression to sex impulse, without considering the condition or desire of his wife. Under these circumstances a woman's love must, indeed, be deep and strong to survive."

"If husband and wife would learn more about the effect produced by the food they eat, they would find it easier to treat each other decently. There would beless misery, less marital infelicity, fewer quarrels between husband and wife, fewer divorce proceedings and less trouble from the social evil. Also children would be better born, and after they are grown would not be driven to sexual excesses, which is today one of the curses of civilization.

"I am convinced also that the digestive system of man holds the great secret of life, and that character, temperament, virtue and vice can be powerfully affected by the food he eats. This conviction has been further strengthened by the latest discoveries of records of antedeluvial time, which indicate that ancient savants understood the secrets of the 'modus operandi' of life, the key to which they found in the digestive center of man."

"Man by nature is polygamous, but it depends much upon the wife to make him monogamous. If he can find happiness in his home, he is certainly foolish to live outside of it, and a wise wife will not give him just cause for doing so."

"Violence in the sex-commerce, inside as well as outside of the matrimonial field, is based on ignorance, fostered by the medical law forbidding the enlightenment of the masses. Man is chronically stimulated by excessive meat eating, and other stimulating foods and drinks, which excite unreasonable sexual demands, and causing him to obtrude offensively on woman, far too frequently for the best interest of all concerned."

"The sex in the child can most positively be determined, if premeditated by both parents in advance."

"If parents, especially mothers, would learn more about pre-natal influence, and heed its laws, the world could be regenerated in less than two generations, and crime, debauch, and licentiousness would be known only by the records of the past."

An Abstemious Dietary.

ARNOLD EHRET of Los Angeles says his daily menu consists of two pounds of fresh fruit and a little lettuce or other raw, green stuff. This is equivalent to about five ounces of water free food, including not more than half an ounce of protein. In a letter to me Mr. Ehret writes:

"When I live strictly on that amount, or even less, I feel better and stronger, and have great efficiency and endurance, even when doing physical work in my garden."

In a mild climate, doing light work, this is quite feasible, but Mr. Ehret would not go through a northern winter on such a diet, nor could he work six months in a lumber camp. By adding from two to four ounces of nuts, the hardest work might be done, in a cold climate.

This goes to show what an immense amount of food is wasted, to the detriment of health, while millions starve.

However, such a diet is only possible when natural foods, containing the organic salts, are eaten. Of starvation foods, like white bread, and Pasteurized milk, and boinled vegetables, people have to eat much more than is necessary, in order to obtain the mineral elements that are lacking in such food. Thus they overburden their blood with waste matter, the main cause of disease.

With several assistants the professor is charged with cruelty in that he used a high electric current to detect heart disease shammers among conscripts. Several deaths are reported to have resulted from this treatment, while some men are

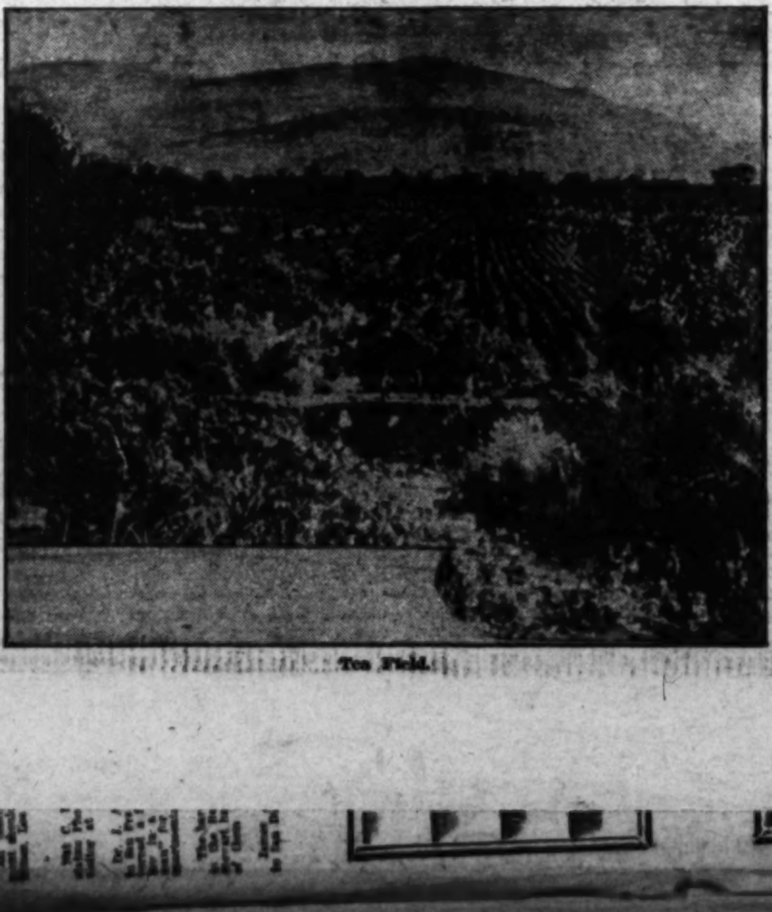
THE·ROMANCE·OF·TEA

BY DUDLEY S. CORLET

[This is the first of a series of six articles dealing with tea, coffee, chocolate, sugar, cocoanut and rubber. The author writes from personal experience with these products, having been engaged in the East by the British government as a tropical agricultural expert and later having made a special report of the cacao industry for the Brazilian government. The articles will appear under the following captions: "The Romance of Tea," "The Cult of Coffee," "The Charm of Chocolate," "The Snare of Sugar," "The Lure of the Cocoanut" and "The Tragedy of Rubber."—Editor.]

Natives Sorting Tea.

Drying Tea.



Tea Field.

VERY few of the people who sip their cup of refreshing tea or linger in gossip over its stimulating flavor, have any notion whence it comes, or how it is made, beyond a vague idea that it comes from somewhere out of the East, where so many mysteries come from. Tea is a peculiar plant and is very particular as to its climate, and thus it is only found in a few favored countries such as Assam in India, the favored Isle of Ceylon, Java and parts of China and Japan. It requires an even distribution of rain and from eighty to a hundred inches a year—(California has about twelve)—and must never be touched by frost. And above all it requires a great deal of labor to attend to its exacting wants.

There are three principal kinds, the black and strong from India, the lighter and milder from Ceylon and the palest and mildest of all from the further East.

When the Lamas of Tibet Sipped Tea.

TEA has been brewed and sipped by the Lamas of Tibet for thousands of centuries, for in the high valleys of the "Roof of the World" the plant is indigenous where it is sheltered from wind and frost. We have sat shoeless in the jasmine-strewn room of a Brahmin of high caste, even the religious teacher of the Raja of Kashmir, and accepted his hospitable offer of tea—a mark of honor to the guest of an Indian, just as coffee is by the Arabian. His servant brought in handless cups of priceless old egg-shell china, and producing a square brick of compressed gray-green Tibetan tea crumbled a little into each cup, pouring on the boiling water from a copper kettle ornamented with golden dragons. That was perhaps the most perfect cup of tea we have ever partaken of, perfumed with orange blossom and exquisite in its insidious flavor, and sipped to the accompaniment of oriental music played by a picturesque host in a room where once had sat the lovely Mogul Empress, Mumtaz Mahal, as she looked forth on the fair gardens and fountains of Shalimar.

The blackest and strongest tea we have ever had the intrepidness to try was that from the kettle of the "Glory Hole" of an ocean-going steamer, tea that had remained in that same kettle and been added to daily, for several months. And the most delicate tea we have drunk was served in a charming bungalow in the hills of Ceylon high above Kandy. Of this tea we took several pounds back to our home in the lowlands, and though it was made in precisely the same manner to our intense disappointment the flavor was only that of very ordinary tea. The explanation is interesting, because one of the leading tea shippers in Europe made his name and fortune through the knowledge of it. Tea is affected by the water it is brewed in and the finest tea is ruined by water that is not suitable to its requirements. Thus this merchant had the analysis of the water from all the principal towns in his country taken and then he blended his teas to suit that particular water. Thus his teas became famous, as they brewed to good flavor in the water of that district. So it is that people moving from one district to another and ordering their usual tea, often wonder at the difference in taste and blame the tea or the dealer and never think that the fault lies with the change of water.

The Great Tea Plantations of Ceylon.

THE tea plant somewhat resembles a small laurel, for it is an evergreen shrub with small burnished dark-green leaves. It is kept down to a convenient size for picking by systematic pruning and is trimmed to a globular shape about four feet in height. Only when it is required to bear seeds for propagation is it allowed to grow to its full height of fifteen feet or so. Then its white flowers bear the round gray seeds that are sown in shaded nurseries to be planted out when they are a year or so old. The tea plant is a slow grower and it takes some four years before the first flush, as it is called, is ready for plucking. The plants are set out in rows, often climbing the steep hillsides. In the principal tea district nothing but tea can be seen for miles and practically all the available land that is suitable for tea has been taken up in Ceylon and the Southern Islands, and planters looking for new locations have to search the wildest places far from civilization in the jungles of Assam, Burma and Malaya. In the British Empire most of the tea plantations are owned by companies, who see to it that their plantations are kept to an efficient standard and that the soil, by means of the application of artificial manures and scientific cultivation, is made to yield the maximum of its capacity; that their factories are run competently and with regard to clean production, and lastly, and perhaps most important of all, that their staffs are recruited from men picked for their scientific knowledge and capacity for handling the native labor and in seeing that these men are given the comforts of civilized life as far as possible and sent home periodically to recruit their health and vigor in colder climates. The folly of the old system of sojourning for long periods in an exacting climate, often far away from civilization, has been fully recognized. Care is also exercised in the good housing and health of the coolies who are imported from the more congested parts of India.

The Scented Tea Gardens of Japan.

BUT in China and Japan, the tea gardens are all owned by the industrious natives, who, by their ceaseless toil and wonderful manurial systems, succeed in harvesting large crops. But in the manufacture of the tea from the green leaf they are far from cleanly and if only those who are addicted to China tea could have a sight of the dirty way of its preparation they might hesitate to sip its fragrant amber-tinted fluid. Its perfume is obtained by mixing the dried leaves with the flowers of jasmine, orange and other highly scented flowers grown specially for the purpose. And the rolling of the leaves is done almost entirely by the hands of the little Chinese women and children, instead of by the more hygienic, if less romantic, machinery.

When the flush on an Indian plantation is ready for plucking, a gang of pickers enters the field, and each takes a row. They are for the most part coolies—women, girls and boys. They make a picturesque group as they assemble in the bright sunshine, with their colored saris draped about the head and wound over the body and full-pleated skirt reaching to bare feet circled with heavy silver anklets. Long cylindrical baskets are fastened to their backs for the reception of the leaves their quick fingers pick as their arms fly about the low bushes with a pleasant chiming of their silver bangles. Only the fresh young shoots are plucked, the bud and a few tender new leaves on a stalk. Every two weeks are the bushes plucked for a period of two or three years, when the plants have to be pruned back again and will not be ready for plucking again for six or more months, according to the severity of the pruning, which, if there is any sign of disease, will be down to the very collar. The life of a tea plant with care may be a hundred years or more. When it rains, as in the higher regions where the better grades are grown it so constantly does in a cold depressing drizzle, the lot of the pickers is anything but an enviable one, for in spite of the woolen shawls in which they envelop themselves, their thin garments are soon soaked and they become thoroughly chilled. As a general rule the regions between three and six thousand feet yield less quantity but higher quality in delicate flavor. Above this elevation there is the danger of frost. In the lower elevations and in the flat country on the coast, the tea grows more luxuriantly but not with the same quality. This is used for blending purposes. The plantations are carefully kept free of all weeds, and a sharp lookout is kept for any sign of disease, for the combating of which expert specialists are kept. There is a "pest law" very strictly enforced, whereby anyone guilty of harboring a proscribed pest is liable to be heavily fined.

Tea in the Making an Interesting Process.

factor of fear. It is surprising what a large share fear and worry play in the production and perpetuation of illness, and how much the profession appeals to it, and relies on it, designedly or otherwise, to hold and control its clientele. It is no exaggeration to say that fear has come to be an ally of the physician. Appealed to primarily to impress caution or enforce obedience, in its results it has come to produce worry and apprehension, for the archer has no control of his shaft, after it has left the bow. How often is apprehension appealed to and dire consequences threatened to urge continued attendance or to induce the patient to accept this or that course of treatment, or undergo an expensive and even dangerous operation! To how many of our people is not the hospital a dread and the doctor a minister of fear? Nor can the profession afford to dispense with fear, or discountenance too much an agency so potent in filling consultation rooms. The medical profession stands on the wrong side in this important matter, and as long as it is paid as it is it is likely to remain on the wrong side."

In Hospitals.

IT HAS become so that doctors and hospitals, instead of being regarded as agencies of mercy and hope, are dreaded more than pestilence.

When you go to a hospital you never know what is going to happen to you. This is why many insist that a friend be present during an operation.

A woman writes me that she went to a hospital to have an operation performed on her womb. When she became conscious she found that one of her ovaries and the Fallopian tube had been removed, without her knowledge or consent. Since then she has been a chronic invalid.

Then, consider hospital diet. No more regard is paid to health than in restaurants. Some of the hospital menus sent me by patients are almost unbelievable. And this, mind you, when patients are feverish, at which time even good food should be withheld, because, as the digestive juices are absent, it becomes a poison.

Three persons died in an Oakland (Cal.) hospital after eating canned vegetables. Why canned foods where fresh foods are plentiful? Even when not decayed, they are sterilized, therefore lacking in organic salts. Canned foods should never be used when fresh foods can be had. And in a hospital.

A dispatch states that the medical proprietor of the hospital was "nervously prostrated" and had "placed himself in the hands of a physician." He would better read up on rational feeding.

Is it any wonder that deaths in hospitals are many, and recoveries slow?

Asthma and Gas Heaters.

S WESLEY MARTIN writes:

"I want to speak an earnest word of warning to asthmatics regarding the use of gas heaters, without flues, now so general in Los Angeles. Asthmatics breathe less air than any class of invalids, yet are more in need of it. A gas heater burns a large proportion of oxygen, therefore leaves an over-supply of nitrogen, which is not only injurious to health, but is a certain provocative of asthma and tuberculosis.

"It is better to dress warmly, as for the open air, and have no heat indoors, than to put up with such an insanitary method of heating. Many people think that a pan of water placed on the heater will obviate all ill-consequences, but this is entirely a mistake. The water will moisten the air and nullify the smell, but will not in any way make up for the loss of oxygen.

"I had much disappointment in my work with asthmatics, during the winter months, until I found out that the unsatisfactory patients nearly invariably had their rooms heated by gas heaters, thus making a cure impossible. With the exit of the gas heater cures became normal again.

"Surely people should realize that pure air is as necessary as pure food."

Rats.

FOLLOWING is from a Long Beach (Cal.) correspondent:

"I was sauntering on the breakwater at San Pedro, and saw a man baiting a lot of It was a good place to trap fish, but observing no corn, wheat or rye, I was at a loss to associate a rat trap on a straw pile with our peaceful ocean of bliss.

"I asked the gentleman—which he turned out to be—what he thought he was doing, and he kindly informed me that he was employed by the Los Angeles city health department to catch these rodents, in order to find out if any of them were "carriers" of the bubonic plague bug.

"It turned out that he was once a 'regular fellar' physician, but became disgusted with what he had to misrepresent to make a living. After we had compared our twenty-five-years' experience, we agreed that if the medical trust spent as much time and money in teaching people how to live, as they do on these atomic pests, we would all be much better off."

This is one way of furnishing jobs to impecunious physicians.

As I have heretofore said, there is no more chance of bubonic plague, a filth disease, becoming epidemic in California than there is of growing wheat on cement sidewalks.

Woman's Woes.

"RACE Regeneration Through Woman, and the Problem of Maternity" is the title of a small book by James Hegyessy, M.D. (109 pp. paper covers; published by the author; 1278 Market street, San Francisco; price, $1.50.) Until recently, when he retired from active practice, Dr. Hegysessy had practiced his profession for forty years. Many years ago I reviewed his book, "Must Women Suffer Everlastingly?" He has a high humanitarian viewpoint. In his dedication he writes:

"This book is dedicated to the mothers of the generation. May it be instrumental in advancing the conditions of women in general and of downtrodden mothers in particular.

Mr. Dubius Does Europe After the War.

PART VII.

BY MYRON ZOBEL.

(Ma Dubius and Alonzo Get Done in Italy.)

MILAN, April 18.

MA SAYS she never realised the importance of the Latin she studied in the Pacific Heights School until she came here to Italy. And now if it wasn't for the Caesar and Cicero she took there she says it would be impossible for us to ever feed ourselves in this foreign place.

We tried out ma's Latin first in "Savini's Ristorante." Savini's is the best and the most famous eating place in Milan. It is under the great sheltering "Galleria"—or covered shopping district—right across from the cathedral. But for that matter nearly everything of any importance in Milan is under the "Galleria."

Ma and I sat down in Savini's and ma said, "pronto." In Latin ma says that means either "hurry up" or "breakfast"—she isn't sure which. It had both effects on our waiter and he hurried up our breakfast. This consisted of spaghetti and wine. Ma didn't want the wine and so she said "vino vidi vici" and the waiter took the wine away.

After breakfast ma and I went across the street and into the Milan Cathedral—which is the only thing in that city worth seeing that isn't under the Galleria.

There was a guide at the front door of the cathedral and he and ma had a prolonged conversation in low Latin, the results of which ma translated out for my benefit into English.

It seems that the guide was anxious to impress ma with the fact that Charlie something or other was in the cathedral and could be seen by the payment of a couple of drachmes.

Ma explained to me that this was no ordinary Charlie we were going to see—but one of the real old Charleses—of good stock—about the VIth.

It seems that this chap has been lying about in the vault of the cathedral for some time—I couldn't gather the exact time—and is only put on display on November the 4th—which must be his birthday or something.

I couldn't get up much enthusiasm on the subject—but ma she said it was an opportunity. I know how much ma hates to give up an opportunity—but, as there was no shopping or bargain sale connected with this opportunity. I suggested that it was still April and the best thing we could do was to wait around and maybe by November—

Ma handed the guide five liras—which is equal now to about two-bits of real money—and I saw that ma could have her opportunity without the necessity of waiting. They merely shoved Carl's birthday ahead a few months and, as he had already been dead so many years, I guess it didn't matter very much.

Personally, I think this reticence on the part of Karl is merely an affectation. It is certainly not shyness on his part because—from what I have learned since—he has been induced time and again to show himself for sums even less than the one we paid.

Of course, this is all a matter of opinion. I, for one, having seen Charles, was disappointed. Charles is looking shabby—very shabby indeed. He has probably been showing himself too much lately. He looks worn.

The guide said I should notice the chin, which was very well preserved. That I consider merely exaggeration. I have seen much better preserved chins. In fact, as a chin it was nothing to speak of at all. Anybody but Charles, with a chin like that, would have tried to keep the matter quiet. But not so with Charles. He has to drag his chin out into the light and show it to everybody. When I think that we paid a quarter to see that chin, well—

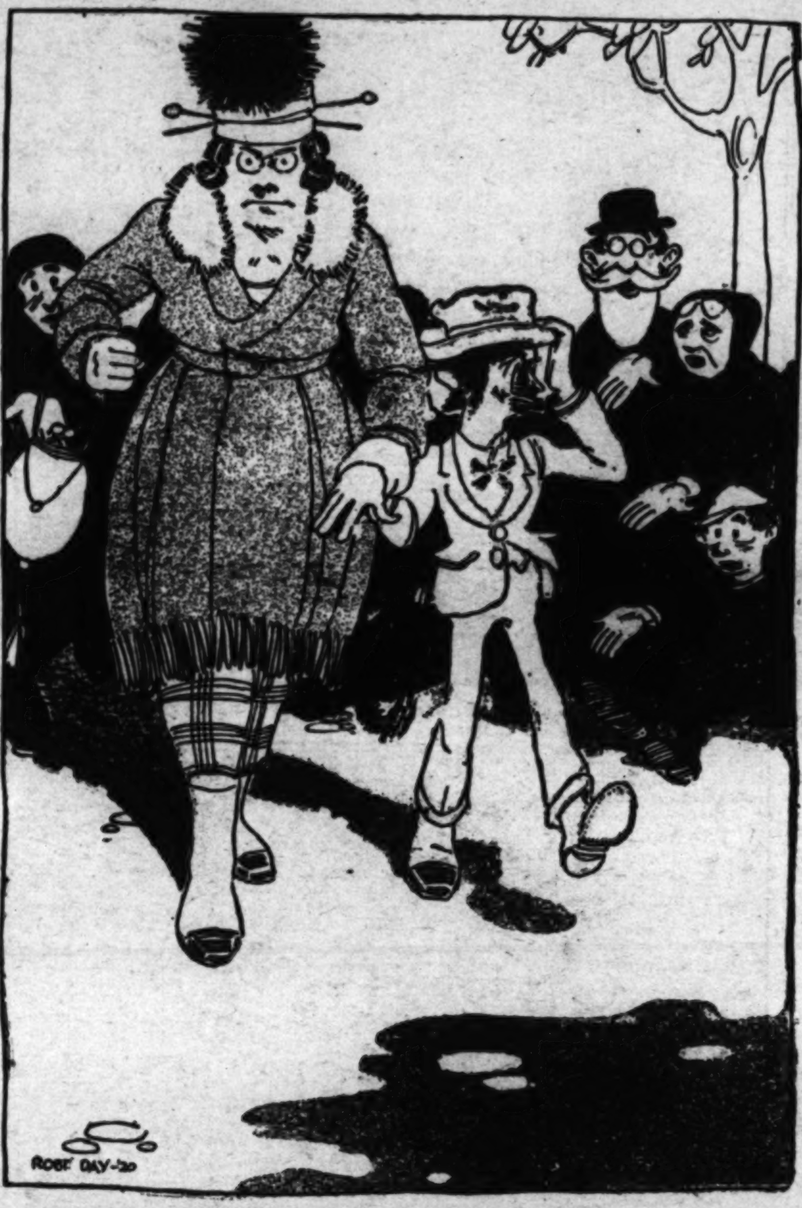
Charles had on a good deal of jewelry, too. Personally, I don't care much for jewelry on a man. I think it looks too flashy. However, in Charles' case, I suppose it was different. He really needed something to brighten him up.

I look back on the whole affair with Charles as a bitter experience. I think the less said about it the better. It is merely one of those cases where the actor has outlived himself; one would think a man would get enough of showing himself off while he was alive.

Perhaps the five liras has something to do with it, too. I sometimes wonder what wouldn't happen in Italy for five liras. The Italians are very delicate about money matters thought. Very delicate.

Take the question of tipping for example. Just see the finesse with which that is handled in Italy. No giving of gratuities—no leaving of coins on the plate. Before the change reaches you all that it is proper to give in the way of tips has been extracted. Whatever you receive back is wholly yours—and you may pocket it all without a scruple.

In this simple way both the servitor and yourself are saved the disagreeable necessity of tipping. You may leave with the assurance of having done your duty (or having had it done for you) and he—well, if he has not been properly reimbursed he has no one to blame but himself.



It Would Be Possible to Say That Begging Is the Main Industry of Venice.

VENICE, April 25.

Venice—the very word is full of mystery and romance. A city of gorgeous pageants, violent passions—long ago. A city beneath whose watery streets lie murdered wretches of past time whose blood may once have stained with crimson the slimy waters now green and fetid in their old canals.

Venice!—a city of by-gone days about whose crumbling walls and rotting masonry there still hangs the flavor of past pomp and pristine power.

It was night when we descended upon Venice. We stepped from the station immediately out upon the narrow shelf of stone that serves as a landing to the Grand Canal. A moment later we were gliding smoothly over softly-rippling waters beneath the calm of a spring Venetian sky. Our gondolier did not sing as we had been told that he would do, but his voice rang out as we rounded the curves of the canal, with the conventional "Ai"—that melodious signal of Venetial boatmen.

It was an auspicious moment to strike Venice for the first time—night time. All the mystery of the Floating City was preserved for us. Its sad neglect and ruined glory was not apparent till the morning.

The next morning we went forth from our hotel—the Danieli—to "do" Venice and the mystery of it all was gone. The night before it had been the Venice of Venetians—a city of pride and power, of haughty rulers controlling from these connected islands on the Adriatic the destiny of nations. By morning's garish light we saw poor Venice for what it truly is, an auction-place for tourists, a sadly out-lived dwelling place of guides, glass-blowers, gondoliers and beggars.

Ma, who had grown almost sentimental at the first sight of Venice, felt the change most keenly.

Ma, who had spoken in hushed whispers of "our second honeymoon," now declared firmly that this Venice of Italy was a disappointment and a fraud—she preferred, she said, the one in California.

Ma it was who called attention to the odors—each canal has one that is distinctively its own—claiming she could find her way about by them.

Ma it was, too, who railed against the beggars. Beggars there were on every hand—sleeping on the ledges of the Doge's Palace, on the flaggelated stones of the Plaza San Marco. Beggars accosting you when you step from your gondola—asking for pennies when you come from your hotel—imploring alms as you sit at Florian's eating an ice—or following you persistently across bridges and down the narrow streets—hat in hand—with grunts of mendicant elation.

It would be possible to say that begging is the main industry of Venice if it were not for the lace-leather-and-mosaic shops and the guides.

Every ragamuffin in Venice, of course, is a potential guide. It is taught no doubt in the primary schools—if there are such things in Venice—that to the young Venetian Americans are a proper prey and guiding is his profit.

Tourists—American and English—constitute the chief population of Venice on the grander side of the Grand Canal and "doing" the tourists constitutes the chief indoor and outdoor sport of the rest of the population.

This sport began from the moment ma and I showed our faces outside the Albergi Danielli with the intention of "doing" Venice. We succeeded in "doing" Venice and Venice succeeded in "doing" us. But Venice, of course, got a little the best of it; having been at that sort of thing so much longer than even ma had.

Two guides saw us at the same time just as we were rounding the corner of the Ducal Palace. The guide who was nearest to ma rushed up to ma and the guide who was nearest to me grabbed me. I thought at first there was going to be a hand-to-hand struggle between those two guides over the possession of us. We probably looked like pretty promising material to them.

But the dispute was settled amicably. The guides both agreed to split the profits—one of them (the one who could understand ma's Latin best) taking her, the other (a man—as Shakespeare would have it—more "fallen into the sere, the yellow leaf") contenting himself with me.

Our paths, as I learned at once, were to turn in opposite directions—Mrs. Dubius to mosaic factories, lace factories, leather factories, the marts and bargain corners of the islands; myself to the Campanile, the Palace of the Doges and the Bridge of Sighs—historical landmarks of old Venice. April the 25th we were quick to learn was St. Mark's day itself and at noon High Mass would be held in St. Mark's cathedral. Ma and I decided to meet again in order to attend this ceremony together, both of our guides very generously agreeing.

My guide's first effort was to proceed around the square to a spot marked with a little peg of brass. Here, as he assured me, the first "boom" dropped by the Austrian air forces had struck. Many booms, it appears, had been dropped, but few had struck. Every precaution, moreover, had been taken to sand-bag the portals of all the old buildings and the paintings were hastily dismanteled and forwarded to Florence. So much for the "booms."

Our trip up and down the Campanile was made via the elevator or "Lift" or "Ascenseur" with great dispatch and, having given one hasty glimpse at the surrounding islands, as seen from the top, I was then able to check it off on my list of "Objects of Interest" and justify myself later to ma as having missed no opportunities.

From the Campanile my guide led me with hasty steps to the Palace of the Doges, which lies right across the way in the Plaza San Marco.

Inside the Ducal Palace we saw the mural paintings of Titian, Tintoretto and Paul Veronese lying about the floor. These, the guide explained to me, were being just now returned to their proper places since their removal on account of the booms. I was also interested to learn the following—ART FACT: Paul of Verona, called Veronese, had the habit of painting his fat, blonde, pretty little wife into one corner of each of his pictures. This was before the day when artists made a practice of signing their works, and the above was his ingenuous and ingenious method of family and self-advertisement.

My guide now led me through the courtroom of the judges where criminal and political prisoners were tried in the days before the first Napoleon, when flourished the republic of Venice. From the Chamber of Ton (Camera de dieci) we passed to the Chamber of Three and from there to the Chamber of Horrors. This later was purposely made as morose and sinister as possible. The floor was of onyx-colored marble, the walls bore somber-toned paintings of direful scenes and the ceilings and furnishings all were of black. Out of this room a secret door leads to the Bridge of Sighs.

The Bridge of Sighs—connecting the courts with the prison—was a narrow stone passage above the canal through whose lattice of wrought-stone the condemned pris-

CARE OF THE BODY.

CONDUCTED BY
HARRY ELLINGTON BROOK, N.D.

PROF. A. LEVANZIN, A. B., Ph. D., L. L. B., formerly professor of dietology in the College of Physicians and Surgeons, in Boston, is a native of the island of Malta. Like myself, he has devoted his life to a study of the care of the body, not in laboratories or in vivisection chambers, but in his own body, and in those of others. At the instigation of the Medical Trust, he was recently arrested in Los Angeles for practicing without a medical permit, although he knows far more about the laws of health than his persecutors will ever forget. He is now in Oregon, where the medical laws are less oppressive and unjust, acting there as Oregon representative of the American Association of United States Drugless Physicians.

On September 12 The Times published an Associated Press dispatch from New York giving statements by Dr. Frances G. Benedict of Carnegie apropos of the MacSwiney "hunger strike." In the dispatch this reference was made to a fast undertaken by Prof. Levanzin:

"One of the most remarkable tests reported by Dr. Benedict was endured in Boston under his personal direction by R. Levanzin, a Maltese editor, from April 14 to May 13, 1912, thirty-one days. The man volunteered to undergo the fast and came from Malta especially for that purpose.

"He was a normal man, 40 years old. He was given only distilled water. For the first ten days he did not crave food or show any appreciable loss of weight or vitality. Except on the twenty-first and twenty-second days, when he suffered slight pains in the muscles, there was no distress, Dr. Benedict reports, and when the time was up, his physical condition, except for a slight loss of weight, was nearly normal.

"Levanzin, the report said, on the last day of the fast, was eager to continue without food, but was not permitted to do so. On the last day he was able to climb down a steep flight of ten steps without ill effects. The fast was broken with lemons, grape juice, rice and honey. When the fast was broken the subject suffered slight intestinal pain, but apart from that and a loss in weight, he was unharmed."

Following is part of an interesting and valuable article by Prof. Le-anzin in the Drugless hysician:

"Consumption is a catarrhal condition of the lungs, due chiefly to the excessive use of carbohydrates (starches and sugars) and fats.

"Consumption is not due to malnutrition, but to an excess of the wrong kind of foods; it is a result of overeating.

"The carbohydrates, in excess and in the wrong combinations with other foods, create fermentation in the intestines, flooding the system with the irritating acids that are generated as a by-product of every fermentation. These acids, with the toxins from protein putrefaction, overwork, especially the pancreas and the liver, until the second line of defense of the organism—the liver—is broken down.

"The first line of defense is the mucous membrane of the intestines, that, normally, will not allow any acids or toxins to enter the circulation.

"When the custom-house function of the liver is broken down, the impurities that flow to it through the portal system, instead of being transformed into bile and returned into the intestines, are let through the liver into the general circulation. The thyroid gland, with the adrenals and the other ductless glands—the third line of defense—secrete their juices in a great effort to neutralize and render innocuous these acids and toxins of fermentation and putrefaction, until they, in turn, are badly overworked and seriously crippled.

"Because the thyroid gland regulates the activity of the skin, a crippled thyroid means a poor elimination of waste matter and acids through the skin.

"Because the adrenal glands regulate the activity of the solar plexus and of the sympathetic system, a pair of exhausted adrenals mean lowered metabolism in general, and especially reduced activity of the peristaltic movement of the bowels, of the kidneys, of the circulatory system, and of the lungs.

"When the eliminatory organs—the skin, the intestines and the kidneys—are not active enough to help the organism to throw off its accumulated waste, the fourth organ of elimination—the lungs—must bear the brunt of the whole strenuous effort of the body to get rid of its impurities.

"The lungs take care chiefly of the elimination of the by-products produced by the ingestion of carbohydrates and fats.

"Therefore, when one overeats of carbohydrates and fats, he overworks the lungs to get rid of the excessive amount of carbonic acid formed in the system.

"If the consumptive understands exactly and clearly what the organism is trying to do, and co-operates with it, instead of breaking down its efforts by drugs, serums and overfeeding, there is no reason why he should look at this instructive experience as a bugaboo, a curse, or an incurable ailment.

"If people did not overfeed on starches, demineralized white bread and pastries, demineralized sugars, adulterated candies and syrups, vitamine-lacking margarines, excessive quantities of salted butter, peeled potatoes—deprived of their alkalinizing potassium—denatured breakfast foods and mushes, sulphured molasses and sulphured dried fruits, sour and tubercular cow's milk, pork fat and bacon, ham, chocolates and many other harmful and adulterated foods, rich in carbon, that have to be eliminated by overworking the lungs after knocking down the liver—no one need ever suffer from consumption.

"It is the excess of foods, rich in carbon and, in some cases, the deficiency and the wrong combinations of the proteins, that engender this white plague of civilization, which is reaping the flower of our population; one in every ten in the so-called civilized world.

"When the people are taught how to eat and drink—how not to overeat of foods rich in carbon and of proteins, especially meat and eggs—the cases of consumption will become very scarce.

'It is a great mistake to feed consumptives large quantities of meat, eggs, milk, cod liver oil, etc., as prescribed by allopatnic physicians and sanatoriums. By overfeeding on proteins the ductless glands, especially the thyroid, are more seriously crippled; and then, through the reduced activity of the solar plexus, the lungs cannot function at their best to eliminate the pathogen and the carbonic acid. By keeping this harmful waste accumulated in the lungs the tubercular process sets in and makes the case more difficult to handle.

"The stimulation caused by the excessive amount of proteins may seem to help temporarily by throwing out large quantities of accumulated pathogen; and the patient thinks he is cured. But he is whipping his nervous system and his ductless glands to death, and, generally, after some time he finds himself very much worse.

"This is not mere theory, nor the vaporings of an exalted dreamer. After having been given up to die of consumption by some of the most eminent physicians, after they had fattened me, by overfeeding, to over two hundred pounds, I saved my life by following the method suggested above, after groping for light for many dreary, hopeless years. Today no able diagnostician or expert roentgenologist could even find the least trace of the trouble in my lungs, because I am completely cured of it, as I have cured many others.

"At the same time, I have cured myself entirely of a catarrhal condition of many years' standing, with very obstinate constipulation; and, in the last ten years, I have cured several cases and improved many more, when my patients have been faithful and persevering enough to follow strictly my mode of procedure.

"The deficiency of the organic salts and of the vitamines, and the derangement of the ductless glands by toxemia and by sexual and emotional excesses, have also much to do with the causation of consumption."

To this I add: As to cure, the average tuberculosis sanatorium, with its most abominable and unnatural stuffing of mucous-forming foods, confirms and increases the disease. On the entrances to these institutions should be inscribed a sentence that Dante saw over the gate of hell: "Abandon hope, all ye who enter here."

The "Movies."

THE "movies" might be a great power for good. Unfortunately they are not. They pander to low tastes. Like many newspapers their object is merely to "give the people what they want." Following is from the Dearborn Independent:

"The public is demanding amusement, diversion, and oh! how it is paying for it—and not getting it. We are speaking of motion pictures. Clean, worth-while entertainment is being offered today by fewer than a half-dozen motion-picture producers. We can name but two or three, but there may be that many more. Box-office prices have risen steadily and the quality of the productions has dropped as consistently as the prices have gone up.

"We have in mind the situation in a city of a million. There are a number of the so-called first-class houses, showing 'first-run' productions. The cheapest price that obtains in these houses for a seat on the main floor is a half dollar. Thousands of dollars are being spent weekly in advertising the films brought forth for the public. They are consistently, bad, and because of this it is to be noted that week by week the newspaper space bought to advertise the wares is greater than that used the week before."

Medical Practice.

PRESENT methods of medical practice are all wrong. Physicians should be paid to keep patients well—if they know how.

Also, each school of medicine should have its own licensing board.

Andrew B. Eadie, M. D., of Hemet, Cal., writes to me that a Federal licensing board should consist of a number of independent divisions, each division consisting of picked representatives of all schools of practice now recognized by any State, or that may hereafter be recognized. He says our laws aim to supply the people with fully qualified medical men, but in this they fail—they only guarantee partly qualified men.

Dr. Eadie has republished, in pamphlet form, an article contributed to the Medical Council (Philadelphia.) In it he writes:

"In considering this question it must not be forgotten that the primary function of the medical profession should be to remove the causes of disease and prevent its development. No greater crime could be charged against it than that knowing conditions of disease threaten humanity, it should fail to warn and do its utmost to prevent such disaster. It does not exist merely to afford an agreeable and elegant employment for a class of educated gentlemen of scientific tendencies, in treating disease after it has been allowed to develop through ignorance and neglect.

"Now, it is perfectly evident that as long as the profession derives its means of support from caring for cases of disease which have been allowed to appear, in so far as it succeeds in its main, primary and proper object, it eliminates its own means of existence. It cannot destroy disease, for it lives by it, and perforce coddles it.

"The doctor should not have a financial interest in the disease of his patient, so that the longer the patient is ill the more he gets out of it. It is fraught with too many temptations, and open to too many abuses. The highest efficiency of medical service to the people demands the abolition of fees. Extracting fees from the sick simply breeds quackery and is the mother of quackery, both in and out of the profession. It puts the profession in a false position, and tends to make it a huge aggregation for the suggestion of disease and coddling of valetudinarianism. As long as you have a quarter of a million people in this country whose living depends on the existence of disease, you will have disease, and all the dirty, contemptible, dishonorable tricks and devices for attracting and holding patients, revolting to everyone of manly and refined sensibilities, against which he is quite without defense. Honesty and modesty, essential elements of the highest type of scientific mind, will kill almost any practice under present conditions.

"In its attitude toward the sick, the medical profession is psychologically wrong—and it is psychologically wrong because it is economically wrong. Let us consider the

NERVES

AMETROPATHY is the most modern, the least understood, yet the most rational method of dealing with disorders of the nerves and internal organs. It is not suited to conditions due to organic lesion or infection. It cannot, for instance, cure tuberculosis (though it may remove the cause of the depletion that brought on consumption;) but it will produce positive results in cases of Neuritis, Neuralgia, Nervous Heart, Epilepsy, St. Vitus's Dance, Stuttering, and in functional derangements manifested by states of Fear, Despondency, Headaches, Insomnia, Asthma or Indigestion.

Persons who (in spite of sound organs) are suffering physically or mentally, particularly those subject to spells of unnatural fatigue, and to whom the known methods of treatment do not bring lasting relief, will probably find in AMETROPATHY the solution of their difficulties.

HEALING TO ALL LININGS

First Electrically-Driven Merchant Ship.

BY B. S. BEACH.

[S.S. Eclipse will be shipping board's first electrically operated cargo carrier and first vessel of its class in America—ready for service at New York this month, she will mark new epoch in navigation—how her "electric drive" works and what it will do.—Editor.]

THAT America's peaceful trading craft, following the example of the nation's warships, will soon turn to electricity for driving power, is evidenced by the fact that the first electrically propelled general cargo vessel in the United States, the S.S. Eclipse, will be placed in service at New York within a few weeks by the United States Shipping Board, which has chartered the vessel to the International Mercantile Marine.

The Shipping Board has led the way to ing speed with an engine room crew of one man, the electric mechanism requires so little attention. Of course, the great battleship will never operate so short-handed, except in emergency, but it can be done.

The idea of driving a huge merchant ship through the seven seas almost with the ease a motorman drives a street car through the city's streets may seem humorous, but there is no humor in the basic scheme. It is not only possible for an officer to run his boat with small levers on the bridge but this is being done. The economies of utilization was a naval collier—the U.S.S. Jupiter, launched in 1912. The immediate success of this installation paved the way to the adoption of identical principles to the use of the Navy.

When Admiral W. S. Benson was chief of naval operations he encouraged the adoption of the electric drive for naval vessels and gave the movement his strong support. After he had retired from the Navy and was appointed to his present position as chairman of the Shipping Board his thought naturally turned to electric drive as the

"We have demonstrated on our battleship that the electric drive is more economical than the ordinary drive. We must save every gallon of fuel oil that we possibly can, and when I say coal I say it with a good deal of regret, because our competitors will contend that we must go back to coal burning, that we cannot get oil in all parts of the world, or that it doesn't pay, or something like that. If we ever give up fuel oil, unless we can get something better, we might as well take to the woods, and cut timber for our fuel. We can't compete with foreign competitors on any other than an oil-fuel basis.

"I feel this thing most seriously. This is new epoch in history of marine navigation, signalizing the introduction of electricity as a motive force to drive the great fleets which make up our merchant marine, and will bring to a reality years of planning by engineers to adopt this means of propulsion to the peace-time use of trading vessels.

The shipping board has led the way to this epoch making advance in the art of ship propulsion.

The Eclipse is a vessel of 11,868 dead tons, is 440 feet long and has a beam of fifty-six feet. The Vulcan Iron Works of Jersey City, N. J., installed the interesting electric propulsion equipment made by the General Electric Company at Schenectady, N. Y. She is equipped with a steam turbine driving an alternating current generator which feeds a 3000-horsepower motor turning the single propeller shaft at 100 revolutions per minute.

But the test of electricity for merchant craft is not to be limited to the Eclipse. Eleven other heavy freighters are also being equipped by the Shipping Board with electric power so that within a short time America will know from experience whether the same fuel and space economies and ease of operation which electric battleships, such as the New Mexico have effected, can be obtained in trading ships.

Principle of Propulsion Same as Trolley Car.

DRIVING a ship by electricity means revolving the propeller shaft from a motor just as trolley cars are driven by motors on the car tracks. To supply "juice" to turn this ship motor, a generator must be operated somewhere else in the boat, just as generators in power houses make current for street railways. On shipboard these generators may be driven either by an economical steam turbine or by a Diesel engine.

The records of the battleship New Mexico, the United States Navy's first "electric ship," show that oil consumption is lowered about one-third of electric drive, while the greater and more flexible power is attained with far simpler mechanism requiring fewer operatives. It is even possible for the gigantic New Mexico to run at cruis- of hull space and of fuel are such that students of shipping are beginning to realize what electric drive means for the rising merchant marine of this country.

First Application of Electricity Made on Naval Collier.

STRANGE to say, however, the first application of the electric drive principle was made on a type of vessel closely resembling the merchant ship, although in reality it most economical method of operating our merchant marine.

He is the first chairman of the Shipping Board to come out in favor of an electrically operated merchant fleet and his views naturally hold no small degree of interest to show the trend of events which may revolutionize transportation methods used for over a century.

"I am convinced," said the admiral, "of the possibilities of electricity in our merchant marine. not a ship owners', it is not a ship builders', nor is it alone a sea-faring proposition; it is an American proposition, and it should appeal to every American citizen. I hope every one realizes the importance of the great problem that is facing us."

The electric apparatus of the Eclipse is illustrated on this page. Steam under high pressure passing through the turbine swiftly revolves its blades and by so doing transmits the same motion to an electric generator. This generator produces the current which now passes to the motor through a switchboard. The switchboard serves the purpose of controlling the amount and distribution of the current to the motor in accordance with instruction from the ship's bridge. The motor is attached directly to the propeller shaft of the vessel.

What the introduction of electricity to the propulsion of merchant ships will mean in ease of operation and the elimination of the uncertain human element is told by W. L. R. Emmet, consulting engineer of the General Electric Company and pioneer developer of the principle of electric propulsion.

Simplicity of Operation One of Prime Factors.

"IN ALL the extensive uses of electricity in mills, mines, railways and other industries it has seldom failed to become popular immediately with the operating forces," said Mr. Emmet. "In no case has this been more marked than in the ships which have been driven electrically.

"The history of the electrical industry has repeatedly shown that persons who have not used electrical apparatus assume that its operation requires a high order of skill and expert knowledge, and of this assumption we have already heard much in connection with electric drive for ships. A vast amount of experience has repeatedly shown that this assumption is the direct reverse of the truth, and a little thought as to the conditions in electrical apparatus should make the reason obvious."

Capt. F. L. Iverson and Chief Engineer C. Caragorge of the Eclipse have just completed their dock and sea trials and the vessel will shortly be turned over to her charterers by shipping board officials, New York.

Holly-leaved Cherry Often Mistaken for True Holly.

THERE is no true holly among the shrubs of the Elfin-Forest, although the newcomer is always quite sure he has found some the very first time he hits the Chaparral Trail. If the time be along in September, he is apt to be surprised at the size of the berries which his new-found "holly" bush bears. Of course, it is not a holly at all. It is the mountain cherry (prunus ilicifolia.) But its leaves are a good imitation of those of the genuine holly, and it is commonly called holly-leaved cherry. Among the Spanish Californians it is known as "Islay." The large cherry-like drupe which it bears is mostly pit, but the exceedingly thin layer of flesh which lies between the pit and the skin has a very agreeable flavor. Indeed, this flavor has something so alluring about it that although a person never gets enough of the flesh at a time to know he is eating anything, he nevertheless keeps right on trying to. The fruit is a favorite of squirrels and other rodents.

The leaves of some of the oaks are also very holly-like, but none furnishes so perfect an imitation of the real thing as those of the islay.

We must again excuse the "tenderfoot" when he once more discovers holly—"sure this time." Isn't it December? And are not the berries of just the right shade of red? To be sure the leaves are much larger than the holly's should be, and are leathery, instead of being stiff and armed with sharp teeth around the edges. But why stop at such trifles? The Californian doesn't. With shameless assurance he calls it holly—or, if he has any qualms of conscience whatever about the matter, California holly of Christmas berry. But the botanist shies at anything that is not scientific and accurate. He says this California upstart for Christmas honors is no holly at all, that its name is Hetepomeles arbutifolia, and that it belongs to the rose family; while true holly has a family of its own. But "what's in a name?" For myself, I like the Spanish name of "Toyon"—spelled tollen in Spanish and Mexican, but pronounced as already given. This is distinctive and has a pleasant sound.

But let us get back to the shrub itself. Under favorable circumstances, it is a prolific bearer, and tons of its berries are taken to the markets of the larger cities during the week preceding Christmas. One of the noticeable sights along the streets of Los Angeles at this time is that of the stands piled high with branches of this bright holiday berry. The shrub is very desirable as forest-cover, as it grows to a good size, casts a deep shade, and is not very inflammable. It is not as plentiful, however, as so desirable shrub shuld be.

Those of us who were once boys in the Mississippi Valley or farther eastward cherish among other memories our first experience with chokecherries. Perhaps it was a fun-loving elder brother, or a joking comrade who had already been initiated, who first tempted us with a heavy-laden branch of the black, luscious-looking berries. With what eager hands and lips we fell upon them! And how luscious they really seemed—for about a minute! And then something went wrong with our sallivary glands, our mouths puckered up, our throats closed in, and we were seized with a panic of fear, while our comrades were convulsed with heartless glee. And do you remember, too, that as soon as the first attack was over the alluring flavor of the cherries was such, that, despite their puckery quality, we returned enthusiastically to the attack? And how we kept at it until we literally acquired the "chokecherry habit."

The Chokecherry Grows Here in Diminutive Form.

WELL, it was many years after the chokecherry days of my boyhood that I went deer hunting among the San Rafael Mountains of Santa Barbara county, a range which almost in its entirety is covered with chaparral. We were swinging briskly along the trail one day, where the way had been cut tunnel-like through dense thickets of ceanothus and manzanita, when suddenly we came out on to a little flat covered with small, spire-shaped trees some five or six feet tall, whose slender twigs were bending under loads of red-black cherries.

"Chokecherries!" I cried, and swung from my horse, thus bringing our pack-train to a halt, to the utter disgust of my companion, when out deer hunting, and who of course when out deer-hunting, and who of course wanted to see nothing else now.

And they were chokecherries, although I had never before seen them growing on such diminutive specimens of trees—I can't call them shrubs or bushes, for as tiny as they were, they still had the shape and bearing of real forest trees. I have since found them in many places in the Elfin-Forest, always of the same size and shape as those of my first experience, and always on some flat or gentle northern slope. Of course this California chokecherry is of a different species from that which I knew in the Mississippi Valley—according to the botanists—but my palate fails to detect any difference in the flavor of the fruit which the two bear. They are of a like alluringly seductive taste, and endowed with an equally high degree of puckeryness.

Anyone who travels the mountain trails of California in May or June will find a shrub in bloom with inch-long, creamy-white flowers. In the Sierra Nevada Mountains and throughout the north the flowers may be somewhat larger than this, and in the extreme south a little smaller. In the Elfin-Forest the shrub is small, as is befitting in a community of dwarfs, but northward it grows to larger stature. But its appearance is the same, whether it grows to ten feet in the Sierra, or to only four or five in the chaparral country. It has smooth, pale-gray stems and smooth, shiny, ovate leaves; and its branching habit is like that of a tree. In fact, the shrub always strikes me as a miniature tree. When a person from the East first finds the shrub in bloom, he thinks he has discovered his old friend, the garden syringa. And no wonder, for could any other flower have that same delightful fragrance? The likeness of form and color, too, is enough to deceive. It is not the old garden favorite, however, but the wild syringa of the Pacific Coast—Philadelphus microphyllus where it is found in the Elfin-Forest, and Philadelphus Californica in its northern home. Although it bears the name of the Golden State, it is the State Flower of Idaho.

The next chapter will deal with the Yerba Santas, the yuccas and some others of the characteristic but less widely known of the shrubs of the chaparral.

William B. Miller of Bath, N.Y., thinks he was the youngest soldier in the Union army during the Civil War. In 1861, when he was 11 years old, he ran away from home and became a drummer boy with the First North Carolina Volunteers, a regiment composed of Union men. He served five months with this regiment, and then became a drummer with the Tenth New York Volunteer Infantry, with which he served during the war. "Slow, Mr. Hoskins, slow! Th' thing looks good, I'll 'low, but f'om what I hear th' deal must be put through quiet. This soap feller wants t' git out o' th' bridge business, but until he does he ain't sayin' nothin'. He's got friends, like as not, at th' city hall, who'd want in on th' price, an' thet would on'y send it up higher. So I learn he's doin' it secret like—jest noisin' it 'round in some places, an' then when he sells he pockets th' hull thing, as he ought to, with outsiders gittin' nothin'. Gee, I wish them hundred head o' cattle I'm bringin' in was a hull herd. I'd climb into th' wagon myself."

"Well, Jordan, cash begets cash," unfeelingly snickered Phineas. "I'm glad my coin ain't tied up in steers. I can swing a deal like this if th' terms 're right an' it's all 'bove board as you say. I don't mind th' secret part of it. Fact is I'm kind-a secretive myself. Sides don't hanker t' hev no graftin', loafin', do-nothin' officeholders gittin' my money. Then as a fearsome afterthought:

"Y' ain't figurin' on no commission on this thing, be you? Cause I won't pay it."

"Naw, I don't want nothin' out of it," denied Jupiter as he gripped the other's arm, afraid the fish might break the line at the last jerk. "I'm glad t' put a good friend in the way of a nice business that I'd like t' handle myself. I guess we can find Soapy—er, I mean this soap guy—easy nuff. Come on; we'll ask as we go."

IV.

Three days later Soapy, spick, span and Beau Brummelly as ever, was again exhorting a Seventeenth street crowd from behind his tripod and gaudy vest. A hand reached around a bystander and tapped his shoulder.

"What's the good word now, Larson?" smiled the dealer in soaps, jewelry and $2 bills.

"Chief wants you," ordered the square-jawed, square-coated, square-toed plain clothes man.

"Very well, Lars; we're all ready to start —just like that."

"Where you been, Soapy? I've pussyfooted for you two days now, and then find you where I least expected to."

"Just a business trip, Larson—little jaunt into the wilds."

'You ought to 'a' stayed longer, my boy. The chief's had the hooks out for you since Tuesday morning. Just told to bring you in. Don't know what for. Do you?"

"Well, I might guess," offered Smith, leaving his escort in the captain's room and walking, as though perfectly familiar with the way, into the office of the police chief.

"Here, Soapy, you! What's this new affair?" demanded the head keeper of the city's peace, swinging angrily around in his swivel chair. "Do you know this man? He says he knows you and that the acquaintance cost him something, too."

"Well, if it isn't old Spinach-chin," laughed Soapy, as he turned to view the unkempt figure that crouched, hair tousled and beard bristling, in a corner chair. "Where did you find him, chief?"

"Spinach-chin or not, Soapy, I tell you to cut the comic," snapped the official, even while the pretense of a smile drifted across his face as he looked toward Phineas X. Hoskins groveling on the hard chair, where he had spent most of the past forty-eight hours, and apparently trying to pull out the last remnant of his whiskers. "If you want to know, we took him in on the Fourteenth street viaduct, where he was holding up people for dimes, claiming he was tollkeeper of the bridge. He told me an impossible yarn about buying the franchise from you, and we figured him a bug, but, by George, here is some sort of bill of sale that he handed over to me."

"That's right, chief," agreed Soapy, glancing at the carefully penned paper and returning it to the chief's desk. "I sold him that very bridge. A big deal, too—a bridge of size. No doubt of it."

"Of course there ain't, officer," raved Phineas, exploding into sudden action like a pent volcano; "I told you right, an' want my $13,700 back. Th' savin's of a life o' toil, I tell you."

The excited Nebraskan rumpled his hair, jerked at his beard and cracked his bony knuckles in agony. But Soapy only smiled his fat, benign smile.

"Savin's of a life o' work—$13,700—officer," wailed the swindled toll seeker, unchecked even by the chief's command for silence. "He robbed me—$13,700—all I had. Told me he owned th' bridge fer the next nine years. Said every automobeel, bi-cycle an' rig owner in town paid by th' month. I saw men collectin'—$13,700—an' I paid 'cause I'm old an' wanted easy work. Get it back fer me, officer—$13,700. Then lock him up in th' calaboose. I'll have th' law on him, th' grinnin' soap faker!"

"How about it, Soapy? Shall I book you?" broke in the chief, feeling along the desk rail for the bell.

"Not so fast, Mr. Donaldson, please," boomed Soapy, dropping into his best Seventeenth street style. "Your Honor, that 'savings of a life-time' and 'wanting easy work' need explanation. Now, gentlemen and ladies, for I see there are two gentlemen present, leaving Hoskins out of it entirely, I did sell this hick certain Denver property, to wit, one Fourteenth street viaduct, in good repair. I did collect $13,700 from him for the said structure, supposed to be a toll bridge—and a bridge of size. And I did do it with the intention of making a clean and permanent get-away. But—I found out afterward, chief, that this rube wasn't such a yokel as I thought. Sit down, Birdsell! Don't waste your spinach patch by pulling it out and throwing it at me."

At the sound of the name Phineas collapsed back into his chair, mouth agape and eyes wide, while Soapy went on:

"This rural bird celebrated his deal by opening wine—he got boiling drunk and he gabbed while I sat and listened. He jibbered about $13,700 and a couple of hundred more that's gone for good, I guess. His gab that night—and papers in his pocket right now unless he's thrown them into a sewer—prove that the money was not the savings of a life-time, leastways not his own life, but the fortune of a niece, left her by his own brother—a fortune that he stole as trustee and guardian. Chief, do you get me? A niece—a crippled niece—twisted and distorted and suffering from a spinal disease from which she'll never recover! A pretty girl, too, for I've seen her and I know. He took that money—that old man yonder—an orphan's money—a sweet girl's fortune—all she had and which might have kept her in peace and comfort all her life—and he absconded, changed his name, fell in with me and invested."

"Mind me, chief? He invested! I learned those things and I went back to Nebraska, and here—right here—is a duplicate certificate of deposit on the Hastings National Bank—not the Fairfield—showing $13,700 to the credit and subject to the check of Ella Birdsall, 18 years old, niece of Peter T. Birdsall, this old thieving uncle, who wants the law on decent people."

"And now," continued Soapy, thumping the folded slip of paper upon the chief's desk, "that's just my luck. I never could stand for tainted money. It's got to come with clean hands. But I reckon this old land pirate won't be saying much more about calabooses if I don't."

Donaldson turned from the flushed, perspiring face of Soapy to the crushed, driveling heap of humanity huddled into the corner, picked up his pencil, laid it down, fumbled again for the bell, gave it up and apologized:

"Sorry I troubled you, Soapy—really. Good-by, old man. Be good—or at least be careful."

Crows Kill a Jackrabbit.

Alki Hall reports an odd incident he witnessed on his place the other morning, wherein fifteen crows attacked and devoured a jackrabbit through hunger. Hall was in his field when he was attracted by the loud cawing of the crows. Looking up he saw the birds right behind the rabbit, which was traveling about ten feet at a jump. Finally one of the crows alighted on the back of bunny, and after he had gone about fifty feet he keeled over, not being able to pack the excess baggage. Once on the ground he was pounced upon by all the crows which picked his bones clean in short order.—[Spokane Spokesman-Review.

A Trip Across the Roofs of Los Angeles.

BY FRANCES MATHILDA PURDY.

(Illustrations by the Author.)

"A Moorish Archway."

I.

"MARIE," I said, lighting another cigarette, and sliding down to a more comfortable position in the roadster, "I'm going to present you with an entirely new thrill, and introduce you to a part of Los Angeles you've never met—"

"It can't be done," interrupted Marie hastily, "I know this 'home town' of mine from one end to the other; every park, road, street, hill or mountain; all the shops, cafes, cafeterias, theaters and moving picture shows. I'd be willing to wager whatever you like there's nothing new to be seen in Los Angeles."

We were racing along Western avenue, as she spoke, skimming past the long, shady eucalyptus drives leading down to Hawthorne, the fog blowing in across the rolling hills in sullen gray masses.

Suddenly, away to the right, and north, I saw a vision: The low sun, shining through an opening in the clouds, struck sidewise all the big business blocks lying, miles away, in the center of the fast beating heart of Los Angeles, grouped as by a child's careless hand, the thin yellow light emphasizing each square-cut angle and bringing out their ghostly whiteness, until the gleaming city stood out against its dark background of snow-crowned mountains with mirage-like luminosity, looking down upon the scene, as we were, from the heights of the southwest suburbs.

"Look," I told her, stopping the car for a moment, "isn't that like a dream city?"

"Yes. I should say it represents the realization of many dreams," she said practically, gazing lovingly enough, however, at the familiar picture. "and what do you bet I know every corner of it?"

"I won't bet with you," I said, virtuously, turning the car through sleepy little Manchester at the end of the boulevard, and coming down on to the smoothness of Vermont avenue. "I would win, anyway. Now if you'll meet me at about 2 o'clock tomorrow, at the entrance to that big picture show on Third and Broadway, I'll escort you to the thrill."

"So far, there's nothing out of the ordinary," laughed Marie. "Not much novelty about that place. But I'll be there on time," jumping out as we rolled to the curb in front of the big apartment where she lived on West Adams street.

II.

"Now for the thrill," said Marie, tucking my usual floral tribute into her belt. "Oh, you've brought your camera. I thought we had taken about everything—"

But giving her no time for astute guessing (a game at which Marie is disconcertingly apt,) I rushed her around the corner to the building entrance, and into the elevator.

She was silent as we shot to the very top floor, and as we left the elevator and climbed the short flight of winding stairs to a closed door, I could see she was completely mystified. But Marie is a game little sport, and she never said a word.

Opening the door, and stepping out, we were immediately upon the broad, deserted roof, its safe parapet fencing us in all around the edge.

Marie was dumb with astonishment for a moment. Recovering herself, her gay blue eyes sparkled into mine, as she cried:

"I give in, Frank. You've surely beaten me, this time, fair and square!" That's one of the things I love about Marie. She has none of those annoying little feminine tricks of always proving herself right.

"Come over here," I drew her to the edge, which was solid, like a breast-high wall. "Look down there." I showed her the glistening path that was Broadway, far below, dotted with shining toy automobiles, and tiny dolls hastening in every direction, the clock tower on the Times Building, at the end of the vista, topping its gray stone castle, and completely dominating the scene with its suggestion of stability, and eternal strength.

"I never imagined there was a place in the very heart of this big, teeming city where, in two minutes, one could be so entirely alone and quiet, as on this peaceful roof. It's almost like being on a mountain top, only the mountains are so far away, you could never get this particular view of the city—except from a costly airplane trip," she mused, looking up at the hurtling, whizzing monster, gyrating over the city like some prehistoric dragon, leaving in its wake a yellow snowstorm of small bits of paper, doubtless exploiting the charms of the latest idol of the movies.

"The Plashing Fountain."

"And to think," she went on, "that all the tourists imagine they have seen the whole of Los Angeles when they take in the sea and the mountains, with the regular sightseeing trips thrown in for good measure. What a much more comprehensive idea of us they would get if they only knew about all this. We have such a reputation for boosting the real estate, and climate, why don't somebody boost our roofs?"

This being my pet obsession, I nearly succumbed to the temptation of airing my views upon it, but, fearing to abate her enthusiasm too soon, I merely said:

"The very highest building at this end of the city is this one. Come on, let's go up to the other end of Broadway. There's a fine roof garden I want to show you."

And we started for the elevator.

III.

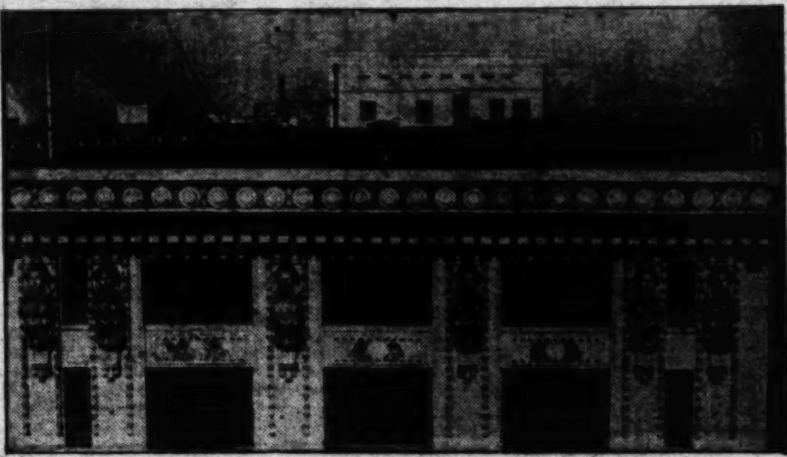
"I knew there were two or three roof gardens," said Marie, as we alternately halted and sped down Broadway, but I always thought they were for 'employees only,' and never dreamed of going up there."

"Now I want to take a picture right here," I said as we left the elevator and rounded a corner, where the arched entrance to the garden presented to my mind an almost Moorish effect, and with Marie's customarily invaluable assistance as to "best position," it was safely snapped.

"Isn't this the most restful place you ever saw!" She walked over to one of the numerous covered and furnished pavilions, sinking luxuriously into one of the rocking chairs, and looking happily around her at the flower-laden boxes and tree-filled tubs. "The edge of this roof has a wall, too," she cried, jumping up and going over to look at a particularly fine view across the lower roofs, where appeared a new, very ornate white theater. "See, Frank, who could dream, while standing at the door of that show, waiting for tickets, of all that beautiful architecture up above. And look beyond, how Baldy and Mt. Wilson and the rest loom up."

Enjoying her rhapsodies, I took her from one side to the other of the enormous inclosure, showing her the southwest part of the city, with its raying streets outlined by rows of trees, car tracks running in every direction, all spread out like a map, the low bulk of hills, back of Angeles Mesa, extending towards Venice, lying crouched, like some great animal, in the background.

"Now we'll go over to one more office building, and after that finish with tea at a roof garden where I usually lunch," I said, noting her thoroughly aroused interest in my hobby, and loving her the more for it.



"Six Trusting Ladies."

"Old Reliable."

"You see," bringing my car to a stop at the corner of Sixth and Spring, "there's a lot one misses by never going off the 'ground floor' of Los Angeles, because we can't very well go rubbering around at the building tops, and yet there are wonderful decorations on many of our newer buildings, which can only be seen to advantage from a height equal to, or higher than, their own. I'm about to show you one," as we stooped through the small door.

"Now look across the street and see those faces—"

But she was already at the iron guard rail, set some feet back from the edge.

"Frank, those are really classic," she cried, studying the six calm visages surmounting the facade of the Trust Company's building, opposite. "How perfectly those faces express complete trust in Providence or," laughingly, "maybe whoever designed them intended to represent their entire confidence in the company whose building they so charmingly decorate. Let's get their picture, too."

So, although the light was waning, we added the six trusting ladies to our collection, and descended to the waiting car.

"Out in that garden there's a lovely fountain," I imparted, as we rose from the table, "with gargoyles set all around it, spouting water; a silver ball on top, and little goldfish hiding among the lilies.

As we strolled slowly out under the dappled shade of the palm trees, she exclaimed:

"Oh, look, here's Pan," measuring her diminutive self beside the pedestal on the end of which was set a sardonically grinning head! "How wonderful this garden must look in the moonlight, with its quietly plashing fountain and feathery trees. But of course no one ever sees it that way, right in the middle of a building that's locked up tight all night, like a patio in a Spanish villa. What a pity the people of my lovely city don't realize the value of their roof spaces as amusement gardens, the way they do in New York, for you know, Frank, with our climate they would be possible the entire year."

I could resist the temptation no longer, and was off, full speed:

"They'll come to that some day, Marie This town has been too busy growing up, and has too many beach and mountain advantages, to waste time over what seems at present like a trifle, but, believe me, the day will come when public roof gardens will be as much a feature of Los Angeles's day, and night life, as—"

"Frank," said Marie, demurely, allowing the setting sun to sparkle on her new engagement diamond, "that reminds me: It must be almost 5, and if we're going to that dance—"

It must be admitted that, in her praiseworthy endeavors to qualify as my future boss, Marie is becoming increasingly proficient in the art of letting me down painlessly!

THE STRANGE CASE OF JESSAMINE LYND.

and about the pictures I dare not speak. I couldn't even tell what they were meant to represent.

When it dawned upon the girls that I didn't admire the decorations, they moaned: "Isn't she priceless? Of course, she's never heard of Bakst, or Augustus John, or Nevinson, or any one!"

We were at this stage when Lady Lynd came in, and when I saw that she also had a dress nearly to her knees at her age, when she had to wear a wig or something on her head, the color of mahogany, my knees felt like poached eggs. It seemed as if every tradition was swept away from me.

They hustled me through tea and upstairs for fear any one should come and see my "funny old frock;" but my bedroom was just as bad in its way as the drawing-room. It had black and red check curtains, and I don't know what of other terrors!

Kindly (she thought) but firmly Lady Lynd insisted that I must conform with the fashion of "these days." I must let the girls lend me things of theirs till I possessed things of my own, she said. Tired out at length, I wavered, and consented at least to see the things suggested. After this there was a pause, as between two shocks of earthquake; then arrived Jinks and Bick, dressed (heaven save the mark) for dinner.

I hadn't seen them till now without their hats, and the sudden baldness of their foreheads struck me like a blow. Their hair was strained back at the top, but pressed forward over the cheeks, and involuntarily I put up a hand to touch my own little soft tendril curls, such as are meant to stray over a woman's brow. Their faces were pale with powder (instead of wholesome pink and white like mine) and their lips, being painted geranium red, gave quite an evil effect with their black hair. They seemed to be draped in a few wisps of tulle, scarlet in one case, gold in another; and what little there was above the waist stayed up, I don't know how! All I'm certain of is that there weren't even straps over the shoulders. Luckily the girls had no more figure than ship's biscuits, otherwise—but these are details it's better not to dwell on.

Later I learned from fashion plates and criticism of myself by my cousins that the smart thing was to be quite flat and have immensely long legs, with little more shape than pipestems. But at the moment the two confined themselves to urging my acceptance of a few bits of thin stuff which they called "ninon." "Ninon's specially suitable for you," they giggled. But I didn't agree—anyhow, so little of it—and as a compromise I went to bed.

That was only the first of many compromises, most of them in the form of frocks. I drew the line at my shoulder blades and ankles. But when new things came home I found that the said line had been a good deal waived by the dressmakers. Consequently I was never at ease, and disease bears a sad resemblance to the sulks. I was like the bat in the fable, who could fight neither for birds nor beasts. I hung between past and present, as Mahomet's coffin hung between heaven and earth. My relatives were ashamed of me and I was ashamed of them and myself.

"A pretty little frump," I heard one of Bick's young men say of me behind my back. "One doesn't know how to get at her. She has no personality of her own."

Which was hard, considering how earnestly I tried to hide my "personality," not to be a "freak" in a world of bewildering different freaks!

This happened after we'd gone to Marlow, when the house was no more restful than the one in town. I went in from watching the twins' "crowd" jazz on the lawn to dish smashing strains on the gramophone, and wept on Beanie's shoulder—the one comfortable spot where I felt thoroughly at home.

"What shall I do, Beanie darling?" I wailed.

"Do, my precious?" she flung back fiercely. "Do what I've been praying for you to do since you waked up, only it wasn't my place to tell you unless you asked. Be yourself—your beautiful, old fashioned little self, simple as a violet and sweet as a rose. Show the men what a young girl ought to be like, and take 'em all away from those two futurist cats!"

Wasn't it clever of Beanie to call Jinks and Bick "futurist cats?" Though one couldn't, after all, live long near the Lynds without having the word "futurist" drummed into one's intelligence!

Somehow, as I listened to this advice, I knew that I could follow it. I wanted to follow it. I could hardly wait! That night I lay awake and built up a plan. Next morning I began to carry it out.

I said frankly to Uncle Richard that I felt myself a burden on the household, yet I didn't want to cause him expense. Would he lend me the disused lodge at the west gate, and let me furnish it with discarded things that had been packed away in the garret? Beanie and I would live there alone, and we could all visit each other every day. The poor man tried not to beam with joy as he consented.

There were lovely old pieces of furniture in the attic, and I had my choice. It was the first thing I'd enjoyed since coming to live with the Lynds. I had carte blanche in chintzes and wall papers, and gradually the little den took on the air of dear days I had known. I put potpourri and lavender and flowers everywhere; then I attended to myself. Beanie and I remade all my old clothes from America so cleverly that they might have been fashioned at any time. I wore my hair, not in the newest, but in the most becoming fashion, and when I went to the big house for tennis, a the dansant—or a dinner when some girl guest had failed at the last minute—I simply behaved as it had been nice for girls to behave in 1899. I didn't use any slang. I said right out that I hated jazz music. I'd rather spend an afternoon in an ironmonger's shop. I flirted—not in the bold, architectural way of 1920, but in the girly-girly, downcast then uplifted eyes way, of the year when I was a "bud." I wouldn't smoke, I wouldn't play golf, or do anything rough. I didn't boast that I could row or manage a punt better than any one else. Instead I hinted to men to teach me, and made them think they'd offered to do so themselves.

Jinks and Bick would have bet thousands of pounds against my success if they'd known in time what I was up to. Yet I did succeed beyond my—beyond Beanie's—wildest dreams. The little lodge among the lilies and roses became a sort of shrine.

For a while revenge was sweet. It was peaches and cream. Beanie did nothing but grin like a Cheshire puss. "Cats!" she'd mutter under her breath. "They think a girl can't get a man unless she smokes like a chimney and dances like a demon, and talks slang like a—a guttersnipe! They say it's common for a woman to have a figure that sticks out anywhere. She must show her legs if she wants to be smart! But we'll teach 'em, my lamb and I! We'll show 'em that the more a man doesn't see the more he wants to see, and curved is the line of beauty in 1920 as it was when Eve stepped out of Adam's rib. The more female a pretty woman is the more a male man will admire her, provided she's got sense to be herself and not copy other women. So there you are!"

So there I was.

Capt. Lynd (the grubby boy I'd met twenty years ago) came home from India, visited the shrine, and proposed to me. So did half his friends who spent week-ends at Marlow. So did more than half of the twins' "best boys," and one South African millionaire. I lured them to it, in all the old fashioned ways I knew or had inherited and had never discarded as worn out. I blushed. I made great play with my eyelashes. I cried a little now and then, but never enough to make my nose red. I danced the old dances I remembered in dresses that suited them. I sang "Annie Laurie" and "Believe Me if All those Endearing Young Charms." Oh, it worked like magic, and I was getting my own back when the blow fell!

It was just after the business of the millionaire who'd been marked down for Bick. And on the top of that had come the proposal from Willie Lynd.

I was, according to Lady Lynd, a designing snake in the grass; and when I asked if there were such things it only made her worse. Evidently I'd contrived to crawl out of the grass to find lodgment in the family bosom and then bite the hand that fed me. If I'd lived a century earlier I should have been burned as a witch and deserved it. But the end had come! It was the duty of parents to protect their children, and Jinks, Bick and Willie had to be saved from my machinations.

A perfectly good, brand new millionaire was being brought by some one to the dance that night, and Lady Lynd desired that I would not appear.

"We have wired a tourist agency to get you a ticket at once for the States, no matter what port; expense no object," she added. "We will pay your fare and that of the dreadful old harridan who aids and abets you. After you reach your native land you will have enough to shift for yourself. Or if not you have but to offer yourself to a freak museum and you can earn a fortune. We don't care how conspicuous you make yourself when you are 3000 miles away from us."

I said nothing, but inwardly I was tempted to sneak, in my prettiest muslin frock—a la Gainsborough—to the house and use my most reliable old world methods to nab the new millionaire. The mood passed in a storm of tears, however, when the avenging angels had gone.

I was dreadfully sorry for myself, but I was sorry for them, too. I didn't want to make a fortune in a freak museum. I didn't know what I wanted to do! It seemed as if the best thing for every one would be for me to die. Yet I was strong and vital, and I'd slept so long that I retained all the joy of life I'd had at 17—as well as the looks that had led me astray. My soul rebelled against self-destruction. But, I told myself, I wouldn't so much mind going to sleep again.

Suddenly, with this idea, a great thought flashed into my mind—the thought of Francis Rentoul. I had his address in London. He might not yet have gone. If he had I felt he would have sent a message of good-by. It was late, but not too late. Beanie and I looked up trains. We could catch one for town and arrive before midnight. I wouldn't ask for one of Sir Richard's motors, so we walked to the station and got there just in time.

At Paddington we found a taxi and rushed to Half Moon street. What if Dr. Rentoul were out, or away, or I were refused at the door? My heart beat to suffocation. Everything seemed suddenly to depend on finding him, and I could have sobbed a thanksgiving when a butler looking person (landlord of the lodgings, perhaps) said that the doctor had just come in from delivering a lecture. If I were a patient—

"Oh, I am!" I snatched the words from his mouth.

I was allowed to enter. The landlord tapped at a door on the ground floor, and in a sedate voice mentioned my name—my real name. Jessamine Lynd seemed to rouse no recollection in him.

Instantly the door flew open. Francis Rentoul—his eyes more brilliant than ever—almost pulled me in, while Beanie (to whom I'd not told my purpose) sat down to wait in the hall.

Tears of joy were in my eyes as I sobbed, "Oh, why did you never come to see me—and give me good advice?"

"I waited," he said gravely, "for you to come to me."

"Did you think I would come?" I choked. He was still holding my two hands in one of his. With the other he took his big, good smelling silk "hanky" and dabbed my eyes. "Yes," he answered, "I thought you would come—sooner or later."

"Why?"

"Well, you were bound to be a storm center. And when you were tired of being it, I believed—I hoped—you'd turn to me."

"You were right!" I wept. "I'm so unhap-happy!"

"You were bound to be that, too, poor girl, in the set you were in. You see, the sort of young women you've been among have gradually leaked from the nineteenth century into the twentieth as easily as they breathe. But you were flung headlong from one century into another. You've lived in a sort of continuous mental earthquake."

"That's just it," I sighed. "But it wasn't my fault, though every one is so cross."

"No, in a way it's my fault. But I'm not cross!'

"Im glad you're not," I said. "Because I've come to ask your help, as you told me I might. I can't go on living as I've lived! You waked me up to the twentieth century. I beg you to send me to sleep again till the next, when maybe the world will have turned back to my ways again. Oh, do! You can, can't you?"

"Perhaps I could," he answered, slowly. "But I don't want to. Would Pygmalion have turned Galatea—his beautiful handiwork—back to marble? She had to pray to her patron goddess to get that done. You see, Pygmalion loved his Galatea."

"But," I burst out. "But—"

"Yes, I do. That was what you were going to ask, wasn't it?"

"I couldn't have asked!"

"No, because you really are what your cousins called 'pre-Edwardian.' But I'll tell you without being asked. I love—I adore you, my Galatea! And if instead of going back to sleep you stay awake for me I'll take you, not into the nineteenth century, but into the age of beautiful legend before people bothered to separate one century's style from another. I've been waiting only for you—for this to happen. Now, I'm going to Cashmir, to look for a plant I've been reading about in a wonderful old book, a plant that may give to human beings something like the elixir of youth. I believe I shall find it. But even if I don't you will give me the elixir—you and your sweet old fashioned love. Will you come with me?"

"Oh, yes!" I cried. "I know now I must have loved you all the time, and this was meant to be."

He took me in his arms.

I wonder if Jinks, Bick & Co. realize how heavenly a man's shoulder can feel to a girl's cheek?

Whose Love Story?

BY MADAME LARUE.

BEING very fond of buying and looking at old furniture, the other day as I passed a dingy old curiosity shop where a still more dingy looking Jew was waiting at the door for patronage that never came, for business is slow in that line, people now-a-days buying the latest of the latest, I was attracted by an odd-looking bureau. This piece of furniture was a strange-looking affair—a night table, a desk and drawers probably for clothing and still it was small enough to fit near a bed.

Behold, here was something I would like to have in my house and without argument as to reduction of price I purchased the bureau-desk, as I shall call it, and ordered immediate delivery. The little old man rubbed his hands with great satisfaction and with many deep bows, promised Madam that she could have it waiting at her door before she arrived home. I smilingly thanked the shop-keeper and departed.

On arriving home what was my great surprise to see the bureau waiting at my door, looking much older and dustier than amid its former surroundings. I hastily opened the door, entered and took off my things, donning a big house apron, armed myself with a formidable duster and carried in the bureau-desk. I immediately commenced to open it up and do what I had not done at the shop; if I was to be disappointed, there was no one to blame but myself.

Everything seemed satisfactory, but in lifting up the lid of the desk, I found it stuck somewhere, so gave it a hard jerk and out came a piece of cardboard, falling to the floor. I picked it up and it turned out to be a faded photograph of a child—a beautiful, plump and sweet-looking baby of about nine months or a year old. After laying aside the picture, I proceeded to clean out the desk, and on giving a gentle push, I found myself with part of the desk in my hands, leaving before my astonished eyes a secret pigeon-hole. I left the drawer on the floor and taking the duster tried to clean out the inside of the pigeon-hole, but touched something like paper. Upon taking it out, I beheld a package tied with an old faded lavender ribbon. I tried to untie the ribbon, which crumbled in my fingers (it must have been quite old, or the silk did not stand the test of time.) The letters, however, showed that it had stood the test, and that Time was to blame. Time destroys everything, even as it renews them.

At first, I did not know what to do about the letters—should I return them to the little Jew, or should I keep them? After a moment, I reflected that I was more entitled to them than the shop-keeper, since I had paid for the bureau, and besides, the letters must have been there for almost a century, according to the dates they bore. I had, indeed, bought an old piece of furniture!

I read every one of them. Each one contained passionate phrases—full of sadness and tears; remonstrances and despair against fate, and sometimes the writer complained to her Maker, and in the same sentence showed her repentance by asking for forgiveness. Both the writer and the party addressed had fictitious names, as the letters showed; and since such a long time has elapsed and the true names are not written, I am going to write down for you some of the most interesting ones. By them I shall give you the whole story. Do not condemn, but pity these poor souls, who offered their souls to a slow holocaust.

FIRST LETTER.

Beloved: I can say this in truth, and for the first time on paper, for you have been loved since that first day I saw you at the club. Do you remember? You were sitting next to me—only a table was between us. You looked at me with that expression in your eyes, as of one who sees and does not see. I saw you and thought, "What a quiet-looking man, with manners as gentle as a woman's," and there ended my interest. Later during the course of the evening, we spoke to each other—a few uninteresting words. What you thought about me at the time, you told me afterwards; but what I thought about you, I shall tell you now. Your voice sounded to me as a mother's caresses should; for, as you know, I never knew my mother, being an orphan since babyhood. Again and again we met at the club, each going there alone, for both had our life partners.

While we enjoyed each other's company, we had hot arguments, in which either you or I were right and one or the other giving up in the other's favor. But generally I had the last word (very woman-like.) Do you remember how things went on without either one of us finding out what was really in our hearts? Had it not been for that trip of mine! Do you remember when I came to you and told you that I was to leave town, and would be away for an indefinite time? The sorrow you showed in your face? And you blurted out, like a child, "What will become of me?" I was about to laugh it off, when something in my heart answered you: "And of me?" It was then, dearest of men, that we found out the real state of our feelings.

I went away, and you remained, with my promise of writing to you—just when I should remember you—and, beloved, this is the first, but I think it shall be the beginning of one each day, for there is not an instant that you are not brought to my mind. If the day is beautiful, and I feel light-hearted, I wish you were here with me to enjoy it; if it is cold and damp, I feel depressed, and then, more than ever, I long for the touch of your strong arm when I rested mine on it.

Has not this been a rather tiresome, long letter? Beloved, I am going to call you by a name that reminds me of you so much—"Anthony." Not that the name itself is a beautiful one, but the saint that bore that name was as gentle and self-sacrificing as you, my love. And I—what name shall I take? I shall take the one you said I remind you of—"Mathilda." I never read the story you refer to, but I do hope I shall not disappoint you in time, when you know me better.

Dear heart, think of me once in a while, and in thinking love the heart that loves you.

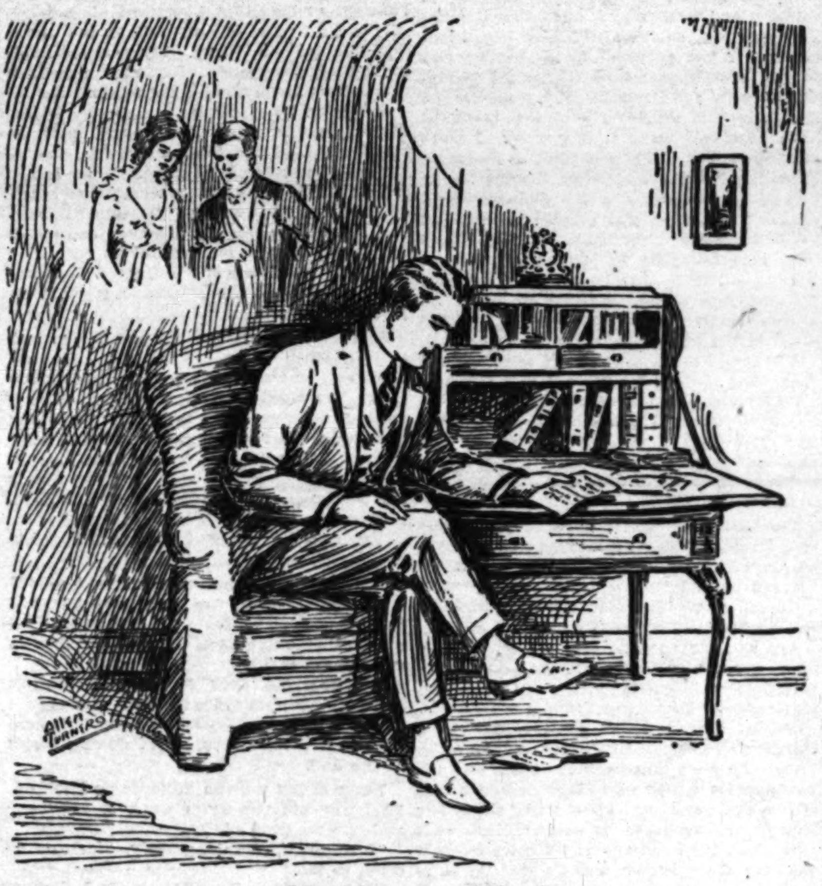
MATHILDA.

This letter was written some months later. From the other letters it appears that Mathilda was back in the same town.

"Anthony, Beloved:

"This morning I received your letter. It gave me the greatest joy to know that you so cherish my epistles—so badly written, but so full of love.

"I am proud that my Anthony has turned into a cabinet-maker; that is, that you have designed that bureau that is to be near your bed, and in which there is to be a secret receptacle for my love notes, and (who knows?) perhaps for my wandering spirit when I am gone; for, beloved, you know how sick I have been, and only through God's power was I brought back to life; but I feel so weak, so disheartened. I wonder if the state of our love affairs has something to do with this. This eternal, non-gratified desire, this improbability that forever hangs over our heads. If God knows everything, why did He allow us to know each other? Sometimes I wonder if there is any God at all, and if there is, why does He take pleasure in torturing me as He does? There are nights when I go to bed cursing life, my forefathers, my parents and, above all, myself; but the next morning when I awake, I feel so repentant, to think that God has not taken me at my word and given me some misfortune, greater than the one I have; but I am sure He sees and pities me, and true Goodness that He is, forgives me all my feverish complaints.



"I Read Every One of Them."

"There are moments, my Anthony, when I wish to throw everything to the winds and run to you, to ask you to take me in your arms, even if it is only for a short time; but fortunately, these secret outbursts are calmed by traits inherited from generations of good-behaving ancestors, and perhaps their spirits still linger around me and protect me.

"You ask me why I have not returned to the club. Beloved, I cannot, I dare net see you any more. These letters are bad enough occasions for temptation, as in them I tell you the secrets of my soul, and you, like the lovely saint for whom I have named you, have only resisted me and given me good advice, which, for me, is so hard to carry out.

"This morning I went to see my good old doctor, who thinks he knows all the ailments of his old-time patients. Dear doctor, he prescribed for me less work and more play. When he said "more play" I was about to ask him, "What—comedy or tragedy?" Though I believe that at present I am on the tragedy side, am I not? For, dear, all is too sad to laugh it away.

"Beloved, I must put a period to this letter. I feel the tears rolling down my cheeks, and I am afraid of having one of my fearful headaches, and that must not be. I have to keep on looking happy, merry, and the lucky person my friends believe me to be.

"Beloved, I wish to call you all the terms of endearment there are, but on paper they lose expression, so I shall only sign: 'Remember how much Mathilda loves Anthony'."

This letter was written about two years later than the one just copied:

"Beloved in Christ: (As the nuns write.) This morning I received from you what was to me a shock and a surprise. I never heard that you had a child. I thought you were childless like me; and the picture and letter telling me of it, was something I never dreamed of, though why should it be impossible? I am glad, yes glad, with a thankful gladness. This child will be to you something in which you will be able to pour all the tenderness there is in your whole being, that being yours which is so noble and good. You also said in your letter that you have named her after me. Why did you do that? Are you not afraid that this treasure God has given you might not only take my name, but some of my unhappiness?

"You said that this baby somewhat reminds you of me in looks. I who have her picture do not see any resemblance, except perhaps in the way she gazes. She has, do you know, a very sad expression in her eyes? What can life hold for this little piece of humanity? God give her all he has denied to me!

"Anthony, I must close. I have no strength to go on, and with your child's picture near me, I dare not sully the atmosphere calling you names of endearment.

"MATHILDA."

This is what seems must have been the last letter Mathilda wrote, and it was written about nineteen years after the one last copied:

"My dreamed-love—Anthony:

"Today is your child's birthday; but how can I call her child when she is a grown-up woman, and I a shrunken, old woman with all the infirmities of old age, but with the same capacity of love I had twenty or more years ago?

"Beloved, this letter will be written in the course of a day, as my feeble hand cannot hold the pen for a long period of time, and perhaps, who knows, it will be the last? I feel so weak, my beloved, but so happy that my end is so near, for then I shall dwell nearer you in the secret drawer, where you still keep my letters, and where I promised to come and dwell forever near you, waiting till the time came to take you with me to where true happiness is, and where God having taken pity on us two, who broke his commandments in thought only, shall, in his mercy, let us kneel at His feet, us two, together, forever.

"Beloved, I wanted to write a long letter, but my hand, stiffened with age and rheumatism, refuses to do its duty, and few are the moments I dare write, as the pain is so terrible.

"Only this, beloved dream, give this little token to your child; tell her it is from a friend you had in the long, long ago, and who also died long, long ago. My love, I am inclosing the picture I had of her, and which you sent years ago. I fear my end is near, and I do not want anyone to lay hands on it. Your letters I have burned, one by one, and scattered the ashes to the winds, where dwell the spirits, and perhaps they shall take them (the ashes) to form clouds where the angels might sit.

"Beloved, this is good-by.

"MATHILDA."

Progress

I.

Be not slow to let go
Of habits and ways of yesterdays.
They've had their time,
Have filled their place,
Now make room for better ways.

II.

Without upheaval, tumult, and change,
No progress, no growth, we'd gain.
Give up the past, grasp a broader range,
A higher standard, do not detain.

III.

Do not hold on to a time-worn past,
Go forth boldly with the advance
The old ways totter and fall at last,
It's the law of Progress, it is not chance.

Human Nature.

HOWEVER deplorable the fact may be, playing two-handed pinochle at 25 cents a hand is one of the favorite diversions of commuters between Philadelphia, New York and Atlantic City and other commercial outports of Philadelphia. One man, who carries his pleasures as well as his worries home from work, was playing pinochle in his library the other evening with a crony, when the butler entered and handed him a telegram. He returned it unopened. "I'll look at it later."

"But the messenger is waiting, sir," the butler respectfully remonstrated.

The financier read the telegram. It said: "Struck 8000-barrel gusher today. Everything fine."

"Confound you, Thomas, why did you spoil my game?" he cried.

He didn't care nearly so much about the fortune he had made, as about the 25 cents he was in danger of losing.

Worth Remembering.

"HAVE you ever appeared as a witness in a suit before?" asked the bullyragging attorney.

"Why, of course!" replied the young lady on the witness stand.

"What suit was it?"

"It was a blue suit with a white collar and white cuffs and white buttons all the way down the back," replied the young lady.

Poor Recommendation.

AN AMERICAN admiral used to tell the following story against himself. He had a Congressman for a guest, and having run out of his favorite brand of whisky, made up with some he could not guarantee. He explained this, and added, "Here, however, is some brandy that I've kept untouched, for a good deal more than twenty years."

"Hand me over the whisky decanter," was the rejoinder.

"Why?" asked the admiral. "What's the matter with the brandy?"

"That's what I want to know, Bob," said the guest; "but if you have had it untouched in your possession for more than twenty years, there must be something pretty bad the matter with it."

Fit for Job.

"WOMEN should be given a chance of filling the high appointments," argued one.

"'Twouldn't do!" said a youthful and newly married firebrand. "Just think of a woman as a Secretary of the Treasury. What do they know about finance, anyway?"

His effective pause was spoiled by an older man, who said, solemnly:

"You just go home to the missus next Friday night $5 short in your pay, and you'll soon find out."

BILL and Sam met for the first time in several months. It was the conventional greeting, in which each "asked after" the health of the other, and they drew off to one side of the street to have a few moments of conversation.

"Where've you been all these days, Bill?" Sam inquired. "You haven't been laid up, have you?"

"Yep, been laid up for a time."

"You aren't looking awful good. Hope it wasn't anything serious."

"Not so very serious, but it's the first time I've been out in three months."

"What was the matter with you?"

"Nothing at all, as a matter of fact, but I couldn't make the judge see it that way."

It Might Have Happened.

THE Immortal George: What a pretty tavern. I do not remember it. I had better stop there and refresh myself.

Aide: But, general, time presses and you have already entered 3000 taverns, stopped under twice as many elms, not to mention wells and fountains.

The Immortal George: I know, but the thing has become a habit. I must keep on stopping. Posterity expects it.

Squaring Himself.

THE constable of a little country village was a man of exceeding good nature. One day, however, he found it necessary to lock up three tramps who had strayed into his jurisdiction.

Shortly after the arrest he was met by the Mayor of the village, who observing the constable hurrying down the main street, asked:

"Where are you going, constable?"

"Oh," explained P. C. 49, "the three tramps I've just locked up want to play a game of whist, and I'm out hunting for a fourth."

A CERTAIN regiment was almost entirely officered by Hebrews. The men, however, were American.

"Now, I vant you to listen to me," said one officer who had been detailed to lecture a company.

"I have in my hands a r-rifle, which is just the finest r-rifle that American brains can p-r-roduce, or American money can buy." He paused:

A CERTAIN fast cricket bowler went in for speed rather than direction.

After three members of the suburban town he was bowling against had retired hurt, a farmer's lad went to the wickets with a look of grim determination on his face. He had made up his mind to save his side, and he stood up against the demon bowler, heroically surviving innumerable knocks on the legs and arms and chest.

"He ain't goin' to make me retire hurt!" he observed.

"How's that!" yelled the bowler.

"Out!" said the umpire.

"That it ain't!" retorted the batsman, holding his hand over his eye "But it would have been if I hadn't closed it quick."

Bible His Proof.

AN INDIANA professor, whose boyhood was spent in Kentucky, often relates his early school experience to the children. Recently they came to him with tales of a lecture they had heard at school on the evils of tobacco.

"So your teacher thinks it is wrong for you to smoke?" he inquired.

"Yes," they returned.

"My teacher didn't," he told them. "In fact, he encouraged it. He chewed himself, and he told us boys that the Bible said for us to chew, too."

The youngsters were open-eyed. "Does it?" they asked wonderingly.

The schoolman nodded, "Yes; don't you remember the place where it says, 'Let those who are filthy be filthy?'"

"COME upstairs and let me wash your hands," said Winnie's mother

"I don't want to go up," wailed Winnie, aged 4.

"Let her wash her hands down here," called grandma, "she can do it just as well."

"No," said Winnie's mother firmly, "I want her to obey me and come upstairs."

Winnie came upstairs as slowly as possible. "Oh," she said, turning a wrathfully tearful face to her mother, "why don't you obey your mother?"

Literal.

A TRAVELING salesman died suddenly, and was taken to his home in the West.

His relatives telephoned to the nearest florist to make a wreath. The ribbon was to be extra wide, with the inscription, "Rest in Peace," on both sides, and if there was room, "We shall meet in Heaven."

The florist was away and his new assistant handled the job. It was a startling floral piece which turned up at the funeral. The ribbon was extra wide, and bore the inscription:

"Rest in Peace on Both Sides, and if there is Room We Shall Meet in Heaven."

The Difference.

A PINK, as the parlor Bolsheviks are now called—got into an argument at a Philadelphia smoker with Editor George H. Lorimer. "We all work pretty much alike," said the Pink. "In other words, we all do the best we can. Therefore, I claim that we all ought to be paid alike, and that would abolish class distinction—rich and poor."

"I don't agree," said Editor Lorimer. "This equality idea leaves me cold."

"But," said the Pink, "don't we all, after all, row in the same boat?"

"Yes," said the editor, "but not with the same skulls!"

A Deep One.

TWO old school chums chanced to meet again, and spent an interesting hour exchanging reminiscences.

"But, I say, old chap," began one suddenly, "you say you are in the grocery line. I thought you wanted to go on the stage."

"So I did," confessed the other, sheepishly; "but—er I—discovered I wasn't suited for it."

"A little bird told you, I suppose?"

The other man hesitated, and his face slowly flushed.

"Well, no, not exactly," he said; "but they might have been birds if they had been allowed to hatch."

Not Legal, but True.

"YOU are accused of attempting to rob a pedestrian at 2 o'clock this morning. What have you to say?"

"I am not guilty, Your Honor; I can prove a lullaby."

"You mean an alibi?"

"Well, call it what you like, but my wife will swear that I was walking the floor with the baby at the hour mentioned in the charge."

Proper Procedure.

IN A COLLISION between an auto and a load of hay, the driver of the latter was projected into the village road on his head and lay there semiconscious until two occupants of the more speedy vehicle lifted him out of the dust and started to carry him toward the sidewalk.

"Shall we take him into that undertaker's shop there, or to the drugstore farther down the street?" asked one of the burden bearers.

The victim raised his head with alacrity and vociferated:

"Take me to the drug store first, yo" darn fool!"

His Own Doctor.

SIR AUCKLAND GEDDES, the new British Ambassador, was talking at a luncheon in Philadelphia about seasickness.

"There are numerous remedies for seasickness," he said. "Some advise cotton in the ears; others recommend smoked glasses; a champagne diet has its votaries; fasting has its advantages as well; but I, for my part, however, incline to the old skipper's view.

"Oh, captain," moaned a lady passenger, "my husband is frightfully seasick. Can you tell him what to do?"

"It ain't necessary to tell him ma'am. He'll do it," said the old skipper gruffly."

Point of View.

SENATOR HARDING is a great favorite with the little folks but sometimes they will ask questions. One bright youngster, after cornering the Presidential candidate, asked:

"Will you please tell me what a slush fund is?"

"Why, it's a large sum of money raised by the opposing political party for corrupt purposes," replied the Senator guardedly.

"Has your party got a great big slush fund?" persisted Young America.

"No, my lad," sighed Harding, "we merely have a little money for legitimate expenses."

once caught his last fleeting vision of light and the blue Adriatic. He may well have sighed—his last—on this mournful journey, for many were the mysteries and horrors that lay before his short remaining sojourn on the earth.

It must not be thought that punishments of this cruel nature were arbitrarily dispensed in early Venice. They had a system which closely approached perfection for speed, certainty and justice.

Before the Court of Judges stood the stone-hewed figure of a lion—the royal insignia of the Venetian republic—into whose open maw letters of condemnation could be cast. Both criminal and political prisoners were accused in this way. But the accusations had to be signed and on the veracity and justice of the accusation the plaintiff had to risk his all. This system was carried out with strictest justice and few were the false accusations that were cast—and carried.

Somehow as the guide led me through these dark passages and into the little wooden cell where Byron had spent the night—"just to see how it would feel"—somehow a grip of it all got hold of me and I was able to feel the whole sinister chain of events in their entirety.

The black masked figure risking life and fortune to drop through the lion's mouth the secret signed denunciation. One of the staid, sad-visaged members of that Council of Three drawing the massive key from his pocket, unlocking the iron box from the inside and reading aloud the charges in a deep and serious voice. The trial. And in the black-walled room the conference. The torture-chamber. The little hidden door in the wall. The dark passage across the Bridge of Sighs. The storied window of rough granite hewn. The prisoner's last glance across the open Adriatic at the blue Venetian sky—his friends below in the bright sun striving to catch this last glimpse of him—his wife—perhaps his mother there. His sigh—upon this Bridge of Sighs—and then his passage continued—to the dank, foul prison. His imprisonment for a few days in that box-like cell—a chain to wrist and ankle—a stone slab for a pillow. And then his transfer to the Cell of Death, his confession to the priest and to the Crucifix—set where his dying eyes must fall upon it. And finally—his execution. The second crucifix, the little guillotine, the run-way for his blood expressly cut there in the stone—the head and body in a sack passed through the narrow window to the waiting gondolier—dropped out an instant later in the untelling sea. And all this at the fell stroke of twelve—mysterious, mournful—on the brass bell of the great clock across the St. Mark's Square.

It was 12 o'clock now and the bell in the great clock across the square was tolling again—struck by those massive figurines of bronze-wielding, inhuman hammers.

It was 12 o'clock and the pigeons in the square were wheeling dizzily in the boom of the noon-day cannon.

I descended to the square with my guide and there met with ma and her guide. She was standing in the open place in front of the cathedral—a bag of corn seed in each hand, but not a pigeon within miles of her.

"This is another one of these Venetian hoaxes," said ma angrily. "This man"—indicating an old man with a little tray full of paper cornucopias filled with corn—"protests that a little corn strewn in your hand will bring the pigeons about you in an instant. He says they are as tame as lapdogs and here I have just bought two portions of the stuff from him and nary a pigeon do I get within shooting distance."

"Oh," said my guide, "he is an old man. When he began doing business in the Plaza San Marco the pigeons were younger—they were tame then. Now," said my guide, shaking his hoary old head expressively, "now—no more. The pigeons are old birds now—they have grown sick of tourists—they have seen too much—they have overeat—they have been spoiled—the birds the same as the people!"

I recognized the truth of the old duffer's confession; but ma took offense at the suggestion and flamed up in a second.

"'Spoiled!' you said it!" said ma. "We tourists have been a 'good thing' too long to these Venetian peddlers!"

Ma was very angry. She glared at my guide, but when she looked at her own guide there was murder in her eye. I could see that bargains or loss of bargains had been the order of the morning.

"Well," said I—taking the bull by the horns—"did you do Venice thoroughly?"

"Do Venice thoroughly," said ma glowering at me. "No I did not do Venice thoroughly; but Venice did me to a crisp brown."

Ma volunteered particulars herself.

"The first place this traveling advertisement took me," said ma indicating her guide with a contemptuous finger, "the first place he took me was to S—'s glass works. He said it was one of the sights of Venice; but I am convinced that he is one of the employees of the company. Probably their advertising manager. He could wear a sign and go around as a sandwich man; only no doubt he finds that this "guide" badge he has on serves just as well to rake in the unsuspecting tourist and brings him in a good little income as well.

"He told me it was not necessary to purchase anything if I did not care to and before we were through with S—'s I had ordered and paid for fourteen strings of glass beads, nine cameos, four or five assorted vases in different colored glasses and a hall mirror with blown-glass framework and molding.

"When we had escaped from that hall of mirrors I asked to be shown some of the sights of Venice and where do you think that scoundrel took me?"

I knew very well, but refrained from stating.

"He took me to another glass works. Mosaics he said was the specialty there. 'Very entertaining—made by the hand—not necessary to purchase,' he told me. I went in reluctantly and before I had finished they had sold me a picture of the Grand Canal in seven mosaic tableaus, half a dozen assorted paper weights with appropriate mosaic designs and I had signed a contract agreeing to have your photographic likeness reproduced by hand—in original colored glasses.

"On leaving the mosaic factory that guide had the audacity to start toward another one and I only beat him off by main force. It was impossible now for me to dismiss him. In the first place he wouldn't have left me as long as he thought I had a potential purchase left in me; and in the second place I never could have found my way back alone.

"I tried to dodge him once or twice—crossing rapidly by the bridges from one street to another; but he always turned up and when I glanced around I saw that we were right in the vicinity of another glass works.

"On one occasion I nearly succeeded in evading him, for I crossed the Rialto bridge to the further side of Venice—a place where tourists never seem to go. This is the real part of the city and I was surprised to find that there are so many Italians in Venice.

"I had heard so much about the Rialto itself that I was disappointed. It is nothing but a little bridge across the Grand Canal covered with stores. There are about forty little stores on both sides in the narrow space of some two hundred feet. What I was most disappointed at were the stores which sell nothing but vegetables and Italian clothing—chiefly black cotton mantillas and imitation lace. Just to aggravate the guide—who was now upon me—I purchased another string of glass beans, but I believe from the way he smiled at the shop-keeper that he works on a commission basis on the Rialto, too."

By the time ma had finished speaking a crowd of people were elbowing their way past us and in through the portals of the St. Mark's Cathedral. We followed the crowd and were present at a most impressive ceremony—attended with all the pomp and festivity of the Italian Catholic Church—and the most solemn of organ music—amid the incense-laden, mosaic-encrusted aisles of the cathedral.

Immediately after the ceremony the crowd dispursed, but ma and I remained to visit the treasures of the cathedral—chief among which are "The Diamond Pictures."

"The Diamond Pictures" are a series of holy scenes set in solid gold frames and entirely encrusted with precious stones. Their value today—aside from their artistic and sentimental worth—would be millions of dollars, and they are jealously guarded in the treasure room of the cathedral and exposed only on sacred occasions such as was the present one.

In order to see "The Diamond Pictures" it was necessary for us to take a special guide—in fact, to become part of a party formed expressly for the purpose of seeing these art works.

Among the members of the party we soon distinguished by his interest in the subject a little bald-headed man from Boston. As we went through the collection it became apparent that jewelry was his hobby, and as we later learned also his profession for he was a jeweler by trade and his name was Rosen.

The guide began by showing us statues and parchments of peculiar value, at which Mr. Rosen expressed no surprise or interest, but as soon as we were lead to the "Diamond Pictures" Mr. Rosen's interest rose to white heat.

The guide was impressing upon us the sacred value of the pictures, but Mr. Rosen had eyes for nothing but the stones themselves. His eyes glistened as he rubbed his finger over them to feel their texture.

"A half a million dollars if it's worth a cent!" he said.

The guide pointed to a large diamond—a gigantic stone—now set as the cornerstone of the Holy Pictures.

"That diamond," said the guide in a hushed whisper, "was worn by the Pope in 1439 in a signet ring."

Mr. Rosen looked at the stone with disgust written on every feature of his countenance,

"Not even diamond-cut!" was his remark.

The guide remarked on several other of the stones—pointing out in each case the historical or intrinsic value of the jewels. Mr. Rosen failed to be impressed by any of these remarks, but continued his critical study of the display.

The party was now ready to pass to other exhibits, but Mr. Rosen was still busy studying the stones. He had drawn a small magnifying glass from his pocket—such a one as watch-makers use in examining the inner workings of small objects—and with this he was carefully appraising the jewels. He could be heard to mutter figures as he jotted down his notes into a small morocco-bound book he had with him.

"Eighty-five thousand," said Mr. Rosen. "Twenty thousand, if cut and polished." "Not without flaws, but still worth ten"—these and other remarks still echoed from the direction of the "Diamond Pictures."

Mr. Rosen was now figuring up his results. He added them again—beginning at the bottom—and then he turned to the guide.

"I offer $137,000 cash," said Mr. Rosen with the look of a man who is striking a good bargain.

"The treasures are not for sale," said the guide without the trace of a smile.

Mr. Rosen looked crest-fallen.

"They were the gifts," the guide continued, "to the Holy Fathers of the Church of his Royal Highness, the Nabob of Nabsolem. The nabob himself had them from his father, the Great Nabob, who in turn procured them—in 1221—from one of his debtors—a certain money-lender known as Meuscha Pippi—for the then considerable sum of 200 guilders."

"My gawd!" said Mr. Rosen, the sweat standing out on his brow—"what a bargain!"

THE ROMANCE OF TEA

ter-wheels or by steam, and are generally fine permanent buildings with modern machinery. The tea is first taken to the upper story, where it is laid in the shade on tiers of trays to wither and partially ferment. It is then passed down to the rollers, a series of rotating machines that cause the visitor to think tea of greater potency than he had imagined as he gazes on the gyrations of these machines that are so rolling the wilted leaves that they are only lightly bruised and in no way crushed. When they have been sufficiently rolled they are put into a drying machine that is kept at a certain temperature, till the leaves are quite dry. The next process is the sifting and sorting into the various grades, such as Broken Pekoe, Orange Pekoe or Golden Tips and the Dust. The sweepings are sent to certain houses who make a specialty of the extraction of the tannin, which is the potent essence in the tea, for use in drugs. The name Orange Pekoe does not mean that it has anything to do with orange flowers, but simply that it contains a good percentage of the young leaves which contain the greatest amount of tannin and flavor and these, in the withering and drying, turn an orange color, as against the darker color of the older leaves. The same with Golden Tip, in which the leaf-buds predominate. Tea-fluff, as the dust is called, is excellent as a manure for roses, giving them a wonderful color and brilliance.

Picking Tea.

The tea is then carefully stored in zinc-lined bins, to mature a little before it is put up in its specially made boxes of a very light but strong wood, lined with lead-foil to protect the tea from any chance of damp. Each estate has its own name and brand and there is no co-operation such as is found among the produce-growers in California. The boxes are then loaded into hooded wagons drawn by six yoke of oxen and taken to the railway, perhaps a day's journey away.

Testing Tea is One of Most Important Factors.

IN A SPECIAL room of the factory is kept the paraphernalia for tasting the made tea, and this is a most important factor. For by it is detected anything that is wrong with the withering, the rolling or the temperature of the drying. A tea-taster has to specially train his palate to detect the slightest flaw in the flavor of his tea.

Green tea is subjected to a slightly different mode of preparation in that it is not subjected to the same period of withering and fermentation. Thus it is milder in flavor, in that it does not contain so much tannin. Tea is a less harmful beverage than coffee and its advocates have not the same craving for it as for the more nerve-exciting coffee, nor has it the same maleffect on the digestion as is in the caffeine.

The drinking of tea has become an almost British institution for rich and poor, young and old, love to linger over their tea. It is the social meal of the day, whether it is partaken of under the shade of the stately trees on the lawns of England's lovely gardens, in a hayfield or on the river; or by the light of the fire on a winter's afternoon. Russia has long ago adopted the cult, and France loves her 5 o'clock. Hitherto America has been too busy making history to have any time to waste on this delightful, if unnecessary, meal; but now that she has amassed greater wealth and is able to take a little more leisure, the lure of the teacup is becoming more general.

William Jason Knew.

William Jason Tucker, 4-year-old son of Dr. and Mrs. E. A. Tucker of Columbus, was out riding with his parents and sister Sunday night, and an unusually large number of fireflies were seen along the country roads. His sister, age 6, asked what caused the light in the fireflies. While her mother was trying to explain, William Jason remarked scornfully: "Why, Emily Margaret, anybody ought to know that. It's because they have headlights in their stomachs."—[Indianapolis News.

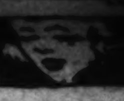
The Strange Case of Jessamine Lynd



By C. N. and A. M. Williamson.

BEFORE the great war, in the peaceful days when people thought of other things than the price of shoes and sugar, every one talked about the Strange Case of Jessamine Lynd. At least so I'm informed. Being myself the Strange Case, I know only from hearsay. I'm told that, in what the English call the "silly season," there were paragraphs about me in the big newspapers day by day, and pages weekly in the scientific journals. When the war came, however, there was no room for me in the papers or in the people's thoughts. The "Sleeping Beauty," the "Enchanted Princess," was forgotten.

That's what they called me, you see—I mean the Fleet street men. It made a good heading for a column. Oh, I've seen lots of these columns since! Darling old nurse cut them out and made a scrap book for me, in case I should ever wake up and come back to life. But I had better explain, in case you're one of those who forgot, or else so young that you never heard of me.

"So young that you never heard of me!" That does sound funny, when I look and feel no more than 18, and practically am no more than 18. Yet all the same I've been 18—or rather 17—for a long, long time.

I lived in Santa Barbara, Cal., till I was nearly 17, just having fun and playing at lessons with a governess, who had been my mother's governess, too. My father had died when I was a tiny thing, and mother had married so young that she was more like an elder sister than a parent. I adored her, but I never thought of obeying her unless I liked. When I was growing up she decided that the best way to turn me into a "young lady" of the right pattern would be to take me to Europe.

We were going to Paris to stay a year; but we stopped in England on the way, because father had been an Englishman, and mother thought it might be nice to meet his relatives.

If he'd lived a few years longer he would have come into a title, and inherited a big house in London and a place in the country. He would have been Sir James Lynd, eighth baronet, a rich, important man, instead of just dear Jimmy Lynd, with a California ranch that never paid. As it was, his younger brother, Richard, was the baronet, and had the houses and money. Mother had managed to sell the ranch for all that it was worth, however, so we weren't exactly poor relations, and we were invited by Lady Lynd to spend a couple of weeks in Norfolk street, Park lane, before we crossed to France.

I remember well the day we arrived!

My uncle's house was different from anything I'd ever seen, and I didn't know whether I admired it or not. But it was tremendously dignified, with brocade curtains, and satin coverings on rich looking, carved furniture. There were a great many portraits of haughty ancestors and ancestresses of ours, and at dinner the silver was splendid. There was a middle thing on the table almost like a pagoda, with flowers sprouting out of it, and under that was a square of gold tissue nearly covered with jeweled embroidery.

My uncle had three little children, one boy and two girls. The boy was 6 or 7 and the girls—twins—were 5. I was taken to see them in their nursery and at dinner they were allowed to come down for dessert, beautifully dressed. All three were as well behaved as marionettes, at the table, except that they stared a good deal at me, because I was American, and Lady Lynd explained that they'd never met any Americans before. I felt grown up compared to them (I would be 17 in a month) but self-conscious because they, and all the family, had the air of thanking God that they'd been born happy, English people, and not foreigners of any sort.

That was in the year 1899!

Lady Lynd was something of an invalid, but an attentive mother. In order that she could be both without too much trouble when in London, the tall house had what we called an "elevator" and she called a "lift." I was much impressed with it, not dreaming of the terrible thing that was to happen, changing my whole future.

Even now I can't bear to dwell on that. The night of our arrival my darling pretty mother fell down into the lift shaft. She uttered an agonizing scream. I think I screamed, too. I was standing in the hall, and I should have jumped down after her, like a mad creature, if some one hadn't held me back. I struggled and knew no more, for something seemed to snap in my brain I'd always been a nervous, excitable child—and once I'd only just been saved as I was walking into an ornamental pond on our ranch in my sleep

When I waked it was with a sensation of a million sharp little needles pricking my skin As I opened my eyes and looked about the pricking instantly stopped

"Miraculous!" said some one

I wondered what was miraculous.

At first I didn't remember or try to remember the past; I was puzzling over the present and my queer surroundings

After that one exclamation nobody spoke, so I had time to take everything in with a long, wandering look. I was in a narrow room you can imagine I lay in a narrow white cot, and two women dressed in white, as nurses, stood near. There were also three men, and their clothes were very odd. They had on what seemed to be white smocks

I lay on my side. There was a wet pad on my forehead, another at the back of my neck, and a third at the base of my spine. I seemed to be strapped into a weird apparatus, and there were wires and pulleys like those you see at a dentist's.

Suddenly I remembered about mother and the horrible lift shaft.

"Oh, tell me she wasn't killed!" I begged of a youngish man with a big nose and brilliant eyes, who was bending down and staring hard at me.

"Killed? Whom do you mean, my child?" he asked.

"Mother," I whispered.

Another man—an older one—came forward.

"All is well with your mother," he said. "Don't worry. You shall be told everything in good time."

"If all's well with her I want to see her now—this minute!" I insisted.

"You shall see your old nurse," he soothed me. "She's waiting in the next room. You remember her?"

"Remember? Of course I remember!" I snapped. "Why shouldn't I remember? Is anything wrong with my brain? Did I fall down or jump down the shaft after mother fell?"

"No, you fainted," replied the elderly man, who looked as if he were born to be a nice, kind, family doctor. "Nothing is wrong with your brain, we hope and believe."

Meanwhile the third man had gone to a closed door, opened it, and whispered. One second later a dear, familiar form shot past him and rushed to me. "My lamb, my lamb! You've come back!" babbled my old nurse Betsy Bean ("Beanie") who'd lived with us since before I could walk.

She plumped down on her knees beside my cot and tried to stifle sobs, when the youngish man with the big nose and brilliant eyes said, "Don't forget your promise!"

Perhaps it was partly because her face was crinkled up with crying, but when she came close I saw that she looked years older than she'd looked last night—or whenever it was. I thought I must have been very ill and made her horribly anxious.

. . . .

It would take too long to tell how I found out everything and learned that I, Jessamine Lynd, was a Strange Case. They would have liked to wait till they were sure I was able to bear a shock, but I persisted so and grew so excited that the man with the brilliant eyes said they'd better risk it. He and the old doctor and Beanie stayed in the room, sending the others out, even the nurses; but by this time I'd had a cup of chicken soup and was propped high against pillows. All the funny machinelike things had disappeared, and though I was anxious I felt singularly vital and alive.

It was the old doctor who explained the most, Beanie chiming in now and then, and the youngish man (who was a doctor, too, named Francis Rentoul) watching me quietly while the others talked.

Well, to make a long story short, my "faint" had merged into a trance. At first they thought I was dead. Then they found I wasn't. I was simply asleep. Yet not quite simply, because I went on sleeping, world without end, and became the Eighth Wonder of it, till people grew tired of and forgot me.

Naturally Sir Richard Lynd couldn't, as he said, have his house turned into a sort of museum. Other quarters had to be found for the Strange Case. My uncle took a room for me at a nursing home in a nice (cheap) suburb. There I was gazed at and learnedly discussed by visiting savants. Beanie, who wouldn't desert her Baby Lamb (I wasn't a Strange Case to her,) lurked in lodgings close by and came to weep over the said Lamb day by day.

All sorts of experiments, in the hope of rousing without killing me, were tried by medical men without success. I lay as if quietly asleep — pale, though otherwise natural—and took a little milk now and then, dropped into my mouth from the point of a spoon. I was duly bathed and my hair brushed. Now and then I was changed from one bed to another, always—winter and summer—near an open window. Though the years went on, and waking people who'd been young faded into middle age, I remained to all appearances 17.

At last that astonishing man, Francis Rentoul, had his attention drawn to my case. When he first heard of it he was working in a French hospital curing shell shock of various sorts (cases pronounced hopeless by other experts) with the use of a marvelous electrical "stimulator" which he had invented. It occurred to Rentoul that the stimulator might awaken the "enchanted sleeper," and he made a note to remind him of Jessamine Lynd when he should have time to attend to her. At last, when the war was over and he could get away from work, he came to England (he's an American) on purpose to experiment upon me, if allowed.

He was allowed (it would have been money in Uncle Richard's pocket if I'd exploded or gone up in smoke) and the result was—what I've described. Which brings me back to the moment when it was broken to my intelligence that I'd slept for twenty years—from the night of my mother's death in June, 1899, until June, 1919.

As soon as I heard this I uttered a shriek and demanded a mirror. When Beanie gave me a handglass I shut my eyes for an instant. I was afraid to look lest I should see gray hairs and wrinkles.

Not that one need have gray hairs and wrinkles at 37, if I'd stopped to think. But I was so used to being 17 that the ages of 37 and 100 were the same to me.

Soon, however, I screwed up my courage to open my eyes, prepared myself for the worst, and saw—the best!

I mean, I was better looking than I'd ever been and, so far as I could observe, not an hour older. The freckles which used to trouble me were gone. My skin was smooth and creamy white, like ivory, touched with rose on cheeks and lips. Surely my lashes were thicker and darker than before. As for my hair—well, I really did think it perfectly beautiful. It had always been pretty, if rather too straw colored. Now it was bright golden brown and so long that the two fat braids it was plaited in lay like shining snakes on the coverlet.

Dear Beanie had fretted lest I should grow up too plump, but I was satisfyingly slim, and my throat rose out of my plain nightgown long and white.

I loved myself! And the relief was intense.

The next question was, what should be done with me when I left the nursing home.

Sir Richard had been so sure the stimulator experiment wouldn't succeed after all those years of failure that he hadn't troubled to come up from his country house to be present. He was telephoned for, however, and motored to town promptly. As his place was near Marlow, the journey was short, and the two doctors (Rentoul, who'd lured my spirit back from the Land of Nod, and the Lynd family physician, Dodge) were still with me.

My uncle was kind, but he couldn't help treating me more like a mechanical doll come alive than a human niece. He explained that, though I'd been living—or rather sleeping—at his expense during my long trance, and a certain amount of money had accumulated for me in the bank, there wasn't enough to live on in these days. Just what he meant by "these days" he didn't say, but it was plain that he thought there was something gloomy about them, and I was awesomely thrilled. He must, he added, make me an allowance whatever I decided to do; but it would be less expensive for him if I remained in England.

"In that case," he went on, "you would join us as a member of my family. I've already consulted my wife, and she has talked things over hastily with the girls. They agree with my proposal and will welcome you, of course. The one stipulation they make in the matter is—er—that you consent to change your name of 'Jessamine' to something else, less conspicuous."

"Change my name," I echoed, staring blankly at him as I sat up in bed. He looked quite twenty years older than he had last night—I mean than he had looked 7240 nights ago. Also he looked a good deal embarrassed.

"You see, it would—er—be disturbing to family life if everybody who met a new member of the household regarded her as a Strange Case. You were forgotten by the newspapers during the war, but interest would revive unpleasantly again, if—"

"My goodness!" I gasped. "Has the Boer War lasted all this time?"

"Boer War!" repeated Sir Richard, his eyes as dull as boiled gooseberries. But suddenly they brightened. "Oh, of course!" he murmured. "You couldn't know. You will have a good deal to learn in many ways. No, the Boer War ended some time ago. There has been another war since. But, never mind now. We must decide quickly about your future. If you live with us, as I hope you will, I fear the change of name is essential to the—er—general comfort. Say, 'Mary' "

I didn't want to change my name or say "Mary," and I didn't want to live with Sir Richard and Lady Lynd. But I couldn't be selfish enough to choose the life which would cost him more. I said I'd stay in England and live as he liked, and have what name his wife liked, if I could keep Beanie. He consented almost eagerly to this. Mrs. Bean might act as my maid, he remarked.

Beanie as a maid! I didn't see her in the part. But, then, I'd never had a maid. I'd merely read about ladies' maids in books. There they were French, wore high heels, got kissed behind doors by young men, and cried "Mon Dieu!"

When Sir Richard had gone to make arrangements and talk over things with the matron and Dr. Dodge, Beanie herself crept in, on the flattest of heels. Dr. Rentoul had waited to see his patient again after the uncle's departure, she informed me. He wanted to know if I were equal to a short chat with him?

I was glad to say "yes," because I felt instinctively that he took more real, personal interest in my welfare than any one except Beanie. It was almost as if he'd created me!

When he came back into the room and sat where Uncle Richard had sat, holding my hand (Uncle Richard didn't hold it, but he did, a finger on my pulse,) I had more time to study Dr. Francis Rentoul than at first. I saw that he wasn't young after all; at least not as young as I'd always thought of youth. He might, I decided, be about 40. That still seemed old to me. I couldn't make it feel true that I myself was 37 instead of 17!

He talked to me for a while about my own sensations and symptoms (not that consciously I had symptoms,) and the treatment—electric massage—which was to tone up my unused limbs. The more we talked the better I liked him! I liked his face, too, which reminded me of a picture I'd seen at uncle's—the great Duke of Wellington. The same big, clever nose, and brilliant, piercing eyes, which could be kind. I liked Dr. Rentoul as a young girl likes a man too old for her to want to dance with. And my heart went out to him in gratitude for his sympathy about mother, whose loss Uncle Richard had dismissed from our conversation as ancient history.

Dr. Rentoul meant, he said, to stop in England for some weeks before leaving for the Far East. And though he dropped no hint that this was for my sake, I had a dim suspicion that he wished to be on hand to "watch the case." Perhaps he feared, if he turned his back too soon, I might drop off to sleep again! But he needn't worry about that, I told myself. His miraculous stimulator had made me feel more alive than I had ever felt. It was as if I'd gone to bed tired out, and waked after a restful nap.

"I shan't be seeing you, Miss Lynd," he said. "I'm a busy man in my sphere, and you'll be busy in a very different one. Your relatives are fashionable sort of people, I understand—in these days."

("These days" again! What was so special about these days? I wondered once more.)

"I expect that you'll be very well and very happy," he went on. "You won't want me or any doctor, once you're away from this home. Still, if by chance you should need advice, or help of a sort you couldn't get from those around you, come to me. I'd like you to promise to do that. Will you?"

"Why, yes, thank you," I said. "I'd be glad to promise, if you wouldn't mind being bothered by a stranger in case I took you at your word."

"I wouldn't mind being 'bothered,'" he repeated, with a smile that had the greatest charm. "You see, I don't feel as if you were precisely a stranger. Perhaps you won't understand, but I have a—sense of responsibility about you."

"Oh, I do understand!" I assured him. "You mean, for bringing me back?"

"Yes, for bringing you back," he took my definition. "Especially in days like these."

"What kind of days are these?" the question burst out at last.

"Rather wonderful, but—different," he said. "You'll have to discover what they're like for yourself, and that's partly why I—But I must be saying good-by now. Or—will it be au revoir? For your sake I hope not. For mine—well, we shall see! Here's my card, with an address on it, that'll always find me while I'm in England."

. . . .

I was kept up at the nursing home for the electric massage advised by Dr. Rentoul, and news of my health was sent him by long distance telephone to Manchester, where he was giving a course of lectures on obscure shell-shock cases. But, learning that all was well, he paid me no second visit.

My progress amazed every one in the home. At the end of the week I could walk without help, though with rather a mincing step. Then I was pronounced ready to take up life again.

As the Lynds had a house party at Marlow they didn't come to see me, but Lady Lynd intended returning, to entertain me in Norfolk street. There I was to be fitted out with a wardrobe, for my present possessions in that line consisted mostly of nightgowns!

On the seventh day she was to call for me in her car, bringing a few garments to get me away in, but at the appointed time a nurse, knocking at my door, announced the Misses Lynd.

There was just a second for me to think "How weird that they should be grown up!" when a couple of objects lolloped into the room.

I almost gasped aloud. I'd never seen anything like them, not even in a comic valentine. They were tall and lean as beanstalks, but their dresses were nearly up to their knees, showing the thinnest legs! I should have thought girls would do anything to hide such spindle shanks. But to make things even worse, they wore silk stockings transparent as gauze. You could see their skin—a pale, shiny pink, like a young mouse before its fur has grown out much.

And then, their frocks! They were of different colors. One twin wore a kind of tomato red with touches of blue, and her sister was in purple somehow mixed with green. The materials themselves were beautiful, but spoiled by the way they were made, not only laughably short but so narrow at the knees that the girls could hardly walk, so wide at the hips—all in funny bundles—that they might have been pin cushion dolls. The two wore fearfully high heeled shoes—like what I used to call "party shoes"—though it was afternoon. Their hats looked as if they'd been sat on and played ball with. The feathers in one, instead of being beautiful curled ostrich plumes, were straight on each side of a stiff stem, like a fish's spine; and the other had awful stick-up things, the image of a porcupine's quills. Under these hats the girls' hair was pulled forward to cover their ears, which (I supposed) must be ugly or deformed, since I'd been told that "a pretty ear is a charming ornament."

I didn't know what to make of these caricatures, and could scarcely believe they were my cousins till one of them said: "How do you do? We're Jane and Bridget Lynd."

"Oh!" I breathed. "I thought my cousins' names were Jeanie and Bridie."

The girls laughed. "One doesn't have names like that in these days! They were for our mothers."

I felt slapped. Did they think I was old enough to be their mother? Perhaps I was in years—nearly, though not quite. But in spite of their dresses—fit only for children of under 10—their faces, I'm sure, were much older than mine. They actually had on powder and paint and red stuff on their lips.

"You are 'Mary' now, aren't you?" Jane asked.

"I suppose so, as you all wish it," I replied.

"It's a whole lot better than 'Jessie,'" said Bridget, "and it will save you from being thought a freak."

"If any one is a freak, my dear, you are!" I said in my sleeve. But I didn't say it aloud. I couldn't understand why they dressed like that! I wondered if it were for a bet or vow?

"We've brought you some togs of ours to roll home in," explained Jane. "Mums has a beastly headache, her poor old bean nearly splittin', so Bick and I buzzed round to fetch you. We're all in town for a bit, doin' a jazz or two, and you can get some glad rags run up in a hurry."

I missed the meaning of half her words. It seemed to me a new language she was speaking. And she dropped off all her final "g's," as I used to hear quite common people do at home.

While she talked a servant knocked and deposited a miniature trunk on the floor. Jane said it was a suitcase and opened it. Then she began tumbling things on to my lap as I sat curled up on a sofa in a dressing gown.

"We didn't know if you'd got undies yet, as you hadn't been out of your room," Bick explained. "So here are some."

"Undies?" I repeated. "What's that word?"

The two squealed with laughter. "Oh, is that since your day? Well, underclothes, lingerie. My hat, how stiff it sounds!"

Stiff was more than the "undies" looked. They were transparent as handkerchiefs and not much bigger, even the—but I needn't go into details. My startled eyes roved from these films to a gown of sorts, a queer, knitted silk thing with no shape to it and a shepherd's plaid skirt in flat plaits about a yard in length.

"You must be joking," I exclaimed. "You don't expect me to put on these?"

"What's the matter with 'em?" Bick wanted to know.

"They—they're not decent!" I stammered.

Both twins roared with ribald joy. "We're forgetting, Jinks," choked Bick. "She's pre-Edwardian, poor dear—though I must say she doesn't look it."

Then both girls went on to make clear—or as clear as they could, in their post-war language—that what they wore and did and said were the latest, up to datest things to wear and do and say. "Nobody talks of anything so deadly dull as being 'decent' in these days." Jinks patronized me. "You do what's done—or what you think will be done tomorrow. You have to be It—or else out of it. There's nothin' doin' in between."

I was crushed but unconquered, and I wouldn't put on those clothes they'd brought me—that is, the outside ones. I didn't so much mind the "undies" when I came to see myself in them, and a funny little belt of pink satin, invented instead of a corset, was rather nice. The shoes and stockings, too, I accepted, though to my idea primrose colored legs and black feet were horrid. "Feet and ankles" (we didn't mention legs) "of one color" was mother's motto. As for the dress. No! I said I'd rather drive to Norfolk street wrapped in a blanket.

Beanie was sent for, and —I noticed—didn't seem as shocked at my cousin's clothes as I'd been. This made me fear that she must have seen other Objects almost as eccentric, but surely, surely, not quite! These girls who called me a freak were curiosities to me.

When asked if she had kept my clothes, it appeared that the dear old thing had. She pottered off to her lodgings next door, and soon returned with a big bundle. This contained a hat, cloak, a gown, and a pair of corsets; the very ones in which I'd arrived at Norfolk street in 1899.

Jinks and Bick shrieked. To laugh, apparently, you must make a loud noise now, or nobody will hear you with the noise they and everybody else are making. We used to tinkle, and I intended to tinkle still, whether I were it or not.

The corset was a very nice one, going up high to fit the bust, and going in well to fit the waist, but my cousins laughed till they cried over it. Bick suggested sending the thing to the British museum, but Jinks was not sure whether it would suit the mummy room or ought to be featured among skeletons of extinct species.

The sleeves of the pretty summer silk frock brought hysterical tears to their eyes, but I would wear the dress, which fitted me perfectly, and they sobbed into their singular chiffon handkerchiefs when they saw me in it. "Isn't it like nothing on earth?" they asked each other. "Who would have thought our parents and sponsors in baptism could have shown themselves in such horrors? Look at the length of the skirt! She might be a baby in arms, or an old lady of 90 in the shade!"

In my opinion length of the skirt (which reached to my insteps) was just suited to a girl of 17, whereas I—well, goodness alone knew what I was! I should have feared it was too short; but contrasting with my cousins' skirts, half way to their absurd knees—and no petticoats! I was fairly respectable.

The hat—a kind of sailor—was pronounced impossible. The twins said they could never look even the chauffer in the face again if I wore it. So on that point I yielded, but I wouldn't have my hair pulled over my ears—I wasn't ashamed of them, I said.

The motor car—which they called a limousine—was a surprise to me. It looked like a boudoir on wheels. The automobiles I remembered were quite different. They had "tonneaux," and if it rained you put up a sort of hood. The speed, too, was bewildering. If I hadn't been too proud I should have seized my cousins' hands and panted. But instead I bit my lips and prayed. Beanie was sitting with the chauffeur (somewhat to his disgust, I fancied,) and her back looked so broad and calm it comforted me a little. This was well, because what I saw of the streets made me feel as if I needed comfort.

The girls hadn't deceived me after all. Other women were going about loose in the same barefaced—or, rather, barelegged—manner, contriving to look, somehow, as if they had on nothing under their dresses, and wanted every one to know it.

Lots of men, too, wore the most curious suits; a nasty, mustard yellow brown, with caps to match. Jinks and Bicks went into fits again when I remarked upon this.

"The poor old thing has never seen khaki!" they squealed, and explained to me that it was the uniform in which the war had been fought and won by the allies. Oh, how dreary it was compared to the fascinating uniform I remembered, which made you feel you must marry into the army whether you were in love or not! I hated being called an "old thing" by females who looked old enough to be my aunts, but the epithet didn't sound as insulting as it might because they used it for each other, varied by "old kid" or "old egg," which last struck me as peculiarly offensive.

I seemed to experience a thousand sensations before the haughty chauffeur drew up at the house I remembered. The sight of it with its window boxes and awnings was like a warm, kind breath from a peaceful past, because it might have been yesterday when mother and I alighted there from a four wheeled cab, blissfully ignorant of our fate. I yearned to get indoors, into the atmosphere of other days which nice old furniture gives. But, merciful goodness, I had a shock!

The comfortable square entrance hall, with its oak paneling and its red lincrusta walton hung with sporting pictures, was now—a scream! I can't think of any other word to express the colors, and the pattern of the gold and black stuff on the wall which was like streaks of lightning.

As for the drawing-room, where I was taken for tea, it was a nightmare; a black carpet, a black dado on a white wall; great divans of gold tissue piled with cushions of every crude color under the sun, blues and greens and stark purples huddled together, though I had always been told to keep them far apart. The remembered furniture was gone, and nearly everything was made of bright green or red, with Chinese people and temples in gold. Lacquer, Bick said it was;
